ACTS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY PASSED DURING THE SESSION OF 1915. APPROVED AND SIGNED BY THE GOVERNOR WITHIN THIRTY DAYS AFTER THE FINAL ADJOURNMENT.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,

Executive Chamber.

Harrisburg, January 2, 1917.

To the Senate and House of Representatives, of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—The following Acts of the General Assembly, passed during the session of 1915, were approved and signed by me within the thirty days after the final adjournment of the Legislature on the twentieth day of May, A. D. 1915, viz:

May 21, 1915.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Authorizing the appointment and prescribing the duties of a commission to aid in celebrating each year in Philadelphia the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, and making an appropriation.

May 28, 1915.

AN ACT

To amend an act, approved the fifth day of May, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, entitled "An Act relating to the liens of the Commonwealth against unpatented lands; providing for their adjustment, and for the granting of patents."

Amending an act, entitled "An Act in relation to the laying out, opening, widening, straightening, extending, or vacating streets and alleys, and the construction of bridges, in the several municipalities of this Commonwealth; the grading, paving, macadamizing, or otherwise improving, streets and alleys; providing for ascertaining the damages to private property resulting therefrom; the assessment of the damages, costs, and expenses thereof upon the property benefited; and the construction of sewers, and payment of the damages, costs and expenses thereof, including damages to private property resulting therefrom," approved the sixteenth day of May, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, as amended, by providing for the placing of footwalks, curb, parking space, shade trees, or otherwise improving the space between the curb line and the property line in said streets, lanes and alleys, and by providing for the payment of the damages, costs, and expenses thereof.

Declaring valid certain municipal liens under and by the authority of an act, approved the fifteenth day of May, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, entitled "An Act to enable boroughs to adopt and construct sewage systems, and to assess and collect the cost thereof," and authorizing the passage of an ordinance amending an original ordinance where the route of any sewer has been changed during the course of its construction.

To amend section six of an act, entitled "An Act to provide for the personal registration of electors, and their enrollment as members of political parties, in cities of the first and second classes of this Commonwealth; to make such registration a condition of the right to vote in such cities, and their said enrollment as members of a political party a condition of the right to vote at primaries in said cities; and providing for the payment of witness fees or persons summoned before the commissioners; to provide penalties for violations of its provisions; and to repeal acts inconsistent herewith," approved the twenty-fourth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen.

To amend the act, entitled "An Act authorizing commissioners of public parks, within cities of the first class of this Commonwealth, to purchase, acquire, enter upon, take, use, and appropriate farm lands and woodlands adjoining any public park within said cities, for park purposes, wherever in their opinion such lands shall be necessary for the improvement of said parks, and providing that the total acreage of land so taken shall not exceed one thousand acres," approved April twenty-fourth, one thousand nine hundred and three.

Making incompatible the offices of councilmen in municipalities and school directors.

Validating annexations and extensions of the limits of boroughs and incorporated towns made prior to the twenty-second day of April, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and three, notwithstanding a failure to comply with all the requirements of the act of Assembly governing annexations and extensions of boroughs or corporate town limits in force at the time of said annexation or extension, and providing for the filing of a plot or plan of lots, or part, so annexed, in the office of the clerk of the court of quarter sessions, when the same has not originally been done.

Amending section one of an act, entitled "An Act amending section seven of an act, entitled 'An Act relating to certain duties and rights of husband and wife, and parents and children,' approved the fourth day of May, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five; providing that married men or women, in case of drunkenness or profligacy of husbands or wives, may consent to the adoption of their children," approved the nineteenth day of May, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

REASONS FOR PARDONS AND COMMUTATIONS OF DEATH PENALTIES GRANTED BY THE GOVERNOR FROM JANUARY 1, 1915 TO JANUARY 1, 1917.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Executive Chamber.

Harrisburg, January 2, 1917.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—In conformity with law, I have the honor herewith to transmit the reasons for pardons and commutations of death sentences granted by the Executive from January 1, 1915, to January 1, 1917.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Board of Pardons,

Harrisburg, Pa., February 17, 1915.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—At our regular meeting to-day there were submitted for our consideration, and approval or rejection ten separate communications from the Board of Inspectors of the Western State Penitentiary, all stating that the respective convicts therein named had been released on parole, and recommending therein that full pardons and final discharges be now granted to each of said convicts.

The following are the names of the convicts referred to, with data as to their convictions, etc.:

JOHN STANLEY, sentenced May 26, 1908, by the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Fayette, on conviction for burglary, breaking and entering, etc., to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for ten years. Released on parole December 1, 1913.

EDWARD JONES, sentenced December 7, 1908, by the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Allegheny, on conviction for entering a building, larceny, etc., to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for ten years. Released on parole December 22, 1913.

JOHN KUBOLLA, sentenced May 23, 1912, by the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Somerset, on conviction for assault and battery with intent to kill, to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than one and one-half years and not more than three years. Released on parole November 23, 1913.

IZIDORE KLEIN, sentenced March 9, 1912, by the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Allegheny, on conviction for embezzlement, to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than one year and not more than three years. Released on parole March 9, 1913.

JOSEPH D. HOPKINS, sentenced April 18, 1911, by the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Cambria, on conviction of entering a railroad car, to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than one year and not more than four years. Released on parole April 18, 1912.

GEORGE GUDYKUNST, sentenced September 3, 1909, by the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Clearfield, on conviction for burglary, to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than two years and not more than ten years. Released on parole September 3, 1912.

GEORGE C. DELOZIER, sentenced April 18, 1911, by the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Cambria, on conviction for entering a railroad car with intent to commit a felony, to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than one year and not more than four years. Released on parole April 18, 1912.

JOSEPH J. JACKSON, sentenced March 22, 1912, by the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Butler, on conviction for larceny, to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than nine months and not more than three years. Released on parole December 22, 1912.

KENNETH H. MORTON, sentenced March 22, 1912, by the Court of Quarter Sessions of Butler County, on conviction for larceny, to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than nine months and not more than three years. Released on parole December 22, 1912.

HARVEY L. BRICKLEY, sentenced September 1, 1911, by the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Clearfield, on conviction for assault and battery with intent to kill, to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than one year and not more than four years. Released on parole October 1, 1912.

With respect to each of the convicts named above the inspectors assign the statutory reasons to their recommendations and set forth the grounds on which said reasons are based.

Therefore, it appearing that all the rules of the Board of Inspectors of the Penitentiary, and the rules of the Board of Pardons, have been observed in the premises, and in endorsement of the report of the Board of Inspectors, we also recommend that an Executive Order issue, granting to the said John Stanley, Edward Jones, John Kubolla, Izidore Klein, Joseph D. Hopkins, George Gudykunst, George C. Delozier, Joseph J. Jackson, Kenneth H. Morton and Harvey L. Brickley, each, his final discharge and pardon.

Respectfully submitted,

Board of Pardons.

Harrisburg, February 17, 1915.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the county of Allegheny, to No. 7 November Term 1913, George Lucas, on arraignment, December 2, 1913, entered a plea of nolo contendere to an indictment charging the crime of sodomy and buggery, and thereupon was sentenced the same day to pay a fine of six and one quarter cents, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment of not less than two years and not more than five years in the Western Penitentiary.

On February 2, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. We heard a presentation of the case at our meeting to-day, and, for the reasons shown us, we think the clemency sought should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, George Lucas.

Lucas is twenty-five years old. He is not married. At the time of his arrest he was an utility man about a hotel.

His early training had been very much neglected. He was a waif, and a large portion of his life had been spent in reformatories and correctional institutions.

The only ground laid for his release from the penitentiary is that he has been fatally stricken with tuberculosis, and it is his wish and that of some of his friends that he die outside the prison. It seems that he has some relatives who are able to care for him in his serious illness, and we are assured that they will provide for his comfort during the remainder of his life, which we have reason to believe will not be for a long period. We have caused inquiry to be made of the Prison authorities touching his physical condition, and we find that the representations made to us at the hearing in this respect are verified by the report of the prison physician which we now have on file.

Under these conditions we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, George Lucas.

Respectfully sumbitted,

FRANK B. McCLAIN,
Lieutenant Governor.

CYRUS E. WOODS,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

FRANCIS SHUNK BROWN,
Attorney General.

HENRY HOUCK,
Secretary of Internal Affairs.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Board of Pardons.

Harrisburg, February 17, 1915.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Montgomery, to No. 15 and No. 15-1, March Term, 1914, Frank Mickalak, together with several other defendants, was called to answer charges of Felonious Entry, and Malicious Mischief, respectively. Pleas of guilty were entered March 6, 1914, and thereupon the defendant Mickalack was sentenced to pay a fine of $10, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not more than three years and not less than two years and six months.

January 6, 1915, an application for the pardon of Mickalak was duly filed. We heard the case at our meeting today. Upon a careful consideration of the facts regarding it we are of the opinion that the application is well grounded, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant Frank Mickalak.

Mickalak is a boy seventeen years of age, but is said to have the appearance of being much younger. He is the son of Polish parents; he is somewhat below the ordinary grade of mentality, but otherwise is rather an inoffensive and well behaved lad. Owing to his backwardness he disliked school, and made little progress in his duties there, and there was more or less trouble in getting him to attend with any regularity. Apart from this he was a willing worker, was industrious, and assisted to the extent of his ability in the support of his parents. His father was a helpless cripple. Unfortunately the boy got into bad company; he was easily influenced by his companions, and possibly did not realize the inevitable result of his bad associations. His co-defendants were older boys or men, and there was little difficulty in their persuading this weak youth in joining them in breaking open railroad cars, which was the offense laid against them.

It is the opinion of those who have looked into this case, as well as of the railroad people who prosecuted the case, that it is not to the interest of the boy himself, or of the Commonwealth, that the young man be kept in the Penitentiary. From what has been shown us we concur in this view. He has been in confinement for nearly a year, and this imprisonment, under the circumstances, has been punishment enough.

We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Frank Mickalak.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK B. McCLAIN,
Lieutenant Governor.

CYRUS E. WOODS,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

FRANCIS SHUNK BROWN,
Attorney General.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Armstrong, to No. 16, December Term, 1913, Charley Cammaratta, when arraigned, March 19, 1914, on an indictment charging him with murder, entered a plea of guilty of voluntary manslaughter, and on that day was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than two years and six months and not more than four years and six months.

January 16, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. We heard the case at our meeting to-day. We have fully considered the details as divulged by the record and statements of counsel, and are of the belief that the clemency sought should be allowed; we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Charley Cammaratta.

Applicant is now about twenty-six years old. He is a coal miner by occupation. He is married, but has no children. has never before been convicted of crime. On October 20, 1913, and for some time prior thereto, Cammaratta and a friend, Carl Albanses, boarded at the house of Jack Perise, in one of the mining towns of the said county. There had never been trouble between these two men, or between them and the Perise people. On the day mentioned Cammaratta and Albanses had been drinking. A quarrel ensued between them and they came into the Perise house, where they still continued to quarrel. Mr. Perise asked them to go outside if they desired to quarrel further, which they did; but afterwards came back into the house, still continuing to quarrel, when both Mr. and Mrs. Perise came downstairs and again ordered them out, Mrs. Perise taking hold of Albanses and attempting to put him out, while Mr. Perise was trying to quiet Cammaratta. It was at this point that Cammaratta drew his revolver, presumably with the intention of firing at Albanses, but it was taken hold of by Perise and discharged in the scuffle, the bullet striking Mrs. Perise, and causing her death. It is believed that Albanses was making an attempt to procure a revolver to make an attack upon Cammaratta, and if Cammaratta had shot Albanses instead of Mrs. Perise at that time he could not have been convicted of any crime; and it is doubtful whether he could have been convicted even of voluntary manslaughter in this case, under the circumstances, had he stood trial and not entered a plea of guilty.

The death of Mrs. Perise under these circumstances was an unfortunate occurrence and was not attended with the elements of murder. Albanses was also indicted, but the charge against him was not pressed.

This applicant has been in confinement since October, 1913, a period of about sixteen months. It is the opinion of the Trial Judge and District Attorney, as well as of the private attorney for the prosecution, that the applicant has been sufficiently punished, and they all join in recommending to us that clemency be shown as requested in these proceedings. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Charley Cammaratta.

Respectfully submitted,

Harrisburg, February 17, 1915.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Mercer, to No. 3, January Sessions, 1914. Raymond Rowland, on January 22, 1914, entered a plea of nolle contendere to an indictment charging him with felonious assault and battery, and on February 20, 1914, was sentenced to pay a fine of One Dollar, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years and not more than five years.

On January 15, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the case came on for hearing at our meeting to-day. We have considered the facts and matters brought to our attention in relation to the application, and we are of the opinion that the application should be allowed. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Raymond Rowland.

Rowland is twenty-five years old. He is a machinist by occupation. He is married, and has one child living. The assault complained of was the shooting at his wife on the street in the borough of Sharon, Mercer County. No physical injury was inflicted to the person of his wife, the bullet from the pistol passing through her hat. There had been a separation between Rowland and his wife about four months prior to this assault brought on, it is alleged, by the wife permitting the attention of other men. Rowland had made efforts to effect a reconciliation, but his offers were not accepted by the wife. On the evening of the shooting, just prior thereto, he had had an unsuccessful interview with his wife on this line. The matter preyed on his mind after he left his wife, and when he saw her a short time later on after she had left her place of employment, under the impulse of the moment, he fired this shot at her.

The grounds on which this application is brought are in substance that the applicant had always theretofore borne a good reputation, and that this particular act was without any previously formed intent to do great bodily harm to his wife, and that in view of all the circumstances the sentence imposed was excessive, and that the prisoner has been sufficiently punished. These grounds we find to be sustained by the record. Numerous letters on file attest to the previous good reputation of the prisoner as well as to the belief of the writers in the sufficiency of the punishment. Further, we are assured that if released from imprisonment by virtue of these present proceedings there are offers from several sources of employment of the applicant at remunerative wages. The District Attorney, in writing to the Board, says among other things:

"The Court was disposed to suspend sentence on the condition that the defendant leave the county and remain apart from his wife; but the latter bitterly opposed this and insisted that a sentence be imposed.

The young man comes of a very estimable family, and we have no reason to believe that he has been other than a deserving young man until the present difficulty. His mother is an invalid of many years, and confinement of the son naturally aggravates her condition.

The act was apparently prompted by jealousy, and while I am informed that the wife and her family will not be pleased if he be released, it seems the young man has been sufficiently punished for his indiscretion."

The Trial Judge writes:

"His father has written me that the young man has opportunities for useful employment in cities in states far removed from the scene of his trouble, and is desirous of starting life anew and making a useful citizen of himself. I am also informed that our District Attorney has recommended a pardon for this young man.

Under such circumstances I certainly have no objection to the exercise of clemency in his behalf, but will be pleased if you can see your way clear so to do."

From our examination of the record before us we are convinced that no further good will result from continued confinement in prison of this applicant, and that no harm to the community at large will follow his release from prison as prayed for. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Raymond Rowland.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Bradford, to No. 73, February Sessions, 1911, Charles Quick, December 9, 1910, waived the finding of a Bill by the Grand Jury, and entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging the crime of forgery, and was thereupon sentenced to pay a fine of One Hundred Dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for the indefinite period of not more than ten years and not less than two-and-one-half years.

February 3, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The matter was heard at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of the facts in relation to the matter we are inclined to favor the application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Charles Quick.

This applicant is thirty-six years old. He is not married. He is a railroad engineer by occupation. Although not a resident of this state he had been in the employ for a time of a certain business house in Sayre, which is on the border line of Pennsylvania and New York. While on a spree with several companions some time in the latter part of 1910 he was induced, as he alleges, to forge three separate checks, all drawn on the Sayre National Bank. His business connection with the firm referred to had given him an acquaintance with the people whose names he had used. The checks were for Twelve Dollars each, aggregating Thirty-six Dollars. Of course the fraud was soon discovered. He made no attempt to deny his guilt and gave no excuse except that of drunkenness. He has been in the penitentiary since the early part of December, 1910, a period of more than four years and two months, which, it is alleged, is ample punishment. We have before us letters from the District Attorney and the Trial Judge, each of whom says the applicant has received sufficient punishment. It is further shown to us that if released there is an offer of lucrative employment for the applicant in the neighborhood of his mother's home in New York State; so that conditions induce us to favor the application for clemency. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Charles Quick.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Berks, to No. 33, December Sessions, 1911, Frank Bloch, December 13, 1911, before the finding of the Bill, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment laying the charge of sodomy and buggery, and on the same day was sentenced to pay a fine of $10, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from two years and six months to ten years.

On January 27, 1910, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which came before us at our meeting to-day. Upon full consideration of the matters involved we favor this application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Frank Bloch.

The applicant is thirty years of age. He is not married. His trade is that of shoemaker. He has never before been convicted of any crime. At the same session of court eight other persons were indicted on the same charge. The witnesses against all these accused men, including the applicant, were the same, and the same state of facts applied. Two of the other defendants entered pleas of guilty and received sentence similar to applicant. In the other cases the bills were either ignored or verdicts of acquittal rendered. Most of the indicted men were of Greek nationality, and it was at a place of business carried on by them that the illegal practices were indulged in. It appears to have been the object of the authorities to secure the conviction of these Greeks and to break up their rendezvous, but they seem to have been the ones who escaped the penalties of the law. It is urged on behalf of this applicant that if he had stood trial he most likely would have escaped with the others, and that even under his plea he has been sufficiently punished. This view is expressed by the District Attorney who tried the case, who writes to us to that effect.

Under all the conditions shown we accept the same view, and therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Frank Bloch.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Lackawanna, to No. 13, October Term, 1910, Dominick Collandro was, in the month of October, 1910, returned by a jury as guilty of murder in the first degree. However, on appeal the Supreme Court reversed the judgment of the Court below, and on the second trial a verdict of murder in the second degree was agreed upon, and the defendant was thereupon, May 10, 1911, sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from five to twenty years.

February 3, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the case was heard at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of the facts and circumstances attending the case as shown by the record we are of the opinion that the application may properly be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Dominick Collandro.

Collandro is now about thirty-six years of age. He is an Italian by birth, and came to this country in 1902. He is a coal miner by occupation; he is married, but has no children. He has never been implicated in any criminal matters. He was sober and industrious, and enjoyed the respect of his employers and others.

On the evening of the 23d day of May 1910, he shot and killed another Italian by the name of Ferdinand Rocco. He had known Rocco for about two years. On several occasions within three or four months prior to this homicide Rocco, in the black hand method, had demanded money from Collandro, fixing the amount at two hundred dollars, and threatened to kill him, or have him killed, if the money was not paid. On at least one of these occasions Rocco produced a revolver and pressed it against the breast of Collandro with the threat to kill him. On the said 23d of May, Rocco met Collandro as the latter was going home from his work and repeated his demands. Collandro refused to give him the money, stating that he did not have it. Rocco ordered him to borrow it. Later on during the evening Rocco came to Collandro's house and made another demand for the money, and showed him letters which he said were from people in different parts of the country and indicated that Collandro would be killed if he did not produce the money demanded. Collandro persisted in his refusal. Rocco left the house, but during the evening sent three or four messengers telling Collandro to come out to meet him. Collandro finally became alarmed. During the evening he had been in his house fixing a pair of shoes. After these repeated visits of Rocco's representatives he went upstairs and brought down a single barreled shot gun he owned, which was loaded with bird shot. He put this gun within easy reach, and went on with his shoe-mending. After a while Rocco himself came to the door of the house and repeated his demands, and then began firing at Collandro with a revolver. It is said there were three or four revolver shots, and then a gun shot. Collandro had no revolver, but had the shot gun, and as Rocco stood in the doorway firing at him with a revolver he fired one shot with the shot gun at close range. The whole load of shot took effect in the body of Rocco, and he died within a short time. Collandro was arrested and charged with murder. Owing to the fact, it is said, that all the Commonwealth's witnesses, who seemed to be the only persons in the neighborhood when the tragedy took place, were near relatives of Rocco, a verdict of first degree murder was returned. The Supreme Court, however, sent the case back for a new trial, and when it came on again the Commonwealth's officers and the Court were impressed with the absence of the elements of first degree murder, and a compromise verdict of second degree was agreed on. Subsequent investigation has convinced the District Attorney who tried the case that even this was too harsh a finding, and he now unites in endorsing this application for pardon. The Trial Judge also is not averse to a pardon, although he declines to depart from his rule of not passing on the merits of such applications. He says, however, in a letter addressed to us that if in the judgment of the Board "the case seems to warrant favorable action on the ground of sufficiency of punishment it will meet with no criticism on the part of the Court, and will be cheerfully acquiesced in by local sentiment."

The letter from the District Attorney who tried the case, which is joined in by the present District Attorney, is more out-spoken and goes directly to the point of a favorable recommendation. As this letter covers the formal reasons set forth in the application we quote it in part:

"After his conviction of murder in the first degree his counsel moved for a new trial, and, among other reasons, the motion for a new trial was supported by a large number of affidavits in the way of after discovered evidence that the killing was done in self defence. The Court below denied the motion for a new trial and an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court. The conviction was reversed and a new trial was granted.

I had the County Detective make a very careful inquiry as to the character of the affidavits that were offered at the time of the motion for a new trial on the ground of after discovered evidence, and after his investigation I was presuaded that it was a proper case to suggest to the Court that the first degree should be eliminated from it. The Trial Judge took the same view, and a plea of murder in the second degree was accepted.

The man has been incarcerated something like five years now. Since his plea to murder in the second degree I have had considerable information come to me that would strongly tend to support the theory of self defense. This information is in addition to what I had at the time he was sentenced for murder in the second degree.

On the whole case my opinion is that the man has been sufficiently punished, and I believe it to be a case where the pardon of the man at this time would meet the ends of justice. I therefore join in the application asking for his pardon."

From our examination of this record we are convinced of the merit of this application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Dominick Collandro.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Columbia, to No. 1, February Sessions, 1913, J. Guy Sleppy, on February 3, 1913, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with larceny as employe, and on February 4, 1913, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than four years and not more than six years.

On October 6, 1914, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which, on hearing, October 21, was refused. On December 22, 1914, a petition for re-hearing was allowed on proper application under the rules. The case came before us for disposition at our meeting to-day. Upon a review of all the information supplied by the record before us and the statements of counsel on the hearing we are satisfied that the application for clemency should be endorsed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, J. Guy Sleppy.

Sleppy is thirty-three years old. He is married. His occupation was that of book-keeper. He was employed by a certain firm in Bloomsburg, and in his capacity as book-keeper or clerk he embezzled funds of the firm to an amount upward of $4,800. When confronted with the shortage in his accounts he surrendered all his possessions and property amounting to approximately $4000, but was unable to raise the balance. When arraigned he entered a plea of guilty, and was sentenced as above stated.

The formal reasons assigned in this present proceeding are in substance: The previous good character of the applicant; the restitution to the utmost extent of his ability; the severity of the sentence; the sufficiency of the punishment and the vindication of the law; his good record in prison; the impairment of his health; the ability to secure employment and to provide for the support of his wife and dependent father if released. In support of these reasons there is on file a large number of letters from neighbors and friends of the applicant which establish the fact that public sentiment in the locality is strongly in favor of the release of the applicant. The most of these letters advocate in positive terms the cause of the applicant and urge his pardon. Among others appear letters from the Trial Judge, the District Attorney, and the Prosecutor, stating that there is no opposition on their part to the grant of a pardon to the applicant at this time. The District Attorney in his letter, says:

"Having gone over this case very carefully, I believe that the defendant has been sufficiently punished. He made restoration to the prosecutor for every thing he had taken within the time for which he could have been prosecuted. To do this he handed to the prosecutor his life insurance policies, and all other personal belongings, as well as all assets he possessed.

Have always been of the opinion that his sentence was excessive. If I had the pardoning power he certainly would be granted the prayer of his application.

Send him home to his wife, give him a chance to make good among his fellow men, the ends of justice have been met."

Inasmuch as the applicant has served more than a year in the Penitentiary, that this is his first offense, that he is not likely to violate the laws again, that he will not be a burden to society but in all probability will resume his place in the community as a respectable and self sustaining citizen, and having regard to the number and respectability of his endorsers, particularly the officials entrusted with the administration of justice, who are in touch with the public sentiment in the community where the wrong was done, we recommend that the clemency prayed for be extended the applicant and that a pardon be now granted to him.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Northumberland, to Nos. 175, 176, 177 and 178, September Sessions, 1909, William A. Herman, was indicted on charges of breaking and entering, larceny, and receiving stolen goods. In three of the cases he was convicted on the charge of receiving stolen goods only, and in the other case he was acquitted on all counts. On September 29, 1909, he was sentenced in two of the cases, in the aggregate, to pay a fine of Ten Dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than twelve months and not more than six years. In the third case sentence was suspended.

March 7, 1913, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and upon hearing, March 19, 1913, the application was refused. A petition for re-hearing was allowed December 22, 1914, and the case appeared regularly on the Calendar for to-day's meeting on this second hearing. We have carefully examined the record before us, aided by the presentation of the counsel, and we have reached the conclusion that the application should now be given favorable action. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, William A. Herman.

Applicant at the time of his sentence was twenty years old. He is now about twenty-five. He is married, but has no children. It seems that he was released on parole from the penitentiary on the indeterminate sentence, but was re-committed for the reason that a criminal charge was preferred against him during the time of parole. This charge was not pressed to conviction, and the defendant has always maintained his innocence.

The principal reason now advanced for his pardon is that he has served long enough for the offense committed. This reason is endorsed by the District Attorney, who says in his letter to us "Herman has had a lesson which he will remember." Judge Savadge, who imposed the sentence, says under date of January 28, 1915, "I heartily favor this petition, and hope it will be recommended."

In the face of these endorsements by the officials, and noting the severity of the sentence originally, we deem it proper to recognize the merit of this application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, William A. Herman.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Adams, to No. 3, August Sessions, 1909, and Nos. 15 and 16, August Sessions, 1911, George Shaffer entered pleas of guilty. Each indictment laid the charge of larceny. On the first named he was, August 28, 1909, sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than one year and not more than three years. On the other two indictments he was sentenced, September 2, 1911, in the aggregate, to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of not less than eighteen months and not more than four years.

February, 3, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The case was heard at our meeting to-day, and in view of what was disclosed to us with regard to the application we feel justified in reporting favorably, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, George Shaffer.

Shaffer is forty-five years of age. He is a carpenter by trade, and is not married. The crimes charged against him on these several bills were the stealing of articles of small value, the aggregate valuation of the things stolen being less than Ten Dollars all told. The thefts were all committed while defendant was drunk. In fact, drunkenness appears to be the prisoner's greatest failing, as otherwise he is represented to be fairly reputable.

The reasons on which the application is based are:

That the complete sentence for the offence committed in 1909 has been served, and the minimum sentences on both bills for the crimes committed in 1911 have been served, and in addition thereto nearly six months additional time has been served.

That the Trial Judge who sentenced defendant joins in the application for pardon.

That the District Attorney who prosecuted the defendant joins in the application for a pardon.

That the applicant, George Shaffer, has been a model prisoner, and has determined to live a law-abiding life in the future, and will forever relinquish his career of crime.

The letters of the officials mentioned bear out these reasons. The District Attorney who prosecuted the case says:

I was District Attorney of Adams County when he was sentenced on August 30, 1909, and on February 18, 1911, and am thoroughly familiar with the crimes for which he was sentenced. Both times he plead guilty to stealing small articles while under the influence of liquor.

There is nothing vicious or criminal in his disposition (I have known him for a long number of years), and had not the indeterminate law been in effect I am certain that he would never have served as long an imprisonment as he has.

I most unhesitatingly join in the application for his pardon.

The present District Attorney likewise endorses the application for pardon in his accepting the notice of these proceedings.

The Judge who imposed the sentence says in his letter:

He was sentenced by me for larceny on August 30, 1909, for a term of not less than one nor more than three years. He was discharged on parole February 18, 1911, and resentenced on new charges of larceny for not less than nine months nor more than one year, and for not less than nine months nor more than three years, the second sentence to begin to run at the termination of the first one. He has therefore served the whole of the maximum first sentence, the maximum second sentence and more than the minimum third sentence.

This is quite as much of an imprisonment as I expected he would have to serve when I sentenced him and quite as much punishment as the cases required. If therefore his conduct in the penitentiary has not been bad I join in the application for pardon.

With this record on file it is hardly necessary to add anything further in justification of our action. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, George Shaffer.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 405, April Term, 1910, Walter Johnson, May 14, 1910, without presentation of indictment to the Grand Jury, entered a plea of guilty to the charge of breaking and entering and larceny. He was then sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than nine months and not more than three years.

On February 5, 1915, an application for his pardon was filed which we gave a hearing at our meeting to-day. Upon the careful consideration of the matters laid before us we think it well to favor the application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Walter Johnson.

Johnson is twenty-six years old. He is a coal miner by occupation, and is not married. After having served eighteen months under the indeterminate sentence imposed he was paroled November 22, 1911. Shortly after this parole he enlisted in the United States army, and served his full term of enlistment. After his discharge from the army he worked for a short time on the railroad and then enlisted in the army a second time. Before the expiration of his maximum sentence, and while under parole, and of course subject to the control of the prison authorities, he violated one of the rules of the prison in that he failed to make his monthly reports. Under the Act of Assembly he thus became amendable to the parole officers, and accordingly was taken into their custody while at Fort Slocum, N. Y., January 29 last, and brought back to the Penitentiary to serve out the remainder of his maximum term. His pardon is now asked for the reason that in reality he has served an imprisonment commensurate with the gravity of his offense, and that in order to qualify him to enlist again in the army his record must be cleared of the blot of his conviction, which can only be accomplished through a pardon.

So far as we have been able to learn there is no objection on the part of the prison authorities or of the Luzerne County authorities to this application for clemency, and under the circumstances we deem it safe to accede to this prayer for relief. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Walter Johnson.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer for the County of Bucks, to No. 11, May Term, 1911, Jonas R. Gares, was, on the 17th day of May 1911, returned by a jury as guilty on a bill charging the crime of arson, and on that day was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not less than five years and not more than twenty years.

On February 3, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The case was heard at our meeting to-day. On careful consideration of the matters shown us we are of the opinion that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Jonas R. Gares.

Gares is past seventy-five years of age, is married. He is a veteran of the civil war, and was an inmate of the Soldiers' Home at Erie. He was on a furlough from that Home in the early part of 1911, on a visit to his family. His family lived in a certain dwelling house in Bucks county belonging to Pickering & Walton. On February 17, 1911, this house was slightly damaged by fire. On that day Gares had been to Philadelphia. He came by trolley car from Philadelphia through Dowlestown to Northampton on his way to take the train back to Erie, and thus was in the neighborhood of the house spoken of. There appears to have been no direct evidence connecting him with the fire other than his presence in the locality. However, he was convicted on the charge, having been brought back from Erie for the trial.

The reasons advanced in support of the application for pardon are:

That the defendant has served nearly four years of his minimum sentence.

That his advanced age of seventy-six years has so impaired his health that he is confined continually to his cell and corridor in the Eastern Penitentiary, and can scarcely take any exercise whatever.

That he has been a model prisoner, and still maintains his innocence of the crime for which he was convicted.

That he has an honorable discharge from the United States Government for actual service in the Civil War; that he was an inmate of the Soldiers' Home at Erie, and if this Board will pardon him, he will immediately return thereto for the rest of his days.

In view of the advanced age of the applicant, the state of his health, and the fact that he had never before been accused of any crime, together with the length of time served in prison, (nearly four years out of a minimum of five years), and there being no objection raised by the authorities, we think that the application for clemency is properly made, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Jonas R. Gares.

Harrisburg, February 17, 1915.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Franklin, to No. 26, April Sessions, 1913, Harry A. Reitz, May 1, 1913, was convicted on an indictment laying the charge of wilful and corrupt perjury, and on May 13, 1913, was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than three years and not more than five years.

On June 3, 1914, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and upon hearing, that application was refused, June 17, 1914. At the recent December meeting of the Board a petition for re-hearing of the application was allowed, and this second hearing came on for disposition at our meeting to-day. We have given the case careful attention, and we believe it now to be deserving of affirmative action, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Harry A. Reitz.

Reitz is about thirty years old. He is married, and his wife and one child are living. By occupation he is a laborer. Prior to the accusations which gave rise to his present trouble he had been of good repute in his community. The commission of perjury arose under the following state of facts: On the 28th day of December, 1912, the applicant's wife was away from their house on a visit to some friends in another part of the county. Applicant's brother happened to be at the house with him. On the evening of that day two girls came to the house. One of them was a particular friend of the brother and the other was a young girl living in the neighborhood who was under the age of sixteen years. While the girls were there the mother of this younger girl came and took her away, and within a short time an information was made against the applicant charging him with statutory rape. On the trial of this charge, at the February sessions of court, 1913, the applicant was acquitted, but during the progress of the trial, while under examination, in his zeal to shield himself he made certain false statements which were easily proved to be untrue, and on these statements the charge of perjury was based and the conviction in question had. There is no doubt of the righteousness of the verdict or of the justice of the sentence.

The plea for clemency is based on the ground that the applicant is not an habitual criminal and had been a reputable citizen; that this is his first offense and that it was committed under the feeling that he was unjustly accused of the criminal charge; that he has been sufficiently punished; that his family needs his attention; that if released now his young son may not know of his disgrace; and that public sentiment in his community favors his pardon.

The prisoner has been in the Penitentiary well on to two years. He has evidently learned his lesson. No additional good can be accomplished in the way of reformation. His family will be benefited by his liberation. We are told that immediate employment awaits him if pardoned. His neighbors have signed a voluminous petition asking for his pardon. There appears to be no objection to his pardon on the part of the authorities entrusted with the administration of justice in Franklin County. Both the District Attorney and the Judge have so expressed themselves to counsel representing the application.

Under these conditions we feel warranted in favoring the application for clemency, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Harry A. Reitz.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK B. McCLAIN,
Lieutenant Governor.

Harrisburg, February 17, 1915.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 146, August Sessions, 1914, Alexander Perna, was, August 14, 1914, convicted of an indictment containing counts for assault and battery, aggravated assault and battery, assault and battery to ravish, and rape, and on that day was sentenced to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the County Prison for a term of fourteen months.

On January 9, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which we heard at our meeting to-day. Upon careful consideration of the details of the case as learned from the record and from the statements of counsel we are disposed to favor the application, and we therefore recommmend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Alexander Perna.

The applicant at the time of his conviction was eighteen years old. He is not married. By trade he is a carpenter. He had not before been charged with any criminal offense. He was convicted on the unsupported testimony of the prosecutrix, and was without counsel at the trial. It has been made to appear to us that the girl was about the same age as the defendant; that the act of the defendant was not of an aggravated character such as the language of the indictment would suggest. The defendant has been in prison for more than six months. We are persuaded of the merit of the reason assigned for clemency that under the circumstances the sentence imposed on the defendant was unduly severe. No opposition has been raised to the application.

Believing that the defendant has been sufficiently punished, we recommend that a pardon be now granted to the applicant Alexander Perna.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Tioga, to No. 1, September Term, 1914, Arthur Simons was, September 30, 1914, on trial, returned as guilty of murder in the first degree, and upon October 12, 1914, was sentenced to be electrocuted.

February 2, 1915, an application for the commutation of death sentence was duly filed. This application was heard at our February meeting, and on the showing then made was held under advisement with the view of having made, by an expert, an examination into the mental condition of the condemned man. We now have before us the report of this examination, and in the light of the finding therein set forth we are persuaded that the clemency asked should be extended, and we therefore recommend that an Executive Order issue commuting the death penalty passed upon the applicant, Arthur Simons, to that of imprisonment for life.

Simons is 27 years old; he is not married; his occupation is that of laborer. His home was in Alexander, State of New York. He was charged with the murder of Iva Christian, a young girl about fifteen years of age. There is no doubt of his having taken the life of this young girl, and on the Commonwealth's presentation of facts his conviction was right. The homicide was attended with the elements of murder in the first degree, and if it was committed by a person of normal mind the sentence of death pronounced against the defendant should stand. The only defense put forth on behalf of Simons at his trial was that of mental irresponsibility, but he was not then in a position to furnish the testimony of an alienist as to his mentality, and the jury found against him. His appeal to this Board is his only chance for relief from the rigorous penalty of the law.

The details of the crime are briefly and satisfactorily set forth in a letter submitted to us by the District Attorney of the County in response to our request for a statement of the Commonwealth's version of the case against the defendant. We quote the letter in full as a succinct history of the case:

"In compliance with your request for a concise statement of the facts in the above entitled case, I beg to submit the following:

On July 20, 1914, one, Arthur Simons, a resident of Alexander, N. Y., came to Westfield Township, Tioga County, Pa., and after keeping in hiding for a great part of the day went to the house of Andrew Christian, father of Iva Christian, a young girl about sixteen years of age, at about seven o'clock P. M., and asked the said Iva Christian to marry him. The girl told Simons that this was impossible as they were own cousins, and beside she told him that she did not wish to get married as she was too young. The father subsequently came to the house, and he also tried to persuade Simons that he was asking something that was not reasonable or possible.

He then drew a gun and threatened both father and daugher with death unless his request was granted. A neighbor, Hiram Hackett, came to the house on a business matter, and when he entered Iva Christian attempted to leave, and Simons followed her and shot her. He then fired at the father, and also at Hackett, two shots taking effect that were fired at Hackett, and also the one shot fired at the girl, she dying the following day from the effects of the gunshot.

Simons made an attempted to escape, but was restrained by Hackett and the father until neighbors were summoned. He told repeatedly that he came to the Christian home for the purpose of killing the girl unless he obtained her consent to a marriage. He told to me and to dozens of others the same thing; that he bought the gun for that purpose, and was glad that he had been successful.

While Simons at that time did not seem to be particularly bright, he seemed to the officers of the Commonwealth to be entirely responsible for his acts, and we felt that we were justified in asking for a first degree verdict. Subsequently, however, it is a question in my mind, as well as in the minds of all persons who have an opportunity to see Simons, whether or not he should suffer the extreme penalty of the law. Certainly Simons is far from being a normal person, and while I think that he should be restrained, his mental condition should be inquired into by those who are competent to know, before he should be electrocuted.

ERNEST H. GREEN,
District Attorney of Tioga County."

At the hearing of the application counsel for the applicant frankly stated that the only hope for the allowance of clemency was in the finding of a competent alienist whom the Board should summon to its aid and who would make a thorough examination into the sanity of the defendant and report to the Board.

It was made to appear to us that it is the prevailing sentiment of the Community in the locality of the crime that such an examination should be made, in order to remove any doubt as to the accountability of the defendant when he committed the act and the right of the law to demand extreme expiation. The District Attorney himself, in his letter previously quoted makes the suggestion for such action on our part, and further, in another letter addressed to the Board he states it as his opinion that the ends of justice will be fully met by granting the prayer of petitioner and commuting the death sentence to that of imprisonment for life.

Under this state of affairs the Board in due course requested Dr. Frank Woodbury, Secretary of the State Board of Charities' Committee on Lunacy, to visit the prisoner in the jail at Wellsboro, make the necessary examination into his mental condition, and report to the Board.

Dr. Woodbury promptly took up the matter, and under date of February 23, transmitted to us his report of his examination. We find that his conclusions fully sustain the theory advanced on behalf of the applicant in these proceedings. After stating in detail the course of his examination the Doctor concludes with the following summary:

"As the result of my examination I find that Arthur Simons is a moderately high grade imbecile, with delusions and active hallucinations. His skull is mal-formed in such a manner as to prevent the development of the anterior lobes of the brain, the portion of the hemispheres which are the seat of higher intellectual faculties and reasoning powers. The type of imbecility, or amentia, which he represents is frequently accompanied by insanity and also by epilepsy. Although there are no epileptic convulsions noted in the history of this patient, it is possible that the recurring attacks of excitement, and the recurring periodic spells of intemperance, were really the psychic equivalents of epilepsy, and that he may suffer with a well known form of the disease termed "psychic epilepsy." Persons thus affected are liable to have seizures resembling acute mania, during which violent assaults upon persons are made, often without cause and without warning. I am of the opinion that at the time of committing the deed for which he was convicted and sentenced he was acting under an uncontrolable insane impulse which arose out of his delusions; and that he was incompetent to understand the consequences of the action, or the gravity of the crime, by reason of the disease and defective condition of his mental faculties. Arthur Simons is an incurable insane imbecile, and should be detained in an institution for the rest of his life."

Guided therefore by the opinion of Dr. Woodbury we are of the belief that the application for clemency in this case was properly made and should be allowed. We therefore recommend that the sentence of death imposed by the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Tioga upon Arthur Simons be commuted to that of imprisonment for life.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 171, June Term, 1914, Gregario Rizzatto, was, June 30, 1914, on an indictment charging murder, returned as guilty of murder in the first degree, and on the 23rd day of October, 1914, was sentenced to be electrocuted.

On November 5, 1914, an application for the commutation of the death sentence to that of imprisonment for life was duly filed with the Board of Pardons, which, on hearing, November 18, was refused. On December 22, 1914, a petition for re-hearing was allowed, and the matter came before us at our February meeting for determination. The case was then held under advisement. We have given the application thorough consideration, and as the result of our investigation we are disposed to favor the prayer for clemency, and we therefore recommend that the sentence of death passed upon the applicant, Gregario Rizzatto, be commuted to that of imprisonment for life.

Rizzatto is an Italian, about 64 years of age. He is married, and his wife is living. The facts connected with the homicide with which he is charged are of a peculiar nature. It seems that this old man was on friendly terms with another Italian family by the name of Calisto who lived in the upper part of Philadelphia County near Chestnut Hill. A year or so before this fatal occurrence Rizzatto had gone away from that neighborhood, but had returned for a visit, and on the Saturday before Easter, April 11, 1914, he went to the Calisto home where he took some provisions for a feast the next day. During the afternoon Rizzatto and Calisto were out together drinking. Later in the day, while sitting in the house awaiting the preparation of the evening meal, some sort of dispute arose between the two men. Rizzatto had been robbed of some money before he had left Philadelphia, and, it is averred, now intimated that Calisto knew something about the matter and that Calisto belonged to the black-hand society. According to the Commonwealth's testimony Rizzatto drew a revolver. The defendant avers that Calisto first drew his revolver and tried to rob him then and there. Shots were fired by Rizzatto, and possibly by Calisto also. One of the shots fired by Rizzatto struck the daughter of Calisto, a young girl fifteen or sixteen years old, who came running into the room attracted by the noise and the shooting. It is not claimed that the shot was intended for the girl; she just happened to be in the path of the bullet and became the victim of the affray. It is for causing her death that the applicant was tried and convicted.

The reasons placed before us on the record for the relief of this applicant are:

"From all the evidence in this case, as well as from the relationship of the witnesses to the deceased, there arises a substantial doubt as to the degree of guilt attaching to the said Rizzatto.

That the said Rizzatto has borne an excellent reputation for sixty-four years, and that the ends of justice would be well served in this case by a sentence of life imprisonment.

That a majority of the jurymen who rendered the verdict in this case have joined in the petition for the commutation of this sentence."

From the fact that no motive for murder was shown by the Commonwealth, and taking into account the age of the defendant and the peculiar situation of circumstances by which the witnesses adverse to the prisoner were all members of the Calisto family, we are of the opinion that the ends of justice will be served in relieving this old man from the severe penalty called for by the finding of the jury by changing the sentence of death to that of imprisonment for the remaining years of his life. We therefore recommend that the sentence of death imposed upon Gregario Rizzatto by the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Philadelphia be commuted to that of life imprisonment in the Penitentiary.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Allegheny, to No. 23, February Term, 1914, Andrew Malinowski was, May 14, 1914, convicted on an indictment charging him with murder; and on June 13, 1914, was sentenced to be electrocuted.

On January 5, 1915, an application for the commutation of death sentence to that of imprisonment for life was duly filed. This application was heard at our February meeting. The case was then held under advisement, and now, having given the matter full consideration we are of the opinion that the prayer for clemency should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that an Executive Warrant issue commuting the sentence of death passed upon the applicant, Andrew Malinowski, to that of imprisonment for life.

Malinowski, who is of Polish parentage, is twenty-seven years of age. He was brought to this country when about four years old. His parents are both living, and are reputable, hard-working people. The applicant himself, up until shortly prior to the commission of the felony charged against him, was a steady and industrious person, being a skilled workman in the employ of the Pittsburgh Screw & Bolt Company, where his work was performed to the entire satisfaction of his employers. He married at the age of nineteen, and is the father of two children. The victim of his felonious act was his own wife, whom he shot on the morning of January 1, 1914, and who from the effects of the shooting died on January 16 following. The homicide was committed while the defendant was under the influence of liquor—to such an extent, it is averred, that he was out of his mind. For several months prior to the fatal occurrence he had been drinking heavily. He finally reached the stage when the homicidal impulse developed in his disordered mind, and his wife became the victim of his delusion. After shooting his wife he attempted to kill himself.

It seems now to be the opinion of many of those who heard the case that leniency ought to be shown the defendant, for the reason that he was acting under an almost crazy impulse or frenzy brought on by worry and by the excessive indulgence in ardent liquor. Eleven of the twelve jurors who rendered the verdict unite in an endorsemen of this application, some of them even writing at length in expression of their present conviction that they were led to an erroneous conclusion on the trial of the case. Also, among others asking for our favorable action are four Senators and twenty-four Members of the House of Representatives from the Allegheny County delegation in the present General Assembly.

Upon a review of the whole case in so far as brought to our attention we are not prepared to say that the verdict should have been less than first degree murder; yet, from the consideration of mercy, we are disposed to yield in a measure to the theory on which the application for clemency is founded that Malinowski, when he killed his wife, was in such a state of mind as to relieve him from full accountability for his act—at least to the extent of holding him responsible for murder in the first degree; and on this aspect of the case we are inclined to suggest the thought that the severity of the penalty called for by the verdict rendered may be modified, and at the same time the ends of justice be reached, by eliminating the infliction of death and substituting therefor a sentence of life imprisonment.

The case, however, in so far as this petition for commutation is conserned, is, in our judgment, an exceedingly close one, and our recommendation that the sentence of death be commuted to life imprisonment is made with the view of this commuted sentence being carried out in its entirety, and that if later on an application should be made for pardon then such application for pardon should be promptly refused.

We therefore recommend that the sentence of death imposed upon Andrew Malinowski by the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Allegheny be commuted to that of imprisonment for life in the proper Penitentiary.

Sir:—At our regular meeting to-day there were submitted for our consideration, and approval or rejection, three separate communications from the Board of Inspectors of the Eastern State Penitentiary, and seven like communications from the Inspectors of the Western State Penitentiary, all stating that the respective convicts therein named had been released on parole, and recommending therein that full pardons and final discharges be now granted to each of said convicts.

The following are the names of the convicts referred to, with data as to their convictions, etc., respectively:

HARRY WILLIAMS, alias LEWIS DAVIS, Bucks County; sentenced February 25, 1909, on conviction for felonious entry, larceny, etc., to imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for eleven years. Released on parole October 28, 1913. Recommendation for pardon filed March 4, 1915.

LUKE HYNEMAN, Berks County; sentenced December 13, 1909, on conviction for burglary, to imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than two years and six months and not more than ten years. Released on parole June 24, 1912. Recommendation for pardon filed March 4, 1915.

JAMES W. TEAL, Dauphin County; sentenced September 26, 1910, on conviction for assault with intent to rape, to imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than fourteen months and not more than five years. Released on parole December 21, 1912. Recommendation for pardon filed March 4, 1915.

LEE McCLAIN, Allegheny County; sentenced February 15, 1908, on conviction for sodomy, to imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for ten years. Released on parole December 22, 1913. Recommendation for pardon filed February 8, 1915.

WILLIAM A. JACKSON, Allegheny County; sentenced October 1, 1904, on conviction for manslaughter, to imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for sixteen years. Released on parole November 28, 1913. Recommendation for pardon filed February 8, 1915.

FRANK STRICKLER, Allegheny County; sentenced March 10, 1910, on conviction for forgery, to imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than one year and six months and not more than ten years. Paroled December 15, 1913. Recommendation for pardon filed February 8, 1915.

WILFRED K. PROVEN, Fayette County; sentenced June 14, 1912, on conviction for false pretence, to imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than one year and not more than three years. Released on parole January 30, 1914. Application for pardon filed February 8, 1915.

GEORGE DOYLE, Fayette County; sentenced June 30, 1906, on conviction for murder in the second degree, to imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for twenty years. Released on parole November 28, 1913. Recommendation for pardon filed March 3, 1915.

ROSEVILLE WAITE, Lawrence County; sentenced June 28, 1905, on conviction for felonious assault and manslaughter, to imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for fifteen years and four months. Released on parole November 28, 1913. Recommendation for pardon filed March 3, 1915.

GEORGE JOHNSON, Crawford County; sentenced February 13, 1911, on conviction for breaking and entering and larceny, to imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than one year and not more than ten years. Released on parole October 13, 1912. Recommendation for pardon filed March 3, 1915.

With respect to each of the convicts above named the Inspectors assign the statutory reasons for their recommendations and set forth the grounds on which said reasons are based.

Therefore it appearing that all the rules of the Boards of Inspectors of the Penitentiaries, and the rules of the Board of Pardons have been observed in the premises, and in endorsement of the reports of the said Inspectors, we also recommend that an Executive Order issue, granting to the said Harry Williams, alias Lewis Davis, Luke Hyneman, James W. Teal, Lee McClain, William A. Jackson, Frank Strickler, William K. Proven, George Doyle, Rosseville Waite, and George Johnson, each, his final discharge and pardon.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 607, January Sessions, 1913, Jacob Coyle and Tony Chavirona were arraigned on an indictment charging in four counts assault and battery, aggravated assault and battery, assault and battery with intent to steal, and robbery. A plea of guilty was entered, January 30, 1913, on the third count, whereupon they were sentenced to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from three years to five years.

On March 3, 1915, an application for the pardon of Coyle was duly filed, which was heard at our meeting to-day. Having considered the matters brought to our attention in relation to the case we favor the application and therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Jacob Coyle.

Coyle is an Italian, thirty years of age. His Italian name is Giacomo Coia. He is a trucker by occupation, and is not married. On the night of January 20, 1913, these two defendants were out together drinking, and they met another countryman named Gallichia. They were all drunk. Soon after the meeting Gallichia claimed that he had been robbed of Fifty-six dollars. He called an officer and Coyle and Chavirona were arrested, and searched on the spot, but nothing incriminating was found on them. However, they were indicted on the charges above mentioned, and when the case was called for trial in court they were advised by someone to plead guilty of assault and battery under the representation that they might possibly have struck Gallichia in their drunken rambling, and they were told that a light sentence would be imposed. Their plea of guilty, however, was entered of record on the third count—that of assault and battery with intent to steal, and hence the severity of the sentence.

The reasons assigned in support of the application for clemency are:

That the crime for which defendant is now incarcerated is his first offence; that he was intoxicated at the time and that the plea entered was intended to be one of assault and battery only.

That the applicant has served two years and two months imprisonment and has been sufficiently punished for the crime of which he was guilty.

That the applicant has been a model prisoner and will live a law-abiding life in the future.

In view of the circumstances under which this sentence was imposed it does seem to savor of severity, and to this extent the reasons appear to be sustained, and the same appeal to us as being valid. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Jacob Coyle.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of York, to No. 67, August Term, 1914, Earl Wagner and Charles E. Shultz were jointly convicted, August 29, 1914, on an indictment charging the crime of arson, and on September 21, 1914, Wagner was sentenced to the Huntingdon Reformatory, and Shultz was sentenced to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from one year to ten years.

On February 24, 1915, an application for the pardon of these defendants was duly filed, and the same came on for hearing at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of the case as it was presented to us we are of the belief that it is proper to favor the application and we therefore recommend that pardons be issued to the applicants, Earl Wagner and Charles E. Shultz.

Wagner is seventeen years of age, and is without occupation except that of laborer. He lived at home with his father. Shultz is twenty-two years of age. He is married, and his wife is living. By occupation he is a baker. Neither of them had evere before been convicted of crime. They were both residents of the borough of Hanover, York County. They were charged with the setting fire to and burning a stable or hay shed located in the said borough, on the night of August 8, 1914. There was no direct testimony of the overt act. A confession was made by Wagner to the Fire Marshal of the Commonwealth who investigated the case, but this confession was repudiated by Wagner on the trial. The finding of the jury, however, was against both defendants. The property loss was not very extensive.

In support of the application it was shown that after the conviction and before the sentence there was submitted to the Court a petition signed by more than one hundred and thirty citizens of Hanover, including the burgess and other town officials, asking the Court to be lenient in sentencing the defendants, the petitioners saying among other things:

"We always found them to be honest, good, well-behaved and upright young men. We would respectfully ask your Honorable Court considering the age of Earl Wagner and considering the wife of Charles E. Shultz to be as lenient with the said defendants as possible and we believe that if you give them a chance that they will become useful citizens of the Borough of Hanover and that this charge brought against them in Court as aforesaid is a sufficient lesson and warning in the future and respectfully submit that your Honors be as lenient with them as circumstances will admit, and that a chance be given them so that they can mend their ways live a useful life and become good and useful citizens of this Commonwealth."

Petitions to the same effect, addressed to the Board, signed by about five hundred residents of the town, as well as a large number of letters from representative citizens, are on file with our record, so that it appears to be the prevailing public sentiment that the young men have learned a lesson and that they have been sufficiently punished. The District Attorney personally stated to the Board that, while he believed the conviction was proper, it was his opinion that the defendants had been sufficiently punished and that the ends of justice had been now met, and he therefore did not oppose the application. Under these conditions we think the application deserves our favorable action, and we therefore recommend that pardon be issued to the applicants, Earl Wagner and Charles E. Shultz.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to Nos. 643 to 649, inclusive, April Sessions, 1910, William Hatton was indicted on seven separate charges of larceny and receiving stolen goods. He entered a plea of guilty in each case, May 5, 1910, and on that day was sentenced to pay the costs in each case and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary aggregating not less than five years and not more than twenty-one years.

On March 3, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The application was heard at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration we think the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the said applicant, William Hatton.

Hatton is a colored man, thirty-eight years of age. He is married, and his wife and three children now live in the city of Philadelphia. His offenses were a series of shop-lifting schemes carried on in Philadelphia. The aggregate value of goods stolen was about eighty-five dollars; these things consisted of small articles picked up in different drug stores. Hatton had been arrested on a number of occasions in different parts of the Western states, and had served a number of short term imprisonments before his exploits in Philadelphia. However, he has been in the penitentiary under the sentence imposed in Philadelphia in 1910 for almost five years, the aggregate minimum term on the seven charges.

The formal reasons for clemency incorporated in these present proceedings are:

That all the minimum sentences for the offences committed in 1910 will expire in six weeks, and therefore the defendant has practically served the time intended by the trial judge.
That the defendant has been a model prisoner, and has determined to live a law-abiding life in the future, and will forever relinquish his career of crime.
That the defendant went into prison an ignorant dependent and is now an excellent artist, and fully self-supporting.
That the ends of justice have been fully met; sufficient punishment has been meted to the defendant; and he has fully reformed and has become a useful citizen.

From what we can gather from our examination of the matter these reasons appear to be sustained by the statements in the record. On the belief that the reformation of the offender has been accomplished, and that he will prove to be a self-sustaining member of society if released from further confinement, we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, William Hatton.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Northampton to Nos. 65, 66, and 67, September Term, 1910, John Harreck, alias John Schmidt, on September 12, 1910, entered pleas of guilty to indictments charging (1) statutory burglary and larceny, (2) arson, (3) larceny and receiving stolen goods; and upon the same day was sentenced in the aggregate to pay a fine of thirty dollars, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of from five years to twenty years.

On March 3, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed which was heard at our meeting to-day. We have given the case full consideration, and we find that the application merits favorable action. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, John Harreck, alias John Schmidt.

Applicant is thirty-eight years af age. He is married, and his wife and three children are living. By trade he is a weaver. Being thrown out of employment, and being unable to procure work of any kind, and having exhausted whatever money he may have had, and his wife being sick and his children all but starving, he undertook to steal that he might acquire for himself and his family the necessaries of life. The crime of arson was an accidental concomitant to his attempt at thieving. He was not a professional burglar or thief. He had been a hard working and industrious man, but was overcome by misfortune.

The reasons offered in support of the application for pardon are:

The prosecutors and responsible persons acquainted with the case recommend the pardon.
He was unrepresented by counsel either before or at the time of the disposition of his case.
Mitigating facts, not before the Court when sentence was imposed, are presented in this application.
The faithful wife of John Harreck is in delicate health and in dire need of his presence and services.
If released, he will take up honest employment already provided.
Temporary loss of work and the need of funds for the care of his sick wife, and not depravity of nature, caused this fall.
He has already served more than four years and three months of his sentence. The ends of justice have been fulfilled.

The record bears out these reasons. It is the opinion of the District Attorney who prosecuted the case, as well as that of the present District Attorney, that he has been sufficiently punished, and they are of the belief that the ends of justice have been met. His family is dependent upon charity. He has been in prison well on to the full minimum term, and it is hardly conceivable under the circumstances that any additional benefit to the Common wealth can be looked for by keeping him in prison for a longer time, while he might be of much aid to his family if released. For these reasons therefore we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, John Harreck, alias John Schmidt.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Montgomery, to No. 83 and No. 83-1, June Sessions, 1912, William R. Wayne was indicted on the counts of assault and battery, aggravated assault and battery, assault and battery with intent to maim, and assault and battery with intent to kill, in the first case, and on a count for carrying concealed deadly weapons, in the second case. He was convicted on the first indictment, and entered a plea of guilty on the second. On the first indictment he was sentenced, June 8, 1912, to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than three years and six months and not more than five years. On the second indictment sentence was suspeded.

On October 12, 1914, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which, upon hearing, was refused at the October meeting of the Board. A petition for re-hearing was allowed at our February meeting, so that the case came on for another hearing at our meeting to-day. On consideration of the case in its present status we are of the opinion that the application is entitled to favorable action, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, William R. Wayne.

Wayne is about 42 or 43 years old; he is a married man, and his wife and two children are living. By trade he is a painter. He had never been charged with the commission of crime prior to the present accusations. In the early part of 1912 it seems there was some trouble between him and his wife growing out of medical attention to the wife by the prosecutor, who, although not an actively practicing physician, was prescribing or giving medical treatment to Mrs. Wayne. This attention was contrary to the wishes and orders of Wayne, who, for some reason or other, was suspicious of the doctor's motives, and who had ordered him to discontinue his visits to the house. The doctor kept up his visiting in spite of Wayne's objection. On the evening of May 15, 1912, Wayne, after being on a spree for some days, went to the Doctor's house, called him out, and made the assault by firing at him with a pistol. He did not inflict any very serious injury, as he was soon disarmed.

The reasons on which the application for pardon is based are, substantially, that the assault was made when the defendant was in a drunken and irresponsible condition, and that he has been sufficiently punished under the circumstances of the case.

The District Attorney who prosecuted the case on the trial has written to the Board in endorsement of the application. He says among other things:

"I am informed, and I believe from credible sources, that the man whom Wayne shot, though not at the time a practicing physician, was prescribing or giving medical attention to Wayne's wife against his will, and that he had been ordered on one or more occasions to discontinue his visits.

Prior to the shooting, Wayne, who is not ordinarily known as a drinking man, became under the influence of liquor, and continued so for about a period of a week, during which time I am informed he was not in his normal condition, and acted in a measure as though his mind were unbalanced. It was during this period that the shooting occurred. He returned to his home and made no effort to escape, which likely would not have been the case had his mind been in normal condition, and had he had sufficient mind to premeditate the act and carry it into effect.

I am also informed that he has also borne an unimpeachable reputation for peace and good order, honesty, etc., and that if he is released from jail he can at once obtain work and provide for his family who are badly in need of his assistance.

I believe he has been sufficiently punished for the offence which he has committed, and that the ends of justice will be best subserved by a pardon, or at least a parole."

We have other letters to the same effect—one from his former employer, who says that is released he will gladly give Wayne employment at his old job.

Inasmuch as the prisoner has been in the Penitentiary more than two years and nine months out of the minimum sentence of three years and six months, and there appearing a reasonable probability of his leading a straight life in the future, and of his making proper provisions for his family, we are ready to adopt the view of the District Attorney and others cognizant of the facts that the defendant has been sufficiently punished; and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, William R. Wayne.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Chester, to No. 35 January Sessions, 1915, Annie Peter, January 28, 1915, was returned as guilty on an indictment charging her with the crime of adultery, and on that day was sentenced to pay the costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the County Jail for six months.

On March 4, 1915 an application for her pardon was duly filed, and the same came on for hearing at our meeting today. Upon consideration of the details of the matter as laid before us, we are of the opinion that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Annie Peter.

The applicant is the wife of John Peter, of Coatesville, an iron worker. These people are Greeks. The couple have one child, who is now being taken care of by strangers. For some reason or other not appearing to us the husband and wife had separated prior to the happening of the act complained of on the part of the wife. In January of this year Mrs. Peter was seen in the company of other men under circumstances that might be termed compromising as ordinary people look at such things but possibly not unusual according to foreign habits, although no positive act of adultery was proven on the trial. However, there was a verdict of guilty, and sentence of imprisonment.

Clemency is asked for the following reasons:

It is felt that the petitioner has already been sufficiently punished.

She is the mother of one child which is now being cared for by strangers. The husband of the petitioner, John Peter, a hard working mill hand in the iron and steel mills of Coatesville, is anxious to provide a home for his wife and child. He is willing to overlook any past indiscretions of his wife, provide a home for her, and give her a chance to begin life anew.

From all that was brought to our notice at the hearing it would seem to be good policy to encourage the renewal of the family relation between this man and this woman whereby their own and their child's interest would be fostered while the rights of the Commonwealth would not be prejudiced. For these reasons we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Annie Peter.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Allegheny, to No. 68, September Term, 1903, Dusan Milic was tried on an indictment charging murder, and on December 25, 1903, was returned by the jury as guilty of murder in the first degree. On February 23, 1904, he was sentenced to be hanged.

On September 12, 1904, an application for commutation of death sentence was filed with the Board of Pardons, and after hearing, the Board recommended, December 21, 1904, that the application be allowed. Commutation was accordingly issued by the Executive, and the defendant has been in confinement in the Penitentiary under the life sentence since the date of the commutation.

On March 4, 1915, an application for his absolute pardon was duly filed. This application was heard at our meeting to-day, and upon review of the details of the case as laid before us in the record and by the statements of counsel we think the application may properly be favored, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Dusan Milic.

Milic is now about 30 years old. He is a Servian by nativity, and had been in this country only three or four years when he became involved in this trouble which put him in the shadow of the gallows. He is not married. By occupation he was a laborer around the railroad. On the night of October 4, 1903, he shot and killed a man named Kelly, a member of the police force of the City of Pittsburgh. The defendant, however, did not know him as an officer. On the night named he and his sweetheart were returning home from a wedding celebration of some friends, where they had been drinking to a greater or less extent. In a spirit of fun or youthful buoyancy while passing along the highway Milic fired his revolver several times. Kelly, who happened to be somewhere nearby, although not in uniform, was attracted by the shooting, and came upon Milic and the girl suddenly and laid hold of the girl. Milic undertook to defend his companion, and in the suddenness of the encounter pistols were drawn. Though the officer was in civilian dress it is alleged that he displayed his badge by throwing open his coat. At all events on the exchange of shots Kelly was struck, and died from the effects of the wound. Milic received a wound in his hand.

The Board of Pardons in recommending commutation in 1904 conclude their finding as follows: "Under all the facts the doubt as to the existence of a deliberate specific intent to take life is strong—so strong that the Board unites in the recommendation of a commutation of the death sentence to imprisonment for life."

The reasons laid in this present application for pardon are:

The testimony in the case clearly indicates that the defendant should not have been convicted of any crime higher than that of voluntary manslaughter; and in fact should have been acquitted on the ground of self defence.

The action of the jury in rendering a verdict of guilty of the first degree, which verdict was promptly modified by the action of the Board of Pardons in recommending a commutation of sentence, indicates that the deliberation and impartial judgment which the jury should have given to the case was not accorded.

The prisoner has already served a longer term of imprisonment than would have been justified in any sentence that might have been imposed had a proper verdict been rendered.

We do not deem it necessary to discuss these reasons further than to quote letters from the Assistant District Attorney who prosecuted the case, (Mr. Grimes,) and the First Assistant District Attorney, (Mr. Robb,) who are familiar with the facts.

Mr. Grimes says under date of March 3, 1915:

"This case was most earnestly and bitterly fought by the Commonwealth, and I will admit that I used my utmost efforts to secure a conviction in this case at the insistance of the Police Department, who were interested in convicting this man of the highest degree of murder. The man who was killed being a policeman, the entire efforts of the Police Department were concentrated in an effort to convict him of this murder. It seems to me, after some years, that had the man who was killed been a private citizen instead of a police officer the verdict would hardly have been greater than manslaughter. At least, it is quite probable that no first degree verdict would have been returned. It is a well known fact that the killing of a policeman is most bitterly resented by the entire police force in any community, and special efforts are always put forth and made to make an example of the individual who does the killing.

I was most strenuous in my efforts to convict this man at the time, owing to this fact, and the pressure of the prosecuting police officers, and it is my belief that he has already sustained sufficient punishment.

Owing to the fact that this defendant was a foreigner unable to speak the language, and the prejudice existing at that time against foreigners was unusually intense, I believe this tended also to induce the jury to render a first degree verdict.

For the above reasons I think the Pardon Board would be doing a proper act of mercy to recommend this pardon."

Mr. Robb, under date of March 17, says:

"At the time of the conviction of Dusan Milic I was First Assistant District Attorney of Allegheny County under Honorable John C. Haymaker, now a Common Pleas Judge of the County of Allegheny, and although not having tried the case was thoroughly conversant of all the facts pertaining thereto.

At the time his application was before your Honorable Board for commutation to life imprisonment I was present in the Supreme Court room upon the argument thereof, and though not opposing the commutation was called upon by Attorney General Carson for my views upon the matter. I now repeat to you what I said to him then:

'Both Mr. Haymaker, the District Attorney, and I have always had very grave doubt regarding the verdict in this case, and the reason for our questioning the verdict as rendered was the suddenness in which the crime was committed; the defendant, Dusan Milic, according to the evidence, having taken but two steps from the time the deceased came into view until the shot was fired, and neither of us could understand how a man could form a deliberate intent to take life and wilfully and deliberately take that life in such a short space of time.'

The then Attorney General said that he thoroughly agreed with our views, and upon that day granted a commutation to life imprisonment.

Such having been the facts, and the defendant, Dusan Milic, now having served more time than he would have been compelled to serve for murder of the second degree, I sincerely trust that your Honorable Board may grant to him that to which I honestly believe he is entitled to now, his freedom."

With this record as a guide, we feel that the application for pardon is timely and entitled to endorsement, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Dusan Milic.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 59, May Term, 1911, Harry McGough, January 5, 1912, entered a plea of guilty of manslaughter to an indictment charging murder, and on that day was sentenced to pay the costs and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than five years and not more than ten years.

On January 23, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. Upon hearing at our February meeting the case was held under advisement. Having accorded the matter full consideration we now recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Harry McGough.

McGough is 53 years old. He was married, and has two children living. By occupation he was a saloon keeper in the City of Philadelphia. On the 22nd day of April, 1911, he shot and killed his wife. The act was committed without any assignable cause. There were no eye witnesses to the deed. In his statement to us of the Commonwealth's version of the facts the District Attorney says:

"McGough had an enviable reputation as a decent, law-abiding citizen before this occurrence. It appeared from the evidence, and it was borne out by the testimony not only of a number of people who knew him. but by competent medical testimony, that for about three months before the shooting he had been drinking whiskey steadily, eating little, and was under treatment by physicians on account of the drinking habit and appeared to be of unsound mind.

There was absolutely no motive for the killing, and as far as we could learn there had never been a quarrel between McGough and his wife.

The killing took place about 8 o'clock in the morning after McGough had left a saloon where, it was in evidence, he had drunk during the night about two quarts of what was described as "black whiskey."

When the evidence was in McGough pleaded guilty to manslaughter. In the discussion which preceded the entering of the plea it was found that the prisoner did not appear to clearly remember any of the occurrence of the shooting."

There are letters from several medical gentlemen under whose care the defendant had been prior to and immediately after the homicide, who express the opinion that at the time of the commission of the act McGough was not mentally responsible, and they now think that he has been sufficiently punished. He has been in prison all told about a month less than four years. His two children, both now grown, while deploring the sad condition of affairs, unite in asking for their father's release. There is property belonging to the applicant now in the hands of a Trustee which will be ample to furnish him a living, and there is no danger therefore of his becoming a public charge.

Under all the circumstances of the case we think this an instance where Executive clemency may properly be exercised, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Harry McGough.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of York, to No. 37 January Sessions, 1914, Charles C. Rodewig, with Harry Leber, was convicted on an indictment charging them with gambling and being common gamblers. On April 23, 1914, Rodewig was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than three years and not more than five years. Sentence was suspended as to his co-defendant, Leber.

On March 2, 1915, an application for the pardon of Rodewig was duly filed. This application came on regularly for hearing at our meeting to-day, and from what we have learned from the record and the statements made to us in open session we are of the opinion that the clemency sought should be awarded, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Charles C. Rodewig.

Rodewig is 46 years old. His regular trade or occupation is that of baker. He is married, and his family consists of his wife and one child. His co-defendant, Leber, was the proprietor of a certain room on the third story of a building in the City of York where gaming was allowed and encouraged. The applicant was his employe, and had charge of the place in the absence of Leber. These two defendants were technically guilty of the charges laid.

The reasons advanced on the claim for relief from imprisonment are that the applicant has been sufficiently punished for whatever infraction of law is properly attributable to him, and that the ends of justice have been met; further, his wife is ill and unable to provide for herself and their seven-year-old daughter.

The application for pardon is endorsed by very many prominent citizens of York, all of whom are familiar with the details of the matter, including the prosecutor, the principal witness, the Mayor of the city, the Sheriff and Deputy Sheriff of the county, the Chief of Police of the city, all the members of the jury, and the foreman of the Grand Jury, and many others from almost every trade, profession and occupation. The District Attorney also favors the application.

The sentence beyond doubt was a harsh and severe one. The applicant has been in the Penitentiary for nearly a year. It seems to us, on this showing, that the reasons above stated are abundantly sustained. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Charles C. Rodewig.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Lackawanna, to No. 18, April Term, 1914, Walter De Fraim, with two other defendants, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging burglary, and on March 14, 1914, was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from two years and six months to ten years.

On April 6, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The matter came on for disposition at our meeting to-day. Upon considering the facts in relation to the application we are of the opinion that a proper case has been made out, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Walter De Fraim.

De Fraim is thirty-two years of age. He is married, and his wife and nine-year-old daughter are living. By trade he is a machinist, and is said to be an expert in his line. He was working at his trade in Scranton when this trouble arose, and it seems had a good position. On February 28, 1914, he attended a wedding of one of his subordinates, who was a foreigner, and, as is the custom of these people, there was considerable indulgence in drink during the festivities. De Fraim was pretty drunk when he started for home in the charge of several companions. On the way, for some reason which no one appears to understand, they broke into a little store, and it is for this act they were held to answer in Court. De Fraim cannot give any explanation at all of his participation in the affair for the reason that he was too much intoxicated to know what was done.

The formal reason laid in the application for relief is:

That petitioner has been amply punished for his crime by reason of having served sentence to the present time; that he is qualified, as he has a good trade, to lead a useful life if given his liberty; that the ends of justice have been served by the imprisonment already imposed; and that he is truly repentant of the crime he committed while under the influence of liquor.

The other two defendants were sentenced to three and four months in jail respectively. This applicant has been in the Penitentiary for considerably more than a year, and under the circumstances, the ground on which the application is based has a reasonable appearance. There is no objection registered by the authorities or by the prosecutor. These conditions we believe warrant our favorable action, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Walter De Fraim.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Lackawanna, to Nos. 17, 18 and 19, December Term, 1907, Jacob Aloysius Theis, together with Frank Henry Olesnovich and Michael Edward Healy, entered pleas of guilty to charges of robbery, and thereupon, December 10, 1907, was sentenced in the aggregate to pay a fine of three dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for twenty-five years. Similar sentence was imposed upon Olesnovich; Healy was sentenced to twenty years.

On February 4, 1915, an application for the pardon of Theis was duly filed, but owing to the fact of the unexplained absence of counsel on the day of hearing the application was then marked refused. A petition for rehearing was allowed at our March meeting, and the case came before us to-day for consideration on its merits. Upon an understanding of the facts in the matter we are convinced that the application should be favored, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Jacob Aloysius Theis.

Theis is now twenty-three years old. He was born and raised in the City of Scranton, and was living with his parents when arrested. He worked in and about the coal mines. It is represented that he had been a sober and industrious boy up to the time of his present trouble. On December 10, 1907, these three defendants started out to have what they then regarded as a good time, which consisted in holding people up and robbing them. The booty they thus secured did not amount to much, and was all afterwards recovered and restored to the owners. However, it seems that about this time there was a wave of crime passing over Lackawanna County, and the Courts and the prosecuting officers felt it their duty to see that heavy sentences were imposed on these young men as a warning. Later on it was realized that the sentences were too severe. Upon proper application Healy was pardoned in December 1911, and Olesnovich in September 1914. It is urged on us that by a parity of reasoning this applicant should also be pardoned. This claim appears to be just, and inasmuch as Theis has been in the Penitentiary for more than seven years, and his co-defendants have both been released, it is hardly more than fair and equitable to accord to this applicant the same chance, especially as we fail to find that he was in any sense a worse offender than the others. The District Attorney who prosecuted, states in his letter to us: "On the whole I believe it to be a proper case for clemency, and join in the application to have him pardoned at this time." The present District Attorney, on our suggestion, investigated the merits of the application, and he says in his letter: "I think that the ends of justice have been fully met by the imprisonment already suffered by Theis, and I recommend that he receive a pardon."

We are of the opinion that the application for pardon is well supported, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Jacob Aloysius Theis.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Susquehanna, to No. 11, April Sessions, 1912, Pat Joyce, together with four other defendants, was convicted on an indictment laying the charges of burglary, larceny and receiving stolen goods; and upon April 9, 1912, the said Joyce was sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not more than ten years and not less than nine years.

On April 5, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. We heard a presentation of the case at our meeting to-day, and on consideration of the matters in question we are of the opinion that the application should be favored. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Pat Joyce.

Joyce was twenty-two years old when he was convicted. He is not married. By occupation he is a barber. His home is Norfolk, Va. In 1912 he was traveling through the north-eastern section of this State, selling barbers' supplies. One night in the early part of March, in the course of his travels while near Lanesboro in the County of Susquehanna, he stopped at a shanty along the railroad, where he met the other defendants, who previous to that time were unknown to him. Joyce had some money with him, and during the evening he advanced the cash and sent out some of the others to renew the supply of liquor. According to his statement he remained in the shanty and one of the other men wore his overcoat on this errand. During the night a certain store in Lanesboro was broken into and a number of articles stolen. A glove was found in the store room after the discovery of the burglary, and this glove the officers ascertained matched the glove in Joyce's overcoat pocket when they secured the coat in the shanty. This fact, it seems, was the only piece of evidence connecting Joyce with the burglary. The defendants were all convicted, but the others received sentences not exceeding three years.

The grounds on which this application for pardon is based are substantially, that the sentence was excessive in view of the uncertainty as to the applicant's guilt and in comparison with the sentences of the other defendants; that the defendant's conduct in prison would indicate that he is not of the criminal class; that if released there is an offer of immediate employment at his trade.

These reasons appeal to us as of some force, and as this man has been in the Penitentiary for more than three years we feel that the ends of justice have been met in his punishment, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Pat Joyce.

Harrisburg, April 21, 1915.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—At the regular meeting of the Board of Pardons to-day there were submitted for our consideration, and approval or rejection, three separate communications from the Board of Inspectors of the Western State Penitentiary, all stating that the respective convicts therein named had theretofore been released on parole, and recommending that full pardons and final discharges be now granted to the said convicts.

The following are the names of the convicts referred to, with data as to their convictions, etc.:

WILLIAM HERMAN, sentenced September 28, 1910, by the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Allegheny, on conviction for felonious assault, to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for from one year and nine months to seven years. Released on parole September 28, 1912. Recommendation for pardon filed March 31, 1915.

FRANK HUJACK, sentenced September 28, 1910, by the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Allegheny, on conviction for felonious assault, to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for from one year and nine months to seven years. Released on parole July 28, 1912. Recommendation for pardon filed March 31, 1915.

EDWARD McDONNOUGH, sentenced September 28, 1910, by the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Allegheny, on conviction for felonious assault, to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for from one year and nine months to seven years. Released on parole October 1, 1912. Recommendation for pardon filed March 31, 1915.

With respect to each of the convicts above named the inspectors assign the statutory reasons for their recommendations and set forth the grounds on which said reasons are based.

Therefore it appearing that all the rules of the Board of Inspectors of the Penitentiary, and the rules of the Board of Pardons, have been observed in the premises, and in endorsement of the reports of the said inspectors, we also recommend that an Executive order issue, granting to the said William Herman, Frank Hujack and Edward McDonnough each his final discharge and pardon.

Harrisburg, April 21, 1915.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Bradford, to No. 3, February Term, 1913, Fred Cook, together with a man named Charles Thompson, February 5, 1913, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging the entering a barn with intent to commit a felony, and larceny; on the same day Cook was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than five years and not more than ten years. Thompson was also sentenced to the Penitentiary.

On April 8, 1915, an application for the pardon of Cook was duly filed which was heard at our meeting to-day. From our examination of the record, and a consideration of the facts made known at the hearing, we are of the opinion that the application merits our favorable report, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Fred Cook.

Cook, whose real name is Earl Dobbins, is thirty-three years old. He is not married. By occupation he is a roofer. The offense charged against these two men is the entering a certain barn in Towanda, and stealing thirty skunk skins of the value of about one hundred dollars. Thompson watched on the outside while Cook entered and got the skins. Cook then fled the county, but was found and brought back. To shield his family he gave an assumed name. This was the prisoner's first offense. On leaving his home where he worked with his father he fell in with evil companions, and to some extent became addicted to drink. The application for pardon was made by his father, who is a roofer by trade, and who undertakes to give his son steady employment, as well as to extend to him a watchful oversight, in the event that he is released from prison. Thompson has already served his minimum term of imprisonment, two years, and has been released.

This application for pardon is endorsed by the prosecutor, by the detective who made the arrest, and by the District Attorney and the Trial Judge.

The District Attorney writes:

"* * * I am familiar with the facts in this case, and am of the opinion that the more than two years this prisoner has been confined in the Eastern Penitentiary is adequate punishment for him, and I have no objection whatever to a pardon being granted him."

The Trial Judge writes:

"* * * I am satisfied now that Charles Thompson was the principal instigator of the crime. He lived here, and knew the parties, and Cook was apparently a stranger in the community and was led on in the commission of this crime by Thompson.

I am further informed that Earl Dobbins has good parents, who are law-abiding citizens and live respectable lives in or near Scranton, Pa., and that their son is in no way a criminal, either by nature or evil tendencies, but became involved in this matter more through the association and influence of others than from any evil disposition of his own. I also understand that he has fully repented, and is not only willing but anxious to show to his friends and acquaintances that he can lead a good life, and he feels that he has fully suffered for all that he has done.

His relatives and friends believe that longer to confine him in the penitentiary will do him more harm than good.

Therefore in view of the information which I have received since sentence was imposed, I believe that Earl Dobbins has been sufficiently punished, and that a pardon at this time may be an act of justice which he will appreciate, and may be the means of making him a better man, and I am therefore in favor of giving him the chance."

We also have letters from the prosecutor and from the County Detective of the same import.

On this condition of the record we are ready to adopt the views of the persons concerned in this prosecution who are in the best position to suggest the propriety of our favorable action, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Fred Cook.

Harrisburg, April 21, 1915.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Clearfield, to No. 61, December Term, 1914, Angelo Calemera and Joe Calemera were indicted for carrying concealed deadly weapons, and shooting with intent to kill. A plea of guilty to the first count was entered, December 8, 1914, and on December 14 Angelo Calemera was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a minimum term of one one year and a maximum term of one year. Sentence was suspended as to the other defendant.

On April 5, 1915, an application for the pardon of Angelo Calemera was duly filed. The case was given attention to-day, and from what we learned from the record we are of the opinion that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Angelo Calemera.

Calemera is forty-one years old. He is married, and his wife and four children are living. By occupation he is a miner. He has never been in any criminal trouble prior to these present proceedings. The trouble in this case arose through the dispute as to a balance of fifty cents due on the price of a load of manure. The talk started on the street and the disputants went into a saloon and began drinking. High arguments followed and pistols were drawn. Several shots were exchanged but no one was injured.

The ground on which clemency is asked is that the defendant has been sufficiently punished. He is very poor, and his family are needy. This application for pardon has been started and pressed by his friends and neighbors who are convinced that the defendant is entitled to relief. The District Attorney and the Judge unite in endorsing the application inasmuch as they have satisfied themselves that an error was made in the imposition of the sentence to the Penitentiary.

The District Attorney writes:

"The applicant and his son and another Italian or two were engaged in shooting on the streets in DuBois, and at the time of the trial both myself and the Court believed that he was identified with a 'Black Hand' organization, and for this reason deemed it a proper case to send to the Penitentiary.

Upon further investigation we are inclined to think that we may have been somewhat severe with Angelo Calemera, and we are both now satisfied that it is a proper case for the Board to extend to him some consideration. I therefore recommend to the Board that the applicant be paroled during the remainder of his term for which he was sentenced."

The Judge writes:

"Investigation made by the officers of the Borough of DuBois since the trial and brought to my attention leads me to conclude that this case was less serious than appeared at the time of the disposition thereof, and because of this fact, and because of the needy condition of the family of Angelo Calemera I am of the opinion that justice would not suffer in any wise by the commutation of sentence and such executive action being taken as would relieve the said Angelo Calemera from further imprisonment in case of continued good behavior."

Therefore, guided by the views of the officials quoted, we recommend that clemency be accorded the applicant, Angelo Calemera, and that a pardon be now granted him.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Monroe, at December Term, 1912, John Kamensky and Henry Yaniszneski were convicted of an indictment charging burglary, larceny, and receiving stolen goods, and on February 7, 1913, the Court sentenced the defendants each to pay a fine of ten dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than two years and six months and not more than two years and eight months.

On April 7, 1915, applications for the pardon of the defendants were duly filed, and the same came on for consideration at our meeting to-day. After hearing the cases, we are of the opinion that the applications should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that pardons be granted the applicants, John Kamensky and Henry Yaniszneski.

Kamensky is twenty-two years old. Yaniszneski is twenty-three years old. Both are Polanders. The latter has a wife and child living in Europe. Neither appear to have any relatives in this country. They are charged with the stealing of goods of the value of five dollars, and were in jail several months before their trial; so that they now have served an imprisonment really of two years and six months, which was the minimum penitentiary term imposed, and it is urged that they have been sufficiently punished. It is not hard to appreciate the truth of this contention. The District Attorney, when writing to us, after reciting the facts, closes his letter with the following expression: "I do not know of any reason for opposing the pardon requested in this case. In fact I believe that the ends of justice have been fulfilled."

It seems to us that this application is well supported by the record before us, and we therefore recommend that pardons be granted these applicants, John Kamensky and Henry Yaniszneski.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 596, November Term, 1913, John Eberwein, January 20, 1914, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with the crime of murder, and the degree was fixed by the Court as murder in the second degree. On the same day the defendant was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than seven years and not more than fourteen years.

On March 24, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The case was heard on argument at our meeting to-day. On consideration of the matters involved, as explained to us, we are of the opinion that the clemency asked should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, John Eberwein.

Eberwein is a man eighty-two years old. He is charged with the taking the life of his wife. This homicide occurred under the following circumstances: Mrs. Eberwein was subject to fainting spells, and one day she fell down stairs and injured herself severely. In her intense pain she begged her husband to put her out of the way. According to the statement given us by the District Attorney, which we quote in full, the following is a continuation of the history of the case:

"Her husband seeing her in this condition, in a moment of mental aberration, thinking she was suffering unduly, seized an ironing board and battered her head to a pulp, causing her death. It appeared at the trial that Eberwein had been a soldier during the Civil War, and had re-enlisted after the war, having had a most honorable record; in fact, as I recall, being commended for distinguished bravery. Eberwein and his wife had lived together for almost forty-five years in perfect happiness and without the slightest jar. They had a number of children, who stand high in the community and are of unblemished reputation and character. They appeared in court, and testified that the relations between their father and mother were of the most delightful and pleasant character, and they could only account for the crime on the basis of mental weakness on the part of their father. The Commonwealth's expert who examined Eberwein testified that while he was a man of advanced years, being nearly eighty years of age, and apparently physically sound, was subject to senile lapses as to mental ability. Eberwein testified when put upon the stand that he had seen Mrs. Eberwein fall down stairs and suffer intensely, and that he used the ironing board to kill her to put her out of her misery and suffering. The facts of this case are such that of necessity they must appeal to every one, and, after Eberwein had pleaded guilty, and after consultation, it was concluded that rather than commit the defendant to an insane asylum it would be much better to place him under the care of Mr. McKenty, Warden of the Eastern Penitentiary, always with the ultimate idea that if he would be received by the authorities at the Soldiers' Home at Hampton, Va., his pardon would be recommended and approved so that he might spend the remainder of his days in freedom, believing that all the facts in this case warrant such action. I therefore recommend to your Honorable Board, provided the authorities at Hampton, Va., will receive him in the Soldiers' Home, that he be pardoned and permitted to accept the privileges of that institution.

This recommendation is expressly based upon the endorsement of the same by Mr. McKenty, Warden of the Eastern Penitentiary, who has not only watched Eberwein during his stay there, but is also very much interested in the case."

The Trial Judge says in his letter to us: "I cheerfully join in the request for his pardon, with the understanding that he be admitted to the Soldiers' Home at Hampton, Va."

It was shown to us that arrangements had been perfected for the admission of this unfortunate man to the Soldiers' Home at Hampton, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted him that this end may be accomplished, which seems to us to be an entirely proper adjustment of this pathetic condition of affairs.

Harrisburg, April 21, 1915.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Chester, at January Term, 1911, Robert Humphrey entered a plea of guilty to the charge of larceny, and on December 19, 1910, was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not more than thirty years.

On April 2, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed and the matter was heard and explained at our meeting to-day. On consideration of the facts involved we are of the opinion that the application is well taken, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Robert Humphrey.

Humphrey is about sixty-three years old. His occupation is stated to be that of horseman. He has been in prison before, and this fact is the responsible cause for the severity of the sentence imposed in the present case. The larceny consisted in the stealing of a set of harness.

The grounds on which the application for pardon is based are: That the constitutionality of the 6th section of the Act of May 10, 1909, under which petitioner was sentenced, is questionable; that the conduct of petitioner during his incarceration has been uniformly good and evinces thorough reformation; that longer imprisonment under the provisions of the act of 1909, which takes away all judicial discretion and is of uneven and unequal application to prisoners (depending on their having served their terms in jails or penitentiaries), would be repugnant to equity.

The District Attorney, in writing to us, explains the circumstances of the imposition of this severe sentence. He says:

"This man plead guilty in our court on December 19, 1911, to the charge of the larceny of one nickle-plated set of harness, of the value of thirty dollars, the property of one Howard Scott, who lived in the neighborhood of Coatesville. The defendant voluntarily informed us that he had been twice before convicted of larceny in two other counties in the State and served time in the Eastern Penitentiary for more than one year on each charge. This was set out in the indictment, and under the law as it existed then he was sentenced by our court to the maximum sentence of thirty years flat in the Eastern Penitentiary. This is the only defendant, in my recollection, sentenced from this county under that act. This man has already served four years of his term, which is one year more than the maximum sentence for his crime. I understand he has been a model prisoner. I do not feel that I should make any recommendation in this case but will leave the matter to the discretion of the Board, having given the Board the benefit of all the information that I have upon the subject."

Inasmuch as the law of 1909, with respect to the thirty-year sentence, has been changed, and as this applicant has been in prison considerably more than four years under this sentence, it seems to us that he has been punished sufficiently, and this sufficiency of punishment is a valid reason for our favorable action on the application. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Robert Humphrey.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 115, June Term, 1913, Frank Gomb, alias Frank Apolko, was convicted of the crime of highway robbery, and on July 12, 1913, was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from seven to ten years.

On April 8, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The case was heard at our meeting to-day. We have carefully considered all that was brought to our attention in the matter, and have reached the conclusion that the clemency asked should be given, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Frank Gomb, alias Apolko.

The applicant is a young men, not yet of age. He was but nineteen when he was arrested on the charge mentioned. He lived with his parents at Warrior Run, a mining town in Luzerne County, and was a worker in the mines, and had been such since he was ten years old. His family were respectable people, and he himself had heretofore had a good reputation.

The robbery complained of was the holding up of a man by the name of Pedalski on the streets of Warrior Run by the applicant and two other men much older than himself. The victim was robbed of some money and some other articles of property. He, however, made no complaint of the assault until some days after the occurrence, and in the meantime Gomb had left the town in search of work elsewhere. This seems to be a case where a young boy was led into the commission of crime by older men. We have on file letters and petitions from a large number of his neighbors who speak of his prior good behavior and ask our favorable action on his petition. The District Attorney says in his letter to us: "It would seem to me that a substantial sentence has already been served by the defendant, and there is no disposition on my part to oppose leniency."

In view of this being a first offense, and of the endorsements of the application referred to, we are of the belief that substantial justice has been subserved by the nearly two years imprisonment, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted this applicant, Frank Gomb, alias Frank Apolko.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Schuylkill, to No. 155, January Term, 1913, L. A. Shirk was convicted on an indictment charging the procuring an abortion, and on May 12, 1913, was sentenced to pay a fine of fifteen dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the County Prison for the term of four years.

On April 8, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. We heard the case at our meeting to-day, and after careful consideration of the same we are of the opinion that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, L. A. Shirk.

Applicant is sixty-two years of age. He has been a practicing physician for more than thirty years. He resided in Tower City, Schuylkill County, and was a practitionier of good repute. In the latter part of the year 1912 he was visited at his office by a young woman in company with a young man who represented to be her husband. The woman's real physical condition was not disclosed to the doctor, and he treated her electrically for some vaginal discharge which was supposed to be caused by a former abortion or by disease. The woman, who, it is said, was not married, went to her home in a near-by town and made a supposed dying statement in which she related the fact of her treatment by Dr. Shirk. She afterwards went to the Pottsville Hospital, where she died. After her death at the Hospital the condition of her womb and vagina was of such a character from mortification that it could not be told what had caused the abortion—whether she had been practiced on by any one, or whether she had performed it herself. At all events the Doctor was charged with the crime, and was convicted, the jury attaching to their verdict a recommendation of mercy.

The applicant has been in prison for nearly two years His health is entirely broken down, and most of the time he is in the hospital of the institution. Both his eyesight and his hearing are failing fast. From the letters on file from the prison physician and officials of the prison, as well as from other medical men and laymen, it is made to appear that prolonged imprisonment will result disastrously. More than half his prison term has been served. The ends of justice have been accomplished, and it is reasonably certain that no more good can be reached by exacting the full term of imprisonment. Under these conditions, therefore, we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, L. A. Shirk.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Chester, to April Term, 1908, Jacob Dunas was tried on an indictment charging the crime of murder, and on April 27, 1908, was returned by the jury as guilty of murder in the second degree. On the same day he was sentenced to pay a fine of five hundred dollars and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for the term of twenty years.

On February 3, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which, upon hearing, was refused, February 17. At our March meeting a petition for rehearing was allowed, and the case came before us again at our meeting to-day. And now, having given the matter full consideration, and regarding the state of the record as at present before us, we are persuaded that the clemency asked should be given, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Jacob Dunas.

Dunas is a Hungarian. He is about thirty-three years of age, and by occupation is a laborer. He is unmarried, and has no relatives in this country so far as known. He worked at Coatesville where he was living at the time of the commission of the crime. On the night of the seventh of April 1908 he shot and killed another Hungarian by the name of Smulka. From the meagre history of the case furnished us it appears that there was some difficulty between these two men which resulted in a quarrel. The defendant alleges that Smulka struck him with an axe. The defendant then procured a revolver, and later on in the evening when he was again confronted by Smulka and the latter attacked him he defended himself by shooting his assailant. At the trial he was unable to speak English, and his story of self defense was not credited by the entire jury and a verdict was returned as above mentioned, although it is now made to appear that the individual opinions of the jurymen ranged from first degree to acquittal, and a second degree verdict was reached on a compromise. The defendant has been in prison about seven years, and it is urged that in view of the circumstances he has been sufficiently punished.

W. W. MacElree, Esq., the District Attorney who tried the case, writes to the Board in regard to the case as follows:

"As I recall the case of Commonwealth vs. Jacob Dunas the defense offered was self defense. Shortly after the trial, from conversations with the jurymen who tried the case I learned that there was considerable difference of opinion as to the form of verdict—whether it should be Not Guilty, Manuslaughter or Second Degree. The witnesses spoke a foreign language. Consequently it was hard to get at the exact truth. Under all the circumstances I feel that the case is one where leniency might properly be shown."

The present District Attorney, who was Assistant District Attorney but who did not take part in the prosecution, writes on request of counsel as follows:

"* * * Although I was Assistant District Attorney at the time I took no part, either in the preparation or the trial of this case, and therefore I have no personal knowledge or recollection of the mater that is reliable. * * * I find the facts and history of the case to be just about as recorded in the history of the case which is on file at the present time before your Honorable Board. It seems that there was a wide difference of opinion among the members of the jury as to what form their verdict should take. Some voted for first degree, some for second degree, and some for manslaughter, and some were for acquittal on the ground of self defense. After a number of hours of deliberation the jury returned a verdict of murder in the second degree. I have talked with some of the jurymen who were in favor of a verdict of manslaughter, or an acquittal, and they seem to feel that they were won over by the opposition and induced to vote for second degree against their better judgment, and they now tell me that they feel that manslaughter would have been the most that defendant should properly have been convicted of, and they also say that they feel that defendant has suffered enough punishment and should be allowed to go absolutely free at this time.

From everything that I can learn it would seem to be that the ends of justice would be met had this man been convicted of manslaughter, and that, under all the circumstances of the case, so far as I can learn them at this time, it would be a proper thing for the Board to recommend a pardon."

Since the Commonwealth's officers, who are the persons best competent to judge, are of the opinion that the application for pardon is timely, we feel warranted in adopting their suggestion that the ends of justice have been met by the seven years' imprisonment, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Jacob Dunas.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 413, April Sessions, 1912, John Jobliss and Joseph Lacata, on their plea of guilty to an indictment charging burglary, were each sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from four years to ten years.

On April 6, 1915, an application for the pardon of the two defendants was duly filed, and the case was heard at our meeting to-day. We have carefully considered what is shown by the record, and was made known to us at the hearing, and after examination we are of the belief that the prayer for clemency should be favored, and we therefore recommend that pardons be now granted the two applicants, John Jobliss and Joseph Lacata.

Jobliss and Lacata are two young Italians aged respectively twenty and twenty-five years. They have been in this country since early boyhood. They were employed in the mines. Neither had ever been arrested before, and they enjoyed good reputations for honesty and industry. About the middle of March, 1912, they broke into a store in the city of Pittstown and stole four revolvers and a dozen brushes, which they sold in the neighborhood. On their arraignment they entered a plea of guilty, and were sentenced as before stated.

The reasons for pardon laid in these proceedings are:

That in view of all the circumstances of this case and of the previous good reputations of the defendants, the sentence imposed was excessive.

That the ends of Justice have been satisfied by the period of imprisonment already served by the defendants.

These grounds apparently are within reason, as the District Attorney in his reply to our inquiry states that he has no objections to the pardon being granted the applicants.

As this was the first offense charged against the applicants and seeing that they have been in prison all but three years, it is not more than fair to say that the ends of justice have been satisfied. We therefore recommend that pardons be now granted the applicants, John Jobliss and Joseph Lacata.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Susquehanna, to No. 13, November Sessions, 1913, Clara Rose was indicted on four counts, (1) assault and battery, (2) aggravated assault and battery, (3) felonious assault and battery, (4) using explosives. November 11, 1913, the jury returned a verdict of guilty with recommendation of mercy. On November 17, 1913, she was sentenced to pay a fine of twenty-five dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than two years and six months and not more than seven years.

On April 7, 1915, an application for her pardon was duly filed. We heard the case at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of the matters placed before us in relation to it we are of the opinion that the plea for clemency should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Clara Rose.

The applicant is a woman forty-five years of age. She is married. Her husband and three children—a girl six years old, and two boys respectively twelve and fourteen years old, are living. She has no other relatives. She was charged by the Commonwealth with making an assault upon her husband, Jerome Rose, and casting at him a stick of dynamite. Her conviction was effected through the testimony of one, Leon Granger, an admitted principal in the crime, who pleads guilty and who is now serving sentence in the penitentiary for the same assault. It appears on the record that this witness has admitted that his testimony against this applicant was not true. It otherwise appears that certain parts of his testimony in the case against her as to material facts was untrue. It further appears that public sentiment in the locality is to the effect that Mrs. Rose was improperly convicted. Her application for pardon is endorsed by many of her neighbors and acquaintances who have faith in her innocence.

So far as we can determine from the record before us we feel that this application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Clara Rose.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Fayette, to No. 6, June Term, 1913, Tony Fratteo was called for trial on an indictment charging murder. On June 4, 1913, after the closing of the testimony, an agreement of counsel for the defendant and the District Attorney, with approval of the Court, the jury rendered a verdict of murder in the second degree. On July 1, 1913, sentence was imposed upon the defendant that he pay a fine of six cents, costs, and undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than four years and six months and not more than ten years.

On April 6, 1915, an application for the pardon of Fratteo was duly filed, which we heard at our meeting on the twenty-first instant. We have since fully considered the facts in the case as brought out at the hearing and appearing on the record, and we now approve the application and recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Tony Fratteo.

Fratteo is thirty-five years old. He is an Italian, and came to this country about five years ago. By occupation he is a laborer. He is married, and his wife and two children are living in Italy where he had been supporting them by his toil in this country. He was convicted of the killing of another foreigner named Bennie Dandrea. The homicide took place March 30, 1913, at Dickerson Run, Fayette County. Prior to that day these two men had not known each other, and there was no bad feeling between them, and hence no motive for a deliberate and thought out murder. They met on this day, which was a Sunday, at the shanty of a mutual friend, where there was drinking and dancing—a drunken frolic. Dandrea was playing the accordion, and Fratteo asked him to play a tune of his, Fratteo's, province. Dandrea refused to do so, and in his refusal made some insulting remarks with reference to the request. This brought on a quarrel, and the proprietor of the shanty, which place appears to have been what is known as a "speak easy," ejected the whole party. Fratteo started to go to his own shanty near by, but was unexpectedly confronted by Dandrea who had come out of the drinking place by another door. The latter rushed toward Fratteo in a threatening attitude, with the remark "Now one or the other must die," or some similar expression, and made a move as if to draw a weapon from his hip pocket. Fratteo happened to have on his person his razor which he had used that morning in shaving, and he drew this razor in defense of himself, as he alleges, and slashed at Dandrea. The blow caught Dandrea on the cheek and neck and severed the jugular artery. Dandrea bled to death. Fratteo made no effort to escape but gave himself up at once. On the trial the facts as testified to did not seem to warrant the pressing for a first degree verdict.

The reasons for clemency set forth on the record are in substance: That the killing was unpremeditated, unintentional, without malice, wilfulness or deliberation, and in reality made in self defense; that the applicant is not a man of criminal tendency; that the imprisonment he has already undergone, more than two years, has been sufficient; that further imprisonment of the applicant would be of no benefit to the community either as a safeguard or deterrent under the circumstances surrounding the case.

From our examination into this matter as disclosed by the record before us and the statements of counsel on the hearing, and in light of the letters from the District Attorney and the Trial Judge, we find that the reasons laid carry sufficient weight to justify our favorable action on the application. The District Attorney, while not favoring the application outright, offers no objection whatever to its allowance. The Trial Judge writes as follows:

"I have today carefully read over the notes of testimony, and likewise have read and considered the reasons urged as the basis of the application, and if, on like reading and consideration and hearing the argument of counsel, your Honorable Board finds and concludes that the matters set forth in said reasons are facts, I do not hesitate to join in the application, as, in my judgment if they are true and correct this defendant has been sufficiently punished and a pardon should be recommended and granted."

Therefore, for the reason that there was no intention on the part of the applicant to murderously take life; that the act was in the nature of self defense; that the applicant was not known as of a criminal or vicious disposition; that his imprisonment for more than two years has been adequate punishment, we recommend that a pardon be now granted the said applicant, Tony Fratteo.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to Nos. 696 and 697, November Sessions, 1914, Michael Weisman was convicted, February 24, 1915, on the charge of receiving stolen goods, and on February 26, 1915, was sentenced in the aggregate to pay a fine of five dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than one year and not more than eighteen months, reduced to six months to one year.

On April 7, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. This application was heard at our meeting on the twenty-first instant, and we then held the matter under advisement. We have since carefully looked into its details, and now report that we find the application worthy favorable action. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Michael Weisman.

Weisman is thirty-nine years of age. He is not married. By occupation he is a dealer in old gold and silver, with place of business in the city of Philadelphia. He has never been charged with any criminal act other than the alleged dealing embraced in these proceedings. A large number of letters and testimonials on file attest to his general good reputation. There were five bills of indictment laid, but in three of them verdicts of not guilty were taken, and a concurrent sentence was imposed in the other two as above stated.

The defendant was convicted on the evidence principally of one, Fabrey, the thief, who pleaded guilty of the larceny of a number of articles of jewelry, etc. Fabrey, in his statement to the police reported that he had sold some of the stolen property to Weisman. When the police officers, in company with the thief himself, visited Weisman's place the latter did not recognize Fabrey, and asked for dates of the alleged sales and a description of the goods said to have been bought by him. Fabrey stated that he had sold these stolen goods under assumed names which he had forgotten. The defendant then produced his memorandum slips of purchases which he turned over to the officers for Fabrey to examine and have Fabrey identify his handwriting. Fabrey thus picked out several slips, and Weisman then produced the articles mentioned thereon, which in some instances turned out to be the articles stolen. It was on this evidence that his conviction rested. The defendant of course denied all knowledge or intention of buying goods which he knew were stolen. However, the jury convicted him.

The plea for clemency is based on the assumption that for various reasons the defendant was unfairly tried, which reasons are set forth in the history of the case on file but which we deem it unnecessary to elaborate on; in addition, that he is so disabled physically that his health will be greatly if not permanently impaired and damaged by further incarceration; and that the ends of justice have been satisfied by the imprisonment already undergone.

The record before us sets forth the physical disabilities with which the applicant is afflicted. He has been in the infirmary or in the convalescent ward of the Penitentiary practically ever since his admission to that institution. Under these conditions it is not hard to believe that the principles of justice would not be outraged if leniency were to be extended to this applicant. As an act of mercy alone we think the application may be favored. Moreover, it is within the Executive Prerogative to extend clemency when thereunto moved, and this case appeals to us to be an instance where such privilege may be safely exercised. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Michael Weisman.

Sir:—At our regular meeting held to-day there were submitted for our consideration, and approval or rejection, six separate communications from the Board of Inspectors of the Western State Penitentiary, and four like communications from the Inspectors of the Eastern State Penitentiary, all stating that the respective convicts therein named had been released or paroled, and recommending therein that full pardons and final discharges be now granted to each of said convicts.

The following are the names of the convicts referred to, with data as to their convictions, etc., respectively:

RIPLEY SCOTT, Armstrong County; voluntary manslaughter; sentenced September 24, 1909, Western Penitentiary, for from three years to six years. Paroled September 24, 1912. Recommended of Inspectors filed June 1, 1915.

JOSEPH MACULA, Somerset County; burglary and larceny; sentenced September 18, 1909, Western Penitentiary, for from two years and six months to ten years. Paroled June 19, 1912. Recommendation of Inspectors filed June 1, 1915.

JOHN HALAPY, Somerset County; burglary and larceny; sentenced September 18, 1909, Western Penitentiary, for from two years and six months to ten years. Paroled March 18, 1912. Recomemndation of Inspectors filed June 1, 1915.

ANDY BOOKATISH, Somerset County; burglary and larceny; sentenced September 18, 1909, Western Penitentiary, for from two years and six months to ten years. Paroled March 18, 1912. Recommendation of Inspectors filed June 1, 1915.

ROY PHENICIE, Lawrence County; felonious assault to rape; sentenced December 19, 1911, Western Penitentiary, for from one year to five years. Paroled December 19, 1912. Recommendation of Inspectors filed June 1, 1915.

GEORGE W. FIELDS, Allegheny County; larceny from the person; sentenced January 20, 1911, Western Penitentiary, for from one year and three months to five years. Paroled October 20, 1912. Recommendation of Inspectors filed June 1, 1915.

HARRY CARROLL, Dauphin County; felonious entry; sentenced September 28, 1909, Eastern Penitentiary, for from one year to ten years. Paroled March 28, 1911. Recommendation of Inspectors filed June 10, 1915.

WILLIAM PATTON, Philadelphia County; robbery; sentenced January 7, 1910, Eastern Penitentiary, for from two years and six months to ten years. Paroled July 7, 1912. Recommendation of Inspectors filed June 10, 1915.

CHARLES BEAVER, alias BIEBER, York County; Burglary, felonious entry, etc.; sentenced January 8, 1910, Eastern Penitentiary, for six years. Paroled October 21, 1913. Recommendation of Inspectors filed June 10, 1915.

HARRISON LONDON, Chester County; forgery; sentenced March 20, 1911, Eastern Penitentiary, for from one year and three months to five years. Paroled April 7, 1913. Recomemndation of Inspectors filed June 20, 1915.

With respect to each of the convicts above named the Inspectors assign the statutory reasons for their recommendations and set forth the grounds on which said reasons are based.

Therefore, it appearing that all the rules of the Boards of Inspectors of the Penitentiaries, and the Rules of the Board of Pardons, have been observed in the premises, and in endorsement of the reports of the said Inspectors, we also recommend that an Executive order issue granting to the said Ripley Scott, Joseph Macula, John Halapy, Andy Bookatish, Roy Phenicie, George W. Fields, Harry Carroll, William Patton, Charles Beaver, Al. Bieber, and Harrison London, each, his final discharge and pardon.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Bucks, to Nos. 1, 2, and 3 September Term, 1892, David Stears, alias John Walters, was convicted on charges of burglary, horse stealing, larceny, and receiving stolen goods, and on September 20, 1892 was sentenced in the aggregate to pay a fine of three dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for twenty years. He served this term of imprisonment, less seven years and nine months commutation allowed for good behavior, and was discharged from the Penitentiary December 20, 1904. Subsequently, on September 18, 1905, he was again convicted in the same County of Bucks, to Nos. 2 and 3 September Term, 1905, Oyer and Terminer, on precisely similar charges, and was thereupon sentenced in the aggregate to pay a fine of two dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for the term of two years. This second sentence, with the usual commutation, would ordinarily have expired January 18, 1915. However, the second offence having been committed during the period of commutation of the first sentence the law required that defendant also serve out all the time he had been allowed on that commutation; in other words he forfeited the seven years and nine months he had previously earned. The result is that this applicant has now served twenty-two years and eight months imprisonment, less of course the nine months he was at liberty, and still has before him about seven years until he can look for his discharge.

On May 6, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The matter was laid before us at our meeting today, and, on consideration of all the facts as explained, we are of the opinion that the application should be favored, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, David Steers, alias John Walters.

Applicant is seventy-two years of age; a widower, and was by occupation a farmer. His first conviction was for the stealing of a horse, wagon and harness, of the total value of about two hundred dollars. His second conviction was for the stealing of a horse from one person, and a buggy spread and rope halter from another.

The reasons for clemency set out on our record are:

"That the defendant is seventy-two years of age, has served nearly twenty-three years continuous imprisonment, less an eight months' interval, and will live a law-abiding life in the future.

That he has been a model prisoner.

That he has an honorable discharge from the United States Government for actual service in the Civil War.

That the judge who presided over his first trial, and the District Attorney who tried the case and who is the present Judge in the said Court recommend this pardon.

That the learned Judge who heard the habeas corpus proceedings joins in the application."

We have no hesitancy in endorsing these reasons, especially in view of the imprisonment served and the value of the chattels stolen. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, David Stears, alias John Walters.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Lackawanna, to No. 17, April Term, 1914, Constantino Fabiona was, on the seventh day of April, 1914, returned as guilty on an indictment charging burglary, the jury supplementing their finding with a recommendation to the mercy of the Court.

On April 11, 1914, he was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of from three years to ten years.

On April 22, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which was heard and considered at our meeting today. We recommend that the application be favored and that a pardon issue to the said applicant, Constantino Fabiona.

Fabiona is twenty-four years old. He is not married. By occupation he is a laborer in the coal mines. He is charged with having, on the morning of December 29, 1913, at about 5.45 o'clock, broken an outer door of a summer kitchen, which was fastened only by a latch, at the house of the prosecutrix, Mrs. Sarah Stanton. Nothing is alleged to have been stolen. The prosecutrix says she saw the defendant and fired at him five times with a revolver that she had but did not strike him. No one heard the shots, altho there were other people living in the same house and in adjoining houses. Her testimony was not corrobrated. The defendant absolutely denies the charge, and claims to be entirely innocent. It seems that Mrs. Stanton is a wiodw, some six years older than the defendant. She is the mother of three children. She and the defendant were well and intimately acquainted. The defendant frequently visited the prosecurtix, and often met her at the house of his sister with whom he lived. In fact there was a statement made that she desired the defendant to marry her. It is the theory of the defendant and his friends that the prosecution was encouraged, if not instigated, by a brother-in-law of the prosecutrix who was displeased with and chagrined at the intimacy between Mrs. Stanton and this young Italian which he sought to break up. Certain letters which the prosecutrix has written to the defendant at the Penitentiary, which are filed with our record, give color to this theory. From a comparison of the signatures to these letters with what is admitted to be genuine signatures of Mrs. Stanton these letters impress us as being authentic. At all events, so far as our record shows, the testimony against the defendant was that of the prosecutrix alone; her admission by the letters mentioned that "It was not her fault;" the absence of motive on the part of the defendant. He has been in prison for considerably more than a year. As the application appears to us to be sustained we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Constantino Fabiona.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Delaware, to No. 29, December Term, 1910, James Baschonio, alias James Muskey on October 8, 1913, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging breaking and entering and larceny, and thereupon was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from five years to ten years.

On May 4, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and at our meeting to-day the details in relation to the conviction and imprisonment were fully explained to us. Upon consideration of these matters we are of the opinion that the application has been properly made and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, James Baschonio alias James Muskey.

This applicant is now about twenty-five years old. He is not married. His occupation was that of peddling and dealing in second hand articles. The offense charged against him in the above case was committed in Delaware County in close proximity to the Montgomery County line. This was in 1910. At the same time a similar depredation was committed by him on a nearby property in Montgomery County. He was apprehended for the Montgomery County offense and tried in the Court of that county, and convicted in connection with one, Manderfield. Manderfield was released on parole, but this applicant was sentenced to the penitentiary for from nine months to three years. A detainer was lodged against him by the Delaware County authorities, by reason of which he automatically forfeited the right to parole at the expiration of his minimum sentence of nine months. He served the full three years. Upon his release he was rearrested by the Delaware County authorities as he was leaving the prison gates, and was then tried and sentenced in the Court of that county. It is this last named sentence that he is now serving and from which he asks for relief in these proceedings before us.

It was urged before us that these two offences were practically the same act, and that defendant has been sufficiently punished. He has been in the penitentiary since October 5, 1910, more than four years and seven months, and if kept until the expiration of the minimum term of his present sentence he will not be eligibile for parole until October, 1918. It was further shown us that this young man was deprived of proper family training on account of the death of his mother when he was five years old and the death of his father when he was fifteen. He has two sisters who are married and whose husbands are worthy and reliable citizens of Philadelphia, who have promised to give employment to the applicant, if he is released, and to exercise toward him a proper oversight and assist him in right living. It was argued to us that the ends of justice have been fully complied with, that atonement has been adequately made, and that his discharge at this time will enable him to atone further for the errors of his youth.

On a review of the circumstances of the case we are persuaded that it is for the best interest of the applicant to allow this application. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, James Baschonio, alias Muskey.

Respectfully submitted,

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lehigh, to No. 45, January Sessions, 1914, Edgar Uhler and Charles Uhler were indicted on the charge of burglary and larceny, and on trial, January 10, 1914, were convicted. On the same day the defendant, Edgar Uhler, was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the County Prison for two years and three months; the defendant Charles Uhler was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the County Prison for three years and nine months.

On April 7, 1915, an application for the pardon of each defendant was duly filed. Upon the hearing of this application at our April meeting the case was held under advisement. We have since examined the record and have considered the matters brought to our attention by this examination as well as on the argument of counsel, and we now feel that the application may be properly approved, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the defendants, Edgar Uhler and Charles Uhler.

Edgar Uhler is about thirty-eight years old. He is married and his wife and fifteen-year old son are living. By occupation he is a chauffeur. Charles Uhler is about forty-one years old. He is married but has no children. By trade he is a baker. The charge against these men was the breaking into the office of the Adams Express Company at Catasauqua, Lehigh County, on the night of October 24, 1913, drilling open the safe, and stealing therefrom thirty-six dollars in cash. The defendants contested the prosecution on trial, and all through these proceedings claim that the evidence against them was only of a circumstantial character.

However, the jury found against them.

The reasons put forth in this application for pardon are:

"The sentence imposed was excessive under the circumstances of the case; the evidence was wholly circumstantial and the proof far from conclusive that the crime was committed by petitioners.

No public benefit can result from the continuance of the imprisonment, nor public security jeopardized by its termination.

The conduct of petitioners during incarceration has been uniformly good and such as to indicate the very best of conduct in case of release from prison.

Assurances of reputable citizens can be given of immediate and regular employment upon liberation, and they are not likely, therefore, to become a public charge; if released at their present age they can start life anew, with every probability of becoming useful citizens.

A further and longer imprisonment for the crime in question, under all the circumstances, would be repugnant to equity and justice."

In addition to the above it is averred that each of the defendants is suffering from certain physical ailments which are explained in detail that render their confinement more oppressive than ordinary.

From our review of the matters before us in relation to this application we are disposed to think that the prayer for relief should be granted, and we therefore recommend that pardon should be allowed the applicants, Edgar Uhler and Charles Uhler.

Respectfully submitted.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of York, to No. 3, August Sessions, 1910, William Starner, on arraignment, pleaded guilty to an indictment laying the charge of statutory rape, and thereupon, August 22, 1910, was sentenced to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than three years and nine months and not more than fifteen years.

On May 6, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the same came before us at our meeting to-day for decision. Upon examination of the record and of the matters brought to our attention in relation to the case we are of the opinion that the application should be sustained, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, William Starner.

Starner is fifty-four years of age; unmarried, and a farm laborer. He was charged with this statutory offense committed with a certain girl in Hanover, York County, who was nearly sixteen years old, but large for her age, and said to have been a girl of easy virtue, as to the importance of which last mentioned fact in its relation to his predicament the defendant was in ignorance. His plea of guilty was entered on the advice of the officer who arrested him, and in reality it should have been only for fornication.

We quote the reasons on which the plea for clemency is made:

"(1) That the minimum sentence for the offense committed in 1910 expired May 22, 1914, and therefore the defendant has served one year more than the sentence intended by the Trial Judge.
(2) That the defendant has been a model prisoner, and has determined to lead a law-abiding life in the future.
(3) That fornication should have been the plea entered in this case.
(4) That the defendant when he pleaded guilty did so erroneously, not knowing that the bad repute of the prosecutrix made him guilty of a vastly different offense.
(5) That had a plea of fornication been entered in this case the maximum punishment would have been $100 fine.
(6) That the ends of justice have been fully met; sufficient punishment has been meted to the defendant; and he has fully reformed and will in the future be a useful citizen."

These reasons are substantial and sustain the application, especially when read in connection with the letter to us from the District Attorney, who says: "I was not the District Attorney when this case was heard before our Courts, but I have conferred with Mr. Sherwood, who was then District Attorney, and he informs me that in his opinion the ends of justice have been met in this case."

This being the state of our record we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, William Starner.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 171, August Sessions, 1914, Frank Muscaro was sentenced, November 21, 1914, on conviction of assault and battery with intent to kill, to pay a fine of five dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not less than one year and not more than two years.

On May 5, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed which came before us at our meeting to-day for consideration. Having given the matter careful examination we are of the opinion that the application is entitled to approval, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant Frank Muscaro.

Muscaro is a young man twenty-four years old. He is not married, but lived with relatives in the city of Philadelphia. He has been in the employ of the Philadelphia Electric Company for some nine years. He has been an industrious and well behaved youth, and does not belong to the criminal class. He has never been in any trouble of a criminal nature. It happened that one Sunday afternoon last July he visited the house of an acquaintance in the lower part of the city by the name of Molinaro, where there were other fellow-countrymen. They spent the afternoon playing cards. During the course of the afternoon a dispute arose and a fight followed, possibly precipitated by some drinking. Applicant was mixed up in the scuffle, and Molinaro threw a beer bottle at him. One of the others in the party threw a knife at Molinaro, who was cut in the arm, which cutting is the basis of this charge. Muscaro denies having had a knife at all that day. One of the other guests, Rizzo by name, who, it is alleged by the defendant, threw the knife at Molinaro, ran away from the house; the defendant remained there, however, and when the police arrived on the scene was placed under arrest. Although he protested his innocence he was tried, convicted and sentenced, as mentioned.

Aside from the usual allegation of innocence on the part of the defendant, it is urged before us as a ground for clemency that by reason of the prior good reputation of the applicant and the willingness of the Electric Company, for whom he had been working, to take him back into their employ, and the sufficiency of the punishment of more than six months already borne, this applicant should have shown him the clemency he craves. We have on file a letter from the counsel of Molinaro, who was the prosecutor, joining in the request for pardon for the reason that the prisoner has been sufficiently punished. There is also on file written evidence of the willingness of the Electric Company to place him back in his old place.

Under the conditions shown, we think that no further good will result to the Commonwealth by keeping the applicant in confinement for another six months, and as no great public wrong was perpetrated and as the private interests of the parties concerned appear to have been satisfied, we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted this applicant, Frank Muscaro.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Bucks, to No. 3, September Sessions, 1912, George Wright, together with Frank Hayden and John M. Daly, was indicted on the charge of larceny, horse stealing, etc. On trial, September 11, 1912, Wright was found guilty and the other two were acquitted. On the same day Wright was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than four years and not more than ten years.

On May 5, 1915, an application for the pardon of Wright was duly filed. The matter was presented to us for disposition at our meeting to-day. On consideration of the facts as shown by the record and explained by counsel we are of the opinion that the clemency asked should be given, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, George Wright.

Wright is about thirty years old. He is married, and has three children. By occupation he is a teamster and farm hand. For about five weeks prior to his arrest on June 19, 1912, he was employed on the farm of Charles Beale, near New Hope, Bucks County. About the fifteenth of June he took a few days off with the intention of going to Philadelphia to visit his family. While in the city he started in to drinking. On his way back to the farm he stopped at Doylestown, still under the influence of liquor. He went to a livery stable there and hired a team on pretense of taking his trunk to the station. He had no trunk, and apparently possessed no fixed intention of what he would do with the team. He started to drive toward Philadelphia, and on the way fell asleep. When he wakened up he found himself in the city. He drove to the neighborhood of where his family lived, and, at a stable in that locality, where he put up the horse for attention, he fell in with the other two defendants. They all became pretty drunk. In some way, which the defendant is unable to explain, a dicker was made for the sale of the horse to the liveryman. Suspicions were aroused by reason of Wright's condition, and before he sobered up he was arrested and taken to the jail at Doylestown where he was kept for three months before his trial. The team was recovered by the owner.

Applicant offers in support of his application for pardon the following reasons: First, that the sentence was excessive. Second, that he has been sufficiently punished. Third, that the responsibility for the offenses charged rested equally upon the two co-defendants, Hayden and Daly, who were acquitted at the trial. Fourth, that it appeared from the evidence that he was alone responsible and that consequently he was compelled to suffer all the punishment.

The applicant has been in prison since about the middle of June, 1912, which is now a period of nearly three years. The Trial Judge and the District Attorney in accepting notice of the application state that they do not oppose the application. The prosecutor also expresses his approval of the application. A former employer has promised him employment if he is released.

On a review of all the facts in the case it is not unreasonable to say that the time served in prison has been a sufficient punishment for the offense committed and that there is no hope of any further good being accomplished by a continued imprisonment. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, George Wright.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 706, November Sessions, 1914, John Clifford was, March 10, 1915, convicted on the charge of assault and battery with intent to ravish. The jury, in their finding, recommended the defendant to the mercy of the Court. On the same day defendant was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not less than two years nor more than five years.

On May 5, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The case was presented to us at our meeting to-day for consideration. We have looked into the record submitted, and have given attention to the statements of counsel. We are of the opinion that the application has been properly made, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, John Clifford.

Clifford is twenty-seven years old. He is not married. By occupation he is a motorman for the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company. He boarded with a family by the name of Hundredmark. The assault complained of is alleged to have been committed on the person of Mrs. Hundredmark. The evidence in the case was the uncorroberated testimony of Mrs. Hundredmark, who states that the defendant made assaults upon her at different times, never, however, accomplishing his purpose. She made no complaint to her husband, or to anyone else, of these assaults, and for some days the relations between the parties were friendly. Subsequently some disagreement arose with regard to the defendant's intention of changing his boarding place, and his demand for the payment by Hundredmark of a loan that defendant had made him. A dispute also occurred about the defendant's taking away his clothes and belongings. It was about the time, or possibly just after, the injection of these difficulties into the situation that the defendant was arrested on the charge of assault as mentioned.

The formal reasons laid in these proceedings before the Board are, substantially, that there was an irregularity in the verdict, in that one of the jurors has since made an affidavit that he did not agree to a verdict greater than simple assault; that the conviction was secured on the uncorroborated testimony of the woman in the case who, it is alleged, had an ulterior motive in testifying; that the sentence was excessive; that the demands of justice have been satisfied by the imprisonment already served by the defendant.

Inasmuch as the commission of this alleged offense was not shown to have been accompanied by conditions which usually attend an assault of this character, in the way of outcry, immediate complaint, etc., it is not clear that the defendant was in reality guilty of so serious a grade of crime as the words of the accusation would suggest. In the face of the defendant's absolute denial, the want of corroboration of the prosecutrix, as well as other circumstances brought to our attention, it is entirely possible that a mistake may have been made in this conviction and sentence. At all events it seems to us that the reasons set up in support of the application are sufficiently persuasive to warrant its allowance, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, John Clifford.

Respectfully submitted,

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lebanon, to No. 2, September Sessions, 1912, Daniel M. Yake, June 24, 1912, entered a plea of guilty on an indictment charging assault with intent to commit rape. He was then sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than fifteen months and not more than five years.

On May 5, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which we heard and considered at our meeting to-day. We find that the facts in relation to the case fully justify the application. It is our opinion that its allowance is proper, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Daniel M. Yake.

Yake is forty-five years old, an unmarried man, and by trade a quarry blacksmith. He lived with and supported his mother. He was born and raised in the neighborhood of South Annville, Lebanon County, where he lived practically all his life. He had never before been accused with the commission of crime. About the only thing that could be said to his detriment was that he occasionally got on sprees of a week's duration; and his present trouble is chargeable to this bad habit. While in a drunken condition he one day went into a barn somewhere in his neighborhood and there met a young girl on whom, it is alleged, he made some advances. The defendant absolutely has no recollection of anything that took place, but upon sobering up and being told of the charge he was so stricken with remorse that he said "If I did that I deserve to be punished." It was in this state of mind that he entered the plea of guilty. It was not proved, and it is not alleged, that any rape was accomplished.

The reasons on which this application rests are:

"(1) The crime for which the petitioner pleaded guilty was done at a time when he was under the influence of drink, and had been so almost continually for a week.

(2) That his plea of guilty was not based on any knowledge of what he had done, but only because he was charged with the crime, and, believing that the charge may have been true, was filled with remorse of the act and pleaded guilty to the crime, under the belief that if he was guilty he deserved to be punished.

(3) He has already served nearly three years, more than twice the amount of his minimum sentence."

These reasons appear to us to be stated with fairness and to cover the situation. They have our approval, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Daniel M. Yake.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Chester, at August Term, 1913, John Behun, May 26, 1913, waiving the finding of a bill by the Grand Jury, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with burglary, and he was on that day sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of not more than ten years and not less than two years.

On May 5, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. This application was heard in course at our meeting to-day. The record presents such a state of facts as warrants the allowance of the application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon issue to the said John Behun.

Behun is a young foreigner; his age is not stated in the application; he is not married, and is an ordinary laborer and in poor circumstances financially. He was charged with entering a tailor shop in the Borough of Phoenixville and stealing several suits of clothes. On his arrest he told where the stolen goods were to be found, and the same were recovered.

The reasons for clemency laid in the application are:

"(1) The petitioner has served the full minimum sentence this month, and being a foreigner has difficulty in procuring his release on parole.

(2) The petitioner pleaded guilty and restored all the goods to the owner from whom they were taken by another in his presence.

(3) Under the circumstances in this case he has suffered all the punishment justice requires in his case."

The District Attorney in his communication regarding this application says: "His minimum sentence will expire in a few days, and I feel that in his case the ends of justice will be fully met at the expiration of his minimum time, and I therefore suggest to your Honorable Board that in my judgment it would be proper to recommend a pardon in this case."

Under the conditions detailed we recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, John Behun.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Monroe, to No. ,September Sessions, 1913, Albert Nipert was, September 23, 1913, convicted on an indictment charging burglary and larceny, and on that day was sentenced to pay a fine of twenty-five dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than three years and not more than five years.

On May 6, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed which regularly came before us for hearing at our meeting to-day. We have examined the record and considered the facts presented thereby and on the argument of counsel, and we are of the opinion that the application should be allowed. We therefore recommend that a pardon issue to the applicant, Albert Nipert.

Nipert is forty-seven years old. He is a married man, and the father of three children. He is a carpenter by trade. He was convicted of entering the bar-room of a certain hotel in Monroe County and stealing a jug of whisky, and several pint bottles of whisky, and one dollar and fifty cents in money. The total value of the articles stolen was about fourteen dollars. He was drunk at the time. On his arrest he said that the stolen property had been given to him by an Italian named Frank. This Italian was never arrested. The jury convicted the applicant, and he was sentenced as stated.

The following reasons are assigned in support of the application:

"(1) That the crime for which defendant is now incarcerated is his first offense, and that he was intoxicated at the time of his participation in any part of the offense.

(2) That applicant has served one year and eight months' imprisonment and has been sufficiently punished for the crime of which he was guilty.

(3) That the applicant has been a model prisoner, and will live a law-abiding life in the future."

These reasons, in our judgment support the application, and in the absence of any protest or objection we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Robert Nipert.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, William H. Nash, July 14, 1914, entered a plea of guilty on indictment No. 600, June Sessions, 1914, charging the fraudulently making a written instrument and uttering and publishing the same, and a similar plea on indictment No. 601, June Sessions, 1914, charging false pretenses. On the same day he was sentenced in the aggregate to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not less than six years nor more than eight years.

On November 30, 1914, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which was heard at the December meeting of the Board, and then held under advisement until January 5, 1915, when the application was refused. At our last meeting a petition for rehearing of the application was allowed, and the matter came before us to-day for further consideration. In view of all the circumstances of the case, as we have gleaned them from an examination of the record before us, we now recommend that the application be favored and that a pardon be granted the applicant, William H. Nash.

Nash, whose real name it appears is Gilbert A. Sargent, is thirty-seven years old. He is a native and resident of the State of Massachusetts. He is married, and his wife and young daughter are living in the City of Medford, that state. By occupation he is a bond and investment broker. This application for clemency is made by his wife, who is in destitute circumstances financially, and is an invalid. The illegal act of the defendant was the issuing of a fraudulent or fictitious certified check of a large amount for the payment of certain bonds purchased from a firm of brokers in Philadelphia. The irregularity was discovered in time and the securities were recovered by the vendors without loss, and they caused the arrest of Nash.

The formal grounds on which the application for pardon is based are substantially: (1) That the sentence was excessive; (2) that defendant has been sufficiently punished for his crime; (3) the urgent need of his support and protection for his family; (4) that upon his release, if pardoned, he will immediately leave the State of Pennsylvania and take up his residence elsewhere.

There is on file with our record a testimonial signed by a number of citizens of Medford, who occupy official positions in that city, namely, the Mayor and members of the Board of Aldermen, etc., certifying the acquaintance of the signers with the defendant for a number of years, and avering that "He has always born an excellent reputation in the community, has never before been convicted of any crime, and has always been a good husband and father, and we feel confident that if released he will be able to take a useful position in this community and will lead an honest and upright life."

From our examination into the merits of this application, so far as we can learn from the record, we believe this to be a case entitled to Executive clemency, in that the greatest sufferers are the family of the defendant, that the defendant has been taught a wholesome lesson, and that the law has been vindicated as against the dishonest dealings of the defendant; and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the said applicant, William H. Nash.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Bradford, to No. 1, May Term, 1914, Junia Tronsue, together with George Bennett, alias George Bowers, was indicted on the charge of (1) breaking and entering a dwelling house with intent to commit a felony; (2) larceny; (3) aggravated assault and battery. The defendants waived the finding of bill by the Grand Jury and entered pleas of guilty, April 20, 1914, the plea of the defendant, Junia Tronsue, being to the first and second counts. May 9, 1914, defendant Junia Tronsue was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than two years and not more than three years. Bennett was sentenced for from nine to ten years.

On March 2, 1915, an application for the pardon of Junia Tronsue was duly filed, which was heard at our meeting in March, and then held under advisement. We have considered the matter in all its details, and are now of the opinion that the application may be properly favored, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Junia Tronsue.

Applicant is twenty-seven years old; she is the wife of Clark Tronsue, a respected citizen of West Pittston, Luzerne County, and is the mother of one child. Her co-defendant is about twenty-three years old. He boarded with the Tronsue family. He and Mrs. Tronsue became infatuated one with the other and arranged to elope. Bennett had been raised by a man named Leirn and his wife, people of respectability and of some substance. Bennett knew that they usually had money in their house. They lived in Bradford County, at some distance from West Pittston. It was arranged between Bennett and Mrs. Tronsue that Bennett go to the house of the Leirns and rob them of their money. Bennett undertook to do this, and in the perpetration of the robbery he beat up the old people almost to the point of death. It was a horrible deed, and it aroused the community. A large reward was offered for the detection and apprehension of the culprit. Guilt was finally traced to Bennett, who was arrested, and Mrs. Tronsue was then accused of guilty knowledge. Confessions were made by the accused, and the convictions and sentences followed.

There seems to be no doubt as to the guilt of Bennett in the actual commission of the assault. This applicant clearly was accessory before the fact—certainly in relation to the charge of larceny. She denied knowledge of or consent to the feloneous assault.

The grounds on which the application for pardon of Mrs. Tronsue is based are:

"That the sentence is heavy in view of the fact that your petitioner was an accessory before the fact and therefore convicted as principal.

That your petitioner is in poor health.

That the daughter of your petitioner needs her mother's care.

That the Honorable William Maxwell recommends this case as one deserving clemency.

Good behavior."

These reasons appear to be sustained by the record before us. Judge Maxwell closes his letter to us in the following words:

"We understand that Mrs. Tronsue has never been charged with crime prior to this case. That she has been a model prisoner, and it has been represented to us that she is suffering a great deal, both in mind and a general nervous break-down, and it is represented that to keep her longer in confinement in the Penitentiary will permanently injure her health and may cause her premature death.

In view of her never having been charged with crime before, and of her physical condition as represented to us, and of the poor health and feeble condition of her aged mother, and the fact that she has fully repented of the wrong that she committed, we think the ends of justice have been fully attained in her case, and we therefore make no opposition whatever to her pardon at this time."

The applicant has been in the Penitentiary for more than a year, and it seems to us, in view of the letter of the Trial Judge, the reasons advanced for pardon may be accepted as sufficient, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Junia Tronsue.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Chester, at January Sessions, 1912, Robert Barton, October 23, 1911, waiving the finding of a Bill of Indictment by the Grand Jury, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging the offense of sodomy. On that day he was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not more than ten years and not less than five years.

On May 5, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which came before us for attention at our meeting to-day. We have considered the facts in relation to the case as brought to our notice by the record and the statements of counsel, and we are of the opinion that the clemency asked should be awarded, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Robert Barton.

Barton is thirty-one years old. He was married and had several children. At the time of his arrest he was living with his wife and family, but it appears that a divorce has since been brought about. He was in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad as signal repairman. He lived at Malvern, but worked in the shops at Paoli.

It was his custom to walk out with his family during the evening as a matter of recreation and exercise. Occasionally his wife did not accompany him. On one of these walks, in the early part of October, 1911, he met several boys whom he knew, as they lived in the vicinity, whose ages were about fifteen or eighteen years. During the course of their walk these boys asked him to get them something to drink, which he at first declined to do, but subsequently, when they reached Green Tree, he went into the hotel there and bought a bottle of Port wine which he gave to the boys. These boys, in company with some other boys, later on in the evening drank all the wine. A few days afterwards Barton was arrested on the charge of furnishing liquor to minors. He was taken before a Justice of the Peace, and then was told of the charge of sodomy which the boys had lodged against him. He was held for Court on this charge. He was induced, as he alleges, by certain friends to enter the plea of guilty to the accusation in order to save the publicity of a trial and the disgracing of his family, and with the representation that the sentence would be light. This representation, of course, was not official, and perhaps was misleading. He was not represented by counsel.

The grounds upon which this application is based are:

That he plead guilty to a crime he never committed; that his health has never been good during the period of his incarceration, and has steadily become worse; that he is a skilled mechanic, and is qualified to lead a useful life if given his liberty, and be a law-abiding citizen, if given the opportunity.

There are on file letters and petitions from a number of responsible people living in the neighborhood of Malvern, and from others who have known him, all of which state that he had been of good reputation and had been an industrious and capable worker.

From the examination we have made into this case we are impressed with the belief that the defendant has been sufficiently punished by the nearly four years' imprisonment, and that no additional good will be accomplished by prolonging his imprisonment. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Robert Barton.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 213, September Sessions, 1912, Tony Duda, together with Stanley Mazeski and George Gillion, was convicted on an indictment for aggravated assault and battery. On January 18, 1913, Duda was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than five years and not more than seven years. Mazeski was sentenced to a fine of $500, and imprisonment in the Penitentiary of from two to seven years. Gillion was sentenced to a fine of $100, and imprisonment in the County Prison for nine months.

On June 3, 1915, an application for the pardon of Duda was duly filed. We heard the case at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of the facts involved we favor the application, and therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Tony Duda.

Duda is about twenty-four years old. He is a foreigner, and is a miner by occupation. He is not married. One night in August, 1912, a party of these foreigners, consisting of the defendants above named, and a brother of the applicant, and one, Mike Kahinski, all friends and neighbors living in the borough of Wyoming, were out together on a spree. On their way home a fight was started among them. During the melee Kahinski was pretty well used up; shortly afterward he instituted this prosecution against the others in the party. So far as we can gather from our examination all these defendants were about equally guilty, and all appear to have been returned by the jury as guilty as indicted. However, there was a discrimination in the sentences. They were tried in the absence of counsel whom they had employed to defend them. Gillion was released on parole within six months after the conviction. Mazeski has also been released on parole by reason of the expiration of his minimum term; thus leaving Duda alone of the three in prison with nearly three years of his minimum term to serve. It does not appear fair, so far as our examination shows, that this one defendant of the three should be so much more severely punished than the others. The District Attorney, in writing to us with regard to this application, says:

In the above entitled case the defendant, while somewhat under the influence of liquor, committed the offense of felonious wounding and the weapons used were stones and clubs. The Court in imposing a severe sentence in this case had in mind the deterring effect this sentence would have on others who were accused of the commission of like offenses. Inasmuch as the other participants in the affair are now all at liberty I am not constrained to oppose the application for a pardon.

Under the conditions set forth we believe that this application is entitled to allowance, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Tony Duda.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to Nos. 683, 684 and 685, February Sessions, Jack Ashton, March 5, 1915, was convicted on three separate indictments charging larceny, aggravated assault and battery, and pandering, respectively, and on the same day was sentenced in the aggregate to pay a fine of $1, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not less than eight years and not more than ten years.

On November 4, 1914, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which, after hearing in regular course, was refused by the Board. At our recent meeting in May, on petition duly presented, a re-hearing of the application for pardon was allowed; so that the case again came before the Board at our meeting to-day. We have considered the merits of this application, and, in the light of all the facts in relation thereto, as supplied by an examination of the record and the statements of counsel, have reached the conclusion that the grounds laid in the application are entitled to our approval. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Jack Ashton.

Ashton is now about forty years old. He is not married. By employment he is a huckster. In the early part of the year 1912 the applicant was living with a certain woman in a marital relation, although never legally married to her. This relationship had existed for several years. The woman was variously known as May Ashton and by at least three other names. It is not denied that she was a prostitute and street-walker. One night in February 1912 the police were attracted to the house where these people lived by the screams of a woman. The officers entered the house and arrested Ashton and the woman, who said she was his wife. The woman then told the officers that Ashton had been beating her because she had not given him certain money which she had received on plying her occupation. Both the man and the woman were under the influence of liquor. The defendant was locked up, and was afterwards, as the result of this arrest, indicted on the three charges mentioned, all growing out of this one complaint of the woman. When his case was called in Court his counsel was, for some reason, unable to be present, and the case was heard in the absence of defendant's counsel. The conviction was had mainly on the testimony of the woman, May Ashton.

The grounds on which this application for pardon is based are:

That said Jack Ashton was convicted upon the uncorroborated testimony of a woman, who by her own testimony showed herself to be a low, common, morally irresponsible woman, who had for a long period of time led the life of a prostitute.

That the records of the House of Correction of Philadelphia County show that the said witness has been sentenced to the said House of Correction a number of times for soliciting as a prostitute, both previous to the time said witness testified she met the defendant and also subsequent to the imprisonment of the defendant.

That the sentence of the said Jack Ashton is more severe than was justified by the circumstances of the case and the nature of the offenses.

That since the said Jack Ashton has already undergone an imprisonment of over three years he has already been sufficiently punished.

That the said Jack Ashton was tried in the absence of counsel whom he had retained to defend him in the said case, and as a result thereof he had no opportunity to properly present his defense and was unable to properly cross examine the Commonwealth's witnesses.

Prior to the said conviction the said Jack Ashton had and enjoyed an excellent and irreproachable reputation, and had always been held in high esteem by his neighbors, business associates and fellow men, and has always led an upright, honest and peaceful life.

That since his incarceration in the penitentiary at Philadelphia, his conduct has been exemplary.

That prior to his said conviction the said Jack Ashton was the sole suppport of his aged mother, who since his confinement has been in poverty and without means of support.

That Catharine Ashton, the above mentioned aged mother of the said Jack Ashton, is seventy-six years of age, and has been fatally stricken with cancer of the stomach, and is at the present time slowly dying and has but a short time to live.

The defendant has been in confinement for considerably more than three years. The District Attorney writes to the Board in relation to the application as follows:

The above defendant was convicted by a jury on March 5, 1912, of having received money from earnings of a woman engaged in prostitution. It appeared that he had been living with a woman who was commonly known as May Ashton in or about 613 South Eighth street, and that one night he committed an assault and battery upon her and took from her three dollars. His arrest followed and the indictment for pandering, larceny, and aggravated assault and battery resulted. He was convicted and sentenced on Bill No. 685 for pandering to pay a fine of One Dollar and costs and to undergo an imprisonment of not less than eight years nor more than ten years by Judge Gillan, of the 39th Judicial District, who was specially presiding in Philadelphia.

The case was tried by my Assistant, Joseph P. Rogers, who, in consultation with me, has expressed to me that in his judgment, under the circumstances of the case, the sentence seemed to be a severe one. The circumstances were not such a pandering case or of a white slave character as is contemplated by the act. As a matter of fact it appeared to be the troubles that arose between a drunken man and woman who had been living together for a long period of time rather than the constant receiving of money from a woman engaged in prostitution. Furthermore, Ashton appeared to be a man who had ability to earn a livelihood as a laborer, but who was addicted to drinking excessively.

This expression on the part of the prosecuting officer, it seems to us, appears to be all that need be said in support of the formal reasons, and, guided by the views therein stated, we recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Jack Ashton.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Berks, to No. 34, March Sessions, 1911, Leonardro Bardino was indicted on a charge of statutory rape. On June 13, 1911, on trial, the jury returned a verdict of guilty. June 17, 1911, he was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of eight years.

On June 4, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The case came before us to-day for hearing. From our examination into the details of the case as laid before us we are of the belief that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Leonardro Bardino.

Bardino is twenty-four years old. He is not married. He is a shoemaker by trade. He was charged with having had carnal knowledge of a girl under the age of sixteen. He denied the charge, and the girl herself did not testify on the trial. He appears to have been convicted on the testimony of a third party who claimed to have witnessed the occurrence. He was in jail five months awaiting trial, and has been in the Penitentiary for more than four years.

On this statement of facts it is not unreasonable to conclude that this defendant has been sufficiently punished. The District Attorney of the county writes us that after consultation with the former District Attorney who tried the case, and an examination of the record, and on inquiry among those who heard the case tried, he himself is of the belief that the ends of justice have been met by the imprisonment already served, and it is his opinion that the application may with propriety be allowed.

Guided largely by these views of the prosecuting officers we recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Leonardro Bardino.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Columbia, to No. 7, December Sessions, 1914, A. N. Yost, February 1, 1915, entered a plea of guilty on an indictment laying the charge of embezzlement, and on February 6, 1915, he was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than one year and not more than two years. On June 3, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The matter was heard at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration we are of the belief that the application is properly made, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, A. N. Yost.

Yost is fifty-nine years of age. He is married, and his wife and one child are living and are dependent upon him for support. He had been engaged in active business in the town of Bloomsburg for many years, and for a period of twenty-three years had been secretary of the Industrial Building and Loan Association of that town. The charge against him is the embezzlement or misappropriation of the funds of that association. The details of the matter are briefly set forth in the letter of the District Attorney addressed to us in reply to our usual request, and we incorporate that letter in full herein as it is upon that letter and the letter of the Trial Judge, as well as the numerous other letters of similar import from his neighbors and friends, including an official communication from the association, which letters voice the public sentiment of the community, that we predicate our action.

The letter of the District Attorney is as follows:

The defendant at the time of his arrest, and for twenty years prior thereto, was the secretary of the Industrial Building and Loan Association of Bloomsburg, this county.

During the year 1914 the banking department made an examination of his books and discovered that he was short in his accounts.

It then became and was the duty of the Department, under the provisions of the Banking Laws, to bring the prosecution, notwithstanding the fact that the defendant, Alfred Neven Yost, made immediate restitution of his shortage to the association and resigned the office of secretary.

The Grand Jury returned a true bill at the December Sessions, and the case was continued to February Sessions, at which Court the defendant came and entered his plea of guilty.

After plea, and before sentence, the Industrial Building and Loan Association, through its officers and directors, unanimously requested the Court to suspend sentence in this case, in doing so stated the facts honestly and fairly to the Court. In this request the officer of the Commonwealth joined, but, notwithstanding these facts, the Court took the opposite view and sentenced the defendant as above stated.

I was then of the opinion, and have always been of the same mind, that the request made to the Court should have been heeded for the reason that the ends of justice were fully met, and all parties in interest fully satisfied that no criminal intent was in the mind of the defendant, and that no one was clamoring for the sting of a prison sentence in this case.

Believing that the defendant has been fully punished for his mistakes and carelessness I take pleasure in joining in the recommendation of his pardon.

The Judge who tried the case and imposed the sentence, writes:

Prior to the plea of guilty of embezzlement A. N. Yost, of Bloomsburg, bore an excellent reputation. He has now served a little more than one-third of the minimum sentence. His friends believe he should be pardoned, and I join in the request that he may be pardoned.

I imposed the sentence.

On inquiry at the Banking Department of the Commonwealth we are informed that that department interposes no objection to a favorable reception of the application for pardon.

This being the condition of the record in the case we feel warranted in endorsing the application and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, A. N. Yost.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 114, June Session, 1913, John Petinski, together with Frank Gomb, alias Frank Apolko, was indicted on the charge of felonious wounding and aggravated assault and battery. Petinski was convicted, July 11, 1913, on the second charge, and Apolko was convicted on the first charge. On July 12, 1913, Petinski was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than two years and nine months and not more than three years. Sentence was suspended as to Apolko on this bill, he having been sentenced on another conviction.

On May 31, 1915, an application for the pardon of Petinski was duly filed. At our meeting to-day the matter came before us for determination. We report in favor of the application, and recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, John Petinski.

Petinski is twenty-two years old. He is not married. He was a laborer in the mines. He was under twenty years of age when he was arrested on the present charge. Previous to the time of this arrest he had never been in any criminal trouble. On the night of March 25, 1913, these two defendants were walking from Warrior Run to Nanticoke, on the way to a dance. They met the prosecutor, Peter Miskel by name, whom they knew. Miskel had been drinking. Some words passed between them, and Apolko drew his revolver and fired—first in the air and then towards Miskel. Miskel was struck, and the other two boys then searched his pockets and robbed him of a small amount of money. They were subsequently arrested, and charged and indicted as before stated. The reasons for clemency advanced in the application are:

In view of his youth and of his previous good reputation, this being his first offence, he has been sufficiently punished for his participation in the crime.

Because he is needed at home to help support the family.

Because he was the victim of bad company.

Because Frank Gomb, alias Frank Apolko, who was jointly indicted with the applicant and found guilty on the first count of the indictment, viz., felonious wounding, and whose sentence was suspended, but who was sentenced in 115 June Sessions 1913 to the Penitentiary for highway robbery for a period of not less than seven nor more than ten years, has been pardoned.

The sentence imposed upon Apolko was for an entirely different assault, and was a seven to ten year term. On application duly made to the Board of Pardons several months ago he was pardoned and he is now at liberty.

In reference to this present application the District Attorney writes:

In the above case the defendant with Frank Gomb, alias Frank Apolko, set upon and assaulted with a revolver an inoffensive traveller and robbed him. Inasmuch as Frank Gomb, the more offensive of the two, has been pardoned, I believe that the application should be granted.

There is also on file a letter from the prosecutor and one from the committing magistrate and one from applicant's former employer, in endorsement of the application. The applicant has served two years, less about two weeks, of the two year and nine months minimum term, and in view of the facts as detailed it would seem that the ends of justice have been met. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, John Petinski.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of York, to Nos. 107 and 108, April Sessions, 1912, Eugene Alwine entered pleas of guilty to two indictments charging him with the commission of the crime of sodomy and buggery, and on August 5, 1912, was sentenced in No. 107 to pay a fine of $50, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than three years and not more than six years; and in No. 108 to pay a similar fine, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of not less than one year and not more than six years, to commence after the expiration of sentence in No. 107—thus aggregating a minimum term of four years and a maximum term of twelve years.

On June 2, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which came on for hearing at our meeting to-day. We have looked into the merits of the application, and we find that the case is deserving of favor. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Eugene Alwine.

Alwine is nearly thirty-nine years of age. He is not married. By trade he is a tailor. On the calling of his cases in Court he voluntarily waived the finding of bills by the Grand Jury, and entered the pleas of guilty and was sentenced, as stated.

The grounds on which the application for pardon rests are, substantially, That the sentence was excessive; that reformation has been accomplished, and that his former employer stands ready to take him back at work, whereby he will be able to assist in the support of his aged parents whom he had formerly helped.

The prisoner has been in confinement for nearly three years. That the ends of justice have been met by this punishment would appear from the tenor of the letter of the District Attorney, who writes us as follows:

"I was not District Attorney at the time Eugene Alwine plead guilty to sodomy and buggery. This defendant had the reputation of following this practice for some time before he was charged with it in Court. I want to say, however, that he always was a hard worker, supported himself in a proper way, and never gave the authorities any trouble in any other way.

I spoke to Mr. Sherwood, who was District Attorney at the time the case was in Court, and he told me that personally, if he was the District Attorney of the county, he would not make any objection to this man's pardon. I have therefore nothing further to say about this defendant, not being acquainted with the facts of the case."

Under the conditions of the case, as we view them, we feel warranted in favoring the prayer of the petitioner, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Eugene Alwine.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Clearfield, to No. 77, September Sessions, 1914, Anthony Di Fulio entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging the offense of receiving stolen goods, and thereupon, September 28, 1914, was sentenced to pay a fine of $250, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for from eighteen months to two and one-half years.

On June 2, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed and the same came before us at our meeting to-day for hearing. We have given the case consideration, and we believe that the applicant is deserving of clemency. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the said applicant, Anthony Di Fulio.

Di Fulio is forty-five years old. He is married, and is the father of five children, all of whom, with his wife, are dependent upon him. He was engaged in the grocery business in the borough of DuBois. In June of last year it was discovered that he had purchased a quantity of goods that had been stolen. When he bought these goods, the defendant alleges, he did not know they had been stolen but believed that the seller was the bona fide owner of them. It appeared beyond quesion that the goods had been stolen, and Di Fulio, thinking that he was technically guilty, entered his plea.

The reasons laid in the application are, that the applicant had always been a peaceable and useful citizen in his community; that he acquired the stolen goods in question without knowledge of the fact that they were stolen property; that the fine and costs imposed have been paid; that the applicant has been sufficiently punished; that his family are in destitute circumstances by reason of his imprisonment.

From recent investigations made by the District Attorney and by the Chief of Police of Du Bois these officials are convinced that the attitude of the Commonwealth at the time of the trial in insisting on a substantial sentence was not warranted, and they therefore join in recommending that this application for pardon be allowed. The District Attorney says among other things:

I am inclined to believe that the defendant has been sufficiently punished, and that is a proper case for clemency.

Before and during the trial the Commonwealth believed that the defendant was conducting a fence, or place for receiving goods stolen by burglars. While the evidence was not very strong on this point, it influenced the prosecution and the Court very much in imposing the sentence. My investigation has satisfied me while he was guilty of receiving the particular stolen goods charged in the indictment, he is not guilty of the charge, or rather the belief, that he was conducting a fence, which induced the Commonwealth to press for a substantial sentence.

From my investigation I am satisfied that, taking into consideration the circumstances of his family and the fact that he entered a plea of guilty and has paid a fine of $250 and costs, and served about nine months in the Penitentiary, justifies the Commonwealth in making no opposition to his application for a pardon, and recommend that this is a proper case for the exercise of clemency.

Inasmuch as the application is supported by the Commonwealth's officers to the extent mentioned it is not more than right that we accept their views, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Anthony Di Fulio.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Allegheny, to No. 24, March Term, 1913, S. H. Anderson was, May 6, 1913, convicted on an indictment laying the charge of abortion, and on 7th day of May, 1913, was sentenced to pay a fine of $50, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary of not less than four years nor more than five years.

On February 4, 1914, an application for his pardon was duly filed which, after hearing, was refused, March 18, 1914. At our recent May meeting a petition for re-hearing was allowed, and this brought the case before us to-day for hearing de novo. In view of the showing now made in relation to the case we are disposed to favor the application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, S. H. Anderson.

The applicant is fifty years old. He is a widower. By profession he is a physician, and is said to have considerable ability as such. He was indicted on the charge of performing an abortion on the person of Mrs. Violet M. Davison, in the City of Pittsburgh, on or about January 1, 1913. Mrs. Davison, in company of her husband, who arranged the meeting, called on Dr. Anderson at his office that day and at their request the Doctor treated Mrs. Davison then, and afterwards visited her several times at her home for further treatment and attention. Following this treatment, and as the result thereof, as alleged by the Commonwealth, Mrs. Davison died in the Wilkinsburg Hospital, January 10, 1913. As an element in the defense of the defendant it is claimed that there had been some prior attempt on the part of the woman and her husband to bring about an abortion themselves.

During the progress of the trial in Court, and before its completion, counsel for the defendant was seized with a fit of sickness and fell over in convulsions. He was removed from the court room, but during the recess of Court regained consciousness and appeared at the counsel table, although, as is averred, not in proper mental or physical condition properly to protect the interests of his client. The evidence submitted by the Commonwealth revealed the fact that Mrs. Davison was the mother of two children, and at the birth of each of them she became insane, and was confined in a hospital for the insane for a period of twelve or thirteen weeks; that both she and her husband had been informed by their family physician that another encouchment was sure to be attended with similar results, and that her death in such event might not be unexpected. Davison, the husband, admitted on the stand that he had been administering drugs to his wife previous to their call upon Dr. Anderson. Anderson was not their family physician, and was a stranger to them until the day they called at his office.

The reasons put forward in mitigation of the sentence of the Court are, in substance, That defendant's interests suffered by reason of the sudden illness of his counsel, as mentioned; that the conviction was secured mainly on the testimony of the husband who was a participant in the crime; that the prisoner has been sufficiently punished, and that the ends of justice have been reached by the more than two years' imprisonment.

On careful consideration of all the facts as explained to us at the hearing and gathered from the record, we feel that the prerogative lodged with the Executive of the Commonwealth may justly be invoked in aid of this petitioner, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, S. H. Anderson.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Westmoreland, to No. 6, February Term, 1915, Ernest Reaping was, February 11, 1915, on an indictment charging murder, returned as guilty of murder in the first degree; and on the 24th day of May, 1915 was sentenced to be electrocuted.

On August 26, 1915, an application for the commutation of death sentence to that of imprisonment for life was duly filed, and the application was heard at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of the application we find it entitled to be favored, and we therefore recommend that the sentence of death imposed on the said applicant, Ernest Reaping, be commuted to that of imprisonment for life.

Reaping is a young man between 23 and 24 years of age. By occupation he was a laborer, and seems to have been living at home with his father's family. While it is represented to us that the parents and the other members of his immediate family are respected and respectable people this applicant himself had more or less of a criminal record for several years back. Bad company and dissipated habits were responsible for his troubles.

On the night of November 12, 1914, Reaping, in company with four other young men of his own type, while engaged in fixing a disabled automobile along side of a certain road near Latrobe, stopped a man by the name of Wedge who was about to pass them driving his wagon. John Showalter, the leader of the party, said to the boys "let's get some easy money," or words to that effect. He asked to get on the wagon to be hauled to town. While Wedge was changing his position on the wagon to make room for Showalter Reaping came up and said "watch me scare him." As applicant alleges it was his intention to shoot over Wedge's head. He fired his revolver, but in the darkness the second shot took effect in Wedge's head and killed him. Reaping and his companions were arrested and charged with murder. The theory of the Commonwealth on the trial was that there was an attempt at robbery, and therefore pressed for a conviction in the first degree. Reaping was convicted as stated. Showalter and the others were, on separate trials, convicted of murder in the second degree.

The reasons set forth in this application for clemency are:

Applicant had no purpose to take the deceased's life nor even to do him bodily harm.

The proof of the degree of crime could not have arisen above second degree murder, except for the evidence furnished by the petitioner, which evidence tended to bring the offense technically within the statutory description of murder in the first degree.

All of the petitioner's co-defendants were subsequently convicted by two different juries of murder in the second degree.

The petitioner had been drinking at the time of the crime, and was suffering from long continued use of intoxicating liquors, resulting in weakened mind and body.

A great majority of the persons where the crime was committed believe the death penalty is too severe a punishment under all the facts in the case.

The petitioner is truly repentant on account of his offense, and more particularly for his unintentional taking of the life of Isaiah Wedge, and will uncomplainingly serve the rest of his life to expiate and atone for the great wrong.

On the testimony and the law the defendant was properly convicted of murder in the first degree as the act was committed in an attempt to commit a felony; but it is the opinion of those qualified to speak on the subject that there was no intention to take life, and therefore the infliction of the death penalty is too rigorous a punishment. Among the many letters on file with the record in expression of this view we quote those of the Trial Judge and of the District Attorney as having special weight with us in our reaching a conclusion on the merits of the application. We give the letters in full.

Judge McConnell writes under date of August 21, 1915:

"I presided at the trial of Ernest Reaping, who has recently been tried, convicted and sentenced to death for the crime of murder in the first degree, and, with reference to that case, now brought before your Honorable Board for consideration, I wish to say this:

Looked at solely from a legal standpoint the result of the trial could not legally or logically well have been determined otherwise, in view of the law and the evidence. Nevertheless, I feel that the extreme penalty prescribed by law is more rigorous than the demands of essential justice require for the proper protection of society, and that, therefore, it is a case for the exercise of a power bestowed on your Board but which this Court cannot exercise.

I therefore desire to join in the application to commute the penalty prescribed by law to life imprisonment. Although from early boyhood this young man had been a "ne'er do well" and restive under proper parental restraint and the admonition of his church, yet his course in wrongdoing has been dictated more by evil companions and the excessive use of liquor than by any inherent criminal disposition of his own. He comes from a family that does not produce criminals, and that is of the highest respectability in the community. Without further comment, I recommend this case as one worthy of your careful consideration."

C. Ward Eicher, the District Attorney, writes under date of August 24, as follows:

"In the case of the Commonwealth vs. Ernest Reaping, No. 6, February Term 1915, Court of Oyer and Terminer of Westmoreland County, Pa., I desire to say that the verdict of murder of the first degree was entirely proper under the facts and the law in the case. It was murder committed in the perpetration of, or attempt to perpetrate, a robbery, the fatal shot being fired by Reaping. There is no evidence in the case that there was an intention to kill, or to do great bodily harm. I rather believe it was an act intended to frighten Wedge. While we believe that we did our duty in insisting on a first degree verdict, yet I think it is a proper case for your Board to exercise the function for which it was created.

The real leader of the quartette, Showalter, was found guilty of murder of the second degree in a trial subsequent to the trial of Reaping. This, of course, was a miscarriage of justice, and it does seem hard to have Reaping electrocuted and Showalter under a sentence of second degree murder go to the Penitentiary.

I believe that the ends of justice will be fully met by commuting the sentence of Reaping from death to that of life imprisonment, and, therefore, join the trial Judge, as well as others, in the prayer of the petitioner."

Guided by the expression of views in these letters, and believing that this is a case wherein the clemency asked is reasonably invoked, we recommend that an Executive order issue commuting the sentence of death imposed upon the applicant, Ernest Reaping, to that of imprisonment for life in the penitentiary.

Harrisburg, September 17, 1915.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Dauphin, to No. 46, January Sessions, 1914, Mendel Gross, together with Florence Wilson, was indicted on the charge of pandering, and to No. 47, January Sessions, 1914, the said Florence Wilson was indicted on the charge of keeping a bawdy house. Verdicts of guilty were rendered in each case. No. 27 sentence was suspended, and on No. 46 each defendant was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of from three years to five years from January 15, 1914.

On October 7, 1914, an application for the pardon of Florence Wilson was duly filed. Upon hearing at the October Board this application was refused. A petition for a rehearing of the application was allowed at our recent June meeting, and the case was heard again at our meeting today. We now report in favor of the application, and recommend that a pardon be granted this applicant, Florence Wilson.

The applicant, Florence Wilson, is an unmarried woman of the age of thirty-one. She had been a worker for a good many years in a shoe factory. Her last place of employment was at Newark, N. J., from which place she came to Harrisburg in the summer of 1913. Early in that summer she met the above named co-defendant, Gross, of whose real character she was ignorant, and it was at his suggestion and solicitation that she came to Harrisburg. It was made to appear at the trial that Gross was a man of bad criminal record. It was he who brought the two girls concerned in the case to the house of the applicant. Applicant denies knowledge of his purpose, and of connivance in its execution. There is on file with the record an affidavit of one of the two girls, wherein she states as follows:

"I desire to say of my own free will and accord, without any coercion or solicitation, that so far as I was able to observe there was no collusion or understanding between the two defendants that I or my girl companion were to be solicited for improper purposes. We were at the home of Florence Wilson for about three days, and during that time there were absolutely no unlawful acts committed and no solicitation upon the part of Miss Wilson to commit such acts; and further, during the time that we were there there was no liquor sold to any person or persons whatever. There was some beer in the house, however, but it was only for the consumption of those of us who were in the house.

This statement is made for the purpose of seeing that justice is done to Miss Wilson who I believe was not guilty of the charge made against her."

The substantial reason advanced for clemency for the applicant is the fact that she received a sentence equally severe with that of Gross, who in reality was the chief and perhaps the only offender; and that having served three months in the county prison and more than twenty months in the penitentiary under the sentence she has been sufficiently punished, and from the further fact that prior to her coming to Harrisburg her life had been free from suspicion.

For these reasons we deem her application timely, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the said applicant, Florence Wilson.

Sir:—At the regular meeting of the Board of Pardons held to-day there was submitted for our consideration, and approval or rejection, a communication from the Board of Inspectors of the Western Penitentiary, recommending that Walter Merrell, who was sentenced to that institution, May 15, 1911, on conviction in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Jefferson on charge of breaking and entering, to imprisonment of from one year and six months to ten years, and paroled November 15, 1915, be pardoned and finally discharged.

The Inspectors assign the statutory reasons for their recommendation and set forth the grounds on which said reasons are based.

It appearing that all the rules of the Board of Inspectors of the Penitentiary, and the rules of the Board of Pardons, have been observed in the premises, and in endorsement of the Report of the said Inspectors, we also recommend that an Executive Order issue, granting to the said Walter Merrell his final discharge and pardon.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Allegheny, to No. 132, June Sessions, 1914, Frank Tarbeaux was convicted on an indictment charging the crime of conspiracy, and on the same day, January 28, 1915, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary of not less than one years and eleven months and not more than two years.

On September 4, 1915, an application for his pardon was filed, and the case came on for hearing at our meeting today. Upon consideration of the facts in the case as laid before us we are of the opinion that the application should be favored and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Frank Tarbeaux.

Tarbeaux is sixty-seven years of age, he is married, and his wife is living and is now in a very precarious state of health, which condition has been brought on largely through the troubles in which her husband became involved. The charge against this applicant grew out of a horse race transaction, and is somewhere spoken of as a "wire-tapping" scheme. This operation was carried on partly in the state of New York, and partly in the County of Allegheny, this state. Indictments are pending against this applicant and his co-conspirators in New York, and indictments are also pending against the other conspirators in this state. It seems that this applicant is the only one that has been tried in this Commonwealth. So far as he is concerned he has made complete restitution to the party defrauded, having come into an inheritance which enabled him to do this, and he has furnished to the District Attorney of Allegheny County all information in his possession relating to his co-defendants, and is assisting in every way in his power to aid the Commonwealth in securing the conviction of these co-defendants. He was in prison more than three months prior to his trial and has been in the Penitentiary since his conviction more than eight months, making a period of imprisonment of about one year. It is the opinion of the prosecutor and of the District Attorney that he has been sufficiently punished.

In view of all the circumstances narrated to us we are inclined to agree with the opinion of these persons, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant Frank Tarbeaux.

Sir:—In the Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Berks, to No. 35, March Sessions, 1915, Jacob Rosenberg, March 16, 1915, was returned guilty on an indictment charging the crime of receiving stolen goods, and on April 5, 1915, was sentenced to pay a fine of $10, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the county prison for a period of nine months.

On September 2, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. We heard the case at our meeting to-day. On consideration of the facts as detained to us we are inclined to favor the application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Jacob Rosenberg.

The applicant is thirty-two years of age. He is married. At the time of his arrest he was in the business of gathering junk, etc., but up to within a short time before that had been a farm laborer. He was charged with buying a lot of brass fittings that had been stolen from the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad.

The reasons stated in the application for clemency are:

"That the said Jacob Rosenberg previously had never been in trouble of any sort before the law.
That the sentence imposed is excessive and the crime has been expiated and the brass restored.
That the said Rosenberg is illiterate, being unable either to read or write, and ignorant in the junk business in which he had been engaged but a few months.
That the said Rosenberg had been married only four weeks before his arrest, and is an expectant father.
That, although the jury found him guilty, he insists he did not know the Italians who sold him the brass and did not know that it was stolen, but was informed by them that they had picked it from a dump.
That the said Rosenberg paid seven cents for the brass when the selling price was between seven and one-half and eight cents per pound.
That the petition to Your Honorable Board is signed by many of the most prominent and influential citizens of Reading.
That the said Rosenberg has been ill practically all the time since his imprisonment, and his continued imprisonment will permanently impair his health, if not endanger his life."

These reasons are substantiated by affidavits and testimonials filed with the record, and as the defendant has served considerably more than one-half of the sentence imposed we feel that clemency may be with safety shown him, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the said applicant, Jacob Rosenberg.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Chester, to No. ——, August Term, 1909, George Perkins was, August 30, 1909, convicted on an indictment charging statutory rape, and on August 31 was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary from three years and nine months to fifteen years.

On August 31, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. We gave the case a hearing at our meeting to-day, and upon consideration of the facts stated and appearing of record we are prepared to recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, George Perkins.

Perkins is thirty-nine years old. He is a widower, without children. By occupation he is a laborer. He was never charged with any criminal offence prior to this present accusation. His claim is that he was not in reality guilty of the charge, although convicted by a jury, but that another colored man who about the time of the trial left for parts unknown and has not been apprehended was the guilty person. This applicant has been in the Penitentiary under this sentence for more than six years, whereas his minimum term was three years and nine months.

The formal reasons made in the application are:

"1. That he was too poor to properly prepare his defence at the time of his trial and suffered injustice thereby.
2. That he has suffered more punishment than justice requires under the circumstances of this case."

The letter of the District Attorney to us sustains the application in that he says: "I believe that this man has suffered sufficient punishment for his crime, and I respectfully recommend that favorable consideration be given to his petition."

For the reasons mentioned therefore we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, George Perkins.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of York, to No. 2, April Sessions, 1913, George Robinson, April 21, 1913, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging larceny and receiving stolen goods, and on the same day was sentenced to pay a fine of $50, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of from two years to three years.

On August 25, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the case was taken up at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of the facts involved we are of the belief that the application is well grounded, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, George Robinson.

Robinson is about fifty years of age. He is not married. By trade he is a barber. His conviction was based on the stealing of a pair of shoes from a restaurant where he had been given permission to sleep. The original value of the shoes was about three dollars. He has served about five months more than the minimum imprisonment. Inasmuch as he had previously served time it is likely that the Inspectors of the Penitentiary will not recommend his parole prior to the completion of the full term.

The reasons assigned in this application for pardon are in substance that the sentence was too severe originally, and that the prisoner has met the demands of justice by the time served, when the value of the article stolen is taken into account. The District Attorney of the county now in office, although he did not try the case, is of the opinion that the man has been punished sufficiently in this proceeding. The prosecutor also joins in the application for pardon for the same reason. If the applicant is released there is an opportunity for him to start up in the business of barbering in the City of York.

Under these conditions it seems to us that it is reasonable to accede to this application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, George Robinson.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Beaver, to No. 33, June Sessions, 1915, Fuller Wilson, June 16, 1915, entered a plea of nolo contendere to an indictment laying the crime of larceny and receiving, and thereupon was sentenced to pay a fine of $1, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary of from one year to three years.

On August 24, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the matter came regularly before us to-day. On reviewing the record and statements made to us we favor the application, and recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Fuller Wilson.

Wilson is twenty-nine years old. He is married, and his wife and two children are living. He is by occupation a teamster. His reputation has always been good, and he was held in high esteem by his employer and by his acquaintances in general. His present lapse occurred while in bad company and while under the influence of liquor, and it has been a matter of great surprise to his friends. His former employer writes to us as follows:

"Mr. Fuller Wilson has been employed by me for six years. I found him at all times competent, honest and reliable. I thoroughly believe that if it had not been for him meeting with two evil companions in a moment of weakness he would not have committed this offence. I feel reasonably sure that he has learned a lesson that he will not forget. He always provided well for his wife and two children. His wife is in such a condition at the present time that she needs the assistance and help of him at once. If you can see your way clear to grant Fuller Wilson a pardon I will give him his old position as soon as he returns to Rochester. As far as I can learn he and his wife have the sympathy of the entire community and I feel reasonably sure if you pardon him it will meet with the approval of all the home folks.

Very truly yours,
C. W. McDONALD."

The District Attorney of Beaver County writes to counsel as follows:

"At the request of C. W. McDonald, of Rochester, I am writing you in behalf of Fuller Wilson, of Rochester, Pa. The facts and circumstances surrounding the case are these. Wilson and two companies entered a restaurant in Conway and stole about $40. One of the men covered the waiter with a revolver during the robbery. Before the trial Wilson voluntarily informed us of the facts and materially assisted us in the prosecution of the case. Heretofore he has borne an excellent reputation, and his trouble in this instance was caused by drink and evil companions. At the time of sentence I joined with his attorney and requested the court to make his sentence as light as possible. I believe that he is a victim of circumstances, and I am sure that there will be no miscarriage of justice should he be released on parole at this time. I am sure that the Court feels much the same way. Anything that you may be able to do for Mr. Wilson will be appreciated by all concerned. Mr. McDonald was the employer of Wilson and speaks highly of him, and I know that he is interested in him from a purely unselfish motive and simply desires to assist an unfortunate man."

Under these conditions we feel satisfied that it is for the best interest of all concerned that this applicant be relieved from further penalty under the sentence, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the said applicant, Fuller Wilson.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions in the County of Lehigh, to No. 86, September Sessions, 1912, William Leibensperger, September 14, 1912, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging the crime of burglary, and on the same day was sentenced to pay a fine of $25, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from five to ten years.

On June 1, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which application came before us to-day for attention. We have considered the matter and are of the opinion that the application is entitled to our favorable report; we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, William Liebensperger.

Leibensperger is thirty-nine years of age. He is not married. He is an iron worker by trade. He was charged with stealing of several pigs of tin, and the offence was laid in the indictment as burglary. He was drunk when he committed the deed, and the property was all recovered by the owner. The defendant claims that his understanding of the charge against him was that of larceny, and it was to the charge of larceny that he intended to plead guilty; the plea was entered on the representation of some officer or court attache that his sentence would not be heavy if he entered the plea. The severity of the sentence, it is fair to presume, arises from the fact that the defendant had a criminal record, having been in court before. He has been in the Penitentiary for more than three years under this present sentence. His father is an aged man who is unable to work, and it was brought to our attention that this son was his only support. The young man is reported to be a good worker when he abtains from drink. His conduct in prison has been good. It is under the hope and expectation that on his release he will keep sober and take proper care of his father that we are constrained to favor clemency in his case. Upon the facts appearing of record and the showing made at the hearing we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, William Liebensperger.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Delaware, to No. 84, September Sessions, 1912, James Lobb, alias James Robb, Jr., was, September 24, 1912, convicted by a jury on an indictment laying the charge of breaking and entering, larceny, and receiving stolen goods; and on the same day was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of from five years to eight years.

An application for his pardon was duly filed July 28, 1915, and a hearing of the same was given at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of the matter in the light of the facts as shown by the record and the statements of counsel we are of the opinion that the clemency asked should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, James Lobb alias James Robb, Jr.

This applicant is forty-four years old. He is a divorced man, and the father of one child who is living with the mother. He is a textile worker by occupation. He stole a horse, wagon, harness and some poultry. All the stolen property was recovered with the exception of the poultry. He has been in prison for more than three years.

The reasons laid in the application for clemency are:

"The defendant has been a model prisoner, and will in the future be a law-abiding citizen.
The ends of justice have been met by his having served a three years imprisonment.
The crime of which defendant was really guilty was that of larceny, the maximum punishment for which is three years.
The crime was committed while defendant was intoxicated; he has reformed, and will in the future abstain from all intoxicants, and is fully penitent for the crime he committed."

This application is endorced by a large number of the applicant's acquaintances who certify that it is their belief that he has been sufficiently punished, and that he will be a good citizen hereafter if released. There is no opposition on the part of the District Attorney or of the prosecutor.

In view of all the circumstances of the case we feel that a proper showing has been made to justify our favoring the application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the said applicant, James Lobb alias James Robb, Jr.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Westmoreland, to No. 7, August Term, 1913, Steve Lagnay, on an indictment charging murder, was, September 5, 1913, returned by the jury as guilty of manslaughter, and on November 8, 1913, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for from three years and nine months to eight years.

On September 1, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which came on for hearing at our meeting today. On careful consideration of the matters brought to our attention we favor this application, and we recommend that pardon be granted the applicant, Steve Lagnay.

This applicant is about forty-seven years of age. He is married, and his wife is living; there is a large family of children. He is a miner by occupation. The victim of the homicide was the husband of his daughter, by name Joe Karaffa, and the crime was perpetrated under circumstances which strongly point to the act as one of self-defence. Karaffa had made a number of assaults upon his wife. On the day of this fatal occurrence, August 6, 1913, he violently assaulted his wife at the home of the father, this applicant. All remonstrances on the part of the father were futile, and Karaffa, in his rage and with threats to kill his father-in-law and his own wife, made a murderous attack on Lagnay. It was then the latter drew his revolver and fired at the assailant. The shots took fatal effect on Karaffa. Lagnay made no attempt to escape and was immediately taken in to custody.

The reasons on which this application for pardon is based are:

"That the defendant was unjustly convicted.
That at the time he committed the act he was defending his daughter, his family and himself from the murderous assaults of the deceased, and that in his own house.
That the act was committed in self-defense.
That defendant has a wife and four small children to support, and that his said family are now, and have for a long time, been dependent upon the county for partial support.
That defendant has always borne a good reputation for peace, good order, honesty and industry."

From an examination of the record we find that these reasons are sustained, and they are convincing. The District Attorney of the county writes us:

"The above named defendant, Steve Lagnay, was tried prior to my term as District Attorney.
From what I am able to learn, the defendant killed his son-in-law in a fight after he had discovered his son-in-law beating his the defendant's, daughter. A perusal of the testimony will show this fact. Personally, this appeals to the writer very strongly. If it seems proper to your Honorable Board to pardon this defendant, I will gladly join in such an act."

From all that we can gather from a study of this case we believe this application to be meritorous, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Steve Lagnay.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 136, March Sessions, 1914, Albert Roy Bickstein was, February 25, 1915, returned as guilty on an indictment charging the crime of abortion; and on May 3, 1915, was sentenced to pay a fine of five dollars, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from one year to three years.

On September 1, 1915, an application for the pardon for the said defendant was duly filed. We accorded a hearing at our meeting to-day, and after careful consideration have concluded that the application should be favored. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Albert Roy Bickstein.

Bickstein is thirty years old. He is married and his wife is living. He has one child. By profession he is a physician. He has been in practice about ten years and during that time had always enjoyed a good reputation. He was convicted principally on the testimony of the prosecutrix in the case, a woman named Emma Freyer, who claimed that an abortion upon her had been committed by the use of instruments and drugs. The defendant admitted the use of instruments and drugs but alleged that the same were used in connection with treatment for constipation, and that no abortion at all had been attempted or committed. The testimony of the physicians at the hospital to which the woman went for treatment after the alleged operation is that there were no signs of any abortion having been committed. These physicians were strangers to the defendant. The only witness in corroboration of the prosecutrix was a woman by the name of Hoffman, whose motives in the proceedings have been challenged.

The applicant submits to us letters and testimonials to a great number in support of his good standing among the members of his profession and his neighbors. Although there was a verdict against him it is quite possible that a mistake may have been made in his conviction. At all events this application has appealed to us as worthy of our favorable action, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Albert Roy Bickstein.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to Nos. 13, 14 and 15, November Sessions, 1914, James H. O'Drain, on arraignment, November 5, 1915, entered pleas of guilty to indictments charging larceny, and thereupon on the same day was sentenced, in the aggregate, to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not less than two years and not more than five years.

On October 5, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the case came on for hearing at our meeting to-day. Having given the matter full consideration we think the application is entitled to favor, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, James H. O'Drain.

O'Drain is 44 years old. He is married and has one child. By occupation he is a clerk, and was so employed in the Department of Manufacturing Accounts at the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia. He had been in this position for about fifteen years. The method he used in his fraudulent dealing was to make up vouchers in the name of a fictitious person, which ostensibly were mailed to an address over which he had control. He would intercept these vouchers, and after endorsing them with the fictitious name would present them for payment and receive the money. The amount thus obtained, as covered by the bills of indictment, aggregated about $2,500.

He has been in prison about a year. His health is poor, and the confinement is telling on him. From the reports we receive his imprisonment has accomplished about all the good in the way of punishment that can be expected, and longer confinement seems to be unnecessary. Mr. Alba A. Johnson, the President of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, writes us as follows in regard to this application:

"Prior to the discovery of the crime for which he was convicted, he had borne an excellent reputation and had been a faithful employe in this office for fifteen years. I held him in the warmest esteem, and it was a great regret to me to be compelled as a public duty to let the law take its course. I now believe the purposes of justice have been served, and I earnestly recommend his case to your favorable consideration."

It being thus made to appear to our satisfaction that the ends of justice have been reached so far as concerns this prisoner, we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, James H. O'Drain.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Lehigh, to Nos. 43, 44 and 45, January Term, 1913, James G. Keller, on January 7, 1913, entered pleas of guilty to charges of burglary, and thereupon was sentenced, in the aggregate, to pay fines of five hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the County Prison for the term of six years.

On October 2, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. This application was heard at our meeting today. Under consideration of the facts and circumstances regarding the matter as shown by the record we find that the application should be favored, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, James G. Keller.

Keller is now 24 years of age. He is not married. By occupation he is a meat cutter, and at that employment had had steady work for some while prior to his arrest. The charges for which he is now in custody were the breaking and entering three separate business places in the City of Allentown on the night of December 3, 1912, and the stealing of certain personal property. There were at least two accomplices in these acts. One of them, Florence White, alias Florence Preston, was indicted jointly with the applicant, and entered similar pleas. She was at the same time sentenced to four years' imprisonment, but was released on parole after serving a little more than eleven months. The other accomplice was Richard Bernhard, who later on in the year 1913 was sentenced on convictions involving the same three charges and two additional ones—five in all, to pay a fine of $125 and to undergo an imprisonment of two years. Under the commutation law he was released in May last.

The grounds laid in this application for clemency are substantially the excessive sentence and the adequacy of the nearly three years' imprisonment, especially in view of the lighter sentences given his accomplices both of whom are now at liberty.

Judge Trexler, who imposed all these sentences, writes us in relation to this application, as follows:

"On January 7, 1913, while I was presiding over the Courts of Lehigh County, Pennsylvania, James Keller, who is now applying to your Honorable Board for a pardon, was brought before me, charged with having entered, on the night of December 3, 1912, three different stores in the City of Allentown and having stolen therefrom goods and effects to the value of about $400. To these charges he plead guilty and I sentenced him to a total fine of $500, costs of prosecution, make restitution of the goods and effects stolen, if not already done so, and stand committed to the Lehigh County Prison for a period of six years. I am advised that about one-fourth of the stolen goods and effects have been returned to their respective owners.

At the same time I sentenced Florence White, an accomplice of the petitioner, to a total fine of $600, costs of prosecution, make restitution of the goods and effects stolen, if not already done so and an imprisonment of four years in the Lehigh County Prison. On December 22, 1913, after the said Florence White had served a little over eleven months of said sentence, I paroled her in charge of our Probation Officer, and she has been at liberty since.

On October 27, 1913, Richard Bernhard, a second accomplice, plead guilty to these same three offenses and to two additional felonious entries committed in Allentown the same night, and on these five charges I sentenced him to pay a total fine of $125, costs of prosecution, make restitution of the goods and effects stolen, if not already done so, and stand committed in the Lehigh County Prison for a period of two years. This sentence, under the commutation law, was reduced to nineteenth months and has expired on the 27th of May, 1915.

The reason for the heavy sentence of James Keller at the time was that he refused to name his accomplices. He has since divulged the name of his accomplice, Bernhard. Under these circumstances I feel that the imprisonment he has undergone satisfied the demands of justice, and considering the fact that Florence White served eleven months and Richard Bernhard nineteen months, I would therefore recommend his pardon."

From the foregoing it is evident that the demands of justice have been satisfied, and that this applicant has good reason for asking relief. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, James G. Keller.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Montgomery, to No. 86, March Term, 1914, William Pendosa, on arraignment, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging the fraudulently making a written instrument and uttering and publishing the same, and thereupon, March 7, 1914, was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not less than two years and not more than three years.

On October 5, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the matter involved came before us to-day for decision. Upon consideration of the details of the case as made known to us we are of the opinion that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, William Pendosa.

Pendosa is 37 years old. He is a native of the West Indies, but has been in this country most of his life. It was stated to us that he is well educated and a person of considerable intelligence, and an adept at his occupation which is that of waiter. For some time he was employed at hotels and on Pullman cars. In the latter part of 1913, having saved up his money, he started out on a vacation tour, and in the course of his travels visited Saratoga, where in a career of temporary dissipation he lost his money. He then started out to hunt work, going from place to place, and in February, 1914, finally reached Pottstown, Montgomery County. During his travels he had picked up an acquaintance with a white man, and for a while the two traveled together in search of employment. When they came to Pottstown they were out of funds. As a presumably easy way to raise money his companion forged a check for twenty dollars, using the name of a prominent citizen of Philadelphia, which check he induced Pendosa to get cashed by making a small purchase at a store and getting the change in cash. The companion soon disappeared. Pendosa was arrested, and was sent to the penitentiary.

He has been in prison since February 23, 1914. The reasons put forth in support of this application for pardon are in substance that the applicant had always heretofore been a law abiding person; that this was his first offense; that he is not of the criminal class; that he fell into this trouble through bad associations; that he is well able to support himself, with prospects of speedy employment if released; that the nearly two years' imprisonment has taught him a lesson and has been sufficient punishment. No objection of any kind developed to the present proceedings, and we are impressed with the belief that the application is worthy of acceptance, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, William Pendosa.

Harrisburg, October 26, 1915.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Allegheny, to No. 57, May Term, 1914, Edward Campbell was, June 19, 1914, returned on trial of an indictment charging burglary and the receiving of stolen goods as guilty of an assault with attempt to rob, and on June 22, 1914, was sentenced to pay a fine of 6 1-4 cents, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary of not less than two years and not more than four years. Stella Brown and Edward Armstrong were jointly indicted with Campbell. Stella Brown entered a plea of guilty, and was sentenced to imprisonment in the Allegheny County Work House for eighteen months. Armstrong was returned guilty as indicted, and was sentenced to the Huntingdon Reformatory.

On September 22, 1915, an application for the pardon of Campbell was duly filed, the case coming on for hearing at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of the matters brought to our notice by an examination of the record and on the hearing we regard the application as worthy of endorsement, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Edward Campbell.

Campbell is a young men 20 years of age, a machinist by trade, and is reported to have been of good reputation. The letter of the District Attorney who tried the case states the facts involved, and also furnishes the basis on which our recommendation rests. We quote the letter:

"Campbell was convicted on the testimony of an alleged accomplice by the name of Stella Brown. Her story on the stand was that she was standing talking to Campbell and another boy by the name of Armstrong at the Union Depot, Pittsburgh, when she saw a man approaching with a suit case. She made advances to the man, and the two of them walked out Liberty Avenue together, followed by Campbell and Armstrong. When they reached an alley way somewhere along Liberty Avenue, the man asked her to watch his suit case, and he went into the alley way to urinate. While he was there Campbell and Armstrong came up. Armstrong picked up the suit case and ran, and Campbell hit the man. There was no evidence that either of the young men carried a weapon of any kind, or that they demanded money. They found in the suit case an old coat and a pair of overalls. The man made no complaint to the police, and we were never able to locate him. The girl made a confession to the police in which she admitted engaging in a number of affairs of a similar nature, but in none of the other offenses was Campbell implicated. The jury disagreed the first time the case was tried, but the second time they were both (Armstrong and Campbell) found guilty of robbery.

The girl's confession involved about a dozen young men who loafed about the Union Depot, and the Court in imposing sentences upon them felt that the gang should be taught a lesson. However, several of the other boys were sent to Huntingdon, and some of the others were sent to the Work House. All of these boys have now been paroled. At the time of his arrest, several months after the robbery, Campbell had a steady position at Canonsburg and seemed to be doing well.

Under all the circumstances I feel that the law has been sufficiently vindicated, and therefore join in the application."

Adopting the views of the District Attorney that the law has been sufficiently vindicated in the imprisonment of the applicant for about sixteen months in the Penitentiary and more than two months in jail awaiting trial, we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Edward Campbell.

Respectfully submitted,

Harrisburg, October 26, 1915.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—At our regular meeting held to-day there were submitted for our consideration, and approval or rejection, ten separate communications from the Board of Inspectors of the Eastern State Penitentiary, all stating that the respective convicts therein named had been released on parole, and recommending therein that full pardons and final discharges be now granted to each of said convicts.

The following are the names of the convicts referred to, with data as to their convictons, etc., respectively:

CALVIN GRAY, Union County; assault, with intent, etc.; sentenced March 18, 1911, Eastern Penitentiary, two years and six months to 10 years. Paroled September 18, 1913. Recommendation of Inspectors filed September 10, 1915.

PETER WAGNER, alias WANZER, Philadelphia County; assault and battery to kill; sentenced April 21, 1911, Eastern Penitentiary, one year and nine months to seven years. Paroled February 22, 1913. Recommendation of Inspectors filed September 10, 1915.

HOWARD N. STANBACH, alias STAMBACK, Bradford County; forgery; sentenced December 19, 1910, Eastern Penitentiary, two years and six months to 10 years. Paroled June 19, 1913. Recommendation of Inspectors filed September 10, 1915.

JOHN HOGAN, Bucks County; arson; sentenced June 3, 1896, Eastern Penitentiary, 40 years. Paroled October 28, 1913. Recommendation of Inspectors filed October 8, 1915.

JAMES WILLIAMS, Bucks County; burglary, etc.; sentenced January 13, 1898, Eastern Penitentiary, 27 years. Paroled October 21, 1913. Recommendation of Inspectors filed October 8, 1915.

ANGELO DI GIANANANTONIO, Philadelphia County; perjury; sentenced July 14, 1909, Eastern Penitentiary, one year and nine months to seven years. Paroled May 27, 1913. Recommendation of Inspectors filed October 8, 1915.

SAMUEL STANTON, Lancaster County; murder, second degree; sentenced November 25, 1905, Eastern Penitentiary, 15 years. Paroled October 21, 1913. Recommendation of Inspectors filed October 8, 1915.

NICHOLAS D'AGOSTINO, Lackawanna County; rape; sentenced August 16, 1909, Eastern Penitentiary, three years and nine months to 15 years. Paroled March 5, 1913. Recommendation of Inspectors filed October 8, 1915.

RALPH COMILDO, alias CAMARDELLA, Luzerne County; breaking and entering; sentenced September 28, 1910, Eastern Penitentiary, two years to six years. Paroled March 5, 1913. Recommendation of Inspectors filed October 8, 1915.

WILLIAM BRESSLIN, Dauphin County; robbery; sentenced March 28, 1910, Eastern Penitentiary, two and one-half years to 10 years. Paroled October 4, 1912. Recommendation of Inspectors filed October 8, 1915.

With respect to each of the convicts above named the Inspectors assign the statutory reasons for their recommendations and set forth the grounds on which said reasons are based.

Therefore, it appearing that all the rules of the Board of Inspectors of the Penitentiary, and the rules of our own Board, have been observed in the premises, and in endorsement of the report of the said Inspectors, we also recommend that an Executive order issue, granting to the said: Calvin Gray; Peter Wagner, alias Wanzer; Howard Stanbach, alias Stamback; John Hogan; James Williams; Angelo Di Giananantonio; Samuel Stanton; Nicholas D'Agostino; Ralph Comidlo, alias Camardella; and William Bressline, each, his final discharge and pardon.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—At our regular meeting held to-day there was submitted for our consideration, and approval or rejection, thirteen separate communications from the Board of Inspectors of the Western Penitentiary, all stating that the respective convicts therein named had been released on parol, and recommending therein that full pardons and final discharges be now granted to each of said convicts. These communications bear date December 2, 1915.

The following are the names of the convicts referred to, with data as to their convictions, etc., respectively:

R. F. KENT, alias ROWAN F. KRAUSE, Allegheny County; entering building, etc.; sentenced June 1, 1908, Western Penitentiary, nine years. Paroled February 1, 1914.

EUGENE McCREARY, Allegheny County; felonious assault and battery; sentenced September 14, 1910, Western Penitentiary, one year and nine months to seven years. Paroled June 14, 1912.

CHARLES B. JAMISON, Butler County; forgery; sentenced July 26, 1911, Western Penitentiary, one year to ten years. Paroled July 26, 1912.

PHILIP POPATTA, Cambria County; felonious assault and battery; sentenced September 13, 1911, Western Penitentiary; eighteen months to six years. Paroled March 13, 1913.

JOHN LAMBING, Cambria County; sodomy, assault and battery; sentenced September 20, 1909, Western Penitentiary, two years and six months to 10 years. Paroled March 20, 1912.

JOSEPH MEZZACCO, Clinton County; felonious assault and battery; sentenced October 30, 1909, Western Penitentiary, one year and nine months to seven years. Paroled July 30, 1912.

JAMES JAMESON, Crawford County; robbery; sentenced May 15, 1911, Western Penitentiary, one year to 10 years. Paroled May 15, 1912.

THOMAS BURNS, Crawford County; burglary, etc; sentenced September 15, 1908, Western Penitentiary, twenty-one years. Paroled September 15, 1915.

JOHN C. ANDERSON, Fayette County; bigamy; sentenced March 14, 1914, Western Penitentiary, eighteen months to two years. Paroled September 14, 1915.

HARRY DUGAN, Lawrence County; counterfeiting, larceny, etc.; sentenced December 6, 1912, Western Penitentiary, one year to five years. Paroled December 6, 1913.

CORA ELLIS, alias CORA WASHINGTON, Somerset County; burglary, larceny, etc.; sentenced September 18, 1909, Western Penitentiary, two years and six months to 10 years. Paroled December 18, 1912.

JOHN BRUNNER, alias RODGERS; Washington County; burglary; sentenced November 9, 1908, Western Penitentiary, ten years. Paroled, November 28, 1913.

FABIAN THOMAS, Washington County; assault with intent to ravish; sentenced September 1, 1911, Western Penitentiary, fifteen months to five years. Paroled December 1, 1912.

With respect to each of the convicts above named the Inspectors assign the statutory reasons for their recommendations, and set forth the grounds on which said reasons are based.

Therefore, it appearing that all the rules of the Board of Inspectors of the Penitentiary, and the rules of our own Board, have been observed in the premises, and in endorsement of the report of the said inspectors, we also recommend that an executive order issue, granting to the said R. F. Kent, alias Rowan F. Krause; Eugene McCreary; Charles B. Jamison; Philip Popatta; John Lambing; Joseph Mezzacco; James Lameson; Thomas Burns; John C. Anderson; Harry Dugan; Cora Ellis, alias Cora Washington; John Brunner, alias Rodgers; and Fabian Thomas, each, his final discharge and pardon.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Allegheny, to No. 370, March Sessions, 1910, Albert V. Simon was, May 6, 1910, found guilty on a charge of bribery, and on July 14, 1910, was sentenced to pay a fine of six-and-one-fourth cents, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Allegheny County Prison for four months. This judgment was affirmed by the Superior Court on Appeal, and on December 5, 1910, defendant began his term of imprisonment. He was discharged therefrom April 4, 1911.

On November 27, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the matter was heard at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of what is shown on the record and appeared on the presentation of the case we favor the application in its present form, and we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Albert V. Simon.

Simon is 46 years of age. He is and has been for many years foreman in the electro plating establishment of the Taylor Burner Company in Pittsburgh. His wife died one month after his release from prison, her death hastened through grief and mortification over her husband's unfortunate experience. Two children survive.

The defendant's conviction grew out of the Councilmanic bribery expose in Pittsburgh of a few years ago. He has served his time in prison and has paid this part of his penalty; these present proceedings are brought to relieve him from his civil disqualifications linked with his offense, and for the sake of his children's name. The application is supported by the endorsement of many reliable and responsible citizens of Pittsburgh, including the Mayor of the city, and of the District Attorney who prosecuted the case. No objection has been raised by anyone, and in view of these endorsements and of the previous good reputation of the applicant, we feel disposed to comply with the request of the application and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Albert V. Simon.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Lebanon, to No. 3, June Term, 1914, Arthur Hoy was convicted on an indictment charging robbery, and on June 4, 1914, was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of from two years to six years.

November 29, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. We heard the case at our meeting to-day, and upon careful consideration we report in favor of the application.

Hoy is 36 years old. He is not married. He lived with his father and mother in the City of Lebanon. By trade he is an iron worker and was employed as a puddler in an iron manufacturing plant at Lebanon. In the early part of last year the mill was running irregularly, and on May 21 Hoy was not at work. On that day he and a companion known as "Bones" Light visited several drinking places and were entertaining one another in the manner common at such places. They were joined by the prosecutor, Mike Adams, who, it appears, had with him a sum of money. During their wanderings from one saloon to another, and while all were in a state of intoxication, Adams dropped his purse to the ground; Hoy attempted to pick it up, when Light snatched it and ran off, and, as alleged by Hoy, secured all the money and fled the jurisdiction. Hoy was arrested the next day. Light was not apprehended, and of course has never been convicted on this charge.

It is the contention of the applicant that he himself is not the real culprit. He has been in the Penitentiary for more than a year and a half. It is the belief of his friends and of the District Attorney that he has been sufficiently punished for whatever part he may have taken in this robbery, and it is in acceptance of this theory that we are disposed to lend him aid by favoring his application. For these reasons, therefore, we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Arthur Hoy.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Luzerne, to Nos. 101 and 101½ January Term, 1912, Joseph Vokoskey was convicted on the charges of attempt to rape, and robbery, respectively, and on January 13, 1912, was sentenced in the aggregate to pay a fine of one thousand dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of from thirteen years to fifteen years.

December 3, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the case was heard at our meeting to-day. After hearing, and upon consideration of the matters brought to our attention in relation to the case, we are of the opinion that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Joseph Vokoskey.

Vokoskey is 48 years old. He has a family consisting of his wife and six children. By occupation he is a miner. The allegations of the Commonwealth on which the convictions were had are: That on November 4, 1911, at Wilkes-Barre, the defendant met an immigrant girl of his nationality at the railroad station who made some inquiry as to the location of her relatives; that defendant volunteered to conduct her to them, and on the way, while in a lonely part of the city, committed an assault upon her and robbed her of some money, and then disappeared. Soon afterwards the girl told her story to the police, and several months afterward this defendant was arrested in the City of Scranton and was charged with the crime.

It will be noted that both charges were in reality one transaction. The reasons on which the application for clemency is based are in substance that the sentence was too severe, as well as the fact that the applicant had always theretofore been a man of good character, whose good reputation is vouched by letters and petitions on file from responsible sources. From the statements of counsel, which are corrobrated by the tone of the letter of the District Attorney, the case against the defendant was not altogether free from doubt. The District Attorney writes as follows:

"This was a case instituted against a foreigner more or less ignorant of our ways, and, I am informed, the proof against the defendant was not of the strongest character. It seems to me from my inquiry (the assistant who tried the case being dead), that there is grave doubt as to whether there was an actual robbery and as to whether the woman was in fact subject to any violence indicating an attempt to ravish."

The defendant has been in prison nearly four years, which, under the circumstances as shown, would seem to be a sufficiently long term, and, with the further consideration of the needs of his family, tends to move us to favor his release. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Joseph Vokoskey.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Chester, to No. 13, January Term, 1911, William Tappe, February 1, 1911, was convicted on two charges of statutory rape, and was thereupon sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from three years and nine months to fifteen years.

October 2, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The case was heard at our October meeting, and has been held under advisement since that hearing. And now having given the case full consideration we recommend that the application for clemency be received favorably and that a pardon be granted the applicant, William Tappe.

Tappe is 39 years old; he is married, and his wife and fifteen-year-old daughter live in Wilmington, Delaware. In 1910 he worked at Coatesville, and boarded with a family named Colbert, where there were two young daughters, aged respectively eleven and thirteen years, and also a half brother of the girls. In September of that year Tappe finished his work at Coatesville and went on another operation in Maryland, the young Colbert boy going along with him. While working in Maryland, Colbert got into some difficulty and soon afterwards returned to his home. Owing, it is thought, to his displeasure at losing his place in Maryland and for some reason associating Tappe with his bad fortune, he swore out a warrant after reaching home charging Tappe with the crime of rape on his two young half-sisters. Tappe vehemently denied the accusations against him, stating that the matter was an afterthought on the part of Colbert out of a spirit of revenge. There is at least plausibility in Tappe's position when it is considered that the charge was not made until about two months after the defendant had left Coatesville and about five months after the offense is alleged to have been committed.

Defendant's arrest took place on November 25, 1910; so that he has been in prison for more than five years. The grounds on which the application for relief is based are:

1. That defendant has always maintained his innocence of the crime for which he was found guilty.
2. That the ends of justice have been met by his having served one year in excess of the minimum sentence.
3. That defendant has been a model prisoner, has become well educated, and will be a law-abiding citizen in all future time.

In view of the fact that the minimum sentence imposed expired more than a year ago, together with the other mitigating circumstances alluded to, we feel that the reasons laid are supported sufficiently to warrant our favorable action, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, William Tappe.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Clearfield, to No. 16, September Sessions, 1914, A. J. Murphy entered a plea of guilty to the charge of highway robbery, waiving the finding of bill of indictment by the Grand Jury. On June 22, 1914, he was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for from two years and six months to three years.

November 3, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and we gave the case a hearing at our meeting to-day. We find that the application is entitled to approval, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, A. J. Murphy.

Murphy is 40 years of age; he is married, and his wife and seven children live in the City of Du Bois; he is a butcher by trade. He had never previously been accused or suspected of crime. A few years ago, in some way not accounted for and not understood by his friends, he became infatuated with a woman of the town who exerted over him a strange influence. She expressed to him her desire to become possessed of some articles of jewelry which she knew a certain old lady carried about in a hand bag in her efforts to make sales. Murphy was prevailed on to rob this lady and thus secure for his paramour the coveted jewels. He snatched the bag from the old lady and thus got possession of the articles. His arrest and conviction followed.

The reasons advanced to sustain his application for clemency are as follows:

(a) That under all the circumstances in the case the sentence imposed was excessive.
(b) The prosecutrix, the officer who made the arrest, the District Attorney, and the Judge who imposed the sentence, acquiesce and join in the prayer of petitioner.
(c) That under all the circumstances of the case petitioner has already served reasonably sufficient term of imprisonment for the crime committed.
(d) That petitioner's family is large and are children of tender age and require maintenance and support from petitioner.

An examination of the record sustains the verity of these reasons.

The Trial Judge writes as follows:

"I have known Murphy for many years, and was surprised to know that he had nerve enough to commit an offense of this character. Upon a consideration of the whole matter, while the sentence is entirely justified by the character of the offense, I am of the opinion that there is no occasion to fear any further serious wrong-doing on the part of this man, and believe that the punishment already undergone is entirely sufficient to keep Murphy out of the Criminal Courts for the balance of his life. He had a large family, there being I think seven children, and they have made a great struggle to secure a scanty living, and the case appeals strongly to my sympathy for this reason. While they seem to have done all they could they have not been able to get along without some public aid, and while this is not in itself a reason for pardon I do not feel that there is any public reason for the further imprisonment of Murphy, and I do feel like aiding the innocent wife and children, who have been doing all they can.

I am therefore favorable to the exercise of executive clemency in this case."

The District Attorney says:

"Not only will I not oppose this application, but feel justified in recommending that a pardon be granted."

We do not think it necessary to quote the letters of the other officials and of the prosecutrix. The application for clemency appeals with force to the applicant's friends and neighbors who know him well and understand all the details of his fall. He has been in prison for about a year and a half, and from what we gather on an inspection of the record no further good will enure to him or to the Commonwealth from a longer confinement. Under all the conditions of the case we think he may safely be released from prison. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, A. J. Murphy.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Dauphin, to Nos. 40 and 41, January Sessions, 1913, Joel Sweigert was convicted on two indictments charging, respectively, assault and battery, and acceptance of bawd money, and was sentenced cumulatively to pay a fine of ten dollars, costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of from four years to eight years.

On November 30, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The matter was heard at our meeting to-day, and upon full consideration of the facts involved as shown to us we are of the opinion that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant Joel Sweigert.

Sweigert is nearly 32 years of age. He is not married. By occupation he was at the time of his arrest a bartender. His general reputation was good. He had formed the acquaintance of the prosecutrix in this case, who was a single woman, and had been keeping company with her as her lover. This is the first criminal charge that has been laid against him. He seems to have been convicted on the testimony of the woman alone, and from evidence since brought to light there has been considerable doubt thrown on the accuracy of the testimony of the prosecutrix. It was further called to our attention that the sentence meted out to the defendant, even if guilty, was unduly severe in the light of a comparison with sentences imposed by the Court of Dauphin County in a number of convictions of similar character.

Under all the conditions shown in this case there appears to be some merit in the plea that the defendant has been sufficiently punished by the nearly three years' imprisonment in the penitentiary, and inasmuch as no objection has been entered by the prosecuting authorities we are inclined to extend to the defendant the clemency he craves through these proceedings before us. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Joel Sweigert.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 118, January Sessions, 1913, John Williams, who was jointly indicted with Frank Hall on the charge of assault and battery and robbery, was, January 23, 1913, returned as guilty, and on January 25, 1913, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than four years and six months and not more than seven years.

On November 6, 1915, an application for the pardon of Williams was duly filed, (an application for Hall having been heard at our October meeting and since that date held under advisement). The Williams application was heard at our meeting to-day; and, after consideration, and giving attention to all the facts shown by the record and brought to our notice at the hearing, we have reached the conclusion that the application should be allowed; we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, John Williams.

Williams is about 30 years of age; he is a single man; by trade he is a painter. He has never been convicted of any crime prior to the charge in the present case. In the later part of December, 1912, these two defendants, traveling together on foot in the search of work, as they say, came to the town of Shickshinny, in Luzerne County. They there went into a hotel, and in the bar room started in to entertain those present. Williams, being a skilled fresco painter and decorator, drew pictures, and Hall sang songs. There was considerable drinking, in the way of treating for the entertainment they afforded. Among those in the crowd was a man by the name of Benscoter. As the defendants were about leaving the hotel along about nine o'clock this man called for the parting drink, and paid for it with a twenty dollar gold piece, and got the change. The defendant and Benscoter went up the street together. Benscoter was pretty well overcome with drink. On the way up the street some sort of a dispute arose, and applicant took hold of Benscoter and in the scuffle knocked him down. Hall picked Benscoter up, and the two placed him on the steps of a near-by building and left him. They slept that night in a barn, and the next morning they were arrested at the town of Berwick where they had gone, and were charged with assaulting and robbing Benscoter. They admitted the charge of assault, but denied the robbery. Benscoter's money was not found on them, but on the contrary it was ascertained that he had on his person, after the defendants left him, some eighteen dollars out of his twenty dollars. The defendants, being strangers in the county, and friendless, were convicted, and were sentenced as stated.

The burden of this application for clemency is complaint of the severity of the sentence under the circumstances, and the adequacy of the imprisonment already endured—being now three years. Williams files with the Board a letter from a former employer at Chickopee, Mass., testifying as to his faithfulness as a worker, and offering to give him employment if released. The District Attorney of Luzerne County, in writing to us about the case says: "The verdict of the jury established the guilt of the parties. We had no evidence at any time that they were engaged in any legitimate occupation. The sentence already served probably answers the ends of justice."

Under these conditions we feel that the application has been sustained, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, John Williams.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Bradford, to No. 12, December Term, 1914, Elmer Foot, on December 10, 1914, was, on an indictment charging him with felonious assault with intent to kill, returned as guilty, with recommendation of "all the mercy the Court can allow." On June 18, 1915, he was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than one year and not more than two years.

On January 5, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which came on for hearing at our meeting today. Upon consideration of the facts in relation to the case as brought to our attention, we are of the opinion that the clemency sought ought to be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Elmer Foot.

Foot is about 35 years old. At the time of the occurrence on which the indictment was founded he was not living with his wife, and it is stated that his wife is now dead. He followed the occupation of creameryman, and his place of employment was in the town of New Albany, where he worked three or four years for the Laddsburg Cream and Cheese Company. He had a housekeeper during this time. On August 26, 1914, by reason of some disagreement between him and the housekeeper she threatened to take her belongings and leave his employ, to which he protested. She then went to the constable and asked him to go with her to the house and assist in getting her property. She did not lay any information or enter any legal complaint, and so the officer had no warrant from a magistrate. His intervention was altogether of a friendly character. He and Foot were on amicable terms. On the evening the constable and the woman came to Foot's house Foot's shot gun was lying on the table on the side of the room farthest from the door of entrance, with its breech towards the wall. He had placed it there, as he states, preparatory to going out after supper, as was his custom, to train his young hound. When he saw the officer and the housekeeper approach the house he told them not to come in and warned them off. However, the constable did enter the house, and the two men grappled. In their scuffle they each got hold of the gun on the table and it was discharged, the constable alleging that Foot caused its discharge, and Foot stating that he did not pull the trigger but that the gun went off accidentally by reason of the jostling. The load did not pierce the constable's body, but tore his clothing about the waist and grazed the skin. The constable then overcame Foot, handcuffed him, and placed him under arrest.

Among the reasons on file in support of the application are:

That the said Elmer C. Foot is, and always has been, a man of excellent character; a peaceable, law-abiding, upright, honorable and useful citizen; a hard working man, and an expert creameryman. His standing in the community is still good, and his former position is open to him at any time.

That from all the circumstances surrounding the commission of the alleged crime, it is the belief of the people of the community, as generally expressed, that there was no intention on his part to feloniously assault or murder the prosecutor, P. E. Kinney, and that the gun was discharged during an unfortunate scuffle between said Elmer C. Foot and the prosecutor.

That he has already been imprisoned nearly seven months, has suffered sufficiently, and has atoned for this unfortunate occurrence and been sufficiently punished. That neither the public good nor the reformation of Foot requires his further imprisonment, and that the ends of justice will be fully subserved by his pardon.

From an examination of the record before us, which includes a large number of letters favoring the application, and relying on the statements made at the hearing, we are persuaded that this is a proper case for the intervention of the Executive prerogative in extending clemency to persons charged with violation of the law, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Elmer Foot.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 235, April Term, 1913, Anthony Diskus, October 28, 1913, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging breaking and entering and larceny; and on November 5, 1913, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not less than five years and not more than six years. Clement Tishky and Charles Micknorish were jointly indicted with him. Micknorish entered the same plea as Diskus, and on the same day was sentenced to four years' imprisonment in the Luzerne County Prison. Subsequently, January 3, 1914, Tishky was sentenced to the Huntingdon Reformatory. On December 24, 1914, Micknorish was paroled from the County Prison by the Court. Tishky has also been paroled from the reformatory.

On January 8, 1916, an application for the pardon of Diskus was duly filed. The facts in relation to the matter were stated to us at our meeting to-day. After hearing, and upon consideration, we are of the opinion that the application has been properly made, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Anthony Diskus.

Diskus at the time of his conviction was 23 years old; he is unmarried; his occupation is that of miner. He had never, prior to this charge, been convicted of any charge whatever, nor been arrested. The articles stolen by these defendants were valued at about one hundred dollars. Applicant has been in prison considerably more than two years. His co-defendants, who all entered pleas of guilty, have been released from confinement, and Diskus bases his present application for clemency on this fact, suggesting that he has been sufficiently punished, as all the defendants were equally guilty.

Under these conditions it seems to us that this application is not unreasonable, but on the contrary is entitled to be entertained. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Anthony Diskus.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Northumberland, to No. 8, May Sessions, 1913, William M. Lloyd was, September 26, 1913, returned as guilty on an indictment charging embezzlement, and on May 25, 1914, was sentenced to pay a fine of $19,497.38, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Northumberland County Prison for three years.

On June 1, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The case was heard at our June meeting, and has been held under advisement since the hearing until the present time. And now, having given the matter full consideration, we report in favor of the application, and recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, William M. Lloyd.

Lloyd is 43 years old; unmarried, and by occupation a farmer. at the fall election of 1908 he was elected County Treasurer of the County of Northumberland, and on the first Monday of January, 1909, assumed the duties of that office. He at once appointed as his clerk and deputy Mark L. Swab, to whom he entrusted the key of the Treasurer's office in the Court House, all the books, papers, accounts, money, key to the vault, and everything pertaining to the physical occupancy of the office, and placed him in full charge of the business appertaining thereto. Personally he did not give the office any attention at all, entrusting its entire management to his deputy. He visited the office periodically and received from the deputy such information as he requested regarding the affairs of the office; but took no active part in its management. This course of action was in keeping with a custom of long standing in that county, and at the time was not adverted to as improper. There was nothing in Swab's report during the term, until possibly quite near the end, that there was any shortage in his accounts. When Swab made out his final report for the year 1911, the last of the term, it indicated on its face that there was due to the Treasurer as his commissions the sum of nine thousand dollars and more which had not been drawn out of the county funds. However, when the County Auditors completed their examination they reported a shortage in the Treasurer's account of about $32,000. Lloyd appealed, and experts were then appointed to investigate and report, and their examination showed a discrepancy of $19,449.38. Just where or how this deficiency occurred has never been discovered or explained. After the expiration of more than a year Lloyd was arrested as a defaulter, charged with embezzlement of the county's money, etc. Swab was also arrested. On trial Lloyd was returned guilty as indicted, the Court holding that a public official could not delegate his duties to a deputy and relieve himself of all responsibility.

The grounds on which clemency is asked in this proceeding are, in substance: That the applicant was not guilty of actual embezzlement or misappropriation of the county funds; that he is entirely innocent of any criminal conduct in this matter; that he has already undergone imprisonment for more than a year; that no circumstances of public policy require his continued incarceration.

Lloyd has been in prison for more than a year and a half. There are on file many letters, and a petition signed by some three hundred and fifty residents of the county, in endorsement of the application and attesting to the previous unblemished reputation of the applicant. Public sentiment throughout that county, we are assured, strongly favors affirmative action on our part. The whole situation appears to be summed up in the closing paragraph of the District Attorney's letter to the Board, which is in the following terms:

"It is my opinion that the conviction of Mr. Lloyd was necessary for the purpose of showing to office holders their responsibility to the public, but under the circumstances of this case I feel that Mr. Lloyd has been sufficiently punished."

This being the state of our record, we look upon this application as worthy of our approval, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, William M. Lloyd.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Northumberland, to No. 59, May Sessions, 1913, Mark L. Swab was indicted on the charge of aiding and abetting in embezzlement, the principal named in the indictment being William M. Lloyd, County Treasurer of that county. A verdict of guilty was rendered February 10, 1913. On September 14, 1914, the defendant was sentenced to pay a fine of $19,497,38, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Northumberland County Prison for a period of two years and nine months. An appeal to the Superior Court was forthwith entered, and supersedeas allowed. On March 11, 1915, the judgment of the Quarter Sessions was affirmed, and the defendant was ordered to appear in the court below to be committed until he completed his sentence.

On September 1, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. We heard this application at our September meeting, and have held the matter under advisement since that meeting. An application for the pardon of Lloyd had previously been filed, which, at the time of the hearing of this Swab application, was under advisement. The case likewise has remained in our hands under advisement until the date of the present meeting. We have to-day recommended the allowance of the Lloyd application, and on due and mature consideration are prepared to accord to the Swab application affirmative action. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Mark L. Swab.

Swab is 35 years of age; he is married, and his wife and young daughter are living; his occupation is that of bookkeeper. At the fall election of 1908 William M. Lloyd was elected Treasurer of the County of Northumberland, and was inducted into office on the first Monday of January, 1909. Immediately on assuming office he appointed Swab his deputy. It had been a long standing practice and custom in that county for the Treasurer, who usually was a man engaged in some business pursuit, to turn over to his deputy the full control of the office of Treasurer and all its affairs. In this manner Swab was clothed with the entire management and supervision of the office. Lloyd rarely, if ever, devoted any personal attention to the business of the office during his whole incumbency. At the expiration of the three year term, to wit, the end of the year 1911, Swab prepared his statement. The County Auditors, on their examination of the affairs of the office, reported a shortage of some thirty thousand dollars. Lloyd appealed from their finding. An expert was placed on the books and accounts, and his investigation and examination disclosed a deficiency of $19,497.38 in the Treasurer's accounts. This deficiency has never been explained, and there is nothing on our record to show conclusively what became of the money. So far as we are advised, the mystery remains unsolved, and this aspect of the case is most peculiar and embarrassing.

The reasons presented to us as sustaining this application for pardon are:

"That from the evidence in this case there arises a grave uncertainty as to the guilt of the said Mark L. Swab.
That the ends of justice have already been met by the term of imprisonment served by the said Mark L. Swab, as he was but a clerk and should not be punished as much as the principal defendant, Lloyd."

Swab has been in jail nearly eleven months, about one-third of his term. The moral effect of the conviction and imprisonment, both as regards the defendant himself and as supplying a salutary lesson to the community, is as complete and radical now as if this applicant were forced to remain in prison for the whole of his term. It may be noted that this application for relief is fortified with the endorsement of a large number of citizens of the county, who have written us asking our favorable action, thus indicating the trend of public sentiment in that locality. After a careful review of the entire situation we are led to the adoption of the opinion that this is a proper instance for the intervention of the Executive prerogative of bestowing clemency upon a supplicant, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be issued this applicant, Mark L. Swab.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Lehigh, to No. 26, January Term, 1915, Bernard O'Donnell and Dennis Herrity were convicted on a joint indictment charging attempted burglary, and on the same day, January 5, 1915, were sentenced each to pay a fine of $500, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Lehigh County Prison for the period of three years and ten months.

On January 5, 1916, an application for their pardon was duly filed, which came before us at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of the record, and of the facts as stated to us, we are of the opinion that the application should be favored, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicants Bernard O'Donnell and Dennis Herrity.

O'Donnell is 29 years old; he is not married; is a railroad brakeman. Herrity is 45 years old; he is married, and his wife and three minor children are living; by trade he is an iron worker and boiler maker. They were charged with attempting to break and enter a certain liquor store in the City of Allentown. No entrance was effected. The marks of attempted forcing the door were very slight. No burglar tools were found on the defendants. The defendants denied their guilt, but the jury found against them, and they received the sentence mentioned.

The reasons on which they base this application for pardon are:

That petitioners are innocent of the aforesaid crime of attempted burglary.
That the evidence submitted before the jury was not sufficient to warrant a conviction.
That the sentence imposed by the Court was heavier than the facts of the case merited.
That petitioners have fully and completely reformed, and if discharged, will become good and useful members of the community.

The defendants have been in prison for more than a year. There are on file a number of letters in endorsement of the application. In view of what was stated with relation to the case at our hearing we think the reasons given are sufficiently supported, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicants, Bernard O'Donnell and Dennis Herrity.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 118, January Sessions, 1913, Frank C. Hall, who was jointly indicted with John Williams, on the charge of assault and battery and robbery, was, January 23, 1913, returned as guilty, and on January 25, 1913, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than four years and six months and not more than seven years.

On October 9, 1915, an application for the pardon of Hall was duly filed, and was heard at our October meeting. It has been held under advisement since that meeting, there being an intimation that a similar application would be filed for Williams. The Williams application was duly filed, and was heard at our meeting to-day. Upon due consideration we recommend that this application be allowed and that a pardon be granted the applicant, Frank C. Hall.

Hall is now about 28 years old. He is a single man; by trade he is an electrician. He has never been convicted of crime before this present charge. He states that his real name is Waldo C. Tufts, but that when arrested, in order to shield his family name, he assumed the name of Hall. In the latter part of December, 1912 these two defendants, traveling together on foot in search of work, as they say, came to the town of Shickshinny, in Luzerne County. They there went into a hotel, and in the bar room started in to entertain those present. Williams, being a skilled painter and decorator, drew pictures and Hall sang songs. There was considerable drinking, in the way of treating for the entertainment they afforded. Among those in the crowd was a man by the name of Benscoter. As the defendants were about leaving the hotel along about nine o'clock this man called for the parting drink, and paid for it with a twenty dollar gold piece, and got the change. The defendants and Benscoter went up the street together. Benscoter was pretty well overcome with drink. On the way up the street some sort of dispute arose, and Williams and Benscoter got into a scuffle. Williams knocked Benscoter down. Applicant picked him up, and the two placed him on the steps of a near-by building and left him. They slept that night in a barn, and the next morning they were arrested at the town of Berwick, where they had gone, and were charged with assaulting and robbing Benscoter. They admitted the charge of assault, but denied the robbery. Benscoter's money was not found on them, but on the contrary it was ascertained that he had on his person, after the defendants left him, some eighteen dollars out of his twenty dollars. The defendants, being strangers in the county, and friendless, were convicted, and were sentenced as stated.

As in the Williams application the burden of this plea for clemency is the severity of the sentence under the circumstances, and the adequacy of the punishment already endured, being now three years. The applicant files letters from friends in Massachusetts offering him employment and a home if released. The District Attorney of Luzerne County, in commenting on the application, writes:

"The verdict of the jury established the guilt of the parties. We had no evidence at any time that they were engaged in any legitimate occupation. The sentence already served probably answers the ends of justice."

Under these conditions we feel that the application has been sustained, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Frank C. Hall.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 33, July Term, 1914, John Wolfe was, July 9, 1914, returned as guilty on an indictment charging the crime of robbery. July 18, 1914, he was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than nine years and not more than ten years.

On January 5, 1916, he filed an application for pardon. This application was heard at our meeting to-day, and we report that on consideration we find the application entitled to affirmative action; we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, John Wolfe.

Wolfe is 23 years of age; he is not married; his occupation is that of brakeman. On the night of May 15, 1914, Ignatz Riefsky, a wholesale liquor dealer, was held up by three persons on a lonely road between the villages of Lee and Glen Lyon, shot through the shoulder, and robbed. A few days thereafter, Wolfe and his brother-in-law, Harvey Hankey, were arrested and charged with the crime. The third person was never apprehended. Wolfe was tried first, and convicted. Hankey was acquitted on his trial a few weeks later. The testimony in each case was substantially the same. The Wolfe jury remained out for twenty-four hours before reaching their finding.

The reasons for pardon assigned in the application are:

"That the crime for which petitioner is incarcerated is one of which he is absolutely innocent.

The interests of public justice will not suffer by granting petitioner's pardon.

The applicant is not aware of any objections against the granting of the pardon.

Petitioner has a letter of the prosecuting attorney and the county detective of Luzerne County, recommending his pardon.

The identification of petitioner as one of the perpetrators of the crime was obscure, indefinite and not corroporated by other evidence at the trial."

The letter of the District Attorney referred to, addressed to counsel for applicant under date of December 9, 1915, is as follows:

"In case of the Commonwealth vs. John Wolfe, tried before Hon. P. A. O'Boyle, and in which the defendant was convicted of highway robbery, I have given to this case my most careful and thoughtful consideration. At the conclusion of the case wherein John Wolfe was tried and convicted I had but little doubt of the justice of the verdict. When his co-defendant, Harvey Hankey, was tried and acquitted, there was sufficient from the verdict of the jury alone, to create in my mind some doubt as to the justice of the first verdict.

The testimony in both cases, as you will recall, was from the same witness, and was identical, except that Riefsky, who was assaulted and robbed, could find no means of identifying Hankey, although he did assert that he recognized the voice of John Wolfe.

When I reflect upon the fact that the assault occurred at night at a dark and isolated place; that the light was dim and dull; that Riefsky was shot almost unto death and suffered extreme and excruciating pain; that he was excited from the moment that he was held up until he recovered from the effects of the wound inflicted by the shot gun, which was several months after; that Wolfe did have the fair semblance of a good alibi; that his stupidity made a bad impression (although not substantially impeaching his testimony as to the ablibi) to permit at this time a doubt as to the correctness of the verdict.

It is one of those cases in which the atrocity of the assault, the diabolical character of the crime, the almost fatal consequences to the victim, was calculated to arouse zeal in the prosecution and insistence upon a verdict which would vindicate the law. I may have been too zealous in this prosecution, and as a result thereof an injustice may have been done the defendant.

Personally I cannot say that the verdict of the jury was unrighteous; but at the same time I cannot assert without hesitating, that it was just.

I believe that under all the circumstances of this case I can recommend the grant of the pardon applied for."

The County Detective, who investigated the case and gathered the testimony for the trial, writes to substantially the same effect. Both these letters appear on our file of the case.

On this condition of our record we feel justified in recommending that a pardon be now granted the applicant, John Wolfe.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Chester, to No. ——, August Sessions, 1914, on October 6, 1914, Charles Bell was convicted on an indictment charging statutory rape, and on November 9, 1914, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not more than fifteen years and not less than two years and nine months.

On January 5, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. We heard the case at our meeting to-day. After considering the facts as detailed to us we are of the opinion that this proceeding is properly brought, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Charles Bell.

Bell is a colored man, about 23 years of age. He has been totally blind since the age of nine years. He makes his living by playing the violin. It is not denied that he had criminal carnal communication with the girl in question, but it is averred that the offense did not rise above that of fornication, and from the statements made at our hearing we are inclined to agree with this claim.

The reasons advanced in support of this application for pardon are:

That the circumstances under which the fornication was had show that Edith Pearl Henson was a person of bad character.

That he was only technically guilty; it is inconceivable that the Legislature intended that the law should apply to a case like this.

That the original complaint only charged fornication and bastardy.

That for the offense committed he has already served a sufficiently long time.

Under the circumstances attending the commission of this alleged crime we believe that the ends of justice have been reached by the imprisonment already served, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Charles Bell.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 303, December Sessions, 1911, Nathan Loux was, December 21, 1911, convicted on an indictment charging the offense of breaking and entering in the day time with intent to commit a felony; and on the same day was sentenced to pay the costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than five years and not more than seven years.

On November 3, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and his case came on for hearing at our meeting to-day. We have heard and considered this application, and we are of the opinion that the clemency asked should be allowed; we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Nathan Loux.

Loux is 29 years old. He has a wife and two children. He had been working at the trade of coat making. On December 2, 1911, which was a Saturday, he called at the tailoring establishment of Nicholas DeLonzo, on Seventh street, in the City of Philadelphia, and solicited work. The proprietor told him to call the next day, but no hour was fixed for the interview. On the next day, Sunday, Loux went to the place, which was on the third floor of the building, and, according to his statement, finding the outside door of the DeLonzo shop unlocked he entered the room, and was waiting there for the proprietor, DeLonzo. DeLonzo's son occupied the fourth floor of the building as sleeping apartments, and upon being informed that a man was in his father's shop, and not knowing anything about the interview between his father and Loux of the previous day, concluded Loux was an intruder, and supposed he had entered the place with felonious intent. He at once caused his arrest. At the hearing before the Magistrate the elder DeLonzo disclaimed the belief of the prisoner's felonious intent, but Loux was held for court, and was convicted on the indictment.

The reasons embodied in the application for pardon are as follows:

The petitioner has suffered about four years of punishment in the Penitentiary, and has behaved himself well all the time.

He has suffered more punishment than justice requires under the circumstances, because he did no one any harm in the slightest degree in this case.

Under the circumstances he is entitled to the benefit of the doubt after serving almost four years in the Penitentiary.

In view of the fact that the circumstances did not indicate a very flagrant violation of law, if any at all, and of a favorable letter from the owner of the room alleged to have been entered, and of the serving of four years out of a minimum of five years imposed, it seems to us that the ends of justice have been reached, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Nathan Loux.

Sir:—At our regular meeting held to-day there were submitted for our consideration, and approval or rejection, eleven separate communications from the Board of Inspectors of the Eastern Penitentiary, all stating that the respective convicts therein named had been released on parole, and recommending therein that full pardons and final discharges be now granted to each of said convicts.

The following are the names of the convicts referred to, with data as to their convictions, etc., respectively:

WILLIAM BROWN, alias ANDERSON, Chester County; burglary; sentenced January 29, 1902, for twenty-one years. Paroled October 21, 1913.

ANTHONY McFADDEN, Chester County; arson; sentenced April 24, 1911, two years and six months to ten years. Paroled October 24, 1913.

HARRY FOLTZ, Cumberland County; burglary, felonious assault and battery; sentenced May 8, 1905, fifteen years. Paroled October 21, 1913.

JAMES CLARK, Dauphin County; burglary; sentenced September 26, 1910, two years to ten years. Paroled November 27, 1912.

JIM PEVI, alias STEVE PALOV, Lebanon County; felonious assault; sentenced December 9, 1913, one year to three years. Paroled December 9, 1914.

HARRY FREITAG, Lebanon County; murder, second degree; sentenced February 2, 1903, nineteen years and nine months. Paroled October 21, 1913.

TONY BRANCATA, Luzerne County; highway robbery; sentenced October 10, 1908, ten years. Paroled October 23, 1913.

JAMES GANNON, Philadelphia County; manslaughter; sentenced April 10, 1907, twelve years. Paroled October 21, 1913.

JOHN OFERS, alias MICHALSKI, Philadelphia County; forgery; sentenced May 24, 1910, two years and six months to ten years. Paroled June 26, 1913.

JAMES DAILEY, alias JACK MASON, Philadelphia County; murder, second degree; sentenced October 24, 1905, twenty years. Paroled October 21, 1913.

JOHN MAXWELL, Philadelphia County; murder, second degree; sentenced September 28, 1906, twenty years. Paroled February 28, 1914.

With respect to each of the convicts above named the Inspectors assign the statutory reasons for their recommendations and set forth the grounds on which said reasons are based.

Therefore, it appearing that all the rules of the Board of Inspectors of the penitentiary, and the rules of our own Board, have been observed in the premises, and in endorsement of the report of the said Inspectors, we also recommend that an Executive order issue, granting to the said William Brown, alias Anderson; Anthony McFadden; Harry Foltz; James Clark; Jim Pevi, alias Steve Palov; Harry Freitag; Tony Brancata; James Gannon; John Ofers, alias Michalski; James Dailey, alias Jack Mason; and John Maxwell, each, his final discharge and pardon.

At the same time, to wit, December 6, 1915, similar communications and recommendations were received and filed, recommending the pardon and final discharge of two other convicts now on parole, viz. Clarence McCoy, Lancaster County, murder, second degree; and Ben, alias Bernard C. Michales, Wayne County, forgery. To each of these recommendations of the Inspectors objections were lodged or filed by the authorities of the respective counties, protesting against our favorable action in the premises. We therefore decline to endorse the recommendation of the Board of Inspectors of the Eastern Penitentiary in the case of Clarence McCoy and of Ben, alias Bernard C. Michales.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Lancaster, to No. 21, September Term, 1915, Felix Landis, September 14, 1915, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him, together with two other defendants, Daniel Shaub and Clarence Fritz, with the crime of sodomy; and on the same day was sentenced to be imprisoned in the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon. The other two defendants were similarly sentenced.

On January 28, 1916, an application for the pardon of Landis was duly filed; and the circumstances attendant upon his arrest and conviction were explained to us, and the reasons advanced for clemency were stated in detail, at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of the case, we are satisfied that the application is well supported, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Felix Landis.

Landis is a boy now about 17 years of age, who had never before this charge been in any trouble of a criminal nature. He lived with his mother and step-father, who were people of standing in their community, and who are now well disposed toward the boy and are well able to take care of him. The other two defendants were boys of more mature years. These two last named were in the habit of committing the act of sodomy upon another young boy of eleven years of age. Landis learned of their practices, and, according to our information, it was under the compulsion of these two co-defendants, who realized that Landis' knowledge of their loathsome practice might bring about their exposure, that Landis joined them on one occasion. Landis then divulged the crime, and made a complete confession. The prosecution was pressed by the Lancaster Humane Society.

The grounds on which clemency is asked are the following:

The previous good reputation of the defendant.

The defendant was led into the offense by older boys who practically forced him to the commission of the act.

The defendant frankly and honestly admitted his participation in the offense, made a clean breast of the whole matter, and it was due to his honesty and truthfulness that the main offenders were brought to justice.

If released, the defendant will be taken home by his mother and step-father, who have a good home ready for him to go into, and will receive the best of care and training under good home surroundings.

The prosecution was conducted by the Lancaster County Humane Society who had no thought but that the Court would suspend sentence as to Felix Landis. The Act of Assembly forbade suspension of sentence. A petition largely signed by responsible people asked the Court to revoke sentence, but the Court was powerless to change the sentence.

It seems to be the universal sentiment in the community that the sentence, so far as concerns Landis, should have been suspended. The District Attorney, in a letter addressed to the Board on the subject, voices that sentiment. The authorities at the reformatory speak of the boy in favorable terms. On the whole it seems to us that the ends of justice have already been met in his case; we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Felix Landis.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 413, February Sessions, 1915, Jacob Melinkoff, on February 19, 1915, was convicted of an indictment charging assault and battery and aggravated assault and battery. On March 6, 1915, after discharging a rule for new trial, the Court sentenced the defendant to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term not less than fourteen months nor more than three years. On appeal to the Superior Court the judgment of the lower Court was affirmed.

On December 4, 1915, an application for the pardon of defendant was duly filed. A hearing was had on the said application at our January meeting, when we held the case under advisement. We now, after careful consideration of the matters brought to our attention, are inclined to agree to the application; we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Jacob Melinkoff.

Melinkoff is 31 years of age. His occupation is not stated in the application. The alleged assault grew out of a quarrel between the applicant and the prosecutor, John Hanlon, wherein the prosecutor avers that the defendant cut him with a knife. The defendant denies the assault. The jury, however, found against him.

The reason set forth in the application for clemency is:

"Petitioner's health requires the best of care to cure him of rheumatism from which he was suffering prior to his sentence and from which he still suffers. That the treatment necessary to undergo a cure cannot be procured by him in the Eastern Penitentiary, and will require treatment other than that given at that institution, and it is desired in order to prolong his life to do all that is in his power to cure himself."

In support of this reason it has been represented to us that, if released, the applicant will be taken in charge of by his friends and put under proper care and treatment outside of this State, and will be by them removed from surroundings and kept away from associations which have heretofore worked to his injury and disadvantage; which course will protect the interests of the Commonwealth so far as future violation of our laws on the part of this defendant is concerned. Under these conditions we are disposed to favor the application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Jacob Melinkoff.

Respectfully submitted,

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 248, December Sessions, 1914, William H. Edmundson was, March 9, 1915, convicted on an indictment charging him with the crime of larceny as bailee. On March 26, 1915, he was sentenced to pay the costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not less than two years and not more than twenty-five months.

On December 1, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The application was before the Board at our December meeting. We have held the matter under advisement since that time; and now, having looked into the merits of the application, we are of the opinion that the same should be favorably received, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, William H. Edmundson.

Edmundson is about 28 years of age; he is divorced from his wife; he has one daughter, nine years old. Prior to his arrest he was employed as a cutter in the card room of a trunk and box factory in Philadelphia, but just immediately preceding his arrest he was in the employ of the prosecutrix, Mrs. Keevil, as a salesman of furniture polish. Mrs. Keevil had some jewelry that she wished to sell, and Edmundson undertook to make sale of it. At first he was unsuccessful, and returned to Mrs. Keevil all the articles that she had entrusted to him. Afterwards he received from her for sale three rings and a scarf pin. These he sold to a man who had been introduced to him as Andrew Earney. The price agreed on was $185. The purchaser gave his check for the amount. Edmundson turned the check over to Mrs. Keevil. On presentation of the check at the bank on which it was drawn it was pronounced a forgery, and was dishonored. Edmundson was unable to find the man who represented himself as Earney, and he himself was several months afterwards arrested on complaint of Mrs. Keevil charged with larceny as bailee by reason of his accepting this forged check. The indictment was drawn with two counts, one charging larceny as bailee, and the other receiving stolen goods. The jury returned a verdict of guilty, with a recommendation of mercy. The defendant has been in the Penitentiary since March 26, 1915, a period of almost eleven months. It has been strenuously argued before us that the conviction was not warranted in law, as the corpus delicti was not established by the Commonwealth. It is further made to appear that this was Edmundson's first offense. Letters from prominent people in Philadelphia vouch for his previous good reputation.

From all that has been brought to our attention in relation to the case, it seems to us that the ends of justice have been met with the year's imprisonment, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, William H. Edmundson.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Montgomery, to No. 47, June Sessions, 1913, Bernard Stern, indicted on the charge of perjury, was convicted by a jury, and on May 21, 1914, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than one year and six months and not more than three years. An Appeal to the Superior Court was entered, but the judgment of the Quarter Sessions was there affirmed. The imprisonment of the defendant began March 22, 1915.

On June 1, 1915, an application for the pardon of the defendant was duly filed, which, upon hearing at our June meeting, was refused. On Petition duly made a re-hearing was allowed, and at our December meeting the application for pardon was again refused. Another rehearing was asked for, and allowed, and the application for pardon was again presented at our recent January meeting, when, on the hearing, the matter was taken under advisement. We now, after further consideration, consent to a favorable reception of the application, and recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Bernard Stern.

Stern is a man about 63 years of age, a Hebrew of the Orthodox faith. His wife is living and is about 61 years of age, and dependent on him for support. For a time earlier in life Stern had been in the clothing business, but later on he went into the real estate business. The alleged perjury took place in the course of some mortgage negotiation. The defendant resisted the charge with vigor on his trial, but the jury and the Courts found against him. At the first hearing before us the application was resisted by both the District Attorney and by the prosecutor. The objections to the application, however, have now considerably waned. The prosecutor at this time joins in the application for pardon, and there is no serious opposition on the part of the authorities of the Commonwealth. The defendant has been in the Penitentiary for nearly eleven months, which, to a man of his years, is a severe punishment. There appears on our record a numerously signed endorsement of the application, and also many letters asking that the application be allowed, on the ground mainly that the punishment up to this time has been sufficient.

On a review of the whole case therefore it strikes us that at this time the allegation of sufficiency of punishment is a persuasive reason for our action in allowing this application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Bernard Stern.

Sir:—At our regular meeting held this day there were submitted for our consideration, and approval or rejection, five separate communications from the Board of Inspectors of the Eastern State Penitentiary, and two from the Inspectors of the Western State Penitentiary, all stating that the respective convicts therein named had been released on parole, and recommending therein that full pardons and final discharges be now granted to each of said convicts.

The following are the names of the convicts embraced in the recommendations of the Inspectors of the Eastern Penitentiary, with data as to their convictions, etc., respectively:

GUSTAV GOEPINGER, alias GOPPINGER, Chester County; receiving stolen goods; sentenced May 29, 1911, two years and six months to ten years. Paroled November 29, 1913.

JOSE DIMARIO, alias GUISEPPE DIMARIO, Lycoming County; murder second degree; sentenced September 14, 1903, for twenty years. Paroled October 22, 1913.

MICHAEL BAAB, Luzerne County; murder second degree; sentenced January 22, 1910, three years to twenty years. Paroled January 29, 1913.

BENJAMIN HORWITZ, Philadelphia County; assault and battery with intent to kill; sentenced June 24, 1910, one year and nine months to seven years. Paroled April 7, 1913.

WALTER S. JONES, York County; statutory rape; sentenced August 24, 1909, three years to fifteen years. Paroled September 29, 1913.

Similar data with respect to the recommendations of the Inspectors of the Western Penitentiary:

MATTHIAS STEELE, Blair County; embezzlement; sentenced January 19, 1914, fifteen months to two years. Paroled April 19, 1915.

FRANK GRAHAM, alias CHAS. W. SCOTT, Lawrence County; breaking and entering, aggravated assault and battery; sentenced June 16, 1910, for thirteen years. Paroled December 16, 1914.

With respect to each of the convicts above named the Inspectors assigned the statutory reasons for their recommendations, and set forth the grounds on which said reasons are based.

Therefore, it appearing that all the rules of the Boards of Inspectors of the said Penitentiaries, and the rules of our own Board, have been observed in the premises, and in endrosement of the reports of said Inspectors, we also recommend that an executive order issue, granting to the said Gustav Goepinger, alias Goppinger; Jose Dimaro, alias Guiseppe Dimario; Michael Baab; Benjamin Horwitz; Walter S. Jones; Matthias Steele, and Frank Graham, alias Chas. W. Stone, each his final discharge and pardon.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Dauphin, to Nos. 366, 367 and 368, September Sessions, 1910, John Eckert, January 3, 1911, entered pleas of guilty to indictments charging felonious entry, larceny and receiving stolen goods; burglary and entering with intent to commit a felony; and felonious entry, larceny and receiving stolen goods, respectively, and on the same day was sentenced in each case to pay a fine of $5, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than two years and six months and not more than ten years, the sentence in each case, however, to run from January 3, 1911.

On November 3, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which was heard at our recent January meeting, and then held under advisement. Having in the meantime looked into the matters involved in this application we believe that the relief asked should be accorded, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, John Eckert.

Eckert is 36 years old. He is not married; he made his living by working as a porter. In December, 1910, in the City of Harrisburg, while in an intoxicated condition, he entered, during the evening, a clothing store and stole a suit of clothes. He was detected, and the stolen articles were taken from him. Afterwards he took from another store two suit cases, which were also recovered by the owner. Then, later on in the evening, while still in the drunken state, he went into an apartment house which he saw was open, and was found there wandering about the premises in a suspicious manner. He was then apprehended and locked up. His trial and sentence followed.

All three of these adventures were really manifestations of one drunken escapade. Of his term in the Penitentiary he served about three years and six months when he was paroled. He went to Pittsburgh, and in the course of a few months fell into some similar trouble and was arrested there and sent to prison. The Eastern Penitentiary authorities were advised of his whereabouts, and brought him back to their institution, where, by operation of law, he will be compelled to make up the time he was out on parole and serve out the full ten years' term. He has now served about four years and eight months of that maximum term. No person suffered any loss from his escapade in Harrisburg. So far as we have been able to ascertain no objection to his release has been raised by any one concerned. By this time he ought to be pretty well cured of his drinking habit, and under the circumstances it might be well to give him another chance to lead a decent life. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, John Eckert.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 20, November Sessions, 1909, John Urban and John Marcin, jointly with Dan Reynolds, Mike Yanulavicz and Andrew Haindle, were indicted on the charge of receiving a bribe. On the trial of the case the jury failed to agree on a verdict, and were discharged. On the second trial, April 20, 1910, the defendants, under an understanding with the District Attorney and the Court, entered a plea of guilty—the understanding being that sentence would be suspended upon the payment of costs by the defendants. The plea was entered, and the Court suspended sentence on the payment of costs.

The indictment was framed under the Act of May 2, 1901, which provides as part of the penalty on conviction the disqualification of the defendant from thereafter holding any office of profit or trust in this Commonwealth.

On February 2, 1916, an application for the pardon of Urban and Marcin was duly filed, and the matter was explained to us in full at our meeting to-day. It appears that the real purpose back of the application, and in fact the only object that can be reached through this proceeding, is the restoration of the civil rights which were forfeited by the conviction. Under the circumstances of the case we fail to see how the Commonwealth will be in any way injured in giving back to these defendants these forfeited rights, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted each of the applicants, John Urban and John Marcin.

Urban is 47 years old; he is married, and has a family of eleven children; he is a miner by occupation. Marcin is 40 years old; he also is married, and has a family of two children; he is an engineer by occupation. They, together with the other defendants, in the year 1909, composed the town council of the Borough of Swoyerville, and the alleged bribery was in connection with the construction of a sewer in that municipality. The Commonwealth apparently was not able to establish beyond doubt the guilt of the defendants, and was willing to compromise the case by accepting the plea of guilty and consenting to a suspension of sentence. It is stated now that the defendants did not then realize that the civil disqualification attended the conviction or plea of guilty. They now seek to get this disability removed.

The District Attorney who prosecuted the case says in his letter to us:

"I understand the purpose of this application is to remove the disability imposed on the defendants by statute because of their conviction for bribery. I have no objection, under the circumstances, to your Honors exercising clemency if you deem such action proper."

The Judge who heard the case, in his letter to us, says:

"In view of the comparative severity of the penalty resulting by operation of law, I have no objection to make to the exercise of clemency if to your Honorable Body the case merits it."

The defendants were not sentenced to prison, and we understand the costs have been paid, so that as a matter of grace we find no objection to acceding to the prayer of the applicants for restoration to their civil rights, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the said applicants, John Urban and John Marcin.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Dauphin, to No. 215 and No. 216, September Sessions, 1914, on October 3, 1914, Charles Rodgers entered pleas of guilty to indictments charging felonious entry and larceny. Sentence was at that time suspended; but, on October 15, 1915, on motion of the District Attorney, the defendant was sentenced to the Huntingdon Reformatory.

On March 2, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the matter came on for hearing at our meeting to-day. Having heard and considered the case, we are satisfied that the application has been properly made, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Charles Rodgers.

The applicant is a boy not yet 17 years of age. He had been steadily at work for some time and helped to support the family of which he was a member. He was charged with having stolen, in company with several other boys, certain articles from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. It was his first offense, and at the time he was called for sentence no one was present in court to explain the circumstances and to enlighten the Court with reference to the propriety of further parole, as his employer stood ready to look after him and to give him work. This fact was not brought to the attention of the Court until after sentence and removal to Huntingdon.

Judge McCarrell, in writing to counsel under date of March 13, says:

"At the hearing neither of the parents of young Rodgers was present, and I had no information as to the home conditions, and apparently the only thing to do was to send him to the Reformatory. Mr. Heffelfinger called on me shortly after the order was made, and told me about the habits of the boy and how important it was for his family to have the aid which he is able to give by his labor. I knew Mr. Heffelfinger, and if he had appeared in court and offered to look after the boy I would certainly have allowed him to go on probation under Mr. Heffelfinger's care. The Sheriff removed the young man sooner than I thought it would be done, and he had been taken to Huntingdon before I was informed as to what provision could be made for him here. * * You may say to the Board for me that I know Mr. Heffelfinger and believe him to be a fit person to look after young Rodgers, and I shall be glad to know that he has been placed in Mr. Heffelfinger's care."

Mr. Heffelfinger is the Superintendent of the Cooper Department of the Hoffer Mills, and his letter is on file wherein he agrees to take the boy back in his employ and give him the proper supervision.

The Superintendent of the reformatory advises us that the boy has made a perfect record in that Institution in his conduct, labor and school duties.

From all that has been brought to our attention with reference to this case we are confident that it will be to the best interests of this young man, and be in no wise detrimental to public interests, to relieve him from the penalty imposed; and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Charles Rodgers.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Erie, at September Sessions, 1914, Albert William Hugo was indicted on two charges, one to No. 81, laying the accusation of perjury, and the other to No. 82, laying the accusation of bigamy. On September 16, 1914, the defendant entered plea of guilty in each case. Thereupon, on September 19, 1914, he was sentenced on the charge of perjury to pay a fine of $50, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a minimum term of three years and six months and a maximum term of six years; and in the bigamy case to pay a fine of $25, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a minimum term of one year and a maximum term of two years. The imprisonment sentences were to run concurrent.

On March 1, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The case came before us at our meeting to-day for disposition. Upon consideration of its merits we think the application entitled to allowance, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Albert William Hugo.

Hugo is 31 years of age. He has a lawful wife, who lives with their two children in the City of St. Louis. By occupation he is a piano salesman. Prior to 1913 he was employed in this business in his home City of St. Louis; but during that year, by reason of a slack in business, he came to Erie County in this State. He pursued his business there, and in May, 1914, was conducting a piano sale in the town of Waterford, some fourteen miles distant from the City of Erie. While in the City of Erie he had become acquainted with a certain young woman, who, during the week he was in Waterford, telephoned him and suggested visiting him there. She came to Waterford on a certain Thursday, and she and the applicant stayed at a hotel until the following Saturday, posing as man and wife. When the girl's father learned of this escapade of his daughter he insisted on a marriage taking place between her and Hugo. While in Erie Hugo had not, apparently, let it be known that he was then a married man. He assented to the father's proposition, and a marriage license was secured, Hugo making the required affidavit that he was not at the time married. This act was the foundation of the perjury charge. The marriage was performed in pursuance of this license. Shortly afterwards the woman learned that the applicant had a wife living in St. Louis. Then she caused an information to be lodged against him. He was arrested, and indicted on the two charges previously mentioned, and sentenced on his plea of guilt. There was no issue from this Erie marriage.

The applicant has been in the Penitentiary for about eighteen months, within less than six months of the maximum term on the bigamy charge, and nearly half the minimum term on the perjury charge. We have on file a letter from his wife in St. Louis appealing to us to grant this pardon, and setting forth that she has forgiven her husband and will gladly welcome him back to his old home. Several of his former employers also have written us in testimony of his previous good character, one of them stating that he will be glad to furnish him with profitable employment as soon as he reaches St. Louis if he is pardoned. It appears to be a matter of surprise to all who knew the man that he should make such a lapse as he gave way to in Erie. Of course the second marriage was a nullity and the Erie woman was not tied up with any marital obligation but was free to enter into another nuptial contract. As a matter of fact she did contract another marriage several months ago, and, we are advised, she is now living happy and contented under existing conditions.

It seems to us that, on a review of the situation as now prevailing, the ends of justice have been reached, and that no further good can be hoped for by requiring the defendant to serve a longer term of imprisonment. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Albert William Hugo.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Chester, to No. 1, January Term, 1910, on arraignment, Walter Herod, alias Dad Herod, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging larceny, and on January 24, 1910, was sentenced to pay a fine of $50, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not more than thirty years and not less than seven years.

On March 2, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and an explanation with regard to the facts in the case was made at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of these facts we think this request for clemency is within reason, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Walter, alias Dad Herod.

Petitioner is a man 44 years of age. Neither his family status nor his trade is stated in the application. He has been in the Penitentiary on this present conviction for more than six years. The offense as set forth in the indictment was the stealing of six chickens. It appears that the defendant had been in prison before, having served a short term in the county jail in 1897 for assault and battery, a term in the Eastern Penitentiary for five years imposed in 1899 on conviction for highway robbery, and another term in the Eastern Penitentiary imposed in 1903 on conviction for highway robbery, assault and battery, etc. The maximum sentence imposed in 1910 of thirty years was made under the Act of 1909 as these former convictions were set forth in the indictment. The provisions of that act in this regard have since been changed, and it now appears to be the prevalent view of those acquainted with this case that the defendant has been sufficiently punished by his more than six years' incarceration on the present charge. This view is entertained by the District Attorney, who writes us to that effect. In fact the only reason assigned for pardon in the application is "That the sentence imposed by the Court for the larceny of six chickens was out of proportion to the crime."

Under the conditions shown we think the application may properly be favored, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Walter, alias Dad, Herod.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Northampton, to No. 67 and No. 68, December Term, 1912, John Buono, alias John Burno, February 11, 1913, entered pleas of guilty to indictments charging statutory burglary and larceny in each, and thereupon was sentenced in the aggregate to pay a fine of $2, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not less than seven years and not more than eight years. In another indictment on a similar charge sentence was suspended.

On February 4, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which was heard at our meeting of last month. The matter was then taken under advisement, and has been pending since that time. Having considered the case with care we now recommend that the application be allowed and that pardon be issued to the applicant, John Buono, alias John Burno.

Applicant is an Italian by birth, now nearly 25 years of age. He is not married. He learned the trade of barbering, and worked at that occupation for some time, but employed himself along other lines when unable to get work at this trade. He was brought to this country when quite young. His mother died when he was a small child, and he seems to have grown up without any special parental care, and under rather unfavorable environments. Most of his boyhood was spent in the City of Easton, where he worked at his trade for some time. He went to New York City in search of employment, and drifted around to various other places, and then return to Easton in January of 1913. He was for a while unable to get work; he was without means to get the necessaries of life, and in his straitened condition he yielded to the temptation of breaking into a clothing store and stealing some clothing. On the same night he entered a barber shop where he had formerly worked and took away a rain coat which he knew hung near the door. These two acts he admits having done, but denies the commission of any other burglaries or thefts. It happened that about this time there was an epidemic of house breaking and thieving in that community. It is the theory of the applicant and his counsel that the authorities were impressed with the belief that this applicant was properly chargeable with many, if not all, of these violations of law, although the Commonwealth was not able to fix on him more than the two mentioned. However, the sentence imposed seems to have been graded to fit his supposed guilt.

This defendant has been in jail and in the Penitentiary since January, 1913, a period of three years and three months. The value of the goods stolen was about fifty dollars. The prosecutors in the two cases ask for his release; a relative in Connecticut agrees to supply him with employment if pardoned; so far as known this was his first offense; the theft of the clothing was under the pressure of dire need; the imprisonment already endured, we are assured, has produced both the punitive and the reformatory effects contemplated in the imposition of penalties; so that as an act of mercy we think it proper to endorse this application for clemency. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted to the applicant, John Buono, alias John Burno.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Beaver, to No. 6, June Term, 1915, Steve Coss, jointly with George Sussi and Peter Lascowich, was indicted on the charge of murder. Coss and Sussi were tried together, and on June 19, 1915, were returned by the jury as guilty of voluntary manslaughter. On June 21, 1915, Coss was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a term of not less than five years nor longer than twelve years. On December 18, 1915, Sussi was paroled. Lascowich fled the jurisdiction, and has not been apprehended, and of course not tried.

Coss is 27 years old. He is an Austrian by birth. He has been in this country eight years, and has been employed during that time as a laborer in the Colonial Steel Works at Colona, Beaver County. Up until the time of his arrest he had not been in trouble of any kind, and had always been faithful in his work. The history of the case as spread on our record makes it appear that on May 29, 1915, George Sussi and Joseph Maretick attended a dance at a foreign boarding house in the town of Colona. They had some trouble while on the floor dancing and Joseph Maretick attacked George Sussi, who was a mere boy, and gave him a beating. Sussi returned to his boarding house and informed his friend, Steve Coss, of what had occurred. Coss returned to the place where the dance was being held in company with George Sussi, and got into an altercation with Maretick. They fought for some time, and rolled over an embankment, some twenty feet, while fighting. Peter Lascowich, who was not in company of either Sussi or Coss, suddenly appeared upon the scene and stabbed Maretick, and as a result of this wound Maretick died. Coss had no understanding with Lascowich, and the latter's entry into the difficulty was wholly voluntary on his part, and not by the request or knowledge of Coss.

The formal reasons in support of the application are:

That the applicant has at all times been frank and candid concerning his part in the offense which led to his arrest and conviction, and he has not by denials increased or added to his guilt.

Peter Lascowich, who was indicted with the applicant, was the person who actually inflicted the injury which caused the death of Joseph Maretick, and he had no connection with the petitioner.

Letters from the Trial Judge and from the District Attorney corroborate the allegations with regard to Lascowich being the real perpetrator of the homicide without the collusion or connivance of the applicant. There is also a letter on our file from the Assistant Superintendent of the Colonial Steel Company, stating that "Coss was a model man at the works, always ready to do what he was directed, never had a word to say, and was a favorite with his fellow workmen. If you should favor him with a pardon there is a position for him at the Colonial Steel Company Works as soon as he is a free man."

In view of these letters it may with truth be reported that the prayer for clemency should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Steve Coss.

Respectfully submitted,

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Bedford, to No. 1, September Term, 1914, Angelo Terranova, on an indictment charging murder, was, September 14, 1914, returned as guilty of manslaughter, and on October 21, 1914, was sentenced to pay a fine of five dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than three years nor more than twelve years from September 11, 1914.

On March 2, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the case came before us for hearing at our meeting to-day. A careful consideration of the facts as shown on our record and explained at the hearing warrants the conclusion that the application is entitled to our approval, and we therefore recommmend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Angelo Terranova.

Terranova is 30 years old. He is an Italian by birth; he is married, and his wife and two children are dependent upon him for support, as well as two young sisters. Since living in this country he has worked as a coal miner. He had never, so far as known, been in any trouble of a criminal nature. On the 12th day of June 1914, in an encounter, not of his own seeking, he caused the death of a man whom he had never personally known, and against whom he had no ill feeling. This man's name was William Anderson; he lived in the same neighborhood; he was the aggressor in the encounter referred to. The trouble arose from a trifling occurrence among some children, and there evidently was some misunderstanding on the part of Anderson with regard to the defendant's appearance on the scene and his connection with that occurrence.

We do not deem it necessary to set forth the details that led up to the homicide. A study of the record wherein the facts are stated satisfies us of the validity of the reasons assigned for clemency. We quote from the application these reasons literally:

1. The applicant was attacked by the deceased, a large, powerful man, whom he had never known, met or spoken to, and retreated as long and as far as he believed his own safety warranted.

2. There was absolutely no malice, or responsibility for the encounter, on the part of the applicant.

3. The whole record of Angelo Terranova's previous life was clean and free from all crime.

4. He has been sufficiently punished, having been incarcerated a year and nine months, including his period of imprisonment in the county jail, and has been a model prisoner.

5. He has a wife, two children and two young sisters depending on him for support.

The Judge who tried the case, and the District Attorney who prosecuted, in their communications to us, both agree to the proposition that the applicant was not the aggressor and that he retreated until he felt that his life was in danger before he fired the fatal shot.

Adopting these views, and considering the imprisonment undergone, about one-half the minimum term, we feel that the law has been vindicated, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Angelo Terranova.

Respectfully submitted,

Lieutenant Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Franklin, to No. 3, April Term, 1912, James C. Rowles, April 26, 1912, was convicted on an indictment charging the commission of sodomy, and on May 2, 1912, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than seven years and not more than ten years.

On December 1, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The matter was presented to us for consideration at our December meeting, when the details of the affair were explained to us, and argument heard on the application. We have held the case under advisement since the date of that meeting, and now, having accorded it full consideration, we are inclined to report in favor of the application. We accordingly recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, James C. Rowles.

Rowles is 57 years old. He is married. By trade he is a printer. He has lived in Chambersburg and worked at his trade there since 1904. He was convicted on one of three indictments found against him, all laying the charge of sodomy perpetrated on the persons of three boys. The other two indictments remain untried. The conviction was secured on the testimony of the boys themselves, supplemented by the testimony of an alleged admission on the part of defendant made to the Chief of Police at the time of his arrest. The defendant has strenuously denied not only this alleged admission, but also his actual commission of the act charged. It has been represented to us that those boys were all of rather bad character and unworthy of belief, and that they have since fallen into the toils of the law. There is also some suspicion of blackmailing features entering into the prosecution. However, the jury convicted the defendant, and he received the heavy sentence mentioned on the one case tried.

It is mainly on account of the severity of the sentence, the possible mistake in the verdict, and the length of time served in prison up to this time, that this application for relief has been pressed before us. We have on file with the papers a petition signed by a number of residents of the borough of Chambersburg endorsing the application for pardon and attesting to the previous upright living of the applicant. We are assured also that if this applicant is released under these present proceedings he will at once be re-instated in his former position as forman in a newspaper office in Chambersburg. He has been in the Penitentiary for almost four years, and it seems to us that, under all the circumstances which we have been led to believe attend this unfortunate situation, the defendant has been sufficiently punished and that Executive clemency may with fitness be shown the prisoner. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, James C. Rowles.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 313, April Sessions, 1912, Alexander Stivers, April 19, 1912, was convicted on the charge of robbery, and on April 23, 1912, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not less than six years nor more than ten years.

On October 6, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed. By reason of the non-appearance of counsel the matter did not reach a hearing until at our meeting of to-day, when we were put into possession of the facts relative to the subject. Upon consideration of the case as presented to us by the record and the statements of counsel we think the application should be favorably received, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Alexander Stivers.

Stivers is now nearly 23 years old. He is not married. At the time of his arrest he was a laborer in and about the mines. The prosecution under consideration was based on the holding up of Charles Mogda, a resident of Ashley, on the night of March 29, 1912, and the robbing him of $11.03. Stivers and a man by the name of William Riley were arrested the next day charged with the deed. Riley escaped from the office of the Justice during the hearing, but later on was arrested. Stivers in the meantime was tried, and, mainly on the proof of the fact that he had been seen in the company of Riley earlier in the evening, he was convicted and sentenced. Riley was tried about seven months afterwards, and on conviction received a similar sentence.

Stivers, at the time of his arrest, was only nineteen years old. He had never been in any trouble of this kind before, and had a good reputation in the neighborhood. He has always asserted his innocence of this charge. Riley was a much older man, and likewise was an old offender. His reputation was bad. He had participated in other criminal enterprises of this kind, in one of which his companion was killed; for Riley's part in that affair he served a Penitentiary term of five years. The identification of Stivers by Mogda was not of absolute certainty, but, coupled with the fact alluded to of his being seen in the company of Riley, satisfied the jury, and their finding was against him.

There are on file many letters tending to show that Stivers had previously been of good character, and that, if guilty, he was led into this trouble by an older and more experienced offender. The prosecutor, Mogda, writes us in endorsement of the application for pardon. Both the Trial Judge and the District Attorney recommended the pardon. Also nine of the jurors who heard the case. It seems to be the belief of all these writers that the applicant has been sufficiently punished.

Inasmuch as the application is fortified with such favorable endorsements, we deem it proper that we adopt the views therein expressed with reference to the adequacy of the punishment, and on this ground we recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Alexander Stivers.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 490, November Sessions, 1912, Levi Seeds was indicted on the charge of statutory rape. There were also counts in the indictment of assault and battery, etc. On arraignment, November 26, 1912, the defendant pleaded guilty, and thereupon was sentenced to pay the costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not less than six years and not more than eight years.

On February 24, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which in regular course came on for hearing at our meeting to-day. We have considered the case in the aspect of our record and of the statements made to us, and, influenced thereby, we are of the belief that the appeal for clemency should be entertained; we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Levi Seeds.

Seeds is 51 years of age; a widower; and by trade a photographer. He has two daughters, both of whom are married. Since the death of his wife some eleven years ago he lived with these two daughters in the City of Philadelphia until the marriage of the eldest one, when she left home. He and the younger daughter then lived together. All along Seeds had been sleeping with his younger daughter, and on at least one occasion he had had connection with her. The fact of his occupying the same room as the girl, in which room there was but one bed, was reported to the police department by the janitor of the apartments, and an investigation of the circumstances led to his arrest and trial. The daughter at that time was about fourteen years old. She has since married, and is, we are informed, now living happily with her husband in Philadelphia. Seeds has been in prison three years and four months since his arrest. Judge McMichael, who sentenced the prisoner, has investigated the matter, and is of the belief that the prisoner has been sufficiently punished by his confinement to this time. The letter of the Judge addressed to us under date of February 8, 1916, is in part as follows:

"I was the trial judge in this case, and the facts were as follows, as well as I can remember them.

Levi Seeds was convicted before me of statutory rape upon his own daughter, Rosie, a girl of about fourteen years of age. When the daughter was three years old her mother died, and from that time on she and her father slept in the same bed. The child stated that her father had intercourse with her on one occasion. I am informed that the girl is now married, living with her husband, and that there was no pregnancy as a result of her father's intercourse.

This case was tried November 20, 1912, at which time I sentenced him to the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than six years nor more than eight years. He will have served three years and four months at the time this application is presented to you and, considering all the facts of the case and the subsequent circumstances, I am of the opinion that the ends of justice have been met, and, therefore, recommend to you that you pardon this applicant."

With the helpful assistance afforded by this expression of the Trial Judge's views we find no difficulty in reaching our conclusion with regard to this case, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Levi Seeds.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 424, April Term, 1911, Robert Moody, on an indictment charging murder, was, March 28, 1914, returned by a jury as guilty of murder in the second degree with recommendation to the mercy of the court. On April 3, 1914, the court sentenced the defendant to pay the costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not less than seven years nor more than ten years.

On February 29, 1916, an application for the pardon of the said defendant was duly filed. The details of the case are set forth at length in the record laid before us and were briefly narrated to us at our meeting to-day. From the information derived through these sources we are clearly of the opinion that this application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Robert Moody.

Moody is a colored man 31 years of age. By trade he is a tailor. He is married, and his wife and infant child are dependent on him for support. We are advised that he belongs to a family of more than the average intelligence and respectability of people of his race. The victim of the homicide was his wife, to whom he was married in 1904. After his first marriage he and his wife lived happily together in the City of Boston until some time in 1907. They then removed to New York where they lived for a while. In 1908 they removed to Chicago, and there Moody carried on the business of tailoring, and was fairly prosperous. Some time in the year 1909 they were visited by a missionary of a religious sect familiarly known as the "Feetwashers," who ingratiated himself in their quiet life with the result that Moody and his wife became very much interested in the work of this peculiar sect. The wife was particularly impressed with the strange doctrines and practices, many of which were based on superstition and immorality. In the course of a short time she became unduly intimate with this missionary and with other officials of the sect. Moody naturally took exception to his wife's conduct along this line. Early in January 1911 Moody came to Philadelphia, and in a short time his wife was induced to join him there. They were given quarters in the house of the bishop of the church—so called. On the night of February 11, 1911, while at this place, the wife told Moody that it was her intention to have the so-called bishop "bless her womb." She had never borne children to Moody, and she had been persuaded by the bishop and other men of the sect that this "blessing of the womb" was the proper thing. Moody well knew what this action meant, and he forbade her going to the bishop's room. The woman insisted. Moody then locked the door of the room they were occupying in the bishop's house in order to restrain her. The wife had in her bureau drawer a pistol which she had been carrying off and on for some time, and she then took out this weapon and started for the door. Moody tried to stop her, and seized her hands. The noise of their scuffle attracted the attention of the bishop's wife, who broke into the room and saw them in this struggle. Applicant and his wife by this time each had hold of the pistol, and in the confusion the weapon was discharged. The ball took effect in the wife's person. The wife got out of the room, and then reeled and fell. Moody was frightened, and without knowing the result of the affair, which he says was purely an accident, left the house and went across the street to the house of a "brother" in the "church," whom he told of the circumstance. He was advised to flee. He made his way to Baltimore, from which place he wrote to the bishop. The bishop called on him there and told him of his wife's death, and advised him not to return to Philadelphia, apparently fearing that the disclosures which would follow would be disastrous to him and his "church." Moody went south, and afterwards went back to Boston where he became a chauffeur and was living a lawful and orderly life. He married again. Several years afterwards he was arrested and brought back to Philadelphia on the charge of murder. He was convicted and sentenced as stated. The jury remained out on the case for about twenty-five hours before arriving at a verdict. They added to their verdict a second degree murder a recommendation for mercy.

The formal reasons put forth in the application for clemency are:

That the applicant is, and has always maintained that he is innocent of the crime of which he was convicted.

That the facts set forth in the application, which are a truthful statement of the applicant's conduct and life from the time he was married to Elizabeth Rice in Boston in 1904 until the day on which his wife was killed and shortly thereafter, did not appear at his trial.

That, if the applicant did wrong in endeavoring to prevent his wife from going to meet the bishop referred to in said application and in struggling with her, the ends of justice have been met by his imprisonment since January 1914.

That applicant has been a model prisoner, and always was, and always will be, a law abiding citizen.

Without going into further details, we will state that we are satisfied, from an examination of the record before us, which contains among other things letters from a number of prominent and responsible people who knew Moody and for whom he worked during the interval between the date of this unfortunate affair and the date of his arrest, and also letters from four or five of the jurors who convicted him, all favoring this application, that the grounds on which this application for pardon is based are not only tenable but carry with them convincing force. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Robert Moody.

Sir:—At our regular meeting held this day there were submitted for our consideration, and approval or rejection, three separate communications from the Board of Inspectors of the Western State Penitentiary, stating that the convicts therein named had been released on parole, and recommending therein that full pardons and final discharges be now granted to each of said convicts.

The following are the names of the convicts embraced in the said recommendations, with data as to their conviction, etc., respectively:

PHILIP BUTLER, Allegheny County. Entering a building, etc. Sentenced February 24, 1910, to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for from two and a half years to ten years. Paroled October 24, 1912.

CLARENCE LONG, Allegheny County. Murder, second degree. Sentenced September 18, 1908, to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for ten years. Paroled November 28, 1913.

SERAFINO BOMBIANI, Cambria County. Murder, second degree. Sentenced September 16, 1909, to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for from five years to twenty years. Paroled September 16, 1914.

With respect to each of the convicts above mentioned the Inspectors assign the statutory reasons for their recommendations, and set forth the grounds on which said reasons are based.

Therefore, it appearing that all the rules of the Board of Inspectors of the said Penitentiary, and the rules of our own Board, have been observed in the premises, and in endorsement of the report of the said Board of Inspectors, we also recommend that an Executive order issue, granting to the said Philip Butler, Clarence Long, and Serafino Bombiani, each his final discharge and pardon.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Chester, at January Term, 1913, a certain C. Miller, on December 23, 1912, entered pleas of guilty on four separate indictments charging forgery, and thereupon was sentenced in each case to pay a fine of $20, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of not less than two years and not more than five years, aggregating a fine of $80 and minimum imprisonment of eight years and maximum imprisonment of twenty years.

On December 2, 1914, an application for his pardon was duly filed which, after hearing and consideration, was refused, January 5, 1915. In February, 1915, a petition for rehearing was allowed, but at the following March meeting of the Board the application for pardon was again refused. At our recent March meeting another rehearing was allowed, and the case came before us for determination on its merits at our meeting to-day. As the matter now presents itself to us we favor the application, and we recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, C. Miller.

Miller is forty-three or forty-four years old. He is not married. His occupation is stated to be that of clerk. Shortly before his arrest, according to his allegations, he bought from several strangers two forged certified checks at ten per cent. of their face value. The checks were for twenty-five dollars each. At the suggestion of these men he then went to Phoenixville, Chester County, for the purpose of having these checks cashed. He succeeded in obtaining the money of them from two different business houses. However, suspicion arose in the minds of the persons with whom he dealt, and he forthwith returned to them the money he had received on the checks in each instance, and no loss was sustained by these people. It seems that a few months before this time certain forged checks had been negotiated in West Chester, in the same County, under somewhat similar circumstances, but in that case the parties cashing the checks had sustained the loss of their money. The Phoenixville authorities, on the strength of their knowledge and remembrance regarding the West Chester cases caused the arrest of Miller before he left Phoenixville. The four indictments alluded to hereinbefore were based on the attempted passing of the two Phoenixville checks and the passing of the West Chester Checks. While the defendant admitted his participation in the Phoenixville transaction he has all along steadily denied any connection with the West Chester affair, notwithstanding his plea in Court, which he alleges he entered under the impression that it was the easiest way out of his difficulties.

When it is considered that the defendant immediately on being questioned with reference to the genuineness of the two Phoenixville checks returned the money he had received on them, the sentence of from eight years to twenty years appears to be excessive, as claimed by this applicant, even with the admission of guilt on the two West Chester checks. It is substantially on this ground that this application for relief has been pressed. The District Attorney, who, on the former proceedings before us, had opposed the application for pardon, now writes us as follows:

"I desire to say that in consideration of all the facts and circumstances of the case, as well as the reports which have reached me concerning the exemplary conduct of this defendant since his imprisonment, I have come to the conclusion that he has been sufficiently punished for his crime, and I therefore respectfully recommend to your Honorable Board that the application in this case be granted."

The applicant has been in the Penitentiary for three years and four months, which length of imprisonment, it seems to us, justifies the District Attorney in the views expressed in his letter, and warrants us in approving of his views and consequently in favoring the application for clemency. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, C. Miller.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lehigh, to No. 80 and No. 81, April Sessions, 1915, E. C. Davis entered pleas of guilty to indictments charging in each case the crime of forgery, and in No. 80 was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the County Prison for two years and nine months; and in No. 81 to pay a fine of $500, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the County Prison for five years, which last mentioned sentence was suspended by the Court.

On April 5, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. We heard this application at our meeting to-day, and upon consideration of the matters involved we recommend that it be received favorably and that a pardon be granted the applicant, E. C. Davis.

Davis, who is also spoken of as Davies, is forty-eight years old. He is not married. His trade is that of machinist and draftsman. In the early part of the year 1915 he came from Rutland, Vt., where he had been in the employ of a Railroad Company, to visit relatives in Pennsylvania and to transact certain matters of business. Some time in March of that year he drew a check for $37.20 on a local bank to which he signed the name of a certain relative. He used this check in payment of the premium on an application for an insurance policy amounting to $25, receiving $12.20 in cash from the agent. The policy was never issued, so the loss to the agent was $12.20. The second check was signed by him with the name of his sister, and was drawn for $40. On this check he negotiated a loan for $5. The check of course was not paid on presentation, so that the loss sustained on that check was $5. The aggregate loss on the two checks was $17.20.

The applicant has been in prison for more than a year. The grounds on which the application for pardon is based are: (a) Excessive sentence, (b) failing health. On a careful review of all that was laid before us at this hearing it is our impression that under the circumstances of the case the imprisonment of more than a year which the defendant has endured is a sufficient punishment for the violation of law which he stands convict, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, E. C. Davis.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lehigh, to No. 125, June Sessions, 1915, Ella Mensinger, September 7, 1915, entered a plea of guilty on an indictment charging the keeping a disorderly house, and thereupon was sentenced to pay a fine of $20, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the County Prison for the period of one year and six months. The fine was paid, but the jail sentence was suspended and the defendant allowed to return to her home. However, on November 15, 1915, on complaint of violation of the terms of the suspended sentence the Court ordered the commitment of defendant to jail to serve the term originally imposed.

On March 20, 1916, an application for the pardon of defendant was duly filed, which application we heard and considered at our meeting to-day. On an examination of the circumstances of the case as shown to us and appearing on our record we are persuaded that the application is entitled to our favorable action, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant. Ella Mensinger.

The applicant is forty-three years of age. She is a married woman, but was not living with her husband, there having been articles of separation. She was engaged in ordinary house work and in laundry work, and as would appear in keeping lodgers and boarders. The foundation of the commitment to prison on the suspended sentence was a statement made by a young girl, who afterwards retracted her statement in a letter she sent to the Judge, which is on file with us, as well as the same statement of retraction made under oath under date of February 8, 1916. The substance of this statement is that the reason she gave the information against Mrs. Mensinger was because she was told at an Alderman's office that Mrs. Mensinger was trying to collect a board bill from her, and she, the girl, wanted to get her, Mrs. Mensinger, "in wrong on that account."

The applicant has been in prison for more than five months. The fine was paid. The suspension of sentence was nullified on false testimony, and it does not seem more than right that the applicant be restored to her freedom inasmuch as the Court originally did not deem actual incarceration a necessary part of the sentence, and the authorities do not now insist upon such incarceration. We therefore recommend that pardon be now granted the applicant, Ella Mensinger.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Chester, at January Sessions, 1911, a certain John Soos was convicted on three charges of larceny, and on February 1, 1911, was thereupon sentenced in the aggregate to pay fines of $150, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than twenty-seven months and not more than nine years.

August 31, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed which, on due hearing, was refused. On April 6, 1916, a petition for rehearing and pardon was filed, and the matter was taken up on its merits at our meeting to-day. On consideration of the case we think that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, John Soos.

Soos is forty-seven years of age. He is a foreigner; his wife is dead; he has one daughter living, who, it is represented, lives in Europe. He is a laborer by occupation. Shortly before the convictions in question his wife and certain other members of his family were found to have been murdered at their home in Chester County during the absence of Soos at his work. Suspicion pointed to Soos, but the crime of murder could not be fastened on him. However, in the investigation of this crime the officers found in his house a number of articles which were recognized as having been stolen from various places in the neighborhood not long before that time. Soos was indicted on the charges of larceny, growing out of the discovery, and convicted as above stated. It is averred by the applicant that his supposed connection with the murder spoken of contributed to his conviction and severe sentence. On his first application for pardon the authorities opposed our favorable action on the case. However the defendant has recently been paroled from the Pententiary, having served about double his mimimum sentence and more than half the maximum sentence. His only living relative is the daughter who lives in Europe and who, it is represented to us, is willing to give him a home; but under the conditions of his parole he is not permitted to leave this State. If pardoned, however, he will be free to go where he chooses. There was submitted to us at our meeting, and now remains on file, statements from the District Attorney and the Assistant District Attorney who tried the cases and from the present District Attorney also, all the effect that in the opinion of these officials the imprisonment already undergone by the defendant has been sufficient. They each recommend that this application be now favored, especially in view of the fact that the defendant proposes to return to the Old Country to live with his daughter. Under these conditions we recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, John Soos.

Respectfully submitted.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Lackawanna, to No. 17, January Term, 1915, Savario Ferrarro was indicted on the charge of statutory rape, and on February 3, 1915, entered a plea of guilty. On February 6, 1915, he was sentenced to pay a fine of $1, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from two years to fifteen years.

On April 5, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the case came on for hearing at our meeting to-day. On consideration we think the application is not untimely, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted to the applicant, Savario Ferrarro.

Ferrarro is about nineteen years old. He lived with his parents in the City of Scranton, and was employed as an ordinary laborer. He became acquainted with a young girl of his own nationality, who lived in his neighborhood, and who was employed by her God-father, the keeper of a fruit stand. These two young people were honestly attached to one another, and became engaged to be married. The God-father of the girl, vehemently objected to Farrarro's attention to the girl, and induced her parents to regard with disfavor his suit, having selected a man of his own liking whom he wished the girl to marry. The relations between the boy and the girl became intimate, and the girl told her parents of this state of affairs when they caused the arrest of Ferrarro on the charge mentioned. The girl, as stated in the indictment, was under the age of sixteen years, but more than fifteen. She was willing to marry Ferrarro but was prevented by the lack of consent of her parents and her God-father.

Technically the defendant was guilty of the crime laid in the indictment. However, he was without counsel in Court when the plea was entered and did not get the benefits of an explanation of the circumstances. His general character was good. If left to her own choice the girl would have married him. There was no aggravated feature about the case. The defendant has been in the Penitentiary for considerably more than a year out of a minimum sentence of two years. The District Attorney writes to us:

" * * In my opinion the above applicant has been punished sufficiently by the imprisonment he has already suffered pursuant to the sentence imposed upon him. While the defendant's technical guilt of the crime charged was clear, the girl's evident maturity of mind, coupled with other circumstances, eliminated those elements of moral aggravation which are usually present in such cases."

On a review of the whole case we are of the opinion that the District Attorney looks at the matter from the proper angle, and in endorsement of his views as to the sufficiency of punishment we recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Savarrio Farrarro.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lehigh, to No. 80, September Sessions, 1914, Richard McGraw entered a plea of guilty on an indictment charging him with indecent assault and incestuous adultery, and thereupon on the same day, to wit, September 15, 1914, he was sentenced to pay a fine of one thousand dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the County Prison for two years and nine months.

On May 1, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. This proceeding came on for hearing at our meeting to-day. We have given the case careful consideration, and are inclined to favor the application. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Richard McGraw.

McGraw is nearly thirty-four years old. He has a wife and seven children. His employment is given as that of a laborer, and he is represented to have been a steady and industrious worker. The charge laid in the information before the magistrate was that of indecent assault, but the indictment was framed to cover not only indecent assault, but also statutory rape and incestuous adultery. The defendant entered his plea in Court not having the aid of counsel. Under ordinary conditions, and it is possible as conditions appeared at the time of the disposal of the case, the sentence could not be said to be excessive. But in the light of subsequent events it has seemed well to counsel to advance the ground of excessive sentence for our consideration. This ground is sustained and justified by a letter from the Judge who imposed the sentence. The Judge writes us as follows:

"After McGraw was sentenced by me in said Court on the 15th of September, 1914, his daughter, on whom he was alleged to have committed the indecent assault, etc., was brought before me September 19, 1914, as an incorrigible, and she was sentenced to Glen Mills.

On October 26, 1914, I sentenced another defendant, John Gollie, for having committed fornication with the same girl.

If I had known all the facts connected with the prosecutions, and the different parties, at the time I sentenced McGraw as I knew them when I sentenced Gollie, I would have given McGraw a lighter sentence."

In addition to the ground just stated we are assured that permanent employment awaits the defendant if released. He has served more than twenty months in jail. Under the commutation law his original sentence will expire at the end of twenty-five months, so that looking at the case as put before us we feel that we can with reasonable safety favor the application. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Richard McGraw.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of York, to No. 95, August Term, 1915, M. D. Babylon, October 18, 1915, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment laying the charge of sodomy and buggery. On the same day he was sentenced to pay a fine of $1, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than two and one-half years and not more than ten years.

On April 28, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The matter was heard at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of the facts, as the same appear of record, and were stated to us, we are of the belief that the application has been properly made, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, M. D. Babylon.

Babylon is forty-three years old. He is not married. His occupation was that of hotel clerk, at which work he was employed in the City of York. His general reputation was good, as vouched by good and worthy citizens of that city. The act complained of in this prosecution was committed while the defendant was under the influence of liquor, and it is averred was not altogether at his own instigation.

The ground on which this application rests is, in substance, that the defendant is in failing health, and that under the peculiar circumstances of the affair he has been sufficiently punished. The prosecutor, who is the father of the boy involved with the defendant, certifies to his belief as to the sufficiency of the punishment. A number of very reputable residents of the City of York write us in the applicant's behalf. The District Attorney, while not openly favoring a pardon, writes us that the act was committed as the result of over-indulgence in liquor, and intimates that clemency could be properly shown on account of the condition of the health of the applicant.

This being the aspect of the matter before us we are inclined, for the reasons advanced, to recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, M. D. Babylon.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Cumberland, at September Sessions, 1913, Isaac Bowermaster entered pleas of guilty on ten separate indictments charging the various offences of carrying concealed deadly weapons, larceny, felonious assault and battery, breaking jail, furnishing liquor to minor, and selling liquor without license. On September 10, 1913, he was sentenced, in the aggregate, to pay fine of $581, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from six years and six months to eight years and six months.

On April 25, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. An explanation of the facts connected with the case was presented at our meeting to-day in support of the application. Upon consideration of these facts we are of the opinion that the application has been properly made, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Isaac Bowermaster.

Bowermaster is now about twenty-five years of age. He is not married. He lived with his mother, and was her support. For some time prior to the spring of 1913 a certain part of Cumberland County was much troubled by the depredations of a gang of chicken thieves whose operations baffled the detection of the authorities. Bowermaster was in with the gang, but that fact was not known previous to his arrest on another charge. About the middle of April, 1913, he was arrested on the charge of felonious assault and battery growing out of a drunken quarrel at a country store in the neighborhood. While in jail awaiting trial on this charge, the County Detective succeeded in getting from him a confession of his connection with the chicken stealing, wherein Bowermaster divulged the names of the members of the gang of thieves and of the "fence," through whom the stolen property was disposed of. His disclosures resulted in the arrest and conviction of various members of the gang, the breaking up of their unlawful operations, and the restoration of order in the community.

Applicant has been in the Penitentiary since September 10, 1913, and in the County jail awaiting trial six months previous to that time; so that he has served more than three years and two months imprisonment. By reason of the aid he rendered the Commonwealth in the breaking up this notorious band of thieves, possibly the worst the County of Cumberland has been infested with for many years, the officials of the County entrusted with the administration of justice favor this application for clemency. The Judge who tried the case and imposed the sentence, the trial District Attorney and the present District Attorney, the committing magistrate, and the prosecutor, have all submitted to the Board letters asking that the Board endorse the application on the ground mentioned, and for the further reason that the applicant is assured of permanent employment on his return to the county. So that on the state of our record the action of the Board could hardly be other than favorable, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Isaac Bowermaster.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 332, November Sessions, 1913, John Szymanski entered plea of guilty to an indictment charging forgery. On November 23, 1913, he was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than five years and not more than six years.

May 3, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. This application came on for hearing and determination at our meeting to-day. Having given proper examination to the matter before us, we recommend that the application be allowed, and that a pardon be granted the applicant, John Szymanski.

The applicant is thirty-one years old, and is a laborer by occupation. He was married, but his wife obtained a divorce since he has been an inmate of the Penitentiary. The offense committed by this man in this instance was the unlawful drawing and passing of a check for $97, which he turned over to a merchant in the Borough of Nanticoke in payment for some merchandise purchased, receiving the sum of $17 in cash as a balance. The merchandise, however, was not delivered, and, as we understand, the loss to the man who honored the check was the seventeen dollars. The defendant has been in prison since his arrest on the 29th of September, 1913, a period of nearly two years and eight months.

The substance of the reasons advanced for our favorable action in that this length of time in jail and the Penitentiary is sufficient punishment for his wrongful and fraudulent act, and that the cause of justice will not be outraged by his release from prison at this time. The county authorities are rather favorably disposed to the allowance of clemency at our hands, and express the belief that the grounds laid in the application are valid. We are inclined to accept this view, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, John Szymanski.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Elk, to No. 16, April Sessions, 1915, Fred W. Holes, on May 28, 1915, waived the finding of a bill by the Grand Jury, and entered a plea of guilty on an indictment laying the charge of larceny by bailee, and on the same day was sentenced to pay a fine of $5, costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than two years and not more than three years.

On March 31, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which was heard in due course at our April meeting, and the case has been held under advisement until to-day; and now, having considered the matter in the light of the record as at present existing we approve the application, and recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Fred W. Holes.

Holes is thirty years old. He was married, but is now divorced. By trade he is a jeweler. He was carrying on business in this line in the town of Ridgway with another man who furnished the capital. A customer desired to purchase a diamond, and Holes procured from a firm in Pittsburgh an assortment from which to make the selection. His story is that on receiving the package at the post office on his way to attend to some outside work he placed it in his pocket, but before he reached his place of business he met his partner and some dispute arose about their affairs, and the partner demanded the keys of the store and then and there severed their business connection. Holes immediately left the town, with the intention of going to Canada, where he had an interest in some land, as he alleges, and in his excitement overlooked his possession of the jewels. Later on, he pledged the stones to raise the necessary funds for the trip, but before getting beyond the limits of the Commonwealth he learned that his connection with the affair was likely to cause trouble, and he returned to Ridgway. He then discovered that the party to whom he had given the diamonds on pledge denied the transaction. Holes reported to the police at Ridgway that he was ready to give himself up if a warrant was taken out for him in the matter. He did subsequently surrender himself, and was committed to jail. On the trial of the case in Court he had no counsel, and entered the plea as stated, and was thereupon sentenced to imprisonment.

It has been urged that this defendant in reality had not the intention to commit the theft, which, on first glance, seems apparent in this affair, and that he is now sincerely desirous of making restitution to the owners of the diamonds if he is given the opportunity. Since his incarceration an offer has been made by an entirely responsible man, as we are advised, to assist him in a new venture at his trade in a new and promising locality if he is pardoned. Defendant avers his willingness to square himself with the Pittsburgh firm. We have on file a letter from the representative of that firm, expressing their entire approval of this application for pardon, and also a letter from the new backer of Holes expressing his faith in the good intentions of Holes in the premises. There seems to be no doubt that the defendant is an expert workman in his line of trade and under favorable environment will meet with success and that the parties interested have confidence in his good intentions. He was in jail two months awaiting trial, and will have been in the Penitentiary a few days more than a year before a pardon under these proceedings, if allowed, can go into effect. From what we can gather from our investigation it seems to us that by this imprisonment the reformatory element of his punishment has been accomplished, and the ends of justice met. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Fred W. Holes.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Bradford, to No. 5, May Term, 1910, Peter Mogull, alias Peter Mongual, was convicted, September 6, 1910, on an indictment charging robbery. September 20, 1910, he was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than fifteen months and not more than five years. After serving an imprisonment of fifteen months and twenty-one days he was paroled, January 19, 1912. On October 28, 1915, he was re-committed to the Penitentiary by reason of alleged breach of parole.

On May 5, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. Upon hearing a narration of the facts with reference to this case at our meeting to-day we are persuaded that this application for relief is meritorious, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Peter Mogull, alias Mongual.

Applicant is now about thirty-five years old. He is married, and his wife and five children are living. He is an Italian by birth, and came to this country when about fifteen years of age. At the time of his arrest he was working as a section hand on the Lehigh Valley Railroad along the northern border of the State. He has all along maintained his innocence of the charge of robbery, but the jury found against him. However, he had heretofore enjoyed a good reputation in the community in which he lived, and he was a steady worker and provided well for his family. Immediately on his release on parole in January, 1912, he was taken back in the employ of the railroad, and continued at his work with them uninterruptedly until in October, 1915, when, for the reason as alleged of a resemblance between his appearance and the photograph of a man wanted in Nebraska charged with murder he was, on the request of that State, taken to Omaha to answer the charge. On hearing there the accused was discharged from lack of evidence, it evidently being a case of mistaken identity; but his enforced absence from the limits of this State was held to be a breach of his parole, and the Penitentiary authorities brought him back and are now holding him on the five year sentence originally imposed. He has been in the Penitentiary altogether nearly two years.

Inasmuch as the removal of Mogull from the State of Pennsylvania during his term of parole was not his voluntary act there appears to be considerable force in the argument that his further detention in prison is a great hardship, especially when we are told that his old place of employment is open for him, and that his family is in destitute circumstances. Hence we think that this is a proper instance where the pardoning power may be exercised, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Peter Mogull, alias Monguai.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 110, November Sessions, 1915, Walter Manesterski, alias Krajewski was, January 13, 1916, convicted on an indictment laying the charge of false pretenses, and on the same day was sentenced to pay the costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the County Prison for one year.

On April 11, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which came on for hearing at our meeting today. Upon consideration of the matters involved as presented to us we are of the belief that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Walter Manesterski, alias Krajewski.

This applicant is 36 years old. He is married, and his wife and four year old child are living. His occupation is stated to have been that of farming. He was prosecuted by Mary Lenska, of Camden, N. J., on the ground that she had been induced to turn over to the defendant the sum of $720 on his promise to marry her. The defendant denies the promise of marriage as the inducing cause for her giving him the money, and alleges that the receipt of the money was a loan, and that there had been previous transactions of the same character between him and the prosecutrix. Further, it is alleged that the prosecutrix knew that the defendant was already married when she gave him this money. Also that upon her insisting that he marry her as a consideration of the receipt of the $720 he offered to return the money to her, but that she declined to receive it—insisting that he marry her.

The trial of the case in Court took place in the absence of counsel who had been engaged by the defendant to conduct his case. It was urged before us that the conviction was a miscarriage of justice, in that the prosecution for false pretenses was not the proper action under the conditions mentioned, and that the defendant did not have the opportunity of appeal.

The defendant has been in prison under the sentence for more than four months; his wife and child are in a destitute condition; there is apparently some question as to the legality of his imprisonment. Under all the facts in the case as we understand them we believe the application is entitled to our favorable report, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Walter Manesterski, alias Krajewski.

To the Inspectors of the Eastern State Penitentiary.

Gentlemen:—At the March meeting of the Board of Pardons the application for the pardon of John Heneghan was considered by the Board, and the matter has been held under advisement since that time.

The record before us shows that on January 10, 1911, Heneghan was sentenced by the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Lackawanna to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from two years and six months to ten years, on the charge of robbery. On July 10, 1913, at the expiration of his minimum sentence he was paroled. Subsequently, August 27, 1914, by reason of the violation of his parole in going beyond the limits of the State of Pennsylvania he was re-committed to serve out the remainder of his maximum term of ten years, in accordance with the provisions of the Act of Assembly. Up to this time, as we understand, he has served an imprisonment of about four years and three months.

Upon an examination of our record, and relying on the statements made to us by counsel, we are persuaded that under the circumstances this prisoner might properly be given another chance to redeem the past, and we therefore respectfully recommend to your Board that the said John Heneghan be re-paroled, subject to the usual rules and requirements established by your Board and called for by the Act of Assembly in such case made and provided.

Respectfully submitted,

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 169, October Sessions, 1914, Joseph McLaughlin was, October 14, 1914, convicted on the charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods, and on that day was sentenced to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than two years and two months and not more than three years.

On May 3, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and we gave a hearing of the case at our meeting to-day. On an examination into the facts in relation thereto we think the application should be approved, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, John McLaughlin.

Applicant is twenty-six years old; unmarried, and a machinist by trade. His story in explanation of the larceny complained of is: That on the day of his arrest three dozen cans of peaches, of the value of $4, were stolen from Snyder Avenue Wharf in Philadelphia, the property of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Patrick O'Neil and this applicant were arrested for the crime. McLaughlin at the time was carrying part of the goods in a bag. He denied his guilt, and stated that O'Neil simply offered him ten cents to carry the bag for him. O'Neil pleaded guilty to the crime, and corroborated the statement of McLaughlin in that McLaughlin had no guilty knowledge of the crime. McLaughlin went to trial, and was convicted. He received twenty-six months' imprisonment as a minimum, and O'Neil received twenty-seven months as his minimum.

Without dwelling further on this statement, which is taken bodily from the history of the case as furnished by the applicant, we may add that the following are the reasons laid in the application:

1. That the ends of justice have been served in that the defendant has been actually in prison over twenty months.
2. That he has been a model prisoner, and will hereafter lead a law-abiding life.
3. That he has permanent employment awaiting him where he will be assisted to lead a decent, upright, law-abiding life hereafter.

The first reason, we believe is self-sustaining. There is on file with our record a letter from a responsible business man which seems to sustain the third reason.

Under these conditions we recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Joseph McLaughlin.

Respectfully submitted,

Board of Pardons.

Harrisburg, May 24, 1916.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Dauphin, to No. 81, January Sessions, 1898, Thomas J. Joyce, January 15, 1898, entered a plea of guilty of an indictment charging perjury, and on June 16, 1898, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of sixteen months.

On May 1, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the matter was explained to us at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of the case we favor the application, and recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Thomas J. Joyce.

Applicant is now fifty-nine years of age. He is married, and his wife and two adult children are living. By trade he is a plumber. This charge of perjury grew out of a trial in the Dauphin County Court in 1897, nearly twenty years ago, wherein the same defendant was charged with libel, on which charge he was convicted, and sentenced to pay a fine and costs. That sentence was complied with at the time. The imprisonment imposed in the perjury charge has long since been served. This present application is made for the purpose of relieving the applicant from the civil disqualification attaching to the conviction and sentence in the perjury case. All the requirements of our rules have been complied with. The formal reasons set out in the application are:

Because of the advanced aged of the petitioner.
The crime having been expiated by actual service of the sentence, and the disqualifications attendant thereon having been endured for many years, the law having been amply vindicated and petitioner has suffered intense mental anguish, and disqualified from giving proper protection to his property and personal rights.
That the petitioner has since the imposition of the sentence in question led an upright and exemplary life and has not transgressed the law in any way.

No objection whatever has been raised to this application; on the contrary, the prosecutor in the case appeared before us and urged our favorable action. The reasons above quoted appeal to us as being valid and substantial, and on the grounds suggested we recommend that a pardon be granted to the applicant, Thomas J. Joyce.

Respectfully submitted,

Lieutenant Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lebanon, to Nos. 35 and 36, June Sessions, 1909, Bragio Conidini, alias Biagio Corridori, was convicted on two charges of aggravated assault and battery, and on June 11, 1909, was sentenced, in the aggregate, to pay a fine of $2, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of ten years. He was paroled October 23, 1913, having served four years and four months. However, on December 9, 1913, on another charge of felious assault and battery, he was sentenced on conviction to pay a fine of $1, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than fifteen months and not more than three years. This second conviction automatically revived the previous sentence of ten years, thus compelling the defendant to serve about five years and eight months of that sentence before the computation of time on the second sentence began. He has served a total imprisonment up to this time of about eight years.

On June 3, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which at our last meeting of last year was refused. A re-hearing was allowed a month ago, and the case came on for its second hearing at our meeting to-day in due course. Upon consideration of what has been shown us in relation to the matter in hand, we favor the application at this time, and we recommend that a pardon be granted the said applicant, Bragio Conidini.

Conidini is thirty-six years old. He is not married. He is a shoemaker by trade. We have not been advised with reference to the facts pertaining to the first conviction. However the prisoner was regarded by the prison authorities as entitled to parole on the completion of less than one-half of the sentence. On the second conviction it is alleged that he himself was not active in the assault, but was a member of the party, or was in the crowd, that made the attack. All the other participants in the affair have been released, either on parole or by expiration of term of imprisonment. At the previous hearing the District Attorney opposed the grant of clemency, but an additional eleven months' imprisonment having been served he interposes no objection at this time, although he does not affirmatively recommend a pardon. The prisoner has served more than fourteen months in excess of the minimum sentence of fifteen months on the last charge and only about six months less than the maximum of three years. Altogether he has served nearly seven years. In view of this lengthy imprisonment we feel that the ends of justice have been reached in the case of this defendant, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the said applicant, Bragio Conidini, alias Biagio Corridori.

Respectfully submitted,

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lehigh, to No. 142, January Sessions, 1915, Frank Veres Weinsberger, April 5, 1915, entered a plea of guilty on an indictment charging false pretences, and on the same day received a sentence to pay a fine of $500, costs and to undergo imprisonment in the county prison for two years and six months.

On April 3, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the case was heard at our April meeting. Its disposition was then held under advisement. And now, having fully considered the matter in the light of the record before us and statements made to us, we recommend that the application be favored and that a pardon be granted the applicant, Frank Veres Weinsberger.

Applicant is fifty-six years of age. He is married, and his wife and seven children are living. His trade is that of painting and paper hanging, but in the winter months he was accustomed to engage in the produce business. He was sometimes known as Frank Veres. On September 25, 1914, he asked a certain John Zack to cash a check for him drawn to the order of Frank Veres, which he endorsed in that style. The check was drawn by C. M. Harting. On presentation for payment it was pronounced of no value. Weinsberger failed to make it good, and this information was laid against him. His explanation is that he had been assured by a friend in whom he had confidence that the check was good. The amount of the check was $14.52, and the defendant said it had been passed to him in part payment for a horse.

The defendant's arrest and imprisonment has broken up his home. His wife has gone out to service, although in poor health, and his children have been placed in the hands of strangers, the oldest child being fourteen years old. We are advised that this is the applicant's first offense. He has been in prison more than a year. His health is breaking down; his family is suffering and likely to become a public charge. In reality, under all the circumstances as detailed to us, we see no good reason for detaining the man in the Penitentiary any longer, as no benefit to the community nor to any individual will result therefrom. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Frank Veres Weinsberger.

Respectfully submitted,

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Beaver, to No. 3, December Term, 1914, Sam Mullenuck was tried on the charge of felonious rape and fornication and bastardy, and on December 19, 1914, was returned by the jury as guilty as indicted. On December 23, 1914, he was sentenced to pay a fine of $1, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than two years and not more than fifteen years; and also to pay to the mother of the prosecutrix the sum of $25 lying-in expenses, and the further sum of $2 per week for the maintenance of the bastard child until it shall have arrived at the age of seven years.

March 1, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the case was heard at our March meeting. We have held the matter under advisement since that time; and now, having given the case full consideration, and in view of the state of our record at this time, we are inclined to favor the application, and to recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Sam Mullenuck.

Mullenuck is about twenty-six years old. He is an Italian, and has been in this country since 1907. He is a laborer. While working for a glass company at Beaver Falls in 1913 and 1914 he became acquainted with the prosecutrix, Edith Campbell, who worked for the same company. He was persuaded to go to the Campbell house and take a room. The acquaintance between him and Edith grew into intimacy, and sexual intercourse followed. the result of which was the birth of a child. Defendant offered to marry the girl, but for some reason that consummation could not be reached, and his trial and sentence followed.

The reasons on which this application for clemency is urged are as follows:

That the applicant has at all times been frank and candid concerning his part in the offense which led to his arrest, and has not by denials increased or added to his guilt.

That the applicant was told by the prosecuting witness, Edith Campbell, that she was more than seventeen years of age, and he relied upon her statements.

That the applicant had an opportunity to escape before being arrested, but refused to do so, saying he was accountable for the prosecuting witnesses' trouble, wanted to marry her and do what was right.

That the applicant, when arrested, wanted and offered to marry the prosecuting witness, Edith Campbell. At the trial of the cause renewed this offer, and is still willing to marry her.

That the applicant is willing to carry out the sentence of the Court as to payment for lying-in expenses and for the support and maintenance of the child.

That the applicant has, in view of all the circumstances surrounding this offense, already been sufficiently punished, and no further punishment can serve any good purpose, either reformative or deterrent.

The defendant has been in the Penitentiary nearly a year and a half. While he is in prison, compliance with the maintenance sentence is an impossibility. Besides, being a comparative stranger it is equally impossible for him to furnish the usual bond in bastardy cases. The glass company for which he worked is willing to take him back at his old place, as he was regarded as one of their best hands. The man seems to have the confidence of those who knew him, to the extent that they believe he is honest and sincere in his declarations of willingness to provide for his child. It was suggested that the interests of the Commonwealth would be guarded if the defendant's own recognizance were accepted and he be pardoned and placed in position to earn a competence. Pending our holding the case such preliminaries have been worked out, and we now have on file a letter from the District Attorney of the county stating that the defendant has entered into his own recognizance to comply with the sentence of the Court, and that this recognizance is satisfactory to the Commonwealth.

In view of this state of things we recommend that a pardon be granted the defendant, Sam Mullenuck.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Chester, at January Term, 1914, Grant Stupp, waiving the finding of a bill of indictment on the charge of forgery on December 29, 1913, entered a plea of guilty, and on that day was sentenced to pay a fine of $50, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than five years and not more than ten years.

On May 3, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The case was heard at our meeting to-day. After consideration of the matters involved we report in favor of the application, and recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Grant Stupp.

Stupp is about thirty-one years old. He is not married. He is a barber by trade. In November, 1913, he was working at his trade in the Borough of Phoenixville, and boarded with a Mr. Barlow. On November 20, he presented to Mr. Barlow a check for fifty dollars purporting to be drawn by applicant's father, who lived in Reading; which check he asked Mr. Barlow to cash. The latter endorsed the check, and on his endorsement the local bank cashed it. The check was not genuine, and was protested when presented for payment at the Reading Bank. Mr. Barlow was compelled to make the amount good at the Phoenixville bank.

The reasons put forth in support of this application for clemency are:

The ends of justice have been adequately served and the law has been fully vindicated in the punishment already endured by petitioner.

Petitioner is a young man, and since his incarceration has conducted himself well and has given reason for a belief in his thorough reformation.

The prosecutor, entertaining these views, is willing at this time to unite in an application for clemency.

More good to the community will result from his pardon than benefit to the public by its refusal.

The defendant has been in the Penitentiary for about two years and five months. The prosecutor, in endorsing the application writes: "If he is pardoned we propose to take him back into our home and have secured the same job for him in Phoenixville which he had at the time of his arrest, and I have confidence that he will lead a straight life hereafter, and that he has been sufficiently punished for his offence."

The District Attorney favors the grant of clemency in view of the time served.

Under this condition of affairs we recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Grant Stupp.

Sir:—At our regular meeting held this day there were submitted for our consideration, and approval or rejection, nine separate communications from the Inspectors of the Eastern State Penitentiary, and two similar communications from the Inspectors of the Western State Penitentiary, all stating that the respective convicts therein named had been theretofore released on parole, and recommending therein that full pardons and final discharges be now granted to each of said convicts.

The following are the names of the convicts embraced in the recommendation of the Inspectors of the Eastern Penitentiary, with data as to their conviction, etc., respectively:

ALBERT BUTLER, alias LAMPHERE, Lackawanna County. Robbery. Sentenced August 12, 1907, for fifteen years. Paroled November 1, 1913.

CARMINO MELCHOINE, Chester County. Manslaughter. Sentenced August 26, 1907, for twelve years. Paroled October 28, 1913.

MIKE BERNESKY, Luzerne County. Manslaughter. Sentenced April 24, 1909, for nine years. Paroled November 26, 1913.

JACOB C. BAUGHMAN, Union County. Administering poison with intent, etc. Sentenced October 9, 1909, three years and six months to fourteen years. Paroled September 20, 1913.

WILLIAM COTTERO, alias COTTREW, alias DANIEL M. COTTON, Luzerne County. Larceny and robbery. Sentenced January 22, 1909, two years and six months to ten years. Paroled October 7, 1913.

CHARLES WHITE, Wyoming County. Rape. Sentenced May 24, 1910, three years and nine months to fifteen years. Paroled March 2, 1914.

SOLOMAN CROMM, alias SOLOMON CROMM, alias CROOMS, Chester County. Statutory burglary. Sentenced February 3, 1911, two years and six months to ten years. Paroled November 26, 1913.

ALBERT CRICK, alias JAMES A. CRICK, Dauphin County. Burglary. Sentenced June 15, 1911, two years to ten years. Paroled November 26, 1913.
STANLEY SHUDACAVICZ, Luzerne County. Burglary and larceny. Sentenced June 26, 1911, two years and six months to ten years. Paroled January 27, 1914.

Similar data with respect to the recommendations of the Inspectors of the Western Penitentiary:

LOUIS LEVINE, Allegheny County. Larceny. Sentenced May 7, 1913, two years and eleven months to three years. Paroled April 7, 1913.
JOSEPH TOMSCANYI, Allegheny County. Embezzlement. Sentenced May 28, 1913, two years and six months to three years. Paroled November 28, 1915.

With respect to each of the convicts above named the Inspectors assign the statutory reasons for their recommendations, and set forth the grounds on which said reasons are based.

Therefore, it appearing that all the rules of the Boards of Inspectors of the said Penitentiaries, and the rules of our own Board have been observed in the premises, and in endorsement of the reports of the said Inspectors, we also recommend that an executive order issue, granting to the said Albert Butler, alias Lamphere; Carmino Melchoine; Mike Bernesky; Jacob C. Baughman; William Cottero, alias Cottrew, alias Daniel M. Cotton; Charles White, Soloman Crooms, alias Cromms; Albert Crick, alias James A. Crick; Stanley Shudacavicz; Louis Levine, and Joseph Tomscanyi, each his final discharge and pardon.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lackawanna, to No. 446, May Sessions, 1915, Albert Levey, alias Albert C. Howe, on July 17, 1915, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging forgery, and thereupon was, on the same day, sentenced to pay a fine of $1, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than three years and not more than five years. A certain Edward Springer was jointly indicted with him, but this last named defendant was paroled at the time of the trial.

On April 19, 1916, an application for the pardon of Levey was duly filed. The application was presented on its merits at our April meeting, and it has been held under advisement up to this time. We have fully considered the application in all its bearings, and are now of the opinion that the same should be allowed. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Albert Levey, alias Albert C. Howe.

This applicant is twenty-seven years old. He is married, and his wife and two children are living. By occupation he is an insurance agent. In June, 1915, these two defendants were boarding at a certain house in the City of Scranton, and while there Levey drew a check to the order of Springer bearing a fictitious signature, and of course entirely worthless. The check was tendered to the boarding house keeper by Springer, who, upon inquiry by the first named, admitted that it was not good. The check was not further negotiated. Both defendants were arrested on the charge of false pretences on account of their connection with the matter; the indictment, however, to which they pleaded guilty, was for forgery.

The ground on which this application for clemency is made is substantially that the defendant has been sufficiently punished, and that the ends of justice have been met in his case in view of the fact that his co-defendant was not imprisoned at all. There was some intimation during the progress of the hearing that this prisoner was wanted in other jurisdictions on a similar charge, but investigation by counsel since the hearing in April has convinced us that this intimation cannot be sustained, letters from the police authorities in the localities spoken of having been produced to this effect.

Inasmuch as no loss accrued to any one by reason of this forged check, and as the defendant has been in the Penitentiary about ten months, and the case not appearing to be an aggravated one, we are disposed to favor the application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Albert Levey, alias, Albert C. Howe.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Schuylkill to No. 1482 and No. 1482A, Charles Wilson entered pleas of guilty on indictments charging, in the first numbered case, burglary, entering in the night time without breaking, and receiving stolen goods; and in the second case with larceny, entering with intent to steal, and receiving stolen goods. In the first case he was sentenced, November 12, 1908, to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for nine years and six months; in the second case the sentence was suspended.

On June 7, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the matter was brought to our attention at our meeting to-day. On a proper understanding of the facts in the case it is plain that the application should be sustained, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Charles Wilson.

Wilson is thirty years old. He is single, and by calling is a stationary engineer. The value of the goods alleged to have been stolen in the first mentioned indictment was forty-seven dollars, and in the second indictment twenty-four dollars. He has been in the penitentiary for nearly eight years. Ordinarily he would have been discharged under the commutation act in December, 1914, but he has been held by reason of there appearing against him some twenty-three months of an unexpired term of six years imposed in 1904—forfeited commutation in the Schuykill County jail. There certainly is undue hardship in this condition of affairs when the value of the stolen property and the length of imprisonment are measured together. The ends of justice surely have been reached, and no further good can be hoped for by keeping this man in prison any longer. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Charles Wilson.

The following are the names of the convicts referred to, with data as to their convictions, etc., respectively:

EDWIN L., alias EDWARD L. WEAVER, Philadelphia County. Murder, second degree. Sentenced April 5, 1907, for fifteen years. Paroled October 21, 1913.

GEORGE NEAL, Bucks County. Burglary, aggravated assault and battery, felonious entry, etc. Sentenced May 21, 1908, for fifteen years. Paroled October 21, 1913.
GUISEPPI RICCARDI, Delaware County. Murder, second degree. Sentenced March 27, 1909, for ten years from December 5, 1908. Paroled December 19, 1913.
ALFRED GREEN, Delaware County. Murder, second degree. Sentenced June 20, 1910, for twelve years. Paroled June 20, 1913.
RODGER P. COCKERILL, Philadelphia County. Manslaughter. Sentenced March 31, 1911, for twelve years. Paroled March 31, 1914.

With respect to each of the convicts above named the Inspectors assign the statutory reasons for their recommendations and set forth the grounds on which said reasons are based.

Therefore, it appearing that all these Rules of the Board of Inspectors of the Penitentiary, and the Rules of our own Board, have been observed in the premises, and in endorsement of the report of said Inspectors, we also recommend that an executive order issue, granting to the said Edwin L. Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 265, March Sessions, 1914, Aloyd Jackson, March 16, 1914, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging assault and battery with intent to steal, and robbery. On the same day he was sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than three years and not more than five years.

On June 6, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The case was heard and considered at our meeting to-day. We think the application is entitled to favorable action, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Aloyd Jackson.

Jackson is twenty-six years old. He is not married; he is a laborer by occupation. He has no criminal record. On a certain night in February, 1914, Mrs. Mary J. Grant, while on the streets of Germantown, was jostled and had her pocketbook snatched from her. A week or so later the pocketbook was found, with its contents, about nine dollars, missing, but in the pocketbook was the card of this applicant. This led to his arrest. He denied his guilt, but when the case was called to trial, as he alleges, he was told by some one that if he entered a plea of guilty his sentence would be light. In this of course he was mistaken. However, he has been in prison for about twenty-eight months. He protests his innocence. Mrs. Grant was not very positive in her identification, but at that time the authorities were troubled a good deal by purse-snatching, and it may be that he was heavily sentenced in the way of a warning. He had a clean record theretofore; his parents are aged and are in need of his assistance. The twenty-eight months' imprisonment seems to have all the effect of the service of the entire term, so far as the defendant is concerned. Under these conditions we think clemency may now be shown without the interests of the Commonwealth being in any way injured. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Aloyd Jackson.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lycoming, to No. 45, September Sessions, 1912, Joseph Gulick, September 3, 1912, waiving the finding of a true bill, entered a plea of guilty on an indictment charging in the first count breaking and entering a building with intent to commit a felony, and in the second count with larceny. On the same day he was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of from five years to eight years, on the first count, and on the second count to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of from one year to three years, to be computed from the expiration of the sentence on the first count; aggregating an imprisonment of from six years to ten years.

On June 7, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. On hearing the case at our meeting to-day we found that the application has been well taken, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Joseph Gulick.

Gulick is forty-one years old. He is not married, and prior to his arrest had held a clerical position. He had once before served an imprisonment in the jail of Northumberland County of one year for larceny. The charge in this present case was the entering a chicken house and stealing fifteen chickens of the total value of twelve dollars. While in this act of theft he was shot in the wrist, and from the effects of the shot his right hand is practically useless. He has been in the Penitentiary nearly four years, and naturally, considering the crime and the sentence, the reason advanced for his liberation is that he has been pretty severely punished. It needs but little argument to sustain this reason. The application, however, is supported by the endorsement of the prosecutor, the prosecuting District Attorney, and the present District Attorney. We have found no difficulty in reaching a conclusion in this case, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Joseph Gulick.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lehigh, to No. 103, January Sessions, 1914, Leonard Wyning and Ralph Emmerich were indicted for burglary, larceny, and receiving stolen goods, and on arraignment, March 16, 1914, pleaded guilty. On the same day they were sentenced each to pay a fine of twenty-five dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from three years to six years.

On June 6, 1916 an application for their pardon was duly filed. The application was heard and considered at our meeting to-day. Upon reflecting we think the application has been well supported, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicants, Leonard Wyning and Ralph Emmerich.

These defendants are both boys. Wyning is not yet nineteen years of age and Emmerich is a little more than nineteen. They lived at home with their parents in Pottstown. Neither had a trade, but they worked as ordinary laborers at whatever they could get. Neither one had ever before been convicted of crime. They left their home in Pottstown on February 27, 1914, riding a coal train, for Allentown, in the search of work. They reached Allentown about midnight, and on alighting entered a small office building there for shelter. This entry was the basis of the charge against them. They were indicted as stated. The value of the goods alleged to have been stolen is given as about ten dollars. When called for trial and sentence they untruthfully stated their ages to be above twenty-one years, which statements led the Judge to sentence them to the penitentiary, although their real age called for their commitment to the reformatory. In this connection the committing Judge, in his letter to counsel, states:

"When sentence was imposed I was under the impression, in fact, was so informed by them, that they were above a certain age, preventing me from sending them to the Huntingdon Reformatory, as I had intended. I was also of the opinion that the young men should be placed in some institution where there was a possibility of learning a trade, or acquire knowledge of some useful occupation; this could not be done in our local jail, and they were sent to the Eastern Penitentiary. I have since learned that both young men misrepresented their ages for the purpose of escaping a sentence to the Reformatory. Under the circumstances of the case, and from the further fact that it seems that both have given evidences of reform at times by their course of conduct while in confinement, I feel that I should not interfere with or object to the granting of a pardon to them."

The District Attorney writes in the same strain:

"It seems that these young men were fearful of being sent to the Huntingdon Reformatory, and at the time sentence was imposed upon them they stated that they were twenty-one years of age. I am sure that the sentence was imposed upon them with the idea that their representations were correct.

I do not suppose that our Judge doubted their statements at all. I have no objections to their parole or pardon. I understand they both have good records in the penitentiary, and therefore I am satisfied that their cases will receive proper consideration with the Board of Pardons."

These boys have homes to go to where they can be taken care of, and, remembering that they have been in the penitentiary nearly twenty-eight months, and taking note of the letters of the Judge and of the District Attorney, we have no doubt that the ends of justice have been reached in their cases, and we, therefore recommend that a pardon be issued the applicants, Leonard Wyning and Ralph Emmerich.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Chester, at January Sessions, 1916, George Garriss, alias Tug Garriss, on February 1, 1916, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with impersonating an officer under the Act of 1893, and on the same day was sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the County Prison for nine months.

On June 7, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. When the case was explained to us at our meeting to-day its merits were recognized, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant George alias Tug Garriss.

Garriss is twenty-nine years old. He is not married. By employment he is a laborer. The history of the case, as submitted to us in the letter of the District Attorney, in itself furnishes a brief statement of the charge and the ground on which our recommendation is predicated. We quote the letter:

"This man was thought to be implicated with his brother, Thomas Garriss, in a couple of serious highway robberies. When arrested he was wearing an officer's badge which he claimed he bought in a local pawn shop. He was charged with highway robbery and impersonating an officer. At the trial of these cases, which were tried together, it developed that George Garriss had nothing to do with the highway robberies, and he was convicted only on the charge of impersonating an officer. This man gave the Commonwealth some valuable information in regard to the more serious branch of the case, and was largely instrumental in enabling the Commonwealth to convict the principal offenders, and in view of this, as well as of the fact that he has served already a pretty substantial sentence for the crime that he committed, this office respectfully suggests that in our opinion the ends of public justice will be met by a favorable recommendation in this case."

It would thus appear that a very trifling offense was committed, if indeed an offense under the statute was at all consummated, and under our conception of the facts in the case we think the defendant is entitled to be released from prison. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, George Garriss, alias Tug Garriss.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 248, September Term, 1911, Charles Samone, on an indictment charging murder, was, November 19, 1911, returned by the jury as guilty of manslaughter, and on December 2, 1911, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from eleven years and six months to twelve years.

On June 6, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the case came on for hearing at our meeting to-day. We have carefully considered the matter in the light of the record before us and of the statements made at the hearing, and we are of the belief that the application should be favored. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Charles Samone.

Samone is thirty-eight years old. He is married, and his wife and three children are living. He was employed as a coal miner in the mines at Pittston. He had never before been accused of crime, and he enjoyed a good reputation in his neighborhood. The victim of the homicide was a Sicilian by the name of Sam Amentillo, whom the applicant shot on the evening of July 29, 1911. He found Amentillo in his house annoying his wife. Amentillo was a man of unsavory reputation, and was regarded as a desperate character. On the night in question he was armed and the evidence shows that when discovered by Samone he attempted to shoot the applicant. This present application for clemency is based on the contention that the applicant has been sufficiently punished, having been imprisoned nearly five years, and in support of this theory the statement of the prosecuting officer and many other endorsements of the application appear on our file. The prosecutor's letter is as follows:

"At the time of the trial of Charles Samone I was the prosecutor in the said case and also the chief of police of the City of Pittston. Since that time I have been County Detective of the County of Luzerne, and am now connected with the sheriff's office of the said county. The defense of Charles Samone was that he killed Sam Amentello in protecting his wife's honor. Since that time I have learned that not only this was true but that Sam Amentello had intercourse with defendant's wife several times and without her consent. In fact that he raped her on several occasions, and she concealed the fact, fearing for the safety of herself and husband. Samone up to the time of the killing of which he was found guilty was a peaceful and law-abiding citizen, and was never in any trouble before.

Therefore I being a person who was interested in the role of prosecutor ask this honorable Board to show clemency to Charles Samone in his application for pardon."

We are impressed with the force of the statements and arguments presented at the hearing, and in view of all that has been brought to our attention we think this is a case where clemency may properly be shown. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Charles Samone.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Warren, to No. 1, September Term, 1914, Charles E. Weeks, September 7, 1914, with the approval of the Court, entered a plea of nolo contendere to an indictment charging him with murder in the second degree, and thereupon, on that day, was sentenced to undergo an imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary of from five years to twenty years.

On June 5, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The case was heard at our meeting to-day, and upon due consideration of the facts of the case as learned from an examination of our record and from statements made at the hearing, we are persuaded that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Charles E. Weeks.

Weeks is forty-five years of age. He is married, and his wife and five children are living. At the time of his arrest he was engaged in the conduct of a cigar store in the City of Jamestown, N. Y., living, however, in the County of Warren, this State, where he also carried on a farming operation. The farm is just within the line of the two States, and his home is about midway between the towns of Warren, Pennsylvania, and Jamestown, New York. The victim of the homicide, Leo Ganey, was an employe on the farm. The defendant passed from his home on the farm to his store in Jamestown daily, there being convenient transportation facilities. On the evening of May 31, 1914, he left Jamestown late in the evening to go to his home. Prior to entering the house at the farm he observed from the outside of the house his wife dressed for bed, standing in the room occupied by Ganey. He overheard conversation between the two, wherein Ganey requested Mrs. Weeks to consent to occupy his bed with him, and heard her declination upon the ground that she was afraid her husband or daughter would come home. Upon entering his house after this observation he immediately charged his wife with improper relations with Ganey, and insisted that she tell him the truth in that connection. He told her what he had seen and heard, and finally she confessed to him the existance of improper relations between her and Ganey, which had existed for some time. Weeks immediately seized a revolver and started for the room of Ganey, and upon coming into his presence he fired a shot which killed Ganey then and there. Weeks made no effort to escape. On the contrary he at once went to the house of a neighbor where there was a telephone, and notified the police officials at the town of Warren what had occurred, and stated that he would await their arrival and surrender himself to arrest. He was arrested that night, and at once lodged in jail. He waived a preliminary hearing, and remained in jail until called for trial in the following September.

The formal grounds on which this application for pardon is based are:

1. The great provocation under which said crime was committed.
2. The financial necessity that petitioner earn and provide means for the care, nurture and education of his minor children.
3. The previous good character of petitioner.
4. The entire lack of criminal tendency on the part of petitioner.
5. The physical and mental suffering entailed upon the family and relatives of petitioner through his continued confinement.
6. The general good moral character of petitioner.
7. The present opportunity offered petitioner to earn a livelihood for himself and his family and dependents.

At the hearing there were submitted for our information, and now remain on our files, letters and testimonials of the highest character abundantly supporting these reasons. Without going into further details, we report that it was made to appear to our satisfaction that the nearly two years in the penitentiary has been a severe punishment to this applicant, and that he has already suffered as much punishment as if the full penalty imposed were exacted. In view of the need of his large family of young children for his support and guidance, and the adequacy of the punishment undergone, we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Charles E. Weeks.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Chester, at January Term, 1916, Paul Caulford was, February 4, 1916, returned by a jury as guilty on an indictment charging statutory rape; and upon February 7, 1916, was sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from two years to six years.

On February 29, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which at our February meeting was withdrawn, with leave to renew. On May 5, 1916, the application was renewed and was heard at our May meeting. It has been held under advisement since that time. And now, having fully considered the matter we are of the opinion that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Paul Caulford.

Caulford is nineteen years old. He is a lineman in the employ of a telephone company, and at the time of his arrest was working in Chester County. There is no denial of the corpus delicti, but it is alleged that, under all the circumstances of the case, the grade of offense did not rise higher than that of fornication. We do not deem it necessary to elaborate on the circumstances, all of which were explained to us at the time of the hearing. On a review of the matter before us, and after according it full consideration, we think the application should be allowed and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Paul Caulford.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Lackawanna, to No. 1, February Term, 1912, John Zakaluk, on February 5, 1912, entered a plea of guilty on an indictment charging burglary, and on that day was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of from two years and six months to five years.

On April 7, 1915, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which, after hearing, was held under advisement, and subsequently, May 26, 1915, refused. In the following November a petition for rehearing was made, but rehearing was refused. At our recent May meeting, on second petition for rehearing, a rehearing was allowed, and the case came before us to-day in due course. And now, upon full consideration, we deem that the application is ripe for allowance. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, John Zakaluk.

Zakaluk is about fifty-five years old. He came to this country some time in the early part of 1906, and soon afterwards obtained work in the mines at Mahanoy City. One Sunday in June of 1906 he visited Easton, and, according to his story, there bought a suit of clothes from a man named Reap, who, it appeared, had stolen them. Almost immediately after he was arrested on the charge of stealing the clothes, and was tried and convicted under the name of Hewko. Hewko was his brother-in-law, whose passport Zakaluk had in his pocket at the time of his arrest. On this charge he was sentenced to the Eastern Penitentiary for eight years. After serving five and a half years he was released under the commutation law on September 15, 1911. On November 12, 1911, while in a state of drunkenness he entered a store in Scranton in the day time and took a quantity of ladies' clothing therefrom. He was arrested on the spot, and the articles were all returned to their owner. On the trial for this crime he was sentenced to the Eastern Penitentiary for from two years and six months to five years, and it is this sentence he is now serving, and from which he asks to be released. From this statement of facts, assuming it is a correct statement, it is apparent that this man has been in the penitentiary since he landed in this country early in 1906 all the time with the exception of a few months. Under the working of the commutation act the inspectors of the penitentiary are barred from extending him any relief until he serves out the full term of both the above sentences, but there is now no disposition on the part of the prosecuting authorities to exact this full measure of penalty. The District Attorney who secured this second conviction writes us that he does not believe any harm can come from favoring this application. Under the conditions mentioned, we deem it well to recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, John Zakaluk.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Armstrong, to No. 2, June Term, 1915, Tony George, together with three other defendants, waiving the finding of a true bill, entered a plea of guilty on an indictment charging assault with intent to rob, robbery, and larceny from the person. On the same day, to wit, May 17, 1915, George was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for seven years.

On June 6, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. We heard this application at our meeting to-day. Upon considering the case on its merits we are of the opinion that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Tony George.

The petitioner is about twenty-one years of age. He is a Macedonian by nativity. He is married, but his wife is still in Macedonia. By occupation he is a laborer in the glass making business. It is not known that he has ever been in any other trouble, than this present charge, of a criminal nature. On the second of April, 1915, this applicant and three other men went out into the country near Ford City, where he worked, and after having gone some distance two of these men attacked the third and committed the assault and robbery complained of. This applicant was present, but it is stated in his behalf that he did not take any part in the assault. We have the statement of the victim himself to this effect. The prosecuting officer writes us as follows:

"I was the prosecuting witness, being the chief of police in Ford City Borough. And am still chief of police. I am satisfied from what I have seen that Tony George has been punished sufficiently and would make a good citizen if pardoned. I therefore respectfully ask that he may be granted a pardon."

Other similar endorsements of the application are on file, and they are supplemented by a letter of the District Attorney which is concurred in by the Trial Judge. The letter of the District Attorney is as follows:

"In this case Charles B. Hutchison, who at the time of the commission of the crime was chief of police in Ford City Borough, and still is, was the prosecuting witness and signed the information. I have known Mr. Hutchison very well for quite a number of years, and am satisfied, after examining his letter in this case, that he would not recommend the pardon of any person unless they fully deserved the same.

I am also well acquainted with Nathan Liberty, and know him to be a man of integrity and one that would not make the statements contained in his letter without having satisfied himself of the truth.

I have examined the petition of the Greek residents of Ford City, of Mr. Hutchison, Mr. Liberty, and Mr. Vensel, and that of Saoycha Illia, the injured party, and on this showing, together with my knowledge of the writers, I am satisfied that a fair case is presented for a pardon.

I would therefore respectfully recommend the same."

To this letter is appended the following:

"And now, May 22nd, 1916, I concur in recommending the pardon of Tony George.

J. W. KING,
P. J., Thirty-third Judicial District."

On this showing of the case, and the applicant having served about fourteen months' imprisonment, we agree that he has been sufficiently punished, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the said applicant, Tony George.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Dauphin, to No. 1, March Sessions, 1916, H. M. Gibson was, March 21, 1916, returned by a jury as guilty of attempting larceny. The indictment charged him with larceny, larceny as bailee, and receiving stolen goods. On the day of the conviction the Court sentenced the defendant to pay a fine of five dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Dauphin County Prison for the term of eight months.

On June 7, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, which came on regularly for hearing at our meeting to-day. Due consideration having been given to the facts in the case, as brought to our attention, we are of the opinion that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommended that a pardon be granted the applicant, H. M. Gibson.

Gibson is twenty-eight years old. He is married, and his wife and one child are living. Their home is in the City of Newark, N. J., where the defendant was employed as a clerk in one of the markets of that city. The defendant had never before been convicted or accused of crime. His arrest in the present instance occurred under the following circumstances: He and his wife were on their way from Lewistown, Pa., where they had been visiting, to their home in New Jersey. There was a stop off of an hour or so in the City of Harrisburg. The defendant was under the influence of liquor. He left his wife in the station and he went out, as he stated, to buy a hat. He visited a hat store and purchased a hat, tendering a twenty dollar bill in payment. In making and counting the change the salesman accused Gibson of trying to steal five dollars. There was some dispute between them, which ended in the defendant's arrest and his indictment as stated .

The reasons urged in favor of his pardon are that he has been substantially and sufficiently punished for what he did. The superintendent of the Rescue Home of Newark, who has known the defendant for a long time, as well as his family and previous record, has become interested in his case, and appeared before us and explained to us the situation in its details. He assured us that if released he himself will keep an oversight on Gibson, having already secured a place where he can have immediate employment. The Dauphin County prosecuting authorities, while not positively and affirmatively recommending our favorable action, passively acquiesce in a recognition of the merits of the application.

Under the conditions shown us, we are satisfied that we can safely favor this application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the application H. M. Gibson.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Northampton, to No. 71, February Term, 1915, Earl Garis, together with Claude Hartzell, April 15, 1915, entered a plea of non vult on an indictment charging assault with intent to commit highway robbery, and was on that day sentenced to pay a fine of $25, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the County Prison for a period of four years. Hartzell received a similar sentence.

On June 3, 1916, an application for the pardon of Garis was duly filed, and upon hearing of the case, and explanation of the facts in connection therewith, at our meeting to-day, we find that the application is entitled to our favorable action; we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Earl Garis.

Garis is a boy nineteen years of age, who lived with his parents; he had learned the trade of silk weaving. His reputation had been good. About the Easter season of last year he was induced while in the company of his co-defendant, a much older man, to indulge in drinking egg nog. Garis became very much under the influence of the liquor, and Hartzell and another man, unknown to the applicant, undertook to assist him home. For some reason this second man, whom they ran into unexpectedly and who was a volunteer in his service, knocked Garis down, and while Garis was lying on the pavement a fourth man approached whom the other two attacked. The new arrival called for help. Hartzell and the first stranger fled. Hartzell was caught, but the other man escaped. Garis and Hartzell were charged with assault, and, as is now alleged, Garis, against his own judgment, was induced to enter a plea of guilty under the expectation of having sentence suspended. The man who was assaulted says that Garis did not take any part in the attack upon him and had no participation in the affair. However, the facts were not placed before the Court, and the severe sentence was imposed. Affidavits tending to show the truth of the applicant's version of the trouble have been placed before us, as well as affidavits of physicians that the applicant is in an incipient stage of tuberculosis of the lungs. He has been in jail for more than a year. On full consideration of what we are persuaded is the truth about this case we have reached the conclusion that the application is sustained, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Earl Garis.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Fayette, to No. 7, September Term, 1906, Alfred F. Jones, September 7, 1906, was returned by a jury as guilty of murder in the first degree, and on November 12, 1907, was sentenced to be hanged. On application duly filed, the death penalty was, February 28, 1908, commuted on the recommendation of the Board of Pardons to that of imprisonment for life.

On June 6, 1916, an application for the pardon of the defendant was duly filed. This application was heard and considered by us at our meeting to-day, with the result that the appeal for pardon meets with our approval, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Alfred F. Jones.

Jones is a colored man, now about forty-five years of age. He was employed as a farm hand in Fayette County, and possessed the best of reputation as a decent, upright and all around good citizen. The victim of the homicide was his wife, whom he had married in 1904. Jones had been raised among white people, and his ideas of morality and chastity were of a high order. His wife, who he at first thought was a worthy and pure woman, turned out to be of loose morals, and she refused to give up her life of shame, although importuned by Jones to go to housekeeping with him. In the extremity of the situation, during an interview between them, the homicide took place, under circumstances fully explained in the recommendation for commutation on file. On the strength of the letters of the Trial Judge and of the District Attorney submitted to the Board in the proceedings for commutation, it is now urged that the finding of the Board in 1908 was the equivalent of a second degree verdict; and, the prisoner having now served a term of imprisonment which, measured by the penalty of murder in the second degree, has been expiation for his crime, it would be consistent with the demands of justice to extend to him now a full pardon. The trial Judge, in addressing the Board, writes, first repeating the letter he wrote in 1908 in favor of the commutation, and then says:

"In the matter of his application for full pardon I now reiterate in his behalf all the matters set forth in the foregoing letter and join there as earnestly and sincerely as I did in the application for commutation in 1908. I am satisfied that this is a meritorious application, and in view of the former good reputation and character of the applicant, if he is pardoned, I would not hesitate forthwith to take him in my employ for such services as he is able to perform."

The Trial District Attorney also writes:

"I was District Attorney of Fayette County when the defendant was convicted. I am perfectly satisfied that a pardon should be granted to him and would recommend it.

I do not know what the conduct of the defendant has been while in prison, but it seems to me that if he has been a good prisoner he should be pardoned.

Taking into consideration the time which he has been in prison, I think that the defendant has been sufficiently punished for his crime."

Giving due weight to these letters and to the reasons set forth on our record, we are disposed to favor this application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Alfred F. Jones.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Beaver, to No. 18, December Term, 1913, Silas Gibson, December 22, 1913, entered plea of guilty to an indicement charging felonious assault and battery, and aggravated assault and battery; and on the same day was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for from five years to seven years.

On June 6, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The matter was taken up at our hearing to-day, and, after full consideration, we are inclined to accord favorable action thereto. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Silas Gibson.

Gibson is twenty-six years of age. He is a colored man, is not married, and is living with his father in Beaver County. He worked at various branches of labor, but for some time prior to his arrest was porter at a hotel in Rochester, Pa. He has never before been in trouble involving the commission of crime. For several months prior to his arrest he had been paying attention to a colored woman by the name of Louise Prinse, and had become engaged to marry her. She had caused him to become jealous by reason of her conduct with other men, and in the latter part of November, 1913, there being a falling out between them on this account, he fired a shot at her. The bullet glanced from a stone and inflicted a small wound on her ankle. Out of this shooting grew the charge and conviction. He has been in the Penitentiary about two years and a half. There has been a reconciliation between him and the Prinse woman, and it is her earnest desire, as well as that of all his friends, to have him released from further imprisonment. It is altogether probable that if released a marriage will be consummated between him and the Prinse woman. There is on file a lettter from his former employer offering him immediate employment at his old job, if released. In view of the fact that no further good can be accomplished by his continued confinement in prison, and that justice will not be outraged by his release, we recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Silas Gibson.

Sir:—At our regular meeting held to-day there were submitted for our consideration and approval or rejection a communication from the Board of Inspectors of the Eastern State Penitentiary, and a similar communication from the Inspectors of the Western State Penitentiary, each stating that the convict therein named had been released on parole, and recommending therein that full pardon and final discharge be now granted to each of said convicts. The following are the names of the convicts referred to, with data as to their conviction, etc., respectively:

EASTERN PENITENTIARY.

JOSEPH D. LAWRENCE, alias CRAIG, Dauphin County. Escape and sodomy. Sentenced June 1, 1909, Eastern Penitentiary, eight years. Paroled October 21, 1913.

WESTERN PENITENTIARY.

ANDREW J. ABEL, Allegheny County. Voluntary Manslaughter. Sentenced September 1, 1906, Western Penitentiary, for 20 years. Paroled November 28, 1913.

With respect to each of the convicts above named the Inspectors assign the statutory reasons for their recommendation and set forth the grounds on which the said reasons are based.

Therefore, it appearing that all the Rules of the Board of Inspectors of the Penitentiaries, and the Rules of our own Board, have been observed in the premises, and in endorsement of the Reports of the said Inspectors, we also recommend that an executive order issue, granting to the said Joseph D. Lawrence, alias Craig, and Andrew J. Abel, each his final discharge and pardon.

Harrisburg, September 20, 1916.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lackawanna, to No. 77, October Sessions, 1915, Sylvester Kozar was, October 15, 1915, returned as guilty of aggravated assault and battery and unlawful cutting, and was thereupon sentenced to pay a fine of fifty dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from eighteen months to three years.

On September 4, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. We heard the case at our meeting to-day. From a careful examination of the matters brought to our attention we are of the opinion that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Sylvester Kozar.

The applicant is a young unmarried man, of Polish descent, a laborer by occupation, and twenty-four years of age. He has no criminal record, so far as known. On the evening of June 25, 1915, Kozar was in a bar room of a hotel in the Borough of Olyphant. There was a crowd of nine or ten other young foreigners there, who it seems belonged to a different faction, and who were making bets on feats of strength. After while one of this party offered to bet a dollar that no one in the room could lift or raise him from the floor. Kozar accepted the bet and undertook to do the feat. He maintained that he had succeeded, but the others disputed the fact and they demanded that he pay over the dollar they claimed he lost on the bet. Kozar refused to do this, and a fight resulted. Kozar left the hotel. Some of the other party followed him, and the fight was renewed on the streets. The defendant was knocked down, but succeeded in getting his pocket knife from his pocket, and with it he stabbed one of the assailants. The wound was not serious. On the trial of the case the defendant was without counsel or friends, and the jury returned a verdict against him, and he was sentenced as stated.

The formal reasons laid in the application for pardon are:

That this was the first defence of the defendant, who, up to this time was reputed to be a sober, industrious and law-abiding young man.

That when the case was called for trial the defendant appeared in Court without friends, counsel or witnesses.

That the instrument with which the injury was inflicted was an ordinary pocket knife, such as most men carry; and the defendant could hardly be charged with carrying it for the purpose of committing any wrong.

That in pursuance of the sentence imposed the defendant has been confined in the State Penitentiary since the fifteenth day of October, 1915, and it is believed that under the circumstances of the case the ends of justice will have been fulfilled if the defendant is now liberated.

The District Attorney, in writing to us about this case, after stating the facts substantially as given above, says:

"* * * * Under the evidence produced the verdict was warranted. What evidence the defendant might have produced had he been more vigilant in his own defence is only a matter of conjecture.

The defendant's previous record appears to have been good. The sentence was a longer one than is imposed by our local Judges in cases of like character. At the time this application for a pardon is heard the defendant will have served one year of his sentence, and will have spent altogether fifteen months in prison. In my judgment this sufficiently expiates his crime."

This letter of the District Attorney sustains the reasons laid by the applicant, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Sylvester Kozar.

Respectfully submitted,

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 294, November Sessions, 1910, Edward Bosner, who was jointly indicted with Theodore Ginner, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging burglary, breaking and entering, and larceny; and thereupon, November 19, 1910, was sentenced to pay a fine of five hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than two and one-half years and not more than ten years. Ginner was sentenced at the same time to imprisonment in the county prison for one year. At the expiration of an imprisonment in the Penitentiary of five years Bosner was released on parole.

On September 6, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The case was explained to us at our meeting to-day. We have examined the record before us, and from what we gather with reference to the case we think it a proper case for favorable action, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Edward Bosner.

Bosner is thirty-two years old; he is a mine laborer, and is unmarried. These defendants, on the fourteenth day of November, 1910, broke into a hardware store at night and stole certain articles of merchandise of the value of about two hundred dollars. On their arrest, within two days after the commission of the crime, they both acknowledged their guilt, and in due course entered plea of guilty without the finding of a bill by the Grand Jury. Since his release on parole this applicant has strictly complied with all the rules of the Inspectors of the Penitentiary, and has shown satisfactory evidence of his desire to lead a decent and honest life. He is at present working in the coal mines, but in order that he may not be hampered in the search for more lucrative employment he asks that he be pardoned and finally discharged from the term of his sentence. We have before us satisfactory letters and evidence from the Inspectors of the Penitentiary that there is reasonable probability that the defendant will continue to be a law abiding citizen, and from the fact that he served in prison double the minimum term imposed we see no good reason why his application for pardon should not be allowed. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Edward Bosner.

Respectfully submitted,

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 18 April Sessions 1912, Earnest Higgins, was indicted on the charge of breaking and entering, and receiving stolen goods, and on the trial, April 17, 1912, withdrew his plea of not guilty which he had entered, and then entered a plea of guilty. On April 20, 1912, he was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than seven years and not more than ten years.

On September 6, 1916, an application for his Pardon was duly filed. The case came on in due course for hearing at our meeting today. Upon careful consideration of the matters involved we favor the application, and therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Earnest Higgins.

Higgins is an unmarried man, thirty-one years of age, a painter by trade. His previous reputation had not been very good, as he had served several terms of imprisonment. His present offense was the breaking into a store room in the Borough of Shickshinny and stealing certain articles of jewelry. He has been in prison under this sentence for about four years and six months. Certain charitable ladies have become interested in his case, who have become impressed with the belief that Higgins has gone wrong mainly for the reason that he did not have proper training in his young days, having been subjected to bad environments and forced to shift for himself.

The formal reasons advanced in support of his application for Pardon are:

1. The sentence imposed was very severe.
2. Having served four years and six months of his sentence, he has been sufficiently punished for the offence committed.
3. He is desirous of securing a new start in life, and with that view in mind will join a Red Cross Ambulance Corps in France as soon as he is released from confinement.

The application is fortified with letters from the Trial Judge and the District Attorney. Judge Strauss says among other things:

"As he was not a first offender and seemed from his antecedent history to be devoting himself to a life of crime, notwithstanding the fact that he was a comparatively young man, then I believe about twenty-six years of age, I imposed upon him the severe sentence of not less than seven nor more than ten years in the Eastern Penitentiary. I was led to do this in part through personal knowledge of this young man dating back to his sixteenth year. He is, in my opinion, of more than average intelligence, but never had proper home conditions. I am informed that at the Penitentiary he has given evidence of genuine betterment, and that he expressed a strong purpose to lead a blameless life hereafter. In view of the fact that he is now only thirty-one, and because of assurances given to me by persons whose judgment I trust and who have taken personal interest in him at the Penitentiary, I am of the opinion that the cause of justice will not be injured if this man is given another chance. I would therefore concur in the opinion that a Pardon would not be misplaced in this case."

The District Attorney writes:

"The sentence imposed by Judge Strauss was based not so much upon the evidence adduced in the particular case as upon the record of the defendant, of which Judge Strauss had some personal knowledge.

"It was my impression at the trial of the case that the sentence was quite severe, and I am still of that opinion. I do not think that it will militate to the prejudice of the Commonwealth if the defendant be released, and I am inclined to recommend a Pardon in this case."

In view of this state of our record we are inclined to accept this application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Earnest Higgins.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—On November 9, 1915, upon complaint and information made by E. W. Kelly, Traveling State Game Protector, before George E. Shaver, a Justice of the Peace in and for the County of Jefferson, Parride Peter Solle, a resident of Franklin, Venango County, was convicted of a violation of the Game Laws of the Commonwealth, to wit, the Act approved April 21, 1915, and was fined in the sum of $950. In default of the payment of the fine he was commtited to the Prison of Jefferson County to serve an imprisonment of one day for each dollar of fine, as provided in said Act. This sentence entailed an imprisonment of nine hundred and fifty days or about thirty-one months.

On September 2, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The matter was brought to our attention for action at our meeting to-day. We have reviewed the facts and elements involved, and are of the opinion that the application should be allowed. We therefore recommend that a Pardon be granted the applicant, such Pardon, however, not to be effective until November 9, 1916.

Solle is a young man twenty-eight years of age; a foreigner by birth but now a naturalized citizen of this country. He is not married. His breaking of the Law consisted in the shipping by Express of thirty-eight pheasants from Brockwayville, Jefferson County, to the City of Pittsburgh. It is admitted that he violated the law as charged, but is claimed on his behalf that he did it innocently.

He has been in prison for more than ten months. The conviction and sentence has had a salutary effect in that part of the State, and it is urged that no further good can result from a longer imprisonment. The application is endorsed by the Game Protective Association of Jefferson County, as well as by the County Commissioners of that County. The defendant is not financially able to pay the fine, and it is argued that the serving of nine hundred and fifty days imprisonment works undue hardship both on the defendant and on the County of Jefferson, as the County must bear the burden of his maintenance all this time. There is weight in this argument. The Game Commissioner of the State agrees substantially that the moral effect secured by the conviction and sentence is adequate, and his Department of the State Government will rest content to have the prisoner discharged from confinement at the expiration of at least one year's imprisonment. Adopting this view as a proper and equitable solution of the question before us, we recommend that a Pardon be granted the applicant, Perride Peter Solle, to be effective on and after November 9, 1916, at which date the defendant will have served an imprisonment of one year.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 199 October Sessions, 1913, Enrico Venditti, December 10, 1914, entered a plea of guilty on an indictment charging murder. The Court fixed the degree of crime as manslaughter, and on the same day sentenced the defendant to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not less than three years and six months and not more than five years.

On the sixth day of September, 1916, an application for the pardon of the defendant was duly filed. We heard and considered the case at our meeting to-day, and we deem it entitled to affirmative action. We therefore recommend that a Pardon be granted the application, Enrico Venditti.

Venditti is an unnaturalized Italian, about thirty-eight years old, who came to this country in 1905. He is married, and his wife and five children are living in Philadelphia. He is an ordinary laborer. He appears to have been industrious and quiet in his habits, and has no criminal record. According to statements made at the hearing, which were not denied by the Commonwealth, whose representative was present, the homicide occurred on the night of June 21, 1913, in the City of Philadelphia.

The applicant, with several companions, was in a saloon, where they were drinking and joking with one another in a friendly way. The slain man, Giovanni Bonadonna, was not a member of the party, but he happened to be in the saloon at the same time. He was not known to the applicant except in a casual way. His reputation in the neighborhood was that he was a bad and quarrelsome man. He made some insulting remark to the applicant, which the latter naturaly resented, but in his desire to avoid trouble left the place. Bonadonna followed him, and the applicant thinking, as he says, that he intended to apologize for his insult, stopped and waited for him. Bonadonna, however, drew a knife and assaulted Venditti. There was a scuffle, and the knife dropped or was knocked from Bonadonna's hand. Venditti succeeded in getting it from the ground, and when he found that Bonadonna was overpowering him, stabbed the latter with it. Venditti fled the jurisdiction and went to New Jersey. While there he communicated with his family in Philadelphia from time to time, but in the month of June, 1914, about a year after the homicide, he was arrested there and brought back to Philadelphia on the charge of murdering Bonadonna.

He has been in prison since June, 1914, a period of more than two years. Under the circumstances detailed to us, and relying on the statements made at the hearing and set forth on the record, and from which it appears without question that Bonadonna was the aggressor and that the applicant acted in self defence, and bearing in mind the previous good character of Venditti and the probability that he will continue, if released, to conduct himself properly, with respect to his family and to the community, we think that he has been sufficiently punished, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Enrico Vendetti.

Sir:—At our regular meeting held to-day there was submitted for our consideration and approval or rejection a communication from the Board of Inspectors of the Eastern State Penitentiary, filed October 7, 1916, representing that the convicts therein named had been released on parole, and recommending that a full pardon and final discharge be granted to said convict. The convict referred to is Pietro Di Tulio, who was convicted in the County of Philadelphia of murder in the second degree, and on June 22, 1909, sentenced to imprisonment for the period of twelve years. He was paroled October 22, 1913.

The Inspectors assign statutory reasons for their recommendation and set forth the grounds on which said reasons are based.

Therefore, it appearing that all these rules of the Board of inspectors of the Penitentiary and the Rules of our own Board have been observed in the premises, and in endorsement of the report of the said Inspectors, we also recommend that an Executive Order issue granting to the said Pietro Di Tulio his final discharge and pardon.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Montgomery, to No. 111, October Term 1909, Felix Fare, jointly with Frank Chickrine, John Ballon, and Nick Maringe, was arraigned on an indictment charging murder. Separate trials were had. Chickrine, Ballon and Maringe were found guilty of murder in the first degree, and they were each sentenced to be hanged. Fare was returned, December 16, 1909, as guilty of murder in the second degree, and on December 24, 1909, was sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Montgomery County Prison for a period of twenty years.

On October 5, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. This application came before us for hearing at our meeting to-day. We have carefully considered all that has been brought to our attention bearing on the merits of the application, and we are of the opinion that the case is entitled to our approval; we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Felix Fare.

Fare is now about twenty-five years old, having been about eighteen years old when he was convicted. He is not married. He resided with his parents in the Borough of Norristown, and was an ordinary laborer. He is of Italian parentage, and had had no schooling, and was unable to read and write. The homicide, in the commission of which he was implicated, took place on the night of September 1, 1909. The victim was George A. Johnson, an elderly man who lived alone in a little house along the roadway about two miles from the Borough Limits of Norristown, who was a cobbler by occupation, and was regarded in the neighborhood as being a miser, and of eccentric disposition. Robbery of this old man seems to have been the primary object of this gang. The plot to commit this depredation was hatched in the Pool Room of Maringe in Norristown. The four defendants went to Johnson's place together, with this primary intention of robbery, it is thought; at least it is urged on Fare's behalf that he had no other motive. When they arrived at Johnson's place Fare was stationed on the outside of the house to watch. The other three broke into the house, found Johnson there asleep on a chair, and assaulted him murderously in their attempt at robbery. Johnson resisted their attack as best he could, and they shot him twice and beat him with a club or piece of iron pipe. He was not killed outright. They succeeded in robbing him of some money and then left the premises. Fare did not know of the murderous assault at the time. The next day, however, he accepted a small part of the money that had been secured. Johnson managed to get out of his house after the assault, and dragged himself to a neighbor's house, whence he was taken to a hospital in Norristown where he soon afterwards died from the effect of the assault. He was unable to give a description of his assailants, and no immediate arrests could be made. However, in the course of a short time certain clues discovered by the police led to the arrest of Fare. Soon after his arrest Fare made a confession to the police and the District Attorney, which resulted in the arrest of the other three murderers. Convictions of these three were secured mainly through the information and the testimony given by Fare. Chickrine and Maringe were hanged. Ballon's sentence was, on recommendation of the Board of Pardons, commuted to life imprisonment, but he afterwards met a violent death through accident in the penitentiary.

The reasons for clemency put forth in the application for pardon are:

That the time of the commission of the offence for which applicant is now undergoing punishment he was of youthful age and easily induced by older men experienced in crime to join in the commission of the offence.

That after the commission of the offence he repented for his participation in the same, and that he aided the Commonwealth in every way to accomplish the arrest and conviction of all the participants in the crime.

That he has already served about seven years of the sentence imposed, and that he has been a model prisoner.

Your petitioner further alleges that at the time of the commission of the offence for which he is now undergoing imprisonment he was in illiterate youth of Italian parentage unable to read or write, and that since his confinement he has acquired knowledge and education, so that if liberated he would make a useful citizen.

The Judge who tried the case is now dead. The officials connected with the District Attorney's office who prosecuted the case unite in endorsing the application for pardon. The present District Attorney, in whose charge the interests of the Commonwealth in the premises now rests, does not interpose any objection but negatively consents to the request for clemency. Members of the County Board of Prison Inspectors now acting, and members previously in commission, the County Commissioners, the Chief of Police, and others, all familiar with the details of the trial, write us to the effect that Fare has acquried an education while in prison, and that from their knowledge of him and their observation of his conduct they are satisfied that he will lead a useful life if liberated from prison. Of course to a considerable extent their views are predicated on their knowledge and appreciation of the assistance rendered to the Commonwealth by Fare in the trial of the other defendants.

We have carefully considered the case in the light of the record and of the arguments made, we feel disposed to agree with the views of the officials we have quoted, that the applicant, having now served about seven years—nearly one-third of the sentence imposed—has expiated his crime under the circumstances as narrated, and having shown that there is in him the making of a man, it is to his interest, and not in derogation of the interests of the Commonwealth that he be relieved from further imprisonment. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted this applicant, Felix Fare.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace, in and for the County of Centre, to No. 21, September Sessions, 1911, Hyman Garfinkle, September 23, 1912, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging larceny and receiving. Sentence was at that time suspended. In the same Court, on May 18, 1915, to No. 19, May Sessions 1915, Garfinkle was convicted by a jury on the charge of receiving stolen goods. A motion for a new trial in this second case was entered, but was not disposed of until February 2, 1916, when the motion was dismissed. The defendant was called for sentence March 1, 1916, and sentence was then imposed to No. 21, September Sessions, 1911, as follows: To pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for the minimum period of two years and the maximum period of three years.

On September 25, 1916, an application for pardon was duly filed. The case was explained to us at our meeting to-day, and in view of what appears on the record we believe the application should be allowed. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Hyman Garfinkle.

Garfinkle is forty-five years old. His wife and seven children are living. He was a junk dealer, with a place of business in Philipsburg, Centre County. He had a very imperfect understanding of the English language, but he managed to do sufficient business in a quiet way to support his family fairly well. Owing to the nature of his business he was sometimes imposed on by designing and dishonest men and boys to the extent of buying junk that had been stolen. From the reputation he had in the community, however, it is not believed that he was in the habit of dealing in stolen articles knowingly. His present unhappy plight is thought to be the result of his not understanding the English language and his difficulty in comprehending the questions put to him and his making explanations in Court, and not from intent or desire to violate the law.

Judge Orvis presided at the trial of each of the cases mentioned, but the sentence was imposed by Judge Quigley, Judge Orvis' successor in office. Both these Judges write us that from their investigations they are convinced that the man has been sufficiently punished, and they recommend his pardon. The District Attorney who prosecuted the cases, as well as his successor, the present District Attorney, also expresses the same opinion. The prosecutor himself, and the Chief of Police, entertain the same view.

With the letters of these officials as a guide to our action, we accept the reasons advanced for clemency, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Hyman Garfinkle.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 1, June Sessions 1914, William Dane, was, June 8, 1914, convicted on the trial of an indictment charging statutory rape. On June 19, 1914, after denial of a motion for new trial, the defendant was sentenced to pay a fine of five hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for the term and period of not less than nine years and not more than ten years.

On September 6, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The case came before us at our meeting today for hearing and determination. Upon a review of the facts disclosed by the record before us and by the statements of counsel we are of the opinion that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, William Dane.

Dane is about thirty-two years old. By occupation he is a huckster. He is married. He denies his guilt, but the jury found against him. The girl involved in the case was practically the only witness against him. The prosecution was instituted by the matron of the United Charities Association of Wilkes-Barre. The offence is alleged to have been committed on the night of October 21, 1913; the information was not made until March 6, 1914, more than four months after the occurrence. On the trial the defendant was not in position to substantiate the fact of the bad repute of the girl, not of her real age, as elements of his defence. But the real state of facts with regard to these particulars, it seems, has since been ascertained by the prosecuting authorities to favor the applicant's contention. The matron of the association, who was the prosecutrix, and the trial District Attorney write us to that effect, and express the opinion that the applicant has been sufficiently punished assuming that the act complained of had in reality been committed.

The reasons laid in the application for clemency are:

That applicant is not guilty of the offence of which he was convicted.

That Anna Bardish, the alleged victim of the rape, was of bad repute for chastity at the time of the alleged offence, she having at various times prior thereto been intimate with many other men.

That at the time of the said alleged offence the said Anna Bardish was of the age of sixteen years, and over.

That at the time of the trial of the defendant he was unable to prove said facts because they were concealed and hidden from all the investigators he put upon the case, and could obtain, and from him and from his counsel also, who made due and diligent search and inquiry into such matters. And he had only lately come into possession of the said facts and became able to establish them.

The record before us in the main sustains these reasons. We therefore are constrained to endorse the application and to recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, William Dane.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Chester, to No. —, January Sessions 1916, William Stewart, February 2, 1916, was convicted on the charge of larceny, and on the same day was sentenced to pay a fine of twenty-five dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not more than three years and not less than two years. On October 4, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. We heard the case at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of the matters involved we favor the application, and recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, William Stewart.

Stewart is fifty-eight years old. He is not married. In the fall of 1915 he bought a small piece of land in Chester County, and carried on a small business of buying and selling chickens, trucking, etc. The crime charged against him was the stealing of some chickens to the total value of about twelve dollars. The applicant has two brothers living who, it was represented to us, will take care of him and give him a home if he is released from prison.

The reasons set forth in the application for clemency are:

The petitioner has suffered enough punishment under the circumstances in this case notwithstanding he may be treated as guilty.

The petitioner is not young any more, and is failing in health because of trouble with his heart and eyes.

Petitioner belongs to a respectable family who stand well in the community in which they live and have good homes to which the petitioner can go at any time if released and be allowed to live the rest of his life.

Petitioner submits in addition to his own petition a petition signed by many of his neighbors and acquaintances who have faith in him and who recommend his pardon.

Adopting these reasons as valid, and on the assurance given at the hearing that the applicant's friends and relatives will exercise an oversight over him and will look after his conduct and restrain him from any violation of law hereafter, we recommend that the application be allowed and that a pardon be granted the applicant, William Stewart.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lawrence, to No. 27, December Sessions 1911, Frank Herron, on November 23, 1911, waiving the finding of a bill by the Grand Jury, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging (1) breaking and entering a building with intent to commit a felony, and (2) larceny, and thereupon on the same day was sentenced to pay a fine of $5, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period not to exceed ten years and not less than five years.

On October 4, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed which was heard and considered at our meeting to-day. We are of the opinion that the application is entitled to allowance, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Frank Herron.

Herron is a single man; his age is not stated in the application, and about his antecedent life little could be learned as he declined to divulge his personal history when questioned in Court. He was a stranger in New Castle, where the crime was committed. He came to that city from Pittsburgh on or about November 22, 1911, and on the afternoon of that day, in company with another man, went into the office of a local physician and, it is alleged, stole certain articles. Herron was arrested about the time he left the office, but the other man escaped and was never apprehended. The articles stolen were a watch and a revolver, neither of which were found on Herron, but were dropped by the other man in his flight and were picked up and restored to the owner. Owing to the fact that Herron would not reply to questions put to him by the Court in regard to his prior movements the severe sentence above stated was imposed. It has since been made to appear to the Judge and the District Attorney that the sentence was unduly harsh. The minimum term has about expired. The District Attorney, who prosecuted the case, has instituted these proceedings before us on behalf of the applicant. The Judge who imposed the sentence, the prosecutor in the case, the Chief of Police in the city, the present District Attorney, and others having knowledge of the case, write us in endorsement of the application on the ground that the prisoner has been sufficiently punished. In our judgment a proper case for relief has been established on the ground mentioned, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Frank Herron.

Sir:—At our regular meeting held to-day there was submitted for our consideration, and approval or rejection, a communication from the Board of Inspectors of the Eastern State Penitentiary, filed November 8, 1916, representing that the convict therein named had been released on parole, and recommending that a full pardon and final discharge be now granted him. The convict referred to is Pietro Demutis, who was convicted from the County of Lebanon on the charge of assault with intent to kill, and on March 8, 1912, was sentenced to undergo imprisonment of from twenty-one months to seven years. He was released on parole February 20, 1914.

The Inspectors assign statutory reasons for their recommendation and set forth the grounds on which said reasons are based.

Therefore it appearing that all the rules of the Board of Inspectors of the Penitentiary and the Rules of our own Board have been observed in the premises and in indorsement of the Report of the said Inspectors, we also recommend that an Executive Order issue granting to the said Pietro Demutis his final discharge and pardon.

Respectfully submitted,

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Franklin, to No. 37 September Term 1915, Lawrence Shorb, September 7, 1915, was convicted on a charge of larceny from the person and thereupon on September 8, 1915, was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than three years and not more than four years.

On November 1, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. The case was heard at our meeting to-day. Upon consideration of the facts as presented to us we are of the opinion that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Lawrence Shorb.

Applicant is thirty-four years old. He was raised on a farm and spent considerable portion of his life at farm work, but for several years prior to his arrest he was working in the machine shops at Waynesboro, Franklin County. He is not married. It was at Waynesboro that the trouble arose which brought about his arrest and imprisonment. On the night of August 28, 1915, he had in his room at the hotel where he boarded a bottle of whisky which he states he had bought to take to his father who lived across the State line in Maryland. Some of his acquaintances, and certain employees of the hotel, came to his room and the party started in to drinking his whiskey. It is plain that they over indulged. In some way one of his visitors, Wilhide by name, was relieved of his pocketbook containing five dollars. Another member of the party, Freed by name, said that the applicant, Shorb, had taken it. This accusation the applicant denied and offered to submit himself to be searched. There was some loud talk and more or less confusion at the time, and soon afterwards, Wilhide and Freed left the room. Later on the pocketbook was found at the bottom of the stairway on the floor below, some distance from the applicant's room. Owing to the disturbance brought about by this affair Shorb was ordered away from the hotel, and in his room, it is alleged, five dollars were found concealed somewhere about the bed, which it is claimed was the money taken from Wilhide. It was mainly on the testimony of Freed that the conviction of Shorb was secured. Shorb has all along maintained his entire innocence, and it is his belief that the five dollars was put in his room for the purpose of manufacturing evidence against him.

He has been in the Penitentiary for more than fourteen months. He has the promise of immediate employment if released. Under all the circumstances of the case it seems to us he has been sufficiently punished, and we think his application for clemency is entitled to allowance. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant Lawrence Shorb.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Indiana, to No. 2, June Term, 1915, Fred A. Hoover, June 16, 1915, was returned as guilty on an indictment charging statutory rape, adultery, and fornication; and on July 13, 1915, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a term of not less than four years and not more than fifteen years.

On November 1, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed, and the case came before us for hearing at our meeting today. Upon consideration of the facts in the case, as detailed to us in the argument and appearing upon the record, we are of the opinion that the application may be favorably entertained, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Fred A. Hoover.

Hoover is thirty-three years of age; he is married, and his wife and two children are living; he is a coal miner by occupation. He lived in the village of Glen Campbell, Indiana County. There is no doubt of his technical guilt. The girl in the case lived in the same town. She was in her sixteenth year. She was a large sized girl, weighing from one hundred and fifty to one hundred and sixty pounds. She worked at domestic service and at one time was in the employ of the defendant in his family. The offence charged, however, took place after she had quit his employ. Although it was well known that the girl had considerable company at various times her reputation was not attacked on the trial of the case.

The reasons for clemency laid in this application are:

1. The object of the sentence in this case, that is, the deterring influence of effect upon the defendant and others as well has already been effected.
2. The sentence was too severe under all the facts and circumstances developed in the case.
3. The punishment under this sentence has fallen, and continues to fall, largely upon the innocent wife and two small sons of the defendant, who are unable to support themselves and are in dire need of the help and assistance of the husband and father.
4. The defendant, with the exception of this particular case, has never been charged with any crime or other violation of law, but on the contrary has always been considered by all who knew him as a man of good reputation and character, and a peaceable and law-abiding citizen.
5. The fact is that the girl upon whom the offence was committed was at the time a very large girl, weighing over a hundred and fifty pounds, and having the appearance of being over eighteen years of age, and she represented herself to the defendant, and to many others, as being past eighteen; her actions indicated a familiarity with men, especially with Fred A. Hoover, as she was the prime mover in all their illicit relations, and agreed to everything, she being the servant girl in the home of the defendant before the illicit relations began.
6. In the trial of this case no effort was made on the part of the defence to establish the fact that the girl was not of good repute, which fact could have been established by competent testimony, and this, with the admitted fact that the carnal knowledge was with her consent, would have entitled the defendant to a verdict of "not guilty" as to the charge of statutory rape; the result being that if the case had been carefully and properly defended the logical and just verdict would have been "guilty as to adultery only," the punishment therefor being not more than one year, which length of time has already been served by the defendant.

In view of the many letters on file recommending this application, and the character of the recommenders, the reasons set forth seem to be sustained. The Trial Judge, the Trial District Attorney, the Present Judge, the County Commissioners, Bank Officials, and other citizens of the community having knowledge of the facts and being in position to form a just opinion, express the belief that the time already served in prison has been sufficient punishment, and that no further good will endure to any one by prolonging the imprisonment.

Taking account of this sentiment in the community, and for the reasons enumerated above, we are disposed to favor the application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Fred A. Hoover.

Respectfully submitted,

Lieutenant Governor.

Harrisburg, Pa., November 16, 1916.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lancaster to No. 167 September Term 1916, John Bridgeman, September 12, 1916, entered a plea of guilty on an indictment charging adultery, and on September 23, 1916, was thereupon sentenced to pay a fine of twenty-five dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the County Prison for a period of six months.

On October 31, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. This application was heard at our meeting today. Upon consideration of all the facts in relation to the matter as detailed to us, and having satisfied ourselves with reference to the merits of the application, we are of the opinion that the prayer of the petitioner should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, John Bridgeman.

Bridgeman is forty-five years old. He was employed as a salesman for the Galion Iron Works. He was married at New Martinsville, West Virginia, January eighteen ninety-three, which was his home, and lived there with his wife until 1904. Two children were born of this marriage. Family trouble arose, and it became evident that he and his wife could not get along together. So far as we are advised, the trouble was not the fault of the husband. A separation was agreed upon between him and his wife, the applicant undertaking to furnish for the support of the two children. Soon after this separation applicant went to Caldwell, Ohio, about sixty miles from New Martinsville, where he engaged in business. About two years after he left New Martinsville he was informed by his brother, based upon evidence which the latter believed reliable, that his wife at New Martinsville had secured a divorce from him. This information was imparted to the applicant under circumstances which justified his belief in the truth of the statement made. About a year later applicant formed the acquaintance of a lady living in Caldwell, to whom he paid suit for about two years, and they were then married. After this marriage he continued to live in Caldwell, and frequently made visits to his old home at New Martinsville where his parents lived. On some of these visits he took his second wife with him, and introduced her as such to his people and to his friends and acquaintances at New Martinsville. No attempt was made to conceal the fact of this second marriage, and it is positively asserted that his first wife, who still lived at New Martinsville, had knowledge of this second marriage, having acquired such knowledge within a few months after it took place. After living at Caldwell a while applicant's business, sometime in 1911, called him to Philadelphia, where he lived with this second wife until some time in 1914, when he was stationed by his employers at Lancaster, to which place he removed with his supposed wife. He lived with his second wife all this time in the ordinary family relations. He was visited in Lancaster by his relatives from time to time, and neither the applicant nor his friends at any time entertained any doubt about the legality of his family relations. As a matter of fact, however, it is now admitted that his first wife had not secured a divorce, and of course the marriage with the Caldwell woman was legally void.

In August, 1916, to his surprise and to that of his friends, the first wife appeared in Lancaster and laid an information against him for adultery. Being unable to establish the decree of divorce which he supposed had taken place the applicant at once left the home he had made with his second wife in Lancaster and took up his residence at a hotel. On arraignment he entered a plea of guilty to the indictment, and was sentenced accordingly. The first wife instituted proceedings in divorce in Ohio County, West Virginia, on September 20, 1916, after the entry of the plea of guilty and before sentence was imposed, and service of the writ has been made upon the applicant.

The reasons on which the application for clemency is based, as set forth in our record, are:

1. The previous good reputation of applicant.
2. The applicant was led into the offence by the belief that he was divorced.
3. The applicant frankly and honestly admitted his mistake, entered a plea and saved the Commonwealth all costs and trouble of a conviction.
4. The applicant if now released can go back to his employment.
5. The wife of applicant has secured, or is now securing, a divorce, thus enabling him to rectify the unintentional wrong done in marrying a second time.
6. The absence of any moral guilt.

We have on file with our record many letters from friends and acquaintances of the applicant, both from his home in West Virginia, and his home in Caldwell, and his home in Lancaster and Philadelphia, which sustain the several reasons advanced, and upon a review of the entire matter we are convinced of the validity of the reasons assigned, and are satisfied of the absence of bad faith on the part of the applicant, as well as the lack of criminal intent, in the premises, and we feel that while this is a case of technical guilt the humiliation of the situation and the two months' imprisonment endured have been sufficient punishment. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, John Bridgeman.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Somerset, to No. 2, May Term 1915, Joe Sparado, jointly with some three or four other defendants, was tried on an indictment charging burglary, and on May 21, 1915, the jury returned a verdict of guilty. On May 27, Sparado was sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than four years nor more than six years. Slightly different sentences were imposed on the other defendants.

On November 1, 1916, an application for the pardon of Sparado was duly filed. The matter of his alleged connection with the felony charged was explained to us at our meeting today, and from the statements made, supported by the record before us, we are of the opinion that this application for clemency has been properly brought and is deserving of approval. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Joe Sparado.

Sparado is a young man twenty-five years of age; a laborer by occupation, and not married. He had been living in Philadelphia, but just a few days before his arrest had gone to Somerset County on the promise of work. When he reached the town of Garrett, Somerset County, he went to the house of some friends there, which he made his stopping place. On the morning of February 26, 1915, four days after he had come to Garrett, a store room was broken into, and several men were seen in the buildings, but they were scared off and went in different directions before they could be apprehended. Later on in the day five or six men were arrested, charged with the burglary and among them was this applicant. Just how the officers of the law happened to include Sparado in the gang was not explained, but the fact of his being a stranger in the locality doubtless had something to do with it. He had no acquaintance at all with the other men arrested. He was not identified as one of the guilty parties with any degree of positiveness. It now appears to be conceded by the prosecuting authorities that a mistake is made in including him with the supposed criminals. There was no severance at the trial and Sparado's name was included in the finding of the jury, although there does not appear to have been any incriminating testimony against him. It is principally on the ground of this mistaken arrest and charge that this application has been instituted. The private counsel for the prosecutor in writing to us about this application says, among other things:

"I am fully satisfied that the conviction of the other defendants was proper and just, but there was and still is some doubt in my mind whether Joe Sparado should have been convicted. The testimony relating to him was rather meager. I am informed that this man has been a good prisoner, and merits consideration at your hands. I might say for your further information that had Joe Sparado been tried separately I do not believe a Jury would have convicted him of the crime, and therefore, as counsel for the prosecutor, and also as attorney who tried the case for the Commonwealth, I feel that this applicant should be pardoned."

The District Attorney appends to this letter the following:

"I, the District Attorney of Somerset County, hereby concur the foregoing letter with its recommendation."

Under this condition of our record, it is proper, in our judgment to indorse the application, for clemency, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Joe Sparado.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Union, to No. 1, September Sessions 1915, Daniel Erb, Jr., who was indicted jointly with Samuel Erb, entered a plea of guilty, July 13, 1915, on an indictment charging breaking and entering and larceny, waiving the finding of a bill, by the Grand Jury, and thereupon on that day was sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of from three years to four years. On December 6, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. Upon hearing at our meeting today, and after full consideration, we report that an examination of the statements and explanations laid before us warrant our approval of the application, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Daniel Erb, Jr.

Erb is twenty-three years old, and is an ordinary farm laborer by occupation. This was the first offence against the law he was ever charged with. It does not seem to have been an aggravated case. It consisted of entering a summer house and carrying away certain articles found here. It is alleged that this young man was influenced in the commission of the crime by an older man who has fled the jurisdiction. The stolen articles were nearly all recovered. The prisoner has been in the penitentiary more than seventeen months. Letters from responsible people in his immediate neighborhood indicate that the young man is not criminally inclined, and that the imprisonment served has been a sufficient punishment. The Trial District Attorney writes in regards to the merits of this application:

"I never regarded him as a vicious character but rather the victim of surrounding circumstances and easily led by bad companions into sneak thieving. This defendant certainly was very frank and exhibited the right spirit when in Court.

I know he has been more than penitent for the offences he committed. I am also informed that his conduct while serving sentence has been unexceptionable. If such is the fact I would unreservedly recommend his pardon."

Upon review of the matters stated to us we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, David Erb, Jr.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Chester, at August Sessions 1913, Ralph Pierce, August 25, 1913, was convicted on the charge of larceny, and on the same day was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of from eight years to ten years.

On December 6, 1916, an application for his pardon was duly filed. We heard the case at our meeting today, and upon consideration we believe the application should be allowed. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Ralph Pierce.

Pierce is twenty-five years old. He is not married. He was engaged in the produce business at Wilmington, Delaware, and supported his widowed mother and sister. About a month before his arrest on the above charge he had been drinking to excess. On July 29, 1913, while on his way from Philadelphia toward his home, he met at a hotel in West Chester several strangers with whom he drank. One of the men, by the name of White, told applicant he had a horse and buggy and would take him along on his way toward his destination. White and Pierce drove into the State of Delaware, when, according to the statements of applicant, White left Pierce and told him to drive the horse to Goldsboro, Maryland, where he would meet him. In the meantime White had told Pierce that the horse was stolen. Pierce disposed of the horse and buggy, and it would therefore appear that he was guilty of the charge preferred in the indictment. The stolen property, however, was afterwards recovered by the owner.

The grounds on which the application for pardon rests are principally that the more than three years' time served is punishment sufficient, and further that the applicant has offers of employment from reputable persons in his own town, if released, who promise to look after his welfare and assist him in properly caring for his mother and sister. No objection to the application has been raised on the record. We think it fair to assume that under the circumstances the ends of justice have been met and that the prisoner may be released without jeopardizing the interests of the Commonwealth.

We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Ralph Pierce.

His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 399, February Sessions 1915, Ralph Petrilli, together with John Shovlin, on March 26, 1915, entered a plea of guilty on an indictment charging breaking and larceny. Petrilli was on the same day sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of from three years to ten years. The other defendant was not sentenced at that time, and his case seems to have been abandoned.

On December 6, 1916, an application for the pardon of Petrilli was duly filed, which came regularly before us at our meeting today. We have accorded this case a careful consideration, and it is our judgment that it merits our approval, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Ralph Petrilli.

Petrilli is now between eighteen and nineteen years old. He lived at home with his father in the Borough of Freeland, and worked at the trade of barbering. These two boys, on March 21, 1915, broke into a cigar and confectionery store in their home town, and took some pipes, tobacco, etc., and six dollars in money. They left the town, and four days afterwards they were apprehended at Waverly, N. Y., and brought back to Luzurne County. Most of the stolen property was returned to the owner.

The chief reason advanced in the claim for clemency is on account of the severity of the sentence. The sentence does seem to us to have been unusually harsh for a first offence, especially as the co-defendant has not been imprisoned at all. It was explained to us, however, that the severity of the sentence was due very much to the over anxiety of the father of the boy to have his son well disciplined. This end evidenly has been accomplished, for the reports show that the boy's conduct in prison has been most exemplary; and it is now the opinion of the Trial Judge and of the District Attorney, and of the County Detective, that he should be released. The Judge writes:

"I feel that the ends of justice would be adequately subserved if your Honorable Body should deem it proper to give favorable consideration to his petition."

The District Attorney says:

"Since the young man has served approximately one year and nine months of the sentence imposed it seems to me that the ends of justice have been fully served and that he ought to be given an opportunity at this time to start life anew. I am satisfied that his home surroundings will be very conducive to a complete reformation, and am therefore persuaded to recommend his discharge."

The County Detective says:

"The articles taken were not very valuable and were returned to the owner. The boy has now served twenty-two months, and in my opinion has been sufficiently punished and should be pardoned."

Under these conditions we deem it fair to the prisoner to assist in his release from prison, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Ralph Petrilli.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Fayette, to No. 8, December Term 1914, Alfonze Zamarelli was, March 4, 1915, returned as guilty on an indictment charging rape and adultery. In the same Court to No. 2, December Term 1915, the same defendant, on June 14, 1915, entered a plea of guilty of voluntary manslaughter on an indictment charging murder. On July 6, 1915, he was sentenced in the manslaughter case to pay a fine of six cents, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a term of not less than seven years and not more than twelve years. On the same day a similar sentence was imposed in the rape case, these sentences to be concurrent.

On December 6, 1916, an application for the pardon of Zamarelli was duly filed. The case was presented at our meeting today, and upon consideration of the facts involved as detailed to us and appearing on the record we are of the opinion that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant. Alfonze Zamarelli.

Zamarelli is fifty-five years of age. He is an Italian by birth, and came to this country about eight years ago. He has lived in Fayette County since his arrival in America, and has worked in and about the mines of that county. He is married, and his wife and four children are living.

On September 17, 1914, a wedding took place at the house of Zamarelli's son-in-law in the neighborhood of his own home. Many freinds of the family and others in the neighborhood were present at the celebration, and the festivities lasted from early in the afternoon of the day until about nine o'clock in the evening. It is averred that Zamarelli was present at his son-in-law's house during the whole of this interval of time. Among other guests was a girl or woman by the name of Mary Lockhart or LaFaurce. It is also averred that she was present at the same place uninterruptedly during the same period of time. On the sixth day of October following this woman laid an information charging Zamarelli with having on the seventeenth day of September assaulted her and forcibly having had knowledge of her body, laying the time of assault as during the afternoon of the seventeenth of September, and the place as Zamarelli's house, which was some considerable distance from the place where the wedding celebration was held. The defendant was bound over for the December Term of Court.

On the fifteenth day of October, which was what they call a lay off day at the mines, Zamarelli, with some acquaintances, while on their way to Uniontown, was met by a neighbor who told Zamarelli to beware of Tony LaFaurce, the father of the girl spoken of, because LaFaurce was looking for Zamarelli and said he would kill him. Soon after receiving this information Zamarelli and his party went into a bar room for a drink. LaFaurce and several of his friends happened to be in the bar room. LaFaurce immediately started for the applicant and struck at him with a large knife. Zamarelli dodged him as best he could, and called on his friends to take his assailant away. LaFaurce, however, crowded Zamarelli to the wall, when the latter drew his revolver and fired. The shot did not take effect. Zamarelli then eluded his assailant and ran out of the room. In going out the door he stumbled and fell to the ground. LaFaurce sprang upon him with his upraised knife, and while lying prostrate Zamarelli shot LaFaurce, from the effect of which shooting LaFaurce died. An information was laid charging Zamarelli with murder, and he was held for the December Term of Court. Indictments were found in each case. The rape case was tried first, and resulted, March 4, 1915, in a verdict of guilty. A motion for a new trial was overruled May 18. However, depositions had been taken to show that the defendant in the rape case had been improperly convicted, so that when the murder case came up for trial in June it appears that by reason of the facts in relation to the rape case being known to the Court as the cause of the trouble between Zamarelli and LaFaurce, and counsel knowing that sentence in the rape case would be imposed regardless of the verdict in the other case, it was decided to enter the plea to the manslaughter charge. The sentence was imposed in this last named case first, and the sentence in the other was made to run concurrent, so that really but a single sentence exists.

The reasons urged in support of the application for pardon are mainly that the facts shown by the depositions taken on the rule for new trial and subsequently tend to show that (1) the testimony of the prosecutrix was not true in regard to the alleged rape, and (2), that the time already served has been sufficient punishment on the conviction for manslaughter under the circumstances shown to have existed at the time of the sasault made by LaFaurce.

Judge Van Swearingen, who tried the cases and imposed the sentence, writes us in support of this view of the case. The following is the Judge's letter:

"Under the depositions to be presented to your Board with the application for pardon of Alfonze Zamarelli, a synopsis of which depositions has been presented to the Court, it may reasonably be doubted whether or not the defendant is guilty of the rape and adultery of which he was convicted and for which he was sentenced at No. 8, December Sessions 1914, and of the voluntary manslaughter for which he was sentenced at No. 2, December Term, 1914.

The sentence imposed on the defendant seemed to the Court to be right and proper at the time, and it is only because of matters which have since developed, in the way of additional information as to the facts, that causes the Court now to doubt the propriety of the terms of imprisonment to which the defendant was sentenced.

In view of these matters, and for the further reason that the defendant already has served nearly eighteen months' imprisonment in the Penitentiary, the Court now recommends that the pardon applied for be granted."

It would appear therefore that this is a case calling for our favorable attention, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Alfonze Zamarelli.

The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company,
437 Chestnut Street.

Henry H. Pease,
Secretary and Treasurer.

Philadelphia, Pa., December 29, 1916.

The Honorable the President of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Penna.

Dear Sir: In conformity with Act of Assembly approved March 20, 1818, I file with you herewith duly executed and acknowledged statement of this Company, for the year 1916.

Very truly yours,
HENRY LODGE.
Assistant Secretary.

The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company,
437 Chestnut Street.

Henry H. Pease,
Secretary and Treasurer.

Philadelphia, Pa., December 27, 1916.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met.

In compliance with the requirements of the 19th section of the Act of Assembly passed March 20, 1818, entitled "An Act to Improve the Navigation of the River Lehigh," I would respectfully report that the tolls received on the Lehigh Navigation during the year 1916 amount to forty-two thousand three hundred nineteen and 97-100 dollars ($42,319.97), according to the returns made to this office.

Very truly yours,
HENRY H. PEASE,
Secretary.

State of Pennsylvania,
City of Philadelphia.

Before me, the subscriber, a Notary Public of the County of Philadelphia, and State of Pennsylvania, personally appeared on this twenty-seventh day of December, A. D. 1916, Henry H. Pease, Secretary of The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, who being duly affirmed according to law did depose and say that the above statement is just and true to the best of his knowledge, information and belief.

HENRY H. PEASE.

Affirmed and subscribed before me the day and year aforesaid.

R. V. PIERCE,
Notary Public.

My commission expires February 21, 1919.

REPORT OF THE AUDITORS OF THE PHILADELPHIA SAVING FUND SOCIETY FOR THE YEAR 1915.

(The Philadelphia Saving Fund Society,)

700 Walnut Street.

Philadelphia, January 24, 1916.

To the Honorable, the Speaker of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg.

Dear Sir:—In accordance with Section 3 of a supplement of the Act entitled "An Act to Incorporate the Philadelphia Saving Fund Society," approved March 15, 1824, and on behalf of the Auditors of the accounts of the said Society, we beg to enclose their report for the year ending December 31, 1915, showing the state of the Society January 1, 1916.

Very truly yours,
The Philadelphia Saving Fund Society,
S. WOODWARD,
Treasurer.

REPORT OF THE AUDITORS OF THE PHILADELPHIA SAVING FUND SOCIETY.

The subscribers, duly appointed by the President Judges of the Courts of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County, to audit and settle the accounts of The Philadelphia Saving Fund Society, under the provisions of the third section of the supplement to the "Act" incorporating the said Society, approved March 15, 1824, having been duly qualified, respectfully report:

That, in the performance of the duties assigned them, they have audited and settled the books and accounts of The Philadelphia Saving Fund Society for the year ending the thirty-first day of December, 1915, and have examined and ascertained the amount of the bonds and mortgages, real estate, public loans, railroad loans, and other evidences of the property and effects of the said Society, and agreeably thereto have made out the subjoined statement, which agrees with the books at that date, and exhibits the situation and condition of the said The Philadelphia Saving Fund Society on the first day of January, 1916.

LUDDEN D. DAVIS,
WILLIAM DRAYTON,
G. HILDO NORRIS,
Auditors.

REPORT OF THE AUDITORS OF THE PHILADELPHIA SAVING FUND SOCIETY FOR THE YEAR 1916.

The Philadelphia Saving Fund Society,
700 Walnut Street.

Philadelphia, January 25, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Speaker of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Dear Sir:—In accordance with Section 3 of a supplement of the Act entitled "An Act to Incorporate The Philadelphia Saving Fund Society," approved March 15, 1824, and on behalf of the Auditors of the accounts of the said Society, we beg to enclose their report for the year ending December 31, 1916, showing the state of the Society January 1, 1917.

Very truly yours,
The Philadelphia Saving Fund Society,
S. WOODWARD,
Treasurer.

REPORT OF THE AUDITORS OF THE PHILADELPHIA SAVING FUND SOCIETY.

The subscribers, duly appointed by the President Judges of the Courts of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County, to audit and settle the accounts of The Philadelphia Saving Fund Society, under the provisions of the third section of the supplement to the "Act" incorporating the said Society, approved March 15, 1824, having been duly qualified, respectfully report:

That, in the performance of the duties assigned them, they have audited and settled the books and accounts of The Philadelphia Saving Fund Society for the year ending the thirty-first day of December, 1916, and have examined and ascertained the amount of the bonds and mortgages, real estate, public loans, railroad loans, and the other evidences of the property and effects of the said Society, and agreeably thereto have made out the subjoined statement, which agrees with the books at that date, and exhibits the situation and condition of the said The Philadelphia Saving Fund Society on the first day of January, 1917.

LUDDEN D. DAVIS.
WILLIAM DRAYTON,
G. HILDO NORRIS,

Pittsburgh, January 1st, 1917.

REPORT OF THE LEGISLATIVE REFERENCE BUREAU ON THE COMPILATION AND CODIFICATION OF THE STATUTES.

James N. Moore, Director.

To the Governor and the Senators and Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania:

In accordance with the first Section of the Act of Assembly, approved the fourteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, entitled "An Act authorizing the Legislative Reference Bureau to continue the work commenced under the provisions of an act, approved the twentieth day of May, one thousand nine hundred an thirteen, entitled 'An act directing the Legislative Reference Bureau to prepare compilations or codes, by topics, of the existing general laws of this Commonwealth, for adoption or rejection by the General Assembly, fixing the powers and duties of the bureau therein; fixing the compensation of the assistant director; and making an appropriation," I have the honor to transmit to you a summary of the work done by the Legislative Reference Bureau pursuant to the directions of said Act.

The said Act of May 14, 1915, directs the Legislative Reference Bureau to continue the work commenced by it under the provisions of the Act of May 20, 1913, and "to report to the next Session of the General Assembly, for adoption or rejection, such codes, codifications, and compilations as shall have been completed by the Bureau."

Before any compliations or codifications were attempted, much time and labor were expended in completing, and bring up to date, the unfinished card classification of all the general legislation, and in adding thereto numerous cross references. This classification was commenced under the said Act of May 20, 1913, but had been completed back to the year 1834 only. All the Acts of Assembly to 1700 have now been classified. A minute classification of all the general legislation is a necessity in order to compile the law upon a given subject. With the classification in use in the Bureau, all the Acts adopted relating to a subject can be readily and easily ascertained.

As a foundation for any successful compilation or codification of the existing law, one must have at his command some accurate means of ascertaining, not only the Acts of Assembly passed upon any subject, but their exact status and present reading. Under the said Act of May 20, 1913, each Act passed since the year 1700 was carefully read and all amendments, supplements, repeals, etc., were noted in the Pamphlet Laws on the margin of the Act affected. In addition to this, all decisions of the Supreme and Superior Courts were read in order to ascertain the Acts which had been declared unconstitutional, repealed by implication or which had received construction by the courts, materially affecting their reading. All such decisions and their effect were also noted in the Pamphlet Laws on the margin of the Act affected. To keep this system up to date requires considerable time and labor.

In addition to the above work, there has been published by the Bureau an edition of the "Constitutions of Pennsylvania and the Constitution of the United States Analytically Indexed and With an Index of Legislation Prohibited in Pennsylvania"; "A Compilation of the General Laws Relating to Townships"; "A Compilation of the Laws relating to The Board of Charities with Important Provisions of the Laws Relating to the Several State Institutions and the Rules and Regulations of the Committee on Lunacy"; and "A Compilation of the Laws Relating to Juvenile Courts and Dependent, Neglected, Incorrigible and Delinquent Children." A bill codifying the existing general law relating to Townships has been drafted and will be submitted for your consideration. The Omnibus Repeal Bill, citing for repeal almost one thousand obsolete laws, which was passed by the Legislature of 1915, but vetoed by the Governor in order to give more mature consideration thereto, has been given much study and instead of being prepared in one bill, has been drafted into approximately sixty bills, each containing the Acts cited for repeal relating to a particular subject.

The edition of the Constitutions of Pennsylvania and of the Constitution of the United States was prepared and published as a part of this work at the earnest solicitation of the Attorney General, and because there was not accessible, to the citizens of this Commonwealth, an indexed edition of these Constitutions. This publication contains the Constitutions of Pennsylvania adopted in 1776, 1790, 1838 and 1873, and the Constitution of the United States, and the several amendments to the Constitutions of Pennsylvania of 1838 and 1873. Wherever a section had been amended, the amendments was inserted in the place of the original section, followed by the section as it originally read. After each section of the several Constitutions of Pennsylvania, notes have been appended, showing the corresponding sections in the other prior and subsequent Constitution of the Commonwealth. An exact similarity in the language of these corresponding sections is designated by the word "verbatim." By the use of these notes the origin and development of a particular section can readily be traced. Each of the Pennsylvania Constitutions and the Constitution of the United States is followed by an analytical index; and to the Constitution of Pennsylvania of 1873 has been appended an index of the subjects upon which legislation has been expressly prohibited by that Constitution. This index is of great value to persons called upon to draft or pass upon the validity of legislative bills as was demonstrated by the edition of the Constitution of 1873 published by this Bureau in 1912 which contained a similar index.

The "Compilation of the Existing General Law Relating to Townships" contains all the law relating to townships of the first and second class. In this compilation the Acts of Assembly were published in the exact language in which they appear in the Pamphlet Laws, with notes after each section giving the citation thereof and such other annotations and comments as might be of value in clarifying the reading of the section, and in determining its present effect. No attempt was made to make these annotations complete. This is the function of the digest and text-book. A chronological table of the statutes used in the compilation and an analytical index were appended to this edition.

In the township compilation the arrangement of the law was made with the view of setting out, under appropriate headings, the law particularly applicable to each class of townships, the headings, in each case, designating the class of townships to which the material applied. Considerable trouble was experienced with the numerous acts relating to "municipalities." While the Supreme Court has lately ruled that a first class township is not a "municipal corporation," there are several late cases decided by the lower courts which rule that a township is a "municipality." Pursuant to this ruling a number of acts relating to "municipalities" have been included. Attention is called to this indefinite use of the term "municipalities" in the hope that future legislation may be drafted with specific mention of the agencies of the State to which the Legislature intends the legislation to apply, thereby avoiding in many cases the necessity of a construction by the courts in order to ascertain the scope of an act.

The material relating to roads includes such provisions only as impose duties upon the township or its officers. The law relating to the laying out of the roads under the general road law has not been included, as here the whole duty devolves upon the Court of Quarter Sessions. The material relating to taxation does not include any provisions relating to the assessment of property for taxation purposes, or the duty of assessors, for the reason that all assessments for township purposes are based upon the county assessment. Assessors while elected as township officers perform duties for the county only.

A large part of the edition of the township compilation was placed with the Division for the Distribution of Documents and by it a copy was mailed to each Board of Township Supervisors and Township Commissioners in the Commonwealth. In this manner it was placed in the hands of those most vitally interested in the subject.

The compilation relating to the "Board of Public Charities" and other kindred subjects was prepared at the request of the Board of Public Charities. A digest of these laws was published by the Board in 1910. Since then many important acts relating to this subject were passed, and the Act of April 24, 1869, which created the Board and defined its powers and duties has been variously amended. The great number of citizens and institutions interested in the former publication made this revision necessary. To the compliation has been appended a chronological table of statutes and an analytical index. In this compilation, in many instances, provisions of law have been repeated. This was considered necessary to make a particular subject complete, since, in many cases, sections contain matter of importance which cannot be comprehended under one subject. Attention may be called to the unsatisfactory condition of our charity laws, especially those relating to the insane. Under the chapter, in this compilation, dealing with the Commitment of Insane and Inebriates to Institutions, are found nineteen different methods of commitment. To the layman this is at once confusing, and to the lawyer ofttimes a stumbling block. A similar condition will be found upon consulting the chapter relating to the Cost of Commitment, Care and Maintenance of Insane and Inebriates. So far as possible this confusion has been clarified by the use of headings showing specifically the subject to which each section applies. As in the township compilation, after each section the citation thereof has been inserted and such notes and comments as may aid in clarifying its reading. A large part of this edition has been placed with the Board of Public Charities and by it distributed to the citizens and institutions interested in this subject.

The compilation of the laws relating to "Juvenile Courts and Dependent, Neglected, Incorrigible and Delinquent Children" was prompted by the veto of the Governor of "A Joint Resolution authorizing the appointment of a commission to consider the revision and amendment of the laws of the State, penal and otherwise, in reference to Juvenile Courts, and offenses or crimes committed by minors, and the punishment thereof, and to make a report on the same, and making an appropriation to the expenses of said Commission." In his veto message the Governor said: "This work can be done and well done by the Legislative Reference Bureau, with the advice and assistance of the Attorney General. To expend the sum here suggested through a commission is unnecessary." In addition to setting forth in this compilation the general laws upon the subject, the compilation also includes the important provisions of law relating to the several State institutions, semi-State institutions, county schools, county industrial homes and municipal and other institutions for the care, custody, control and education of delinquent, dependent and neglected children. After more mature consideration the Bureau intends to consider this subject as the basis of a future codification. A chronological table of acts has been added to the compilation.

The Act of May 14, 1915, under which this work was performed requires the Bureau "to report to the next session of the General Assembly for adoption or rejection, such codes * * * as shall have been completed by the Bureau." At the last Session of the Legislature the Bureau submitted bills codifying the Corporation law, the Tax law and the Borough law. Of these the Borough Code was adopted and is now in force. The favorable manner in which this code has been received prompted the Bureau to draft and submit to this General Assembly a bill relating to Townships.

From the beginning of the Commonwealth until within the memory of the present generation, townships were nothing more than road districts, electing officers to attend to the opening and repair of roads and to the levying of taxes for such purposes. Within the last forty years the Legislature has from time to time conferred new powers and imposed new duties upon the supervisors, not directly connected with road affairs. In 1899, by the Act of April 28, P. L. 104, townships were classified into two classes and a procedure was provided whereby townships of a given population might become townships of the first class. This Act of 1899 also provided a system of government for townships of the first class in many ways resembling the government of our municipal corporations. The Act saved all existing laws, except so far as impliedly repealed as to first class townships, and provided that such laws should remain in force as to both classes of townships. This necessarily produced much confusion. Some legislation applied to townships of the first and second class, while other legislation remained in force as to townships of the second class only. Since 1899 a great number of Acts have been passed, some applying to townships of the first class, others to townships of the second class, and still others to both classes. In some cases it is difficult to ascertain the scope of an act. For instance, an act will confer certain powers upon townships by the use of the general term, but the officers provided by the act to execute the same are officers of one class of townships only, such as township supervisors or township commissioners. As was said before in the case of municipalities, whenever legislation is adopted affecting agencies of the State, care should be exercised to enumerate each agency, or where a general term is used, such as cities or townships, the act should be carefully drawn so that it comprehends all the officers necessary to carry it into execution.

For one reason, if for no other, the township laws should be codified. We refer to the acts relating to the election of township officers and their terms. The adoption of the Constitutional amendments of 1909 had the effect of amending all of these acts not only as to the time of election, but also as to the term of the officers and the date when they were to qualify. Since the amendment was not a direct one, it is ofttimes difficult to ascertain the correct present reading of these acts. The chapter of the code dealing with this subject has been prepared with the utmost care.

As in the Township Compilation, the material relating to roads includes such provisions only as imposes duties upon the township or its officers. The law relating to the laying out of roads under the general road law has not been included, as here the whole duty devolves upon the Court of Quarter Sessions, the township stepping in when the road is laid out and the court hands down an order to the supervisors to open the same. The material relating to taxation does not include any provisions relating to the assessment of property for taxation purposes, or the duty of township assessors. All assessments for township purposes are based upon the county assessment. Assessors, while elected as township officers, perform duties for the county only.

The Township Code was arranged and drafted so as to set out, under appropriate headings, the law particularly applicable to each class of townships. Whenever a heading is silent as to the particualr class of townships to which it applies, the sections following such heading will be specific in this respect. The scope of no section has been left to conjecture. The code has been arranged by Chapters, Articles and Sections, with sub-divisions under the Articles arranged by letter. To avoid the cumbersome citation by Chapter, Article and Section, the Sections have been numbered consecutively through the Code from one to one thousand, with a number of blank sections at the end of each Article or sub-division, for amendments by way of additions. This arrangement will permit citation by section only. To the right of each Chapter and Article as arranged at the beginning of the Code has been inserted the number of the first section of each Chapter and Article. This will afford an easy method of finding the subject matter of any Chapter or Article.

Special attention is called to the fact that the existing law has not been materially changed in any respect. A strenuous effort has been made to produce a complete, logical and comprehensive system on this subject so far as the nature of the material would permit. In rewriting the township law, the drafters of the code have endeavored to eliminate all provisions not now operative and all unnecessary and redundant expressions, as well as all provisos where the same can be more clearly expressed otherwise.

Approximately sixty bills repealing obsolete legislation will also be submitted for your consideration. Since a similar bill was vetoed by the Governor, partly for the reason that certain Department heads feared it might repeal legislation essential to proper administration, the Bureau has thought it advisable to address a letter to each Department of the State government, submitting to them a list of acts which were cited for repeal and might affect their several Departments, and such Acts only were incorported in these bills for repeal as the replies from the several Departments indicated would not interfere with administration. A bill or bills of this sort seems to be a necessity. Undoubtedly our statute books and digests contain many Acts which serve no purpose other than to act as a stumbling block for the bench and bar. An opportunity is now presented to the General Assembly to clear our statute books of a vast mass of legislation that has no place there.

The several compilations, the Township Code and the Omnibus Repeal Bills are the work of John H. Fertig, Esq., Frank M. Hunter, Esq., and S. Edward Hannestad, Esq. Our hearty thanks are given to them for their loyal and efficient work. Our thanks are also given to the stenographers engaged in the Condification Division. By their efficiency and genuine interest they contributed greatly to the results attained.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

JAMES N. MOORE,
Director.

REPORT FROM THE COMMISSIONER OF FISHERIES RELATIVE TO FISHWAY AT HOLTWOOD.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Department of Fisheries.

Harrisburg, Pa., February 13, 1917.

To the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—Complying with the provisions of a Resolution passed in the House of Representatives on the 29th day of January, A. D. 1917, requesting the Commissioner of Fisheries to furnish the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania with certain information relative to the installation of an adequate fishway in the dam erected across the Susquehanna River at Holtwood, Pennsylvania by the Pennsylvania Water and Power Company, I beg to submit the following report:

Acting under the provisions of a Joint Resolution, approved the 22nd day of April, 1913, P. L. 112, requiring the construction of an adequate fishway in the dam constructed across the Susquehanna River by the McCall's Ferry Power Company, now the Pennsylvania Water and Power Company, at McCall's Ferry, the Department of Fisheries directed the Pennsylvania Water & Power Company to proceed with the construction of an adequate fishway in their dam.

Acting under these instructions the Pennsylvania Water and Power Company immediately began the construction of a fishway under the direction of the Department of Fisheries.

This proposition was carefully studied by the Department of Fisheries, and in constructing this fishway the natural riffles in the river were imitated as closely as possible. There are conditions to be met at McCall's Ferry Dam which make it very difficult to erect a fishway which in times of high water must meet all the forces of Niagara and in times of low water allow sufficient water to run through the fishway so that the fish will not become stranded.

Prior to 1913 the Power Company erected on the Lancaster County side a Cail fishway and expended in its construction Twenty Thousand, Five Hundred and Ninety Dollars and Nineteen Cents ($20,590.19). After a thorough test this fishway was found to be useless, insofar as the shad were concerned, and was abandoned.

Since 1913 the Company has been working on the present fishway on the York County side of the Dam, and making additions and improvements from time to time under the direction of the Department of Fisheries, and up to the present time has expended on this fishway Twenty-one Thousand, Twenty-one Dollars and Ten Cents ($21,021.10). This does not include charges for general expense, plant expense, et cetera.

The question of fishways for the ascension of shad was brought up at a meeting of the American Fisheries Society, a society composed of leading fish culturists from all over the world, and it was the concensus of opinion of everyone present that at that time there was no practical fishway for the ascension of shad.

The Department of Fisheries recently wrote to each Fish Commission in the United States, and replies received indicate that this opinion still exists.

The United States Bureau of Fisheries states that "It is the belief of the Bureau that it would be impracticable to construct and to maintain in operative condition fishways for shad over dams, unless the stream obstructed by the dam were free from extreme fluctuations in flow and from drafts of ice or other destructive materials."

On May 19th and 20th, 1916, at the request of the Pennsylvania Department of Fisheries, Dr. R. E. Coker of the United States Bureau of Fisheries, the Vice-President and Chief Engineer of the Pennsylvania Water & Power Company and the Commissioner of Fisheries of Pennsylvania held a conference and inspection of the fishway on the York County side of the McCall's Ferry Dam.

Dr. Coker, in a memorandum made to the United States Commissioner of Fisheries, states that "The immediate object of the visit to Holtwood was to confer with Mr. Nathan R. Buller, Fish Commissioner of Pennsylvania, and Mr. J. A. Walls, Vice-President and Chief Engineer of the Pennsylvania Water & Power Company, with reference to the formation of plans for proposed tests of the efficiency of the York County fishway at Holtwood. The conference was set for May 20th, but I spent the two preceding days in inquiries of persons at Havre de Grace and Perryville, Md., at York, Pa., at Columbia, Pequa and McCall's Ferry above the dam and of such fishermen as could be found on the Lancaster side immediately below Holtwood. The fishermen were consulted as to the facts of the occurrence of shad above and below the dam both prior to the construction of the dam and subsequent thereto. The fishway was examined on May 19th, as well as on May 20th, when I was in company with the other conferees. It appears to be a practically incontrovertible fact that no live shad have been taken above the dam since its completion. No evidence of opinions to the contrary were offered by anyone."

Some of the reasons given in the report of Dr. Coker for the decline of shad in the Susquehanna River were: over-fishing, disturbance of original condition of stream flow, and pollution; and in part also to the obstruction of the river by a dam, which has caused the fishery in the river above the dam to cease. These conditions, the report states, have undeniably led to unusual efforts on the part of the state authorities and the power company to provide a fishway that would permit the shad to pass over the dam and ascend to the upper portion of the river.

In the test taken in 1913, covering a period of forty-eight days, of the Lancaster County fishway, which was of the improved Cail type with thirty-nine pockets, the report states that exclusive of eels there were found only sixty-five fish of six species, not a single shad being among the fish so caught, and that except for the eels, none of the species so taken were known to be dependent upon extensive migratory movements.

In commenting on this Cail fishway the report states that it is apparent that the fishway was entirely ineffective for the purpose intended (the passage of shad), or for any other purpose except the passage of eels.

In referring to the York County fishway, which was constructed under the direction of the present Commissioner of Fisheries, Dr. Coker states that in 1915 a new fishway was constructed on the York County side on plans furnished by the Commissioner of Fisheries of Pennsylvania, the fishway representing a radical departure from any plan of fishway built in this country. The idea is an exceedingly interesting one and has been carried out at considerable expense. Much thought and care have evidently been devoted to the matter by both the State Fish Commissioner and the power company. The York County fishway was constructed in 1913 but since that time has been lengthened and the design modified in certain respects.

The difficulties in the construction of fishways and the maintenance of them in proper working condition, Dr. Coker further states, were necessarily great in the case of dams of the height of the Holtwood dam. These difficulties are enhanced by the conditions prevailing in the Susquehanna River as regards extremes of flood stages, the small storage capacity of pools inherent in the form of the prism of the river valley, and the quantity of ice which is brought down by the spring floods.

No fishway has ever been designed or constructed which could be expected to work successfully for shad under these or similar conditions. The present fishway, Dr. Coker states, on the York County side of Holtwood undoubtedly represents the most advanced efforts to solve the problem, although under present conditions there it is not possible to say that it represents a successful solution.

The situation on the Susquehanna River does not call for the formation of definite recommendations by the Bureau. Were any recommendations required it would be that the necessity of a fishway should be ascertained more definitely than it is at present. In determining upon the necessity of a practical step it is always right to weigh the benefits to be gained against the sacrifices involved in securing them. This applies to public as well as to private matters.

In order that the Members of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania may know that the placing of an adequate fishway in the McCall's Ferry Dam has been given much thought, not only by the Department of Fisheries, but also by the Department of Attorney General, I beg to include the following correspondence with His Excellency, the Governor of this Commonwealth, and the Attorney General:

Harrisburg, Pa., June 25, 1915.

Hon. Francis Shunk Brown,
Attorney General,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Sir:—The Department received the following letter from His Excellency, the Governor, on May 17:

"May 17, 1915.

Honorable N. R. Buller,
Commissioner of Fisheries,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

My Dear Sir:—I wish you would personally or through some competent agent make a study at once of the shad fishery situation at McCall's Ferry Dam, and if that Dam is impeding the progress of fish up the Susquehanna River and there is any law in this Commonwealth that will open the way for those fish, I want you to put it in operation after conference with the Attorney General at once.

Very truly yours,

M. G. BRUMBAUGH."

On May 17th the Department wrote the Governor as follows in answer to his letter:

"May 17, 1915.

Honorable M. G. Brumbaugh,
Governor of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Penn'a.

Sir:—I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your communication of the 17th instant with reference to making a study of the shad situation at McCall's Ferry Dam and beg to advise you that ever since my incumbence in office this has been one of the most serious problems confronting me. I have made extensive investigations, bringing this matter to the attention of fish culturists all over the United States and it is the concensus of opinion among them that there has not yet been a fishway designed or built which will permit the ascension of the shad. I have been studying this matter very seriously and assure you that my best efforts will be put forth to open the way for the shad.

I will consult with the Attorney General and place before him all correspondence and data which the Department has on this subject and will be guided by his advice.

Respectfully,

(Signed) N. R. BULLER,
Commissioner."

On account of the Legislature being in session and the Department knowing that you were extremely busy, it did not take this matter up earlier thinking it best to wait until the adjournment of the Legislature.

During the term of Hon. Hampton L. Carson, Attorney General for the Commonwealth, the question of the erection of the dam at McCall's Ferry was taken up and the court proceedings are on file in your office under the following:

In the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County, Docket 1906.
Commonwealth of Pennsylvania Ex Relatione Hampton L. Carson, Attorney General, vs.
Susquehanna Canal and Power Company,
Suggestion for Writ of Quo Warranto.
In the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County.
Sitting in Equity.
The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Plaintiff, vs.
McCall's Ferry Power Company, Susquehanna Canal and Power Company, Susquehanna and Tidewater Railroad Company.

On January 14, 1907, the following portion of the decree in re McCall's Ferry Dam that applies to the placing of a fishway therein provides:

"And now, this 14th day of January, 1907, the above cause having come on to be heard upon bill and answer and having been argued by counsel, it is ordered and decreed that the right of the defendant the McCall Ferry Power Company, to continue the construction of a dam now in course of erection on the Susquehanna River and to maintain said dam after the same shall have been constructed, shall be subject to its making and maintaining adequate provision for the passage of fish," etc.

Following this by orders of the former Board of Fishery Commissioners there was directed to be placed in the dam at McCall's Ferry a Cail fishway. This fishway was built according to the plan submitted by the Department and afterwards approved by the former Board of Fishery Commission. After this Cail fishway was built it was found that it was not practical as the shad would not ascend it. and this fishway was practically useless.

When I assumed the duties of this Department in September, 1911, this question was brought to my attention and numerous meetings with the officers of the Pennsylvania Water & Power Company were held, and after receiving all the data possible on the question, bringing the matter up for discussion before a meeting of the American Fisheries Society, being composed of fish culturists from all over the world, it was the concensus of opinion of all present that there was no practical fishway in use.

The Department carefully studied this matter and directed the Power Company to place a fishway in the McCall's Ferry Dam trying to imitate the natural riffles in the river. This the Power Company very readily agreed to do and at this writing the Company is still working on this fishway and making improvements, and the Department has found this Company ready at all times to meet the demands made more than half way. I hand you herewith report made in 1915 by the Power Company, and after it has served your purpose would request that you return it to me as it is the only copy I have.

In the year 1913 there was a Joint Resolution approved requiring the construction of an adequate fishway in the dam constructed across the Susquehanna River by the McCalls' Ferry Power Company, now the Pennsylvania Water & Power Company, at McCall's Ferry, providing how and when and by whom such fishway shall be constructed and providing penalties for failure to comply with the terms of this resolution. You will find this Joint Resolution on page 112 of the Pamphlet Laws of 1913.

This is a very serious problem which faces the Department and it has studied the question from all angles and is doing everything possible to find some fishway which can be built and which will allow the shad to ascend the river and is at present working on the plan as approved by the Board of Fishery Commission.

Many plans have been submitted to the Department but none of the parties are willing to make a demonstration of their proposed fishway. This Department is glad to receive suggestions and the Pennsylvania Water & Power Company is ready at any time to take the matter up further with any one who can show a satisfactory fishway, and the Company would reimburse the parties should the fishway after practical demonstration prove satisfactory.

The shad is a very sensitive fish and will not jump out of the water or pass under any overhead obstruction when the sun is shining which would cause a shadow. This makes the erection of a fishway very difficult. There are conditions to be met at McCall's Ferry Dam which make it very difficult to erect a fishway, which in times of high water must be made to meet all the forces of Niagara and in times of low water must allow sufficient water to run through the fishway so that the fish will not become stranded.

It is needless to say that any mechanical device is entirely out of the question, but it is hoped that a satisfactory fishway can be built which will allow the ascension of the shad. The Department assures you that everything possible is being done with this end in view and awaits your advices in this matter.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) N. R. BULLER,
Commissioner.

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 31, 1912.

N. R. Buller, Esq.,
Commissioner of Fisheries,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Sir:—Responding to your request of the 30th, I subjoin the portion of the decree in re McCall's Ferry Dam that applies to the placing of a fishway therein:

"And now, this 14th day of January, 1907, the above cause having come on to be heard upon bill and answer and having been argued by counsel, it is ordered and decreed that the right of the defendant, The McCall Ferry Power Co., to continue the construction of a dam now in course of erection on the Susquehanna River and to maintain said dam after the same shall have been constructed, shall be subject to its making and maintaining adequate provision for the passage of fish," etc.

The remainder of the decree refers to the construction of a proper lock or locks in order to make the navigation of the river continuous.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) H. M. HOKE,
Private Secretary.

York, Pa., August 9, 1915.

Hon. Francis Shunk Brown,
Attorney General,
Harrisburg, Penn'a.

My dear General:—About a week ago I called at the Department of Fisheries to make inquiry concerning the progress the Pennsylvania Water and Power Company was making toward the completion of the fishway. I was informed that the whole matter was laid before your Department for the purpose of investigation of the premises and coercion on the part of your Department in the event said Department finds that the Pennsylvania Water and Power Company has been derelict in its duty toward the people of Pennsylvania in failing to construct an adequate fishway.

I have taken a very decided interest in this matter. As a member of the 1913 Legislature I introduced a resolution to compel the aforesaid company to construct an adequate fishway, which resolution became law, as you no doubt are aware. It was not our purpose in passing this resolution to harass or compromise this power company. It was our purpose to compel this company to give back to the people of Pennsylvania a well defined right that was filched from them by this company at the time they constructed their dam, notwithstanding the decree of the Dauphin County Court upon an injunction proceeding brought against this company while their dam was in course of construction.

I feel that it is high time that your department take action and I believe you will find, upon investigation of the law and facts in the case, that you have ample authority to proceed against this company. Unless the Pennsylvania Water and Power Company install an adequate fishway, their failure will spell ruin to the fish industry in the Susquehanna River, which has been one of the most prolific streams for shad industry in the country prior to the erection of this great dam, which was constructed without adequate provision for the free passage of fish.

The people of York County are thoroughly aroused as a result of the confiscation of their rights and the destruction of the great industry that was a source of great profit to hundreds of fishermen engaged in the business in York and Lancaster Counties.

I trust you will take this matter up with your characteristic vigor and energy and push it to a successful conclusion. I shall greatly appreciate hearing from you concerning the matter. With kind regards, I am,

Very truly yours,

ROBERT S. SPANGLER.

August 19, 1915.

Hon. Robert S. Spangler,
York, Pa.

Dear Sir:—Your favor of the 9th inst. with reference to the fishway around the dam of the Pennsylvania Water and Power Company at McCall's Ferry, was duly received.

I enclose for your information copy of the letter which the Commissioner of Fisheries sent to this Department on June 25, 1915, accompanying it with a series of photographs showing the conditions surrounding the building of the fishway, the difficulties encountered and the progress of the work made up to that time.

You will notice from the letter of the Commissioner of Fisheries that he says there was a Cail fishway built according to plans submitted to, and approved by, the old Fisheries Commission, which fishway was practically useless, and that since the present Commissioner assumed the duties of his office in September, 1911, this has been one of the most serious matters which has confronted him; that he has brought the matter up for discussion before the American Fisheries Society, composed of fish culturists from all over the world; that the Pennsylvania Water and Power Company seem willing to put in any fishway which is practicable; that many suggestions have been made to the Department of Fisheries, but that none of these suggestions had been accompanied by offers to submit a practical demonstration of the proposed fishway.

I gather from the letter of the Commissioner of Fisheries that he is doubtful whether the present fishway, when completed, will be found practicable, and that he is still searching for some satisfactory plan for a practical fishway.

The decree of the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County which permitted the construction of this dam, provided that the same "shall be subject to its making and maintaining adequate provision for the passage of the fish." If ultimately it be found that there is no practical fishway, then the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, acting through the Attorney General, must determine what action should be taken in the premises, but in view of the fact that millions of dollars have been spent in the construction of the plant, including the building of the dam, under color of the decree of the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County, I am of the opinion that every reasonable opportunity should be given to the Company to construct and perfect a fishway before considering the question of the failure of "making and maintaining adequate provision for the passage of fish," as provided in the decree of the Court.

I am advised by the Commissioner of Fisheries that substantial progress is being made toward the completion of the present plans.

I am taking the liberty of sending a copy of this letter to the Commissioner of Fisheries, and also to the Pennsylvania Water and Power Company, together with a copy of your letter to me.

Very truly yours,

Attorney General.

The Pennsylvania Water & Power Company have been directed to make further extensions and improvements to the present fishway, and this work will be taken up just as soon as weather conditions permit.

I would most respectfully suggest that a proper conception of the problem presented in the construction of a fishway at this point can only be gathered through a personal visit to the locality, and for that reason I believe that a committee should be appointed from the members of your Honorable body to visit this dam and fishway in connection with myself and such other persons as it may be proper to accompany the committee.

I attach hereto complete report showing views of the fishway, conditions to be met, and other valuable data bearing on the subject.

Very respectfully,

N. R. BULLER,
Commissioner of Fisheries.

BIENNIAL REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONERS FOR THE PROMOTION OF UNIFORMITY OF LEGISLATION IN THE UNITED STATES.

To His Excellency, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor of Pennsylvania:

In accordance with the provisions of the Act of May 23, 1901, P. L. 291, Act of March 31, 1905, P. L. 91, Act of May 8, 1909, P. L. 491, and Act of May 28, 1913, P. L. 359, the undersigned, who were constituted a Board of Commissioners by the name and style of Commissioners for the Promotion of Uniformity of Legislation in the United States, submit their biennial report.

Two sessions of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws have been held since our last report. The twenty-fifth annual conference, was held at Salt Lake City, Utah, on August 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th, 1915, and the twenty-sixth annual conference of the said Commissioners was held at Chicago, Illinois, August 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th and 30th, 1916. These conferences were attended by all of the Pennsylvania commissioners. There were in attendance at the meeting at Salt Lake City fifty-one commissioners representing thirty-three States, and at the Chicago meeting sixty-one commissioners representing thirty-three States. The National Conference is now composed of representatives of all the States, territories and possessions of the United States. Its official title is the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws. Its methods of procedure have been explained in previous reports. It may be well to say that the commissioners are almost entirely lawyers, judges and professors of law, all of whom give their time without compensation and in many instances pay their own expenses while attending the meetings of the Conference.

The Conference has sought to confine its attention strictly to subjects upon which there was an obvious need of uniform legislation, and after deciding upon a topic as being appropriate for consideration, it has, in almost all cases, employed an expert especially familiar with the subject to draft a tentative form of law, which, after consideration in committee and before the Conference, and with the advantage of the criticism of any one interested, has finally been recommended for adoption. While the output of the Conference has not been large when the number of perfected acts is considered, it will be found on examination that the topics dealt with have been of very serious importance, and their acceptance by the various Legislatures has been most encouraging to those who believe in the cause of uniformity of legislation. No act can be recommended under the by-laws of the conference until after two years consideration by it and many have received much more.

At the twenty-fifth conference at Salt Lake City, four acts were finally completed and recommended for adoption, viz., the Uniform Partnership Act, Uniform Workmen's Compensation Act, an Act to Make Uniform the Law of Acknowledgements to Deeds or other Instruments taken outside of the United States, and a Uniform Cold Storage Act. At the twenty-sixth annual conference, a Uniform Land Registration Act, a Uniform Act for the Extradition of Persons of Unsound Mind, and a new Limited Partnership Act were perfected and adopted.

Of the foregoing acts, the Uniform Partnership Act was passed by the last Legislature. The Uniform Workmen's Compensation Act was not accepted in its entirety by the commission appointed to deal with that subject in Pennsylvania, but many of its important features were accepted.

From the inception of the movement for uniformity of legislation through the medium of the National Conference of Commissioners, which began in 1890 on the invitation of the Legislature of the State of New York, excepting during a brief period prior to 1901, Pennsylvania has been continually represented and its commissioners have taken an active and important part in the work of the National Conference. Two of the commissioners have been chosen to be President of the Conference and one of them now holds that important and honorable office.

At a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the Conference, a full list of the acts of major importance that have been formulated by the Conference was presented, and it will be convenient to set them out in this place.

1. Uniform Negotiable Instruments Act.
2. Uniform Sales Act.
3. Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act.
4. Uniform Divorce Act.
5. Uniform Bills of Lading Act.
6. Uniform Stock Transfer Act.
7. Uniform Family Desertion Act.
8. Uniform Foreign Wills Act.
9. Uniform Marriage License Act.
10. Uniform Child Labor Law.
11. Uniform Marriage Evasion Act.
12. Uniform Foreign Acknowledgments Act.
13. Uniform Partnership Act.
14. Uniform Cold Storage Act.
15. Uniform Workmen's Compensation Act.
16. Uniform Land Registration Act.
17. Uniform Foreign Probate Act.
18. Uniform Limited Partnership Act.
19. Uniform Act for the Extradition of Persons of Unsound Mind.

Of the foregoing there have been adopted in this State the Uniform Negotiable Instruments Act, Sales Act, Warehouse Receipts Act, Bills of Lading Act, Stock Transfer Act, and the Partnership Act. These acts are all of the utmost importance as affecting business transactions and social life. It may be confidently asserted that they are esteemed by the profession and the community as most useful statutes. The purpose of the conference in formulating all such acts is not to introduce any new features into the law, but merely to put into statutory form those substantive principles that have been settled by the courts. Where the decisions of the courts are in conflict, the weight of authority has been followed.

It is hoped by the commissioners that the Legislature at its present session will pass the Limited Partnership Act, the Act for the Extradition of Persons of Unsound Mind, and, if possible, other acts which have not yet received its consideration.

LIMITED PARTNERSHIP ACT.

This act was drafted by William Draper Lewis, of the University of Pennsylvania, and was considered at two sessions of the National Conference. It is believed that it is an improvement upon the existing Limited Partnership Laws of all of the States which have such a law. The effect of passing it would not be to terminate any of the existing limited partnerships until the time fixed for their dissolution and in the meantime would permit them to take advantage of the provisions of this statute.

The proposed act is based on the following assumptions:

First. No public policy requires a person who contributed to the capital of a business, acquires an interest in the profits, and some degree of control over the conduct of the business, to become bound for the obligations of the business; provided creditors have no reason to believe at the time their credits were extended that such person was so bound.

Second. That persons in business should be able, while remaining themselves liable without limit for the obligations contracted in its conduct, to associate with themselves others who contribute to the capital and acquired rights of ownership, provided that such contributors do not compete with creditors for the assets of the partnership.

The bill therefore contains the following features:

First. In the draft the person who contributes the capital, though in accordance with custom called a limited partner, is not in any sense a partner. He is, however, a member of the association (see Sec. 1).

Second. As limited partners are not partners securing limited liability by filing a certificate, the association is formed when substantial compliance, in good faith, is had with the requirements for a certificate (Sec. 2 (2)). This provision eliminates the difficulties which arise from the recognition of de facto associations, made necessary by the asumption that the association is not formed unless a strict compliance with the requirements of the act is had.

Third. The limited partner, not being in any sense a principal in the business, failure to comply with the requirements of the act in respect to the certificate, while it may result in the non-formation of the association, does not make him a partner or liable as such. The exact nature of his liability in such cases is set forth in Sec. 11.

Fourth. The limited partner, while not as such in any sense a partner, may become a partner as any person not a member of the association may become a partner; and, becoming a partner, may nevertheless retain his rights as limited partner; this last provision enabling the entire capital embraced in the business to be divided between the limited partners, all the general partners being also limited partners. (Sec. 12).

Fifth. The limited partner is not debarred from loaning money or transacting other business with the partnership as any other non-member; provided he does not, in respect to such transactions, accept from the partnership collateral security, or receive from any partner or the partnership any payment, conveyance, or release from liability, if at the time the assets of the partnership are not sufficient to discharge its obligations to persons not general or limited partners (Sec. 13).

Sixth. The substitution of a person as limited partner in place of an existing limited partner, or the withdrawal of a limited partner, or the addition of new limited partners, does not necessarily dissolve the association (Secs. 8, 16 (2b)); no limited partner, however, can withdraw his contribution until all liabilities to creditors are paid (Sec. 16 (1a)).

Seventh. As limited partners are not principals in transactions of the partnership, their liability, except for known false statements in the certificate (Sec. 7), is to the partnership, not to creditors of the partnership (Sec. 17). The general partners cannot, however, waive any liability of the limited partners to the prejudice of such creditors (Sec. 17 (3)).

THE UNIFORM ACT FOR THE EXTRADITION OF PERSONS OF UNSOUND MIND.

This act is intended to meet the difficulties arising when persons of unsound mind flee from the state of their domicile into a foreign state while under detention by law in an asylum, or where legal proceedings have been brought to determine the mental condition of such person, or where he had already been adjudged to be of unsound mind. The purpose of the act is to give to the jurisdiction of the place of domicile exclusive power in determining the question of mental unsoundness.

The act therefore provides:

(a) That where a person was under detention in a hospital, asylum or other institution for the insane as a person of unsound mind; or

(b) He had been theretofore determined by legal proceedings to be of unsound mind; or

(c) He was subject to detention in the state then his legal domicile, as the result of legal proceedings, whenever the executive of such state demands of the executive of the state in which the person of alleged unsound mind is found, such person shall be apprehended and handed over to the authorities of the state of his domicile.

THE UNIFORM LAND REGISTRATION ACT.

This act, which has already become the law of the State of Virginia, having been originally drafted by one of the Virginia commissioners, Eugene C. Massie, Esq., of the Richmond Bar, who was Chairman of the Committee of the Conference on that subject, presents a complete system of land registration, which it is hoped may meet the approval of the special Commission on that subject appointed by your Excellency, in accordance with an Act of Legislature. Copies of this act have been sent to each member of the special commission and the subject will doubtless be fully dealt with in their report.

The various commercial acts, which have been heretofore enumerated, have been passed in many of the States, all but a very few of them having passed the Negotiable Instruments Act, so that it is practically the law of all the States of the Union. The other commercial acts have been well received and are being passed each Winter among the various States. The leading commercial States, such as New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Maryland and Massachusetts, have been foremost in the acceptance of these acts or the larger proportion of them.

The Conference of Commissioners is now well known to the legal profession and business community as an able, energetic and at the same time conservative body, offering an unique means for bringing about uniformity of legislation on subjects of great importance which are beyond the purview of the Federal statutes. The care with which its proposed laws are prepared has come to be recognized both by lawyers and legislators. Its success has demonstrated the possibility of securing agreement among the various States on matters of common importance and thereby strengthening the principle of State autonomy, which is so essential for the proper balance of government under our Federal constitution.

The first act providing for the appointment of the Commission approved May 23, 1901, was passed at a time when the Conference of Commissioners was yet in the experimental stage. The act created only a temporary Commission. The Commission has been extended by subsequent acts, each making it temporary. An act should now be passed, and has been introduced by the present Legislature, providing for the permanency of this Commission under a slightly changed name.

The term of office of the present commissioners will expire by the limitation contained in the last act, on the 28th of May, 1917. It is earnestly recommended that the act to make the Commission a permanent body be passed. It would be a great injury to the cause of uniformity were the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to lose its representation in the Conference.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

WILLIAM H. STAAKE,
WALTER GEORGE SMITH,
WILLIAM M. HARGEST,
Commissioners.

REPORT OF COAL COMMISSION.

To His Excellency, the Governor, and to the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—By a joint resolution of your Honorable bodies, approved by the Governor, June 15th, 1915, P. L. 974, it was provided as follows:

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Providing for a commission to investigate and report the increase in the cost of anthracite coal, alleged to be due to the tax imposed thereon; empowering said commission to issue subpoenas and providing for the attendance of witnesses, and the penalty for failure to obey such subpoenas; and making an appropriation for the cost and expense of said commission.

Section 1. Be it enacted, &c., That a commission of three be appointed by the Governor to serve without compensation, to investigate the cause or causes of the raise of said price of anthracite coal, either by operators of anthracite mines or dealers in anthracite coal, whether the same was justified or not, and whether the same was done as a result of any illegal combination or confederation upon the part of the operators of anthracite coal mines or dealers in anthracite coal and investigate and report all other facts and circumstances in reference thereto; said commission to report to the Governor on the first of January, one thousand nine hundred and sixteen, and make a further report to the Governor and to the Legislature on the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen.

Section 2. For the purpose of enabling said commission to carry out and perform its duties, the said commission shall have the right to sit in any part of this Commonwealth; and shall have power to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, papers and other evidence at the meeting of the commission, and for that purpose may issue subpoenas, signed by the present of the commission, and cause the same to be served and executed in any Court of this Commonwealth; and if any witness shall refuse to testify to any fact within his knowledge, or to produce any books or papers within his possession or under his control, the secretary of the commission shall forthwith report the facts of such refusal to the Court of Common Pleas wherein such witness resides, or wherein his attendance was required and all questions arising upon such refusal shall at once be heard by said Court. If the Court determines that the testimony or evidence required by such witness is legal and properly competent and ought to be given or produced by him, then said Court shall make an order commanding such witness to testify or produce books or papers, as aforesaid, in disobedience of such order of the Court, then the said Court shall have power to order the commitment of such witness to the county jail of the proper county for contempt.

Section 3. The said commission shall have power to employ a secretary and stenographer and to call upon the Attorney General for such legal advice as it may require.

Section 4. The sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) is hereby appropriated to the payment of the costs and expenses of said commission to be drawn upon the requisition of the chairman thereof and paid as other appropriation are now by law paid.

Approved the 15th day of June, A. D. 1915.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

In compliance with the said resolution your Commission has the honor to report:

Pursuant to the authority of the resolution the Governor appointed to said commission on January 11th, 1916, Thomas Martindale, of the City of Philadelphia; Robert S. Gawthrop, of the Borough of West Chester, and John Langdon, of the Borough of Huntingdon.

Shortly thereafter appointment to the commission, was declined by Thomas Martindale, and the vacancy occasioned thereby was filled by the appointment of C. Tyson Kratz, of the Borough of Norristown.

On the 5th of April, 1916, the three members of the commission met in the office of the Governor for the purpose of organization and selected Robert S. Gawthrop as chairman of the commission.

The Attorney General being requested by the commission to assign counsel from his department to assist in the investigation, retained as special counsel for the Commonwealth J. Paul MacElree, Esq., whose services to the commission have been continuous.

Immediately thereafter the Commission, with its counsel, met at the office of the Attorney General and determined upon the method of conducting the investigation, which was immediately undertaken.

On July 19th, before any formal hearings had been held, C. Tyson Kratz, Esq., one of the commissioners, died very suddenly, and the work of the Commission was somewhat delayed by reason thereof, no appointment being made to fill the vacancy until the 21st of September, 1916, when Edwin J. Lafferty, of the City of Philadelphia, was appointed to the Commission and accepted the appointment.

From July, 1916, until January first, 1917, the Commission and its counsel have been constantly at work seeking to carry out the purpose of the Legislature, as set forth in the resolution authorizing the appointment of the Commission.

In 1913 the Legislature of Pennsylvania, seeking a source for additional revenue enacted

AN ACT

Laying a tax on anthracite coal, and providing for the collection and distribution of the same.

Section 1. Be it enacted, &c., That hereafter every ton of anthracite coal of the weight of two thousand two hundred and forty pounds avoirdupois, prepared for market in this Commonwealth, shall be subject to a State tax of two and one-half per centum of the value thereof when prepared for market, to be settled and collected as provided by law for other State taxes.

Section 2. Every operator of an anthracite coal mine or mines in this Commonwealth shall report to the Auditor General, in the month of January in each year thereafter, the number of such tons of anthracite coal mined by such operator within the calendar year then next preceding, and the value thereof prepared for market. Such report shall be in writing, under the oath of the operator, if an individual, or of a principal executive officer of a corporation, limited partnership, or joint stock association.

Section 3. If any operator shall fail to furnish such report within the time required, it shall be the duty of the accounting officers of the Commonwealth to add ten per centum to the tax for each and every year for which such report was not so furnished, which percentage shall be settled and collected with the said tax in the usual manner of settling accounts and collecting such taxes; and if any individual operator, or the officers of an operator being a corporation, limited partnership, or joint-stock association, or any of them, shall intentionally fail to make such report, he or they shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of five hundred dollars, and undergo imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both or either, at the discretion of the Court.

Section 4. If the Auditor General or State Treasurer is not satisfied with the report so made, they are hereby authorized and empowered to make an estimate of the number of tons mined by the operator, and to settle an account on the basis of such estimate for the taxes, penalties, and interest due the Commonwealth thereon, with the right to the operator, dissatisfied with any settlement so made, to appeal therefrom in the manner provided by law; and, if no such report is made, the Auditor General and State Treasurer shall make an estimate and settle an account as aforesaid, from the settlement there shall be a right of appeal in the manner provided by law.

Section 5. Each county shall receive from the State Treasurer for the use of the several cities, boroughs, and townships thereof, one-half of the said tax collected from operators in said county; and the treasurer thereof shall, within thirty days thereafter, pay over the same to the treasurers of the several cities, boroughs, and townships in said county pro rata, according to their respective populations as shown by the last preceding United States census.

Approved the 27th day of June, A. D. 1913.

JOHN K. TENER.

In pursuance to the said Act of Assembly the various coal operators mining anthracite coal in Pennsylvania, filed their reports, as required by the Act of Assembly, with the Auditor General, but with the exception of four small payments to the State, none of the operators ever undertook to comply with the Act with respect to paying the tax to the State, and in October, 1915, the Act was declared unconstitutional.

The Commission first directed the following communication to all the anthracite operators in the State of Pennsylvania:

Gentlemen:—The Commission, appointed by the Honorable Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor of the Commonwealth, in pursuance of the Joint Resolution of June 15th, 1915, P. L. 974, to investigate the causes of the increase in the cost of anthracite coal, and to report the same to the Governor and to the Legislature on the first day of January, 1917, desire to notify you that they wish to secure certain facts from the operators of anthracite coal mines and dealers in anthracite coal. To that end, the Commission requests you to furnish it with the following information:

1. The value, per ton, prepared for market, of the different sizes of anthracite coal, on June 20, 1913.
2. The factors which enter into this calculation.
3. The value, per ton, prepared for market, of the different sizes of anthracite coal on September 1, 1913; January 1, 1914; January 1, 1915; January 1, 1916.
4. The factors which enter into these calculations.
5. How much, if anything, you paid to the State, for taxes under the Coal Tax Act of June 27, 1913, P. L. 639.
6. How much, if anything, you increased the price of coal to meet the tax imposed by said Act of Assembly.
7. What has become of the money, if any, so charged.

8. Has the value per ton to the operator of the various sizes of coal, prepared for market, been affected either by the Coal Tax Act or by the decision of the Supreme Court, declaring the Coal Tax Act unconstitutional? If so, how much?

9. A list of dealers furnished with coal since June 27, 1913, and the amount furnished to each.

If you will furnish us with this information at an early date, it will materially aid us in this investigation, and, we believe, will relieve you, in a large measure, from attendance at hearings before the Commission, and us from compelling such attendance and the production of books and other evidence, before the Commission.

Yours very truly,

J. PAUL MacELREE,
Counsel.

Shortly after the above replies were received the following letter was addressed to upwards of two thousand retail coal dealers:

Gentlemen:—The Commission appointed by the Honorable Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor of the Commonwealth, in pursuance of the Joint Resolution of June 15, 1915, P. L. 974, to investigate the causes of the increase in the cost of anthracite coal and to report the same to the Governor and to the Legislature on the first day of January, 1917, desire to notify you that they wish to secure certain facts from the dealers in anthracite coal. To that end the Commission requests you to furnish it with the following information:

1. The price, per ton, paid by you for the different sizes of anthracite coal on January 1, 1913; July 1, 1913; September 1, 1913; January 1, 1914; January 1, 1915, and January 1, 1916.
2. What were the prices at which you sold coal of various sizes on the dates referred to above?
3. From what operator or operators you bought coal during the period referred to together with the quantities purchased and the dates?
4. What increase in cost was paid by you on the coal purchased by you by reason of the State Tax of 2½% passed in 1913?
5. How was said increase charged—as a separate item—or merely added to the price?
6. To whom were said increases paid?
7. Has the money so collected on account of State tax been returned by the operators to you?
8. If not, have you made any effort to have the same returned?
9. If said money has been returned to you, what has become of it?

Yours very truly,

J. PAUL MacELREE,
Counsel.

To this letter, more or less complete replies were received from four hundred dealers.

Your Commission then held public hearings in the cities of Philadelphia, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Erie, Harrisburg and Pottsville.

SCOPE OF INVESTIGATION.

Your Commission sought to inquire with respect to the two-fold purposes for which it was appointed:

First, With respect to the cause or causes of the raise of price, either by operators of anthracite mines or dealers in anthracite coal, whether the same was done as a result of any illegal combination or confederation upon the part of the operators of anthracite coal mines or dealers in anthracite coal, and,

Second, With respect to the cause or causes in the raise of price of anthracite coal, whether the same was justified or not and all facts and circumstances in reference thereto.

At Philadelphia your Commission first heard on September seventh, officers and representatives of various retail coal concerns in and about the City of Philadelphia, and there appeared before your Commission at that time George B. Newton Company, by Samuel B. Crowell, vice president; Edwin J. Cummings Coal Company, by Edwin J. Cummings, president; Terminal Coal Company, James E. Kunkel, president; Walter J. Crowder & Company, by William T. Brandreth; H. F. Brunner Company, by Frank E. Smedley, secretary; William W. Chambers Company, by William W. Chambers, president; Bell Coal Company, by George W. Heuer, president; John C. Hancock & Company, by Walter C. Hancock, a member of the firm; Walter A. Dwyer in person; Owen Letters Sons, by Ambrose Letter, a member of the firm, and Walter T. Bradley Company, by James M. Fuller, a member of the firm.

At Scranton, on September 27th and 28th, your Commission heard officers and representatives of coal operators in the Wyoming district. There appeared before the Commission Estate of A. S. Van Wickel, by Henry C. Pierson, sales agent; Temple Coal Company, by Thomas H. Meade, auditor; Peoples Coal Company, by R. L. Kissinger, secretary; Pennsylvania Coal Company, and Hillside Coal & Iron Company, by W. A. May, president, and H. J. Connolly, accountant.

At Wilkes-Barre, September 29th, your Commission continued the hearing of officers and representatives of coal operators in the Wyoming and Lehigh districts and there appeared before the Commission Pine Hill Coal Company, by Jessie Dimmick, accountant; Red Ash Coal Company, by Walter Roberts, treasurer; Buck Run Coal Company, and Dark Water Coal Company, by James B. Neale, president; George F. Lee Coal Company, by George F. Lee, general manager; Pardee Bros. & Company, by John W. Crook, auditor; Mill Creek Coal Company, by W. Kishbaugh, auditor; Raub Coal Company, by J. B. Blackman, auditor; Lehigh & Wilkes-Barre Coal Company, by Charles F. Huber, president and general manager; G. B. Markle & Company, of Erie, by E. E. Magill, owner; J. S. Siegel Coal Company, by John T. Cartright, superintendent.

At Erie, on October 20th, your Commission heard officers and representatives of various retail coal dealers in western Pennsylvania, and there appeared before your Commission, Gulcher Bros., of Erie, by Charles J. Gulcher, a partner; Heppenstall & Marquis, of Pittsburgh, by George T. Heppenstall, a partner; J. M. Gilchrist's Sons, of Pittsburgh, by J. M. Gilchrist, president; Keller Bros., of East Liberty, by Elliott Keller, a partner; United Lumber & Coal Company, Ltd., of Oil City, by E. R. Philp, treasurer; Burnwell Coal Company, of Erie, by E. E. Magill, owner; J. S. Sigel Coal Company, of Erie, by Charles Siegel, a partner; A. H. Lemon & Sons, of Erie, by A. H. Lemon, a partner.

At Philadelphia, on November 14, 15 and 16, your Commission heard officers and accountants of the larger coal operators and had before it for exhaustive examination Lehigh Valley Coal Company, by Hon. Frank Wheaton, counsel, and Louis A. Tompkins, controller; G. B. Markle Company, by W. W. Hindennach, secretary and treasurer; Lehigh Valley Coal Sales Company, by F. P. Ryders, sales agent; Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company, by W. J. Richards, president; Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company, by Samuel D. Warriner, president; H. H. Lineaweaver & Company, by H. H. Lineaweaver, president; Susquehanna Coal Company, by A. D. Sexton, controller; Thorne, Neale & Company, by Charles E. Fernburg, general sales agent; Whitney & Kemmerer, by Charles H. Jacobs, accountant.

At Harrisburg, on December first, your Commission had before it Hon. William A. Magee, a member of the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and Samuel D. Warriner, president of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company, to consider and discuss the feasibility of reducing transportation cost, by utilization of existing canal routes, or by a canalization of the river routes from the anthracite coal fields to Philadelphia.

At Philadelphia, on December eight, the Commission heard Wilfred H. Schoff, secretary of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, with respect to the same general proposition as that presented by William A. Magee.

At Pottsville, on December twenty-second, the Commission heard various employes of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company with respect to the acreage owned, controlled, leased, under operation, operated on royalties, from which royalties are received by the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron Company and employes of the Cambridge Coal Company, Ellsworth Coal Company, St. Clair Coal Company, Oak Hill Coal Company, Mt. Hope Coal Company, Maryd Coal Company, Morea Coal Company, Locust Mountain Coal Company, and Beaver Brook Coal Company, with respect to limitations imposed upon them by those owning or in control of coal lands operated by and adjacent to collieries of the above companies.

In addition to the hearings above mentioned counsel for the Commission consulted with representatives of the Federal Trade Commission, the Inter-State Commerce Commission, the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, counsel for the Retail Coal Dealers Association, officers, representatives and counsel for various coal operators, retail dealers, boards of trade and associations, seeking to gather all of the available data contemplated by your Resolution.

PREFACE TO FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS.

Your Commission naturally sought to divide its investigation with respect to the varying factors which enter into the price of anthracite coal and have sought to classify these factors as to permit the finding of proper conclusions, with respect to each one independent of the others, and to suggest where possible a solution, which might result in a decrease in the price of anthracite coal to the public, by decreases in the various factors entering into the price of coal.

The following pages are devoted:

First. To a brief resume of the extent of the anthracite coal fields in Pennsylvania, their history, development, location, etc.

Second. To a detailed report of the cost of producing anthracite coal, the profits of the operators and of their affiliated companies, and whether such increases in the price of anthracite coal as have been occasioned by the operators have been justified.

Third. The cost of transporting, the profits of the carriers, and the question of a solution of the high cost of such transportation to the public.

Fourth. The cost of selling and the profits of the middle man.

Fifth. The cost of distributing and the profits of the retailer.

Sixth. The manner of acquiring title to the coal lands, the combinations by which title is held, and suggestions as to the possibility of relief to the public by appropriate legislation seeking to make available vast acreages of virgin coal land now being held in reserve.

First. A Brief Synopsis of the Extent, Location, History and Development of the Anthracite Coal Fields in Pennsylvania.

Practically the entire source of supply of this fuel is confined to an area of 496 square miles, in nine counties in the State. Of these nine counties, five, i. e. Lackawanna, Luzerne, Schuylkill, Northumberland and Carbon, produce ninety-six per cent. of the total output. The four less important producing counties are Susquehanna, Dauphin, Columbia and Sullivan.

A tabular summary of the several sections of the anthracite fields is given in the following statement:

ANTHRACITE COAL FIELDS, BY FIELD, LOCAL DISTRICT AND TRADE REGION.

Coal Field or Basin	Local District	Trade Region
Northern	Carbondale Scranton Pittston Wilkes-Barre Plymouth Kingston	Wyoming
Eastern Middle	Green Mountain Black Creek Hazleton Beaver Meadow Panther Creek	Lehigh

Southern	East Schuylkill
	Western Schuylkill.
	Lorberry
	Lykens Valley	Schuylkill
Western Middle	East Mahanoy
	West Mahanoy
	Shamokin

The Anthracite Coal Fields are Reached by Eleven So Called Initial Railroads, as Follows:

Philadelphia & Reading Railway.
Lehigh Valley Railroad.
Central Railroad of New Jersey.
Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad.
Delaware & Hudson Co.'s Railroad.
Pennsylvania Railroad.
Erie Railroad.
New York, Ontario & Western Railway.
New York, Susquehanna & Western Railroad (Wilkes-Barre & Eastern).
Lehigh & New England Railroad.

A general idea of the various sizes of anthracite coal and the uses to which they are put by the consumer, is shown in the following table:

The stove and chestnut sizes are in the greatest demand and make up over 40 per cent. of the total shipments. They are essentially domestic sizes, and the relatively large proportion they make of the shipments serves as an index to the conditions governing the anthracite trade. Egg coal finds its way principally to the furnaces of residences, and pea coal is used in the same way to some extent, though it is also used for kitchen ranges, and some of it goes with the buckwheat, rice and barley for use as steam coal. The small sizes come directly into competition with bituminous and sometimes are used mixed with bituminous coal for steam purposes, chiefly in hotels, apartment houses, and office buildings.

The standard screens used in the preparation of anthracite have the following dimensions:

STANDARD SIZES OF ANTHRACITE.

Size.	Through.		Over.
Broken or grate 4	inch square		2¾	inch square
Egg 2¾	"	"	2	" "
Stove 2	inch square		1⅝	inch square
Chestnut 1⅝	"	"	¾	" "
Pea ..... ¾	"	"	½	" "
Buckwheat No. 2 or rice .... ¼	"	"	⅛	" "
Buckwheat No. 3 or barley .. ⅛	"	"	1-16	" round

The quantity in long tons of the various sizes shipped for 1913 and the percentage each bears to the total shipment, on the authority of the respondents in the government case, 4914 I. C. C., is shown below.

Size.	Tons.	Percentage of Total.
Lump and steamboat	362,714	.51
Broken	3,503,495	4.92

Taking the distribution in recent years and following a slightly variant classification it is indicated by the records that about 27.64 per cent. goes to New York tidewater points.

6.89 per cent. goes via rail through New England gateways.
10.29 per cent. goes to western terminal of trunk lines far beyond.
8.01 per cent. goes to Great Lake ports.
36.49 per cent. goes to points local or originating lines.
10.68 per cent. goes through junction points to other than anthracite carriers.

RANGE OF PRICES AT TIDEWATER.

The tables below give the general average (free on board) of prices realized for anthracite coal sold at or near New York harbor points, which price determines the selling price for anthracite coal. The averages given are without the item of State tax, inasmuch as coal was sold during the period from 1913 to the present in both ways, and where State tax was included the average price received was ten cents higher on sizes larger than pea and five cents higher on pea. The figures given are the general average of prices realized from coal from the three fields without respect to the tonnage of any one of the three and are from figures furnished by the Anthracite Bureau of Information.

The following comparative tables showing the wholesale and retail prices at tidewater, New York harbor, April first, 1914, and on line shipments to the City of Philadelphia, at the same time, show the amounts respectively retained by the retailer, transporter and the producer out of the consumer's payment for a long ton of coal. The middle man's profit, if sold through a selling agency, must be deducted from producer's amount. The first of these tables is from brief of respondents before the I. C. C., 4914, and the second compiled from statistics gathered by your Commission at hearings in the City of Philadelphia.

The reason for taking the month of April, 1914, in the upper table was because the producer received the lowest price for his coal in that month, because of the usual fifty cent discount allowed on domestic sizes in April. It will be noted that no such discount is allowed on pea.

Your Commission is obliged to counsel for respondents in the Government case, for having chosen this month and for having chosen New York prices. The percentage retained by the carrier in the instance cited first, is made to appear quite small, because of the higher prices charged by retailers in New York City. The retailer there, as elsewhere, buys his coal in long tons, but quotes the same to his retail grade as prices for short tons, which short ton prices are comparable to long ton prices charged elsewhere.

Proportionately the transporter discriminating against Philadelphia in the matter of freight rates and getting less for his New York haul than his Philadelphia haul and charging the same as a percentage of a larger amount, seeks to foist the larger percentages upon the retailer, with which fruitless effort your Commission will deal more fully under its proper heading.

The following table based on short tons and taking as a suppositious retail price for the same in Philadelphia, the percentage of the price charged for a long ton and taking the most favorable freight rate, that of $1.70 from the Schuylkill region for a long ton, which for a short ton amounts to $1.52, this table shows the distance carried, the freight rate received by the carrier, the wholesale price obtained by producer, at the mine, and the cost to consumer at destination of shipments of domestic sizes of anthracite coal to the line points designated.

Second. The Cost of Producing Anthracite Coal, Profits of the Operators, Increases in Price and Occasion for the Same.

With respect to the producing end of the anthracite business, the Commission, as indicated before, directed a letter of inquiry to all of the anthracite operators and followed that by requesting their appearance at public hearings of the Commission, to which the operators responded fully and completely with but a single exception.

By the two courses pursued the investigation was directed toward determining the capitalization of the various companies and their bonded indebtedness. The question of tonnage produced during a period of years; the average cost of such production; the average price received per ton, and the gross margin of profit enjoyed by the various operators was gone into in detail. The manner in which the output was sold and the cost of selling were also gone into.

Questions relative to the collection of the State tax under the Roney Act of 1913 were directed to all of the operators, having in mind the particular reference to this phrase of the investigation in the body of your Resolution, and this question will be treated of in detail under a separate heading.

Further extended examination was made, seeking to determine any and all proper reasons necessitating the advance in the price of coal by the operator.

PRELIMINARY CONCLUSIONS.

It is conceded that with respect to the production of coal two factors are vitally important, all other things being equal, the annual tonnage produced and the percentage of prepared sizes secured in such production contribute in a great extent to the success or failure of anthracite mining. By prepared sizes are meant those sizes larger than pea, and which sizes the operators are able to sell at a profit above the producing cost, the remaining smaller or steam sizes being in every instance produced at greater expense than that at which such sizes can be marketed.

FINDINGS.

Having in mind the foregoing outline and intending to treat more largely with the question of increase actually necessitated in subsequent pages, the following tables show for the various years set forth the tonnage produced of all sizes; the proportion of prepared sizes; the average cost of production per ton; the average price received per ton, and the gross margin of profit per ton of many of the larger operators.

The gross margin of profit multiplied by the tonnage sold represents the amount available for the payment of interest on bonded debt and for the payment of dividends on stock. The royalties paid, where any are due is charged to the cost of production and in most instances five cents a ton is charged to the cost of production to take care of the item of depletion of coal lands or dimunition of supply.

The percentage of prepared sizes in the above instance is considerably below normal and is owing in part to the fact of a very considerable increase in washery tonnage. The percentage of prepared sizes based on commercial tonnage in 1913, being 54.6; in 1914, being 53.96; in 1915, being 53.38.

The Commission has filed, for the purpose of possible legislative reference, more or less complete data from most of the larger operators, with respect to the foregoing factors, all of which would indicate a range of profit from a deficit to sixty-seven cents a ton.

By reason of a lack of time and adequate means the Commission has not undertaken to verify any of the figures. It is respectfully suggested, with respect to all of the above, however, that the average margin of profit, per ton, is substantially reduced by the sale at a loss of the steam sizes, and it is further suggested in view of the meagre facts so far discovered that the companies themselves may in a large measure be responsible for the small margin of profit in some cases, by having contracted to sell steam sizes at not only less than the cost of production, at which they are doubtless compelled to sell, but in instances at least they have sold to certain favored concerns at considerably less than the current market price. To what extent this has been done your Commission is at this time unable to report, but do find, with respect to the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company, and the Lehigh & Wilkes-Barre Coal Company that they by a contract entered into on May 7th, 1898, to remain effective for twenty years, that is until April 30th, 1918, agreed to furnish the Lehigh Zinc & Iron Company and the New Jersey Zinc Company with a large quantity of fuel coal, No. 2, Buckwheat, and deliver it at the Zinc Company's plants at Hazzard, Pa., the selling price agreed being 55 cents per ton on such coal shipped from the Lehigh region and 75 cents per ton on such coal shipped from the Wyoming region.

In accordance with the contract the vendees have been furnished with 200,000 tons of fuel coal annually. The standard selling price of this coal f. o. b. mines ranged from 70 cents to $1.15 per ton of 2,240 pounds during the year 1911 and up to as high as $1.40 a ton in 1915.

The intra-state freight rate to the Zinc Company's plant from the mines in the Wyoming region was 75 cents per ton and from the mines in the Lehigh region 60 cents per ton. The carrier, according to the reports of the Interstate Commerce Commission, 35 I. C. C., 253, has transported this coal at a rate of 29½ cents per ton. It can be readily observed that under this contract the Zinc Companies are deriving an advantage of $1.00 per ton on 200,000 tons of coal annually.

As opposed to this reasoning on the one hand, it is fair to suggest to the mind of the reader that during the period from 1890 down to 1913 there has been a very perceptible increase as a whole in the percentage of steam sizes, due to the recovery of usable fuel from the culm banks and the saving of small sizes at the breakers by washeries, so that a table setting forth the total production and the average price per ton received must be read at all times with respect to the percentage of prepared sizes in the output. The table below sets out the relative importance of domestic steam and washery anthracite coal shipments annually from 1890 to 1913.

Having in mind or endeavoring to so have no prejudice in this matter, your Commission is of one mind with respect to the operating end of the anthracite business, in so far as apparent profits are concerned. In reaching this conclusion it has been necessary to have before us at all times the fact that the production of anthracite coal necessitates the keeping of the market price of the fuel at such a figure as to enable those least favorably situated to produce and sell at a fair profit. There are instances where the profits seem to be out of proportion even when considering the tremendous capital invested and the hazards of the business, because of the fact, largely your Commission believes, that these operators must naturally receive the benefit of a prevailing price, for were they to so reduce their price as to make their margin of profit per ton equal to the profit enjoyed by operators less favorably situated, the only possible solution would be the complete elimination of the smaller and less favorably located and, in most instances, independent operators. With the question of additional profits indirectly enjoyed by many of the larger companies, through their affiliation with the railroads, we shall deal in so far as we believe we have any right to go, under a subsequent heading of transportation costs.

PENNSYLVANIA STATE TAX.

Under the second general heading of the cost of production, etc., your Commission believes might properly come a discussion of one phase of the investigation with respect to the effect of the Roney Tax Act of June 27, 1913, which was in effect until June 1, 1915, and of the Dawson Act of June 1, 1915, which is still in effect.

The Roney Act has since been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in an opinion handed down October, 1915.

By the provisions of the Roney Act, which is set out in full in the early pages of the report, the tax which amounted in round figures to ten cents a ton on prepared sizes and to five cents a ton on steam sizes, was imposed upon the operator based on the value of the coal prepared for market.

By many operators the tax so imposed was added to the price of the coal as a separate item and was so billed to the selling agents and by them to the retailer. In a few instances no tax was added and in a few instances the tax was added without being separately itemized. These various practices continued with respect to both the Roney Act and the Dawson Act, in a general way, until Jannary 1, 1916, at which time the tax in every instance ceased to be added as a separate item, but the price of coal was maintained at a price which included both the regular January price and an amount equivalent to the tax.

The operators have attempted to justify this addition to the January price by reason of an increased cost of production, due to the effect of the Workmen's Compensation Act, the cost of which to the operators on one year's trial carried in a variety of ways, has varied from two cents to nine cents per ton.

Very early in the course of the investigation, your Commission sought to secure a return of the amount collected under the Roney Act, since declared unconstitutional, but which moneys were still in the hands of the operators, to the retailers and others from whom the money had been received.

In this effort the desires of the Commission have met with a cordial response on behalf of the operators, to the end that in every instance where money was collected under the Roney Act and held by the operators, the same has either been returned or is in the course of being returned to the parties from whom it was received.

Of a total of $1,029,143.88 collected by the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company, the sum of $940,000 has actually been returned and the balance awaits the proper claiming by the retailers. Of $677,996.63 collected by the Lehigh Valley Coal Company under the Roney Act, the sum of $550,559.05 has been returned and like proportions of the amount collected by other operators has been and is being returned.

Your Commission has no desire to claim credit for having accomplished the return of these moneys, inasmuch as assurances had been sought from the Attorney General by various of the operators with respect to this matter at or about the time of the actual appointment of the Commission, but the Commission does believe that its prompt investigation of this matter did result in expediting such return and in stimulating to make this return some operators, at least, who, until that time had shown no indication of so doing.

The table below will show with respect to the operators from whom we had received accurate replies the amount of tax collected under the Roney Act and the amounts returned by them up to November 1, 1916.

Operator	Amount Collected	Amount Returned
P. & R. Coal & Iron Co.	$1,029,143 88	$940,000 00
Lehigh Valley Coal Co.	677,996 63	550,559 00

Locust Mountain Co.	.....	2,948 74
Dodson Coal Co.	.....	13,353 12

In addition to the above, your Commission, as its correspondence will show, has been advised by many operators that the entire amount collected has been refunded and the operators upon this assurance have requested that they be not called upon to divulge the names of the parties to whom the return was made, together with the amount, because of its being a trade secret. Where the Commission has received such assurances no further demand has been made with respect to this phase.

Your Commission is assured that upwards of five million dollars has been returned to retailers on account of the unconstitutionality of the Roney Act.

With respect to the disposition made of this five million dollars by the retailers, your Commission called before it, at various places in Pennsylvania, representative retail dealers and inquired of them what had become of the money so returned. In every instance, except where there had been a special contract by the terms of which it was provided for the return of this tax to the consumer, in the event that the Act were unconstitutional, your Commission finds that the retailers retained the amount returned to them.

The universal explanation offered by the retailers in explaining their failure to refund the amount of this tax to the consumer, was that there had been no increase made by them to the consumer as a direct result of the increased price at the mine on account of the tax. They sought to explain the increase generally made in December, 1913, by retail coal dealers in the sum of twenty-five cents a ton, as having been occasioned by a general increase in the cost of labor and supplies and that without which increase so occasioned they would have been unable to continue their operations. The answer universally given by these retailers was, that they were forced to absorb the increased cost to them, due to the tax, by reason of the absorption thereof by their competitors. Your Commission believes and therefore so finds that there was occasion for the retailers to increase the price of anthracite coal in December, 1913, but also believes that this increase was in part occasioned by the increased cost to them due to State tax and further believe that the refunds made to them by the operators were in a large part unexpected and that the five million dollars so represented, in a very large measure, swelled the profits of the retailers in that amount mostly unexpected by them.

There is no tangible indication from the testimony before your Commission either in whole or in part, that convinces us of any unlawful combination on the part of either operators or retailers to take advantage of the State tax and to unlawfully conspire to raise the price of anthracite coal by reason thereof.

CAUSES OF INCREASE.

Considering the very substantial increase in the cost of anthracite coal to the consumer ultimately and to the producer in the first place, and in the cost of distributing the coal to the consumer, your Commission has sought to discover whether such increases have been in any sense justified and in considering this phase have taken up or sought to do so the various factors entering into the cost.

The first of these factors is necessarily that of the miner and his wages, which in the past decade have been covered by the wages agreements of 1903, 1909, 1912 and 1916. The table presented herewith, showing the issues, the agreements and awards, will indicate in a general way, the increased wages paid to the miner under the various agreements and the increased cost to the operators can be gathered as well.

Issues	Demands of union and results of award or agreement in—
	1903	1909	1912	1916
I. Wages: (a) Rates and scale.	Demands: 20 per cent increase upon prices paid in 1901 to employes preferring contract or piece work; minimum of 60 cents per ton of 2,240 pounds.	Demands: 10 per cent increase for all employees receiving $1.50 or less per day and 5 per cent increase for all receiving over $1.50 and under $2 per day.	Demands: 20 per cent increase for all employees over and above rates of 1903; minimum wage of $3.50 per day for miners and $2.75 for laborers on consideration work.	Demands: 20 per cent increase on all wage rates now being paid in the anthracite coal field.
	Award: 10 per cent increase to all employees, except 5 per cent for material-hoisting engineer, other engineers and pumpmen, the last-named together with firemen to receive 10 per cent increase from Nov. 1, 1902, to Apr. 1, 1903.	Agreement: Rates paid for new work not to be less than rates paid under 1903 award for all work of a similar kind or character.	Agreement: 10 per cent increase over 1903 rates and wage scale; contract miners and laborers when working on consideration to be paid not less than the rate paid company miners and laborers at the mine where the work is being performed; rates paid by contract miner not to be less than the standard rate for that class of work.	Agreement: 7 per cent increase over 1912 rates for all contract miners and all company men working on eight hour day prior to April 1, 1916, excepting hoisting engineers, who shall get 3 per cent increase over 1912 rates.
(b) Methods of payment.	Demands: Weight of ton to be 2,240 pounds; adoption of system by which coal can be weighed wherever practicable, the existing differentials to be maintained.	Demands: All coal to be mined and paid for by ton of 2,000 pounds; uniform pay statements to be issued by employers.	Demands: All coal to be mined and paid for by ton of 2,240 pounds wherever practicable; uniform payment for props; check weighman and check docking bosses not to be interfered with; abolition of system whereby contract miner has more than one working place or employs more than two has more than one working place or employs more than two laborers; sliding scale abolished.	Demands: Where coal shall be mined on car basis to be weighed and paid for on mine run basis by the ton of 2,240 pounds and refuse cleaned from coal to be paid for on equal basis.
	Award: Sliding scale of wage payments; payment of contract miners' laborers to be direct by company; existing methods of payment for coal mined to be adhered to; any increase in size of car or in topping to be accompanied by proportionate increase in rate paid per car; check-weighmen and check docking bosses to be provided by miners when desired; distribution of mine cars must be equitable.	Agreement: Pay statements to be issued by employers.	Agreement: Work of check weighmen and check docking bosses not to be interfered with, provided they do not interfere with operation of colliery, and they must be elected by contract miners in meeting specifically called for the purpose.	Agreement: No provision.

Issues	Demands of union and results of award or agreement in—Continued. 1903	1909	1912	1916
II. Hours:	Demands: 20 per cent reduction in hours of labor without any reduction of earnings for all employees paid by the hour, day or week.	Demands: 8-hour day with no reduction of wages.	Demands: A work day of not more than 8 hours for outside day labor, with no reduction in wages.	Demand: A work day of eight hours.
	Award: 8-hour shifts for engineers, firemen, and pumpmen, with no reduction in wages and Sundays off at company's expense; other employees to be paid on basis of 9-hour day the same wages as received for 10-hour day, with overtime in excess of 9 hours.	Agreement: No provision.	Agreement: No provision.	Agreement: Eight hour day.
III. Recognition of Union: (a) Recognition as party to wage contract.	Demand: Agreement between United Mine Workers of America on wages and conditions of employment.	Demand: Agreement and complete recognition of United Mine Workers of America to negotiate a wage contract.	Demand: Recognition of United Mine Workers of districts 1, 7, and 9 as a party to negotiate a wage contract.	Demand: A full and complete recognition of United Mine Workers of America, and districts 1, 7, and 9.
	Award: No recognition except "an organization representing a majority of the mine workers" in each district as authority to name member of board of conciliation; violations of award not to invalidate any of its provisions.	Agreement: No recognition except of "representatives of the anthracite mine workers" as party to agreement.	Agreement: No recognition except of "the anthracite mine workers' organization" as party to agreement.	Agreement: Recognition of districts 1, 7, and 9, representing the Anthracite Mine Workers' Organization.
(b) Recognition of right to collect union dues.	Demand: None stipulated.	Demand: Right of United Mine Workers of America to collect union dues as it pleases.	Demands: Right to provide a method for the collection of revenues for the United Mine Workers of districts 1, 7, and 9.	Demand: None stipulated.
	Award: No provision.	Agreement: Provisions of board of conciliation as to union dues and posting of notices were ratified.	Agreement: No provision.	Agreement: No provision.
(c) Discrimination on account of union.	Demand: None stipulated in formal demands, but made against discrimination in conference.	Demand: None stipulated in formal demands, but made against discrimination in conference.	Demands: None stipulated.	Demand: None stipulated.
	Award: No discrimination allowed on account of union or non-union affiliation by employers or union.	Agreement: Employee discharged for being member of union to have right to appeal to conciliation board.	Agreement: No provision.	Agreement: No provision.
IV. Methods of Settling Disputes (Conciliation and Arbitration).	Demand: In agreement to provide satisfactory methods for the adjustment of grievances.	Demand: Adjustment of disputes arising under wage contract according to provisions of the agreement.	Demand: A more uniform and convenient system of adjusting local grievances within a reasonable time; arbitration by federal authority in case agreement failed to be made.	Demand: A more simplified, speedy and satisfactory method of adjusting grievances.
	Award: Establishment of joint conciliation board of three miners' representatives and three operators' representatives and arbitration by umpire to be appointed by a judge of the Third United States judicial curcuit.	Agreement: Dispute at any colliery to be first taken up with the local mine executive before being taken to the board of conciliation.	Agreement: Provision for grievance committee of not more than 3 employees which must (1) take up grievance with foreman; (2) with company officials; (3) with members of conciliation board for district; (4) with entire board for final settlement or reference to umpire. The committees to meet with company officials and prepare statement of wages for use of board. District members of board elected by miners may sit with grievance committees.	Agreement: Provision for board of conciliation to render decision within 60 days unless time is extended. If no decision, board to submit case to the umpire as provided in award of anthracite coal strike commission.

Issues	Demands of union and results of award or agreement in—Continued. 1903	1909	1912	1916
V. Length of Agreement.	Demand: None stipulated in formal demands.	Demand: One year agreement.	Demand: One year.	Demand: Two years.
	Award: Three years (the awards of 1903 were continued in the 1906 agreement for another three years).	Agreement: Three years.	Agreement: Four years.	Agreement: Four years.

It may be noted in passing that the new wage agreement of 1916 occasioned an increased cost per ton to produce of approximately 25 to 30 cents, depending on the tonnage produced daily in eight hours.

The next material factor with respect to the operators end of the transaction is the increased cost of materials and supplies. The following table, showing the cost of various materials in 1912 and the corresponding price in 1916, and the increase in per cent., will serve as an index of the general increase to the operators with respect to this phase of the cost of production.

Another item tending to cause an increase in the cost of production is the item of Workmen's Compensation carried by the various operators, under the Act of 1915. Your Commission hesitates to set out the figures compiled by it during the brief period in which Workmen's Compensation has been in effect, inasmuch as the companies are experimenting somewhat with the best way of carrying the same. Some are charging off five cents a ton, others are carrying it with insurance companies from whom they hope to obtain a dividend and the average of losses sustained can hardly be properly arrived at on such short a test as six months' experience under the Act will give. Your Commission believes from the testimony before it that the expense to the operator will amount at least to the sum of five cents a ton and has filed with its original report all of the testimony with respect to this item.

In addition to the items already set out, the item of increased taxation is one which the operators have put forward as a reason for the increase in the cost of coal. It is impossible in this report to take up this phase with respect to every company concerned but the sworn testimony of officers of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company is to the effect that their taxes in the county of Luzerne have increased from $3,000 per superficial acre to ten or twelve thousand dollars per superficial acre for the purpose of local taxation with an ever increasing rate, from 1910 to 1916.

The testimony of the president of the Lehigh & Wilkes-Barre Coal Company (page 338 of the Commission's testimony), is to the effect that during the four year period from 1912 to 1916, taxes were running at twenty-one cents per ton of output. Since the new wage agreement went into effect and taking the figures as near as they can prophecy them taxes are presently running at about thirty-five cents per ton of output.

The Commission is of opinion that the three foregoing factors, to wit, the increased cost of labor, the increased cost of supply and increased taxation must necessarily reflect themselves upon the price of anthracite coal to the disadvantage of the consumer, and the Commission is further of opinion that with respect to none of these items can the operators be charged with blame.

Even in addition to the above it is conceded that with the exhaustion of the richer and more easily worked veins of anthracite coal it has been necessary for the operators to sink their shafts deeper and to drive their gangways and tunnels to a much greater distance laterally. Without great improvements in methods and appliances this tends to cause a number of increased expenses of operation.

In working the thinner veins it is necessary to remove a much greater amount of rock and refuse (dead work) than was necessary a very few years ago.

With every increase in the depth of the mine and the area which is covered by the workings there is a considerable increase in the amount of water which must be removed from the mines and also in the cost of its removal. New underground springs are being continually encountered and water from this source, as well as the natural seepage, must be removed from the mine with absolute regularity. The method of removal consists briefly in allowing the water to flow down by gravity to the very bottom of the mine, where it is collected in a large pit or "sump," from which it is removed either by pumping, or by a tank hoist. Since the water must be raised from the very bottom of the mine, every increase in the depth of the mine considerably increases the cost of removing the water. In some of the collieries in the anthracite region as much as 16 tons of water are removed for every ton of coal hoisted.

With the continual lengthening of the gangways the cost of ventilation and of inside transportation and of hoisting increases very rapidly. The increased length of track very considerably increases the cost of inside repairs and maintenance, while the elaborate devices necessary to carry the air to the face of the most distant workings are very expensive and difficult to maintain in perfect condition.

In addition to the tendency to ever-increasing costs in mining the deeper veins, it is necessary to consider also that many of these veins, which must be removed in the regular course of mining in order to properly conserve the supply, are so thin that it would have been considered bad business policy to mine them even ten years ago. The tendency to increased cost in mining the thin veins is a result of several factors which may be briefly described. (1) Since the chambers in which the men work must be sufficiently high to allow a man to stand up comfortably and to permit the passage of loaded mine cars where the vein is not on a pitch, it is necessary in mining a 2½ foot vein (containing 2 feet of clean coal) to blast out and handle about 4½ feet of rock, slate and other refuse in addition to that contained in the vein itself. (2) While all of this large amount of refuse does not have to be transported to the surface, a large amount of additional labor is necessary to dispose of it inside the mine. (3) Furthermore, an additional rate must be paid the miner for each foot of rock removed in this manner. (4) Finally, the thin veins are much more liable to "pinch out" or develop "faults" than the thicker and more uniform veins.

In addition to the mining of thin veins a considerable part of the anthracite supply at the present time is obtained by the removal of the pillars of coal, which must be left to support the roof until an area is practically worked out. The so-called "robbing" or "second mining" is very much more expensive, as it is also more dangerous than the original process of mining. Furthermore, the supply of coal reclaimable by "second mining" is greatly decreased or rendered very expensive by the fact that the operators who originally worked the field failed in many cases to "columnize" the pillars in the different levels so as to rest one above the other as in a properly constructed house. As a result the roof has in many cases subsided, not only crushing the coal in the pillars, but rendering large areas practically inaccessible.

The situation with respect to the class of labor employed has also conspired to produce a smaller output than might be consistently expected from past records. The nationalities of the people now most actively engaged in the actual work of mining is confined largely to those from Greece, Armenia, Italy, Ireland, Russia, Poland and Hungary; these peoples have different holidays which they celebrate, which necessitates a very considerable reduction of the maximum annual tonnage, and the efficiency has apparently been impaired.

In addition to the recognized legal holidays, such as New Year's, Lincoln's Birthday, Washington's Birthday, Decoration Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Columbus Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas, the following named holidays necessitates idleness on the part of those interested therein:

Russian Christmas (January 7).
St. Patrick's Day (March 17).
Good Friday (March or April).
Easter Monday (March or April).
Russian Easter Monday and continuation (April).
Eight Hour Day and continuation (April 1).
Druid's Day (August 10).
Catholic Total Abstinence Union Convention Day (August).
Father Matthew Day (October 10).
Mitchell Day (October 29).
Election Day (November).
Forty Hours Devotion (any time of the year designated by the Roman Catholic bishop of the diocese).
Polish holidays and beginning and continuation (January 6, January 19, February 2, March 25, May 27, June 1, June 29, August 15, September 8).

GENERAL CONCLUSIONS.

With respect to the second general sub-division, as set out in the analysis of the whole investigation, i. e., to a detailed report of the cost of producing anthracite coal, the profits of the operators and whether such increases in the price of anthracite coal as have been occasioned by the operators have been justified or not, your Commission is impelled to the conclusion, from all of the facts and testimony before them, that the percentage of increase in the price of anthracite coal has not been disproportionate to the increased cost of production of anthracite coal.

Third. The Cost of Transporting; the Profits of the Carriers and the Question of a Solution of the High Cost of Such Transportation to the Public.

In considering this phase of the investigation, it must be constantly borne in mind that with the question of existing freight rates your Commission has nothing to do, and that probably no comments that we may make upon the same would be of much service to the Legislature or would move the conscience of the carriers.

The question is most fully set out in the opinion of Commissioner Pennypacker in the action of the City of Philadelphia, Harry E. Bellis, et al. vs. the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, et al., submitted to the Pennsylvania State Railroad Commission, October 7, 1912, and decided by the Public Service Commission December 18, 1914. From this opinion and decree an appeal was taken, which we are advised, has only recently come to the attention of the Attorney General's Department and is now being actively pushed toward a final determination.

The present rates upon anthracite coal from the Schuylkill district to Philadelphia and consigned for local delivery there are the same upon both the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Philadelphia & Reading Railway, and are as follows per gross ton of 2,240 pounds:

For prepared sizes	$1 70
For Pea coal	1 40
For sizes less than Pea	1 41

The Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company transports anthracite coal from the Lehigh region to Philadelphia for local delivery, by arrangement with the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey and the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company. The totals of the proportional rates so charged upon the gross ton are as follows:

For prepared sizes	$1 86
For Pea coal	1 56
For sizes less than Pea	1 41

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company transports anthracite coal from the Lehigh region to Philadelphia for local delivery by arrangement with the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company and the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey. The rates per gross ton are as follows:

For prepared sizes	$1 75
For Pea coal	1 45
For sizes less than Pea	1 30

The actual cost of such transportation to the carriers is set out quite fully and at large in the various cases brought by the Government against the carriers and with which this Commission we believe has nothing to do.

It is important, however, to note in connection with the fact that some of the large operators are apparently conducting their operations at a very small profit that these operators are in many instances by stock ownership affiliated with carriers who are enabled to haul at very considerable profits the vast tonnage from these operations.

Without going further into detail, with respect to the manner in which it is done, it has been found and the finding has been sustained by the Supreme Court of the United States in a recent case, that the Reading Company, from which the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company leases its equipment, owns or controls forty-four per cent., the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company sixteen and eighty-seven hundredths per cent., the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company six and fifty-eight hundredths per cent., and the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey nineteen per cent., or altogether eighty-six and forty-five hundredths per cent. of all the unmined anthracite coal.

The manipulations of stock ownership and control made necessary to accomplish this condition furnish most interesting reading but are hardly essential to the investigation before this Commission.

CANAL TRANSPORTATION.

We are of the opinion, however, that two facts are important and necessary to an understanding of the discussion in the following pages.

There are two existing water routes from the anthracite coal fields to Philadelphia, one of these owned and controlled by the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company, leading from the Lehigh field, and the other owned by the Reading Company, and known as the Schuylkill Navigation Company.

The Lehigh Navigation Company with a capital of $50,000, was formed August 10, 1818, to undertake an improvement of the Lehigh River and up to 1829 the descending navigation was accomplished by artificial freshets. There was, of course, under this method, no ascending navigation, so that in 1827 it was decided to change the Navigation on the Lehigh River into a slack water navigation, which work consisting of the Lehigh Canal extending from Mauch Chunk to Easton, forty-six miles, was completed in July, 1829. The Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company being a consolidation effected in 1822 and desiring to further improve their facilities for reaching Philadelphia, applied to the Legislature for authority to construct a Delaware division canal which became available in 1832.

From the Schuylkill field the construction of a canal was commenced in 1816 and completed to a length of 108 miles in 1825, so as to permit boats to go all the way from Pottsville to Philadelphia.

The table below shows the number of shippers and the shipping of coal over the Schuylkill Canal from the year 1825 down to 1833.

Notwithstanding the tonnage transported by these canals and the fact that up until after the Civil War period satisfactory dividends were paid by both of them and that even then they were able to compete with the railroads coming into their territory they both early fell into the hands of competing carriers and on July 12, 1870, the Schuylkill Navigation Company leased all of its property to the Reading, and whereas in 1869, a year prior to the lease, over a million tons of freight, mainly anthracite, moved by the canal. In 1911 the total tonnage was only 72,600, all of which was anthracite coal.

On March 28, 1871, the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company leased all its railroad property to the Central Railroad of New Jersey, giving also an option on its canal, including the Delaware Division Canal. In 1878 it returned to the Navigation Company all its properties, with the exception of the railroad, which under the Navigation Company's own management has seen traffic on the canal decline because of greater importance of other interests, until in the year 1915 the canal expenses exceeded the revenue, apart from depreciation charged off, by the sum of $15,951.61 according to the annual report of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company.

The further discussion of this question with respect to the feasibility of transporting anthracite coal over the existing canal routes or by a canalization of either or both of the two river routes is without respect to the many serious legal questions involved, among which are the liabilities of the canal companies to do more than furnish water transportation at certain rates or their liabilities to widen, deepen and enlarge their canals and many other equally important questions.

Responsible persons possessing very considerable knowledge and experience have indicated to the Commission at its hearings, ideas with respect to this which the Commission believes are worth considering by the Legislature and in justice to those from whom the ideas sprung, we are embodying in the report the testimony of William A. Magee, a member of the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, as follows:

PROCEEDINGS OF COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE THE INCREASE IN THE COST OF ANTHRACITE COAL IN THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

The Commission met in the Senate Caucus Room, Capitol, Harrisburg, Pa., on Friday, December 1, 1916, at 2 o'clock, p. m.

Present:

Hon. Robert S. Gawthrop, Chairman of the Commission.
Commissioners Edwin J. Lafferty and John Langdon.
J. Paul MacElree, Esq., counsel for the Commission.
Hon. William A. Magee, member of the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Samuel Dexter Warriner, president of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company.
William Jay Turner, Esq., counsel for the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company.

Mr. MacElree: This hearing is held for the purpose of having the Commission informed by Mr. Magee of any facts relative to the possible transportation of coal, by means of other routes than those now in active use and operation, and of affording the representatives of the two canal companies an opportunity to put upon record any facts that may be in their minds relative to the same proposition.

William A. Magee, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

By Mr. MacElree: Q. Now, Mr. Magee, if you will be good enough to advise the Commission of what you have in mind relative to the possibilities of transportation of anthracite coal by the existing canal routes, or by the possible canalization of the river routes, we will give you strict attention.

A. If you would permit it, I would like to read something I have prepared, and then I am willing to answer questions or supplement that with statements of my own later on:

"The carriage of 11,000,000 tons of bituminous coal annually on the Monongahela, a slack-watered stream—nine feet deep—in 600 ton barges at a cost of not more than one mill per ton mile justifies a full investigation of the possibilities of canal or canalized river transportation in the valleys of the Schuylkill and the Lehigh-Delaware rivers of the 15,000,000 tons of anthracite shipped yearly to Philadelphia.

"Such transportation might be limited to only eight months in the year as Mr. Warriner says, and there may probably be an irregularity of stream flow that would necessitate impounding reservoirs such as the Hinkley dam on the barge canal in the State of New York. Also it must be conceded that tolls should be imposed large enough to pay the expenses of operation, taxes, depreciation and a fair return upon the capital invested whether the improvements are effected out of private or public funds. Furthermore, it must not be forgotten that a short rail haul from the collieries to the canal boats and a terminal handling in the city would add other expenses to the operation.

"The lowest railroad rate upon anthracite for prepared sizes to Philadelphia is $1.70. This is from points in the Schuylkill region. From more remote districts the rate is as high as $2.10 per ton. I would advance, tentatively, the following probable maximum water costs for comparison:

Rail haul from colliery to canal an average distance of 20 miles at 1 cent per ton per mile	20 cents
Boat haul to Philadelphia 120 miles at 1 mill per ton per mile	12 cents
Tolls on canal	30 cents
City terminal expenses	8 cents
Total	70 cents

"I do not wish it to be understood that I infer a saving of one dollar on every ton of coal shipped, because I frankly confess my ignorance of the relative quantities of pea coal and lesser sizes shipped out of the Schuylkill region at rates less than $1.70 and on the other hand of the quantity of prepared sizes from the other regions at much higher rates than $1.70. And I do not wish to be bound in the last analysis to my computation of water costs, which are all higher and more liberal than the actual figures, taken from like operations in similar traffic movements elsewhere. My purpose here is merely to suggest an engineering investigation.

"You have two large streams traversing the entire distance between the Schuylkill district and Philadelphia and on the banks of each these streams is an antiquated canal. The Schuylkill Navigation Company is owned by the Reading Company and the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company is the owner of a very large railroad mileage in the anthracite district. These two canals are very shallow and of little width. These barges operating on them have a capacity of not exceeding one hundred tons. An examination should be made of the feasibility and advisability of their enlargement, including an estimate of the cost of the improvement and of operating them. It would be necessary not only to widen and deepen them, but to enlarge their locks, probably lengthen their pool levels, install higher lifts, alter and re-locate overhead bridges, provide improved modern terminals, prepare for connection with intersecting railroads, etc.

"On the assumption that the narrow space on the river banks would not permit of the modernizing of these canals, a parallel investigation should be made with a view to canalizing the rivers themselves, and the cost of effecting the improvement.

"I am induced to appear here also because of the expressed belief—this, parenthetically, is an editorial in a Philadelphia newspaper—that full relief can be obtained by a reduction of railroad rates through the Public Service Commission and the Courts. This opinion will not bear analysis. Firstly, rail transportation expenses are necessarily higher than water costs when favorable conditions exist for the latter as here; secondly, no regulating body can determine exactly what the real expenses of hauling anthracite are by rail because of the impossibility of apportioning the total expenditures of a railroad over each and every part of its miscellaneous traffic; thirdly, even though the anthracite rail haul expenses were approximated by guess or rough calculation, a rate based on that theory would not be upheld. In passing upon the justice of rates both legalistic and economic theory dictate the consideration of other elements besides the actual cost of the services. Sound public policy and correct railroad operating policy may justify other freight movements at less relative return. Regulating bodies and courts always allow a very large margin of safety in passing upon rates when the demand for a reduction is based principally upon cost of service.

"A fourth and more conclusive argument against the hope of permanent and complete relief for Philadalphia from the railroads themselves through the compulsory processes of the law is the fact that the effort to bring this about in the interest of the consumers of New York was made fifteen years ago and failed utterly. Since 1902, when the Hearst petition was filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission against the Anthracite coal combination, so called, the Interstate Commerce Commission, and since 1906, after the Hepburn bill was enacted in Congress, the Attorney General of the United States and the Federal Courts, have been trying to determine under the Sherman anti-trust law and the commodity clause of the Hepburn Act whether or not the anthracite coal business as conducted and controlled directly and indirectly by the railroads, constituted a monopoly. Thousands of pages of testimony have been taken by the Interstate Commerce Commission, numerous suits have been filed, in the Federal Courts and decided there, only to be overruled in whole or in part by the Supreme Court. The net effect of many years of controversy and litigation has been nil. But the public knowledge of the relations existing among those who control the production, transportation and distribution of anthracite has been so greatly increased that there are apparently few secrets of those involved which have not been disclosed. Professor Elliot Jones, formerly of Harvard University, in his exhaustive study of the subject, concludes that the quantity of coal mined in the anthracite region directly and indirectly by the railroads is about 91 per cent. of the total. Besides having subsidary mining companies, the railroads maintain associate selling companies, and whether the anthracite coal business is a violator of the law or not, it is so thoroughly integrated, so closely held and controlled and this control has been lodged in so few hands, that for all practical purposes it does constitute an economic monopoly. I am not qualified to express an opinion as to whether this monopoly practices extortion upon the consumer, but I do not hestiate to declare that its power and control of the production, the transportation and selling of its coal is so complete as to allow it to charge extortionate and monopolistic prices if it so chooses to do.

"It is in this integration of the industry that the menace to the public exists. If the chain were broken at the colliery, there would be hope of alleviation. If a means were devised whereby a large number of individuals could be induced to enter the business of transporting and selling the coal competition would ensue. Canal transportation would invite a number of persons or companies to enter and compete with each other in the business of carriage because the capital required would be moderate. The dealer in the cities in turn would not be restricted to two or three selling agencies for his supplies. The results to the consumer would naturally be fair prices, cost plus a fair profit.

"Another effect of fair prices must not be overlooked. These lower market prices would probably establish the port of Philadelphia as the predominant point for the shipment of anthracite to New England and for all other coastwise business. It would, too, no doubt, cause an increase in the total consumption. The railroads would not lose all or even most of their present volume of this traffic, but they would be compelled to reduce their charges to economic standards.

"I am careful to avoid expressing any opinion upon the merits of my own proposal in advance of direct evidence in detail as to facts of which I now have but meagre knowledge. The figures that I have given you above as to water transportation costs, I know to be facts and they will bear investigation. I submit that the plans I have outlined, while they may seem revolutionary, are simple and the investigation I have suggested, if made by competent engineers, would determine their practicability within a short time, after which a decision as to what action should be taken could be made by the public through their representatives.

"If the enlargement of one or both of the existing moribund canals were found advisable there is authority in law to compel their modernization. Article II of the Public Service Company law provides that 'It shall be the duty of every public service company * * * to make all such repairs, changes, alterations and improvements in or to such service, including facilities, as shall be reasonably necessary for the accommodation or safety of its patrons, employes and the public.' Article V empowers the Commission 'to require public service companies to make such repairs, changes, alterations, additions, extensions and improvements in and about their facilities and service as shall be reasonably necessary and proper for the safety, accommodation, convenience and service of their patrons, employes and the public.' The term 'facilities' as defined in the Act includes 'all plant and equipment of a public service company which includes all tangible, real and personal property. * * *'

"If the slackwatering of one or both of the rivers were determined to be more feasible and practicable, the public funds should be available for the purpose in analogy with the comprehensive state road improvement. The one is as much a public highway as the other. Private capital to the necessary large amount will never enter into competition with the huge resources and the economic and political power of the anthracite railroad and mine ownership.

"I am not an indiscriminating enthusiast for water competition. The superior mobility of the railroad, the greater speed, the easier terminal handling, the smaller units of transportation make its place secure in the modern industrial state, but there are exceptional circumstances where nature has provided not only a cheaper method of carriage but a large volume of slow imperishable traffic as well Where these two elements exist as they do in both the eastern and western parts of Pennsylvania, advantages should be taken of them. And where a strong suspicion exists that monopoly is fostered by creatures of the State, that these beneficiaries of the State have become more powerful than the State itself, the situation constitutes a challenge to the State, which only cowardice will ignore.

"As the Legislature has provided an appropriation for the investigation of a similar situation between the bituminous region and Lake Erie, so should it or the City of Philadelphia make a similar examination of the cost of canalization between the anthracite region and tidewater. The present canals have failed. They probably would not have failed if their development had kept pace with the growth of the railroads. The latter, too, would be failures if they remained of the same dimensions as they were eighty years ago. The president of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company is quoted as offering to sell his canal at book value. Book values do not rule in commercial transactions. His canal has an exchange value or it has not. If it should be decided that it can be enlarged and earn a fair return upon the necessary investment, the company will have one of two courses open to it. It should have the first right to improve and operate its property. The other alternative is to abandon the franchise it received from the Commonwealth. If it will not voluntarily do the one thing or the other its grant of privilege should be forfeited. Any other policy would seem like playing dog in the manger, but the obvious policy for the owners of both these antiquated works would be to enlarge them, integrate them with the anthracite roalroads under the supervision of the proper public authorities, and provide joint rates between the rail and water hauls, just as joint rates now exist between connecting railroads.

"I am willing, and would like to discuss this further, and merely consider that to me the basis, Mr. Chairman, of a discussion, and I would be glad to answer any questions that are asked."

Mr. MacElree: I think in the first instance, Mr. Magee, in order to convince both Mr. Turner and Mr. Warriner, if they have any questions or discussion that they would like to take up relative to it, or any further testimony from Mr. Warriner, or suggestions from Mr. Turner about it, we had better hear them first, perhaps, because they want to catch this 3 o'clock train.

Mr. Turner: That is to say, if we can. We do not want to inconvenience the Commission.

Might I just call the attention of the Commission, please, to page 172 of the record. There are a couple of corrections that we wanted to make in the testimony. On page 172 Mr. Warriner is reported as saying, "We pay to maintain the boatman, who does this by contract, 84 cents to take it from Mauch Chunk to Bristol." That should be 43 cents. The distance, as I recollect it, is 84 miles.

Mr. Warriner: The distance is somewhat over 84 miles.

Mr. Turner: Also on page 182—that same mistake goes through—where the statement is made, "In fact, it is a cent per ton per mile we have to pay to the boatman," it should be "half a cent per ton per mile."

I would also like to have this simply noted on the minutes: Mr. Warriner testified, page 148, that the cost of selling coal was 6.9 cents per ton. That, I would like to have noted, was for the year 1913. I understand there has been some increase in that since. That was the lowest it has ever been.

Mr. Warriner: I was fearful that might give the Commission an erroneous impression. That was the actual cost in that year, and I was not asked the cost in the other years.

The Chairman: Can you give me the cost in the other two years?

Mr. Warriner: I will send them to you. I have not that data with me. I will give it to you for 1914 and 1915.

Mr. MacElree: I think that is perfectly plain from the record as it is, because immediately following that statement we find the following question and answer: "Q. Then I understand you that during the year 1913, during your fiscal year 1913, the average cost per ton to the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company of selling its output was 6.9 cents per ton? A. 6.9 cents, yes, sir, for that year."

Mr. Warriner: That is correct. We will send it to you for the other two years.

Mr. Turner: I understand that there was some reference made, in a former hearing, to a cost of three-tenths of a mill per ton mile in the Monongahela district, as having come from you, Mr. Magee, and I would like to ask about that.

Mr. Magee: The general operating charge on the Ohio, in one concerns whose costs are known, is less than one cent. In other words, it is about eight or nine mills, or even a little less than nine mills.

Mr. Turner: Per ton per mile?

Mr. Magee: Yes, sir. The actual cost of hauling the coal in 600-ton barges by the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, from their mines to their blast furnaces, where they manufacture coke out of this coal, a distance of 52 miles and including the raising of this coal out of the barges to an elevation of about 60 feet and from there conveyed to coal bins, a distance of about 400 feet, is 6 cents per ton.

Mr. Turner: 6 cents?

Mr. Magee: Per ton.

Mr. MacElree: 6 cents per ton for the entire haul and all other charges?

Mr. Magee: Terminal charge.

Mr. MacElree: That is not 6 cents per ton mile, but 6 cents per ton?

Mr. Magee: 6 cents for the carriage of 52 miles and the terminal delivery.

The Chairman: Did you make a statement at any time with respect to three-tenths of a mill per ton mile, or are we in error? I confess I heard that figure mentioned.

Mr. MacElree: I think it was my suggestion to either Mr. Warriner or some other gentleman.

Mr. Magee: That, no doubt, is based upon what I told Mr. MacElree about the investigation of the Lake Erie & Ohio River Canal Commission, a commission such as this Commission, authorized by the Legislature to make an investigation. It was given an appropriation of $150,000 to determine the feasibility of a canal to connect the Ohio River somewhere in Pennsylvania with Lake Erie somewhere in Ohio. That Commission located and surveyed a route 101 miles long, between the Ohio River at the mouth of the Beaver River, in Pennsylvania, and the other terminus was located on Lake Erie about seven miles west of Ashtabula. The distance is 101 miles. The Commission employed Smith Brothers, of Cleveland, who are considered the leading firm of marine architects on the Great Lakes. Smith Brothers made an estimate of the cost of carrying coal from Pittsburgh coal district to Lake Erie. A 12-foot canal, with barges of somewhere about 1200, or even above 1500 tons, they determined would carry coal at less than five-tenths of a mill per ton per mile. With a 9-foot barge canal, the barges in this case being about 1000 tons or less —not much less—about 5 mills per ton per mile; and, with a 15-foot canal with barges that would be above 3,000 tons, three-tenths of a mill per ton per mile.

Mr. MacElree: That is what I had reference to when I asked Mr. Warriner whether such a rate would be feasible either upon existing canals or upon canals of an enlarged nature.

Mr. Magee: There is a lurking danger in that proposition that I must explain. I am glad it was mentioned. This testimony is for the benefit of comparison with anthracite conditions. There is a back haul with Pittsburgh coal. There is, ore comes down from the mines. You have no such back haul in the anthracite conditions. So no one must presume that costs can be made as low on these canals over here as they can on canals in the western part of the State.

Mr. Turner: I do not want to be put in the position of questioning anything that Mr. Magee says, because I am quite sure he has gone into the matter more fully than I have—in fact, I know nothing at all about the transportation of the western part of the State—but I would like to get on the record here, for such use as the Commission may see fit, that the canal extending from Easton on the Delaware River to Bristol, was formerly operated by the State of Pennsylvania, built and operated by the State of Pennsylvania. I do not know whether Mr. Magee was aware of the fact.

Mr. Magee: Yes; I know something about the history of it.

Mr. Turner: It is my recollection, although I am not sure —Mr. Warriner can correct me if I am wrong—that that canal is practically leased from the State of Pennsylvania by a company of which the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company holds a majority of the shares of stock.

Mr. Warriner: That is correct.

Mr. Turner: And there is a provision in that lease, I think, that the State can take that canal back, upon certain terms and conditions, which I do not recall.

As to the canal on the Lehigh, which extends from Mauch Chunk to Easton, I presume the Commission is aware, from Mr. Warriner's former testimony, of the very grave difficulties that are constantly encountered in the operation of that canal in that very contracted valley; that for long periods of time in the summer there is not sufficient water, and at other times, by reason of freshets, there is entirely too much, by reason of which fact—that is, by reason of the freshets—the banks or walls of the canals, whatever they may be called, are very frequently washed out, and the sediment of the river, which is very largely coal dust and other stuff of similar character, fills up the canal, requiring constant and continued dredging.: I do not know whether any of these difficulties confront the canals in the western part of the State.

Mr. Magee: All over the world.

Mr. Turner: I presume so, but whether to the same extent or not I do not know. I think Mr. Warriner suggested at the last hearing that, in order to provide sufficient water to operate the canal effectively during the summer months, it would be necessary to build in the Poconos, the watersheds of the Lehigh and other streams up there, immense reservoirs so as to preserve the flood waters. I think, probably, as an economic measure for the State as a whole, that would be a perfectly splendid thing to do, because it would conserve the waters that now run to the sea and are not utilized.

Now as to the operation of the canals by the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company, the Commission should know, if it has not been testified to by Mr. Warriner before, that the Navigation Company simply has a canal which may be used by anybody, in precisely the same way as a turnpike. Anyone can come and put a canal boat upon that canal and transport anything he wants, provided he pays the comparatively small toll charges that are covered by schedules, and there is no effort at all upon the part of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company to keep people from using that canal in that way. On the contrary, they have experimented at large expense for years past in the endeavor to find some economical way of handling these canal boats, or enabling people who want to use canal boats to do so. But up to date we have not been particularly successful.

Mr. Magee: And the thing is not profitable?

Mr. Turner: It has not been profitable, no.

Mr. Magee: Why do they continue it?

Mr. Turner: There is the obligation under the State, under our charter, of course, to continue operating the Lehigh just as there has been in New Jersey, where the Lehigh Valley Railroad, I think, for years has been seeking legislation to abandon the use of the canal. I am not saying that we have any desire to do the same thing. As a matter of fact, the Navigation Company ships over the canal in excess of—

The Chairman: You say the canal is operated at a loss?

Mr. Turner: Yes, sir; the canals are operated at a loss, considering the money that has to be paid out.

The Chairman: Then why do you not abandon the use of it?

Mr. Turner: In the first place, we have not the right to abandon the use of it. You cannot abandon a canal without legislative authority, and we have been always hoping that the increase in business would make the enterprise a success. The Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company ships over the canal between two and three hundred thousand tons of coal per annum. So far as I know, no other miner ships over the canal, although he has the same privilege of shipping over the canal as the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company, and likewise with respect to all other commodities. It can be used if the people want to use it. There is no restriction whatever. It is an open, free highway, precisely the same way as any turnpike or any public road. All that is necessary is for the person who has a boat there to pay the tolls.

Mr. Magee: But, Mr. Turner, if there were another highway alongside of the river canal, as there is—lots of them, railroads—people are not going to use your highway when they can use another one to much better advantage.

Mr. Turner: I think that is quite right.

Mr. Magee: Now the question I am raising here is why—and I am asking you now—why is it that the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company persists in operating a useless highway, an unprofitable highway?

Mr. Turner: We do not say that it is a useless highway, Mr. Magee. On the contrary, the canal serves certain definite purposes.

Mr. Magee: What?

Mr. Turner: There are along the canal, from my own knowledge, from Mauch Chunk to Easton, that being the part with which I am more familiar, a great many coal yards, a number of coal yards. Let Mr. Warriner answer that. He is much more familiar with it than I am.

Mr. Warriner: There have been a number of dealers. I might say, Mr. Magee, that this matter has had our very serious attention the last two or three or four years, as to what disposition we could properly make of what is, we believe, one of the foundations of our charter rights. We are not only using the canal for the purpose of transportation, but that canal also has a secondary use in the sale of water powers to very many people along the line, on account of which the structures have to be maintained. When we say we lose annually in the operation of the canal, we lose after we have taken all of the revenues arising from the transportation of our coal and such other business as is handled by outsiders on the canal, which is very small, and also all revenues arising from the sale of power to various mill owners, etc., along the line of the canal, who use the water out of the dams along the river. I do not think that you quite appreciate, Mr. Magee, if I may say so, the problem confronting the anthracite business as differentiated from the bituminous business. I agree with all that you may say in regard to the relative economies of transporting any commodity in large bulk as against small bulk, and it is quite true that the railroads have been able to reduce their cost of operation by enlarging the bulk of the package, namely, the size of the car, and it is also quite true that the large canal boats or the large barges, or even going to the large boats on the Great Lakes, have largely reduced the cost per ton per mile handled of transporting any raw commodity. That is quite feasible where the conditions are such that it can be done; but, of course, with us in the mountainous region of Pennsylvania, and especially with the Lehigh Canal and the Lehigh River, the rise of the river is so rapid that fluctuations of the stream between high and low water are so pronounced—it is not a river in the sense that other streams are rivers; it is more nearly a mountain stream, so that we have to have, as I recall, in the distance of, I think it is, 48 miles, from Coalport to Easton, 22 locks, indicating a very rapid fall of the stream. Furthermore, the commodity carried differentiates very greatly from bituminous coal. Bituminous coal can be handled with infinitely greater economy than can anthracite coal be handled. Every time you change bulk, or change the form of your package, if I may use that phrase, with anthracite coal, the loss in the degradation of the material is far greater than the expense of handling the material.

Mr. Magee: It is very large in either of them.

Mr. Warriner: You take, for instance, the handling at the terminal. Our actual expense at Balston yard, in the City of Philadelphia, in unloading out of these canal boats and putting into cars, is somewhere in the neighborhood of 15 cents a ton. On the other hand, our degradation, actual loss in the value of the product due to its degradation from the prepared anthracite sizes to the steam sizes, amounts, in round figures, to about 25 cents a ton. So that our total loss in handling is about 40 cents a ton. Now that that is a real and actual loss is apparently realized, not only by the operators, but by the dealers themselves in the City of Philadelphia, because they can ship coal to-day over the Port Richmond piers of the Reading Company at $1.40, for shipment within the capes—that is, to Philadelphia or the vicinity—as against $1.70 delivered in the yards; or, for shipment beyond the capes, at $1.30 a ton, 40 cents a ton less. My understanding is that the amount of business delivered by water in Philadelphia, instead of increasing, has been decreasing, showing the undesirability of it on account of the change of the package and the loss from degradation of the coal, which is a very serious item.

Mr. Magee: I would agree with you about everything except your reasoning. The great trouble about reasoning against water transportation is that you always pick out some one feature about water transportation in which it is admittedly inferior to rail, and then you blame the decline of water transportation upon that inferiority, that one factor of inferiority, as if you were going to close the question that way. There is more than one respect in which water transportation is inferior to rail, but there is a large number in which the water is superior to the rail, and what I am proposing to this Commission is that they suggest to whoever appointed them that there be an investigation of the varying, relative values of the various factors, both for and against water transportation.

You mentioned one thing that I am very glad you did mention, because I forgot it. The fact that you ship coal to Philadelphia at a less rate when it is destined for a longer haul by water, than you do if it is shipped to Philadelphia for consumption in Philadelphia, is an admission on your part, or on the part of the railroad carriers, that they charge much more for the coal hauled than the cost of the service, the expenses that they lay out in the carriage. It brings up the intense artificiality of railroad rates under competition, which should not be permitted in my judgment, but which, nevertheless, is permitted, because we have no minimum rate provision in the Interstate Commerce Act, nor in any Public Service Company Act. But a water haul of anthracite to Philadelphia would not permit of a differentiation as between a further haul of that coal. That differentiation between coal to be consumed in Philadelphia and coal to be hauled or carried beyond the capes is entirely artificial and ought to be wiped out, and that is one of the things that canal or canalized river transportation would wipe out, to the advantage of Philadelphia.

Mr. Warriner: Well, Mr. Magee, I hold no brief for the railroads.

Mr. Magee: No, but I assume you are sympathetic toward the railroads.

Mr. Warriner: Not at all, sir. I would be equally glad with you to believe that canal transportation would be feasible, for a selfish reason if for no other reason, in that we have a canal, and if, by the expenditure of capital efficaciously, that canal transportation would become feasible for the anthracite, I would be only too glad to make use of a transportation canal which I have and use it to the fullest advantage. The revenues of the company which I represent would not be depreciated in any particular by the use of that canal, and, furthermore, if we could operate that canal at a profit, the revenue would be just that much enhanced.

Now the differentation between, you might say, the $1.30 rate to Port Richmond and the $1.40 rate, is, of course, something I am not here to defend or decry in one way or another, except that you are well aware, as a member of the Public Service Commission, that the differentials out of joint rates are generally less—that it is accepted railroad practice that out of the joint rate a company performing a part of the service almost always receives less than they do for a local rate to the same distance. Whether or not that is justified I am not here to say, because I do not represent the railroads in any particular. I do represent an independent shipper of coal. Now as far as the $1.30 or $1.40 rate into Philadelphia is concerned, differentiated from the $1.70 rate for local delivery, of course, you understand that one is a delivery into a yard. It is where the great bulk of the traffic goes. The other involves not only the delivery into a yard, but also involves the individual service to the individual switch of each and every coal dealer, which is a very different proposition. But so far as the subject of the improvement of the canals of this State is concerned, I want you to understand that in no respect am I antagonistic to the suggestion. In fact, I would welcome it in every way, and if the result of an engineering commission would determine that, so far as the anthracite industry or the transportation of anthracite is concerned, canals would serve as a useful highway for that commerce, I wish to say that the canal systems that we have, if we have not the capital to provide for such improvements as would be practicable, we are perfectly ready to sell them either to a private corporation or to the State, for the purpose of making such improvements as would appear to be justifiable to serve a need that would be beneficial to the people of this Commonwealth. Do I make myself absolutely plain?

Mr. Magee: Yes, except that I do not believe that you are not admitting or realizing that your property has no value as a transportation agency at the moment, when you speak of selling it. I cannot imagine you selling something that has no value. If it has value as a water power proposition, why then, of course, if your water powers were destroyed you ought to be compensated for them.

Mr. Warriner: The Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company are the successors in a property which was built and purchased from the State, in so far as the Delaware canals are concerned.

Mr. Magee: Accompanied by a conditon that it would serve the public.

Mr. Warriner: Oh, no. As I understand our charter, we provide a waterway, open to anybody who desires to use that waterway.

Mr. Magee: Yes, sir; you have undertaken to serve the public, that part of the public that wants to use your waterway, put boats on it. Now you have not done it. You do not do it.

Mr. Warriner: I beg to differ with you, Mr. Magee. The Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company's canal is maintained as a continued canal, of equal depth and equal facilities to the majority of the canals in this State under similar conditions. I do not know of any that is larger. The Chesapeake & Ohio Canal along the Potomac River is almost identical in size. The Schyulkill Canal is almost identical in size.

Mr. Magee: You can compare your situation with the Schuylkill, but not with the Chesapeake and Delaware, because that is an entirely different kind—

Mr. Warriner: I did not say the Chesapeake and Delaware. I said the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal, along the Potomac River.

Mr. Magee: You may compare it with the Chesapeake & Ohio also, and the only inference that anyone can draw from the outside—he may be wrong about it, but the only inference he can draw is that all three of those canals are operated, maintained, in the archaic condition in which they are, and operated in the manner that they are, in the interest of railroads. That is the only conclusion that anybody ever came to.

Mr. Warriner: That may be true in regard to the others—

Mr. Magee: The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad controls the trustees of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal, who have been operating it for more than twenty-five years at a loss. The Reading Company owns the control of the stock of the Schuylkill Navigation Company and operates it at a loss. The Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company Canal is operated at a loss.

Mr. Warriner: Yes.

Mr. Magee: What is the conclusion?

Mr. Warriner: I know, but what are the facts, so far as the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company is concerned? That is hardly based upon the facts. I am absolutely frank with you in saying to you that, if the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company could ship its coal over that canal it would do so, and it would be to its interest to do so.

Mr. Magee: Still, it does not do it. We must judge your motives from the outside like anybody else's. Why should you operate a piece of property that does not pay you?

Mr. Warriner: Because we believe we have to under our charter.

Mr. Magee: Yes, but you have to do more than that under your charter. You have got to operate a canal that is up-to-date under your charter, according to my construction of the law at any rate.

Mr. Turner: Do you not think, Mr. Chairman, that we are getting into the discussion of legal questions?

The Chairman: It is rather entertaining.

Mr. Magee: I am very glad to do it, because I want the Commission to take this thing into account.

The Chairman: We will hear anything you have to say.

Mr. Turner: I do not know as we have anything to say on that. Mr. Magee states certain propositions and certain facts and then draws certain conclusions.

Mr. Warriner: The Lehigh Navigation Company canal was first built by the State, and afterwards sold to a company from which the Navigation Company leases it. The Schuylkill Canal was built by the Navigation Company and accepted by the Governor, a special commission appointed for that purpose.

Mr. MacElree: Let me ask this question, if I may interrupt you. Suppose this Commission were to find, as a fact, from the investigation which it has conducted, or from the testimony before it, that there is nothing to show improper or extravagant profits on the part of the operators by reason of their participation in the anthracite coal business, and to find further from the testimony that there is no indication of excessive profits to the retailers from their connection with the anthracite coal business, and to find, as we must find, that the tariff for freight rates is one over which we have no control and one that is fixed and determined, and not therefore subject to sudden change, and to find, as a conclusion to what I have suggested, that only two possibilities remain by which the cost of anthracite coal to the consumer could possibly be reduced, one of those being the elimination, if possible, of the middleman, and the elimination of the possibility of his speculating in coal, as has certainly been the case in this present stress, and to find as the only other possible solution looking toward a reduction, the reducing of transportation costs incident to the anthracite business, in your judgment would an investigation be wisely recommended to the Governor and to the Legislature who created the present Commission sitting now in connection with this investigation—would a recommendation in your judgment be warranted looking toward the appointment of a properly constituted Commission, or looking to the conferring of that power upon the existing Public Service Commission, to go into an exhaustive study and investigation of the feasibility of transporting coal from the anthracite coal field to Philadelphia by canal routes?

Mr. Warriner: I would be very glad to see it, Mr. MacElree.

Mr. MacElree: And would you consider, as a man closely connected with and having very intimate knolwedge of the coal situation, such a recommendation to be one that would have merit?

Mr. Warriner: I would think it would. I think it would have merit; yes.

Mr. MacElree: Would it be one that would commend itself to the coal operators, who, like yourselves, are not concerned or interested with the railroad transportation end of it?

Mr. Warriner: Yes, I think it would, because I know of my own knowledge that many operators would like to see lower transportation rates, if such rates could be obtained. In fact, they are all seeking them and there has been a great deal of litigation on that subject.

Mr. MacElree: Would such an effort have the full co-operation and assistance of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company, in so far as respects the navigation end?

Mr. Warriner: Certainly. We would be very glad to give you all the assistance and co-operation in our power to make the fullest examination of all the conditions.

Mr. MacElree: I have here, and will make a part of the record, simply for the purpose of further questions, if it is deemed worth while, the suggestion of Mr. Charles Heebner, of counsel for the Schuylkill Navigation Company, replying to my invitation to attend this hearing and offer any testimony or suggestions that would be of moment to this investigation, that "it must not be overlooked, however, that the Schuylkill Navigation Company is under no obligation to build or maintain boats, or to transport coal or any other commodity for the people, and it must not be forgotten that it keeps its canal open for transportation by those who wish to use it, and does this at considerable expense, and at tolls for the use of the canal which are so low as to be utterly inadequate to make any return upon the actual capital invested in the construction of its canals."

Are the conditions suggested by Mr. Heebner similar to those with respect to the Navigation Company's charter, that it is not under any obligation to maintain boat service?

Mr. Warriner: Yes. The canal offers a highway for anybody who wishes to run their boats on it.

Mr. MacElree: That, and that alone, is the obligation of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company with respect to it?

Mr. Warriner: Yes. Several years ago we endeavored to get a return business by quoting rates for various business along through the Schuylkill Valley from Philadelphia, but we never were successful in getting it.

Mr. MacElree: On whose boats is the tonnage now carried over the canal hauled?

Mr. Warriner: On boats belonging to the Navigation Company.

Mr. MacElree: And the investment is and expenses of those boats, of course, are figured as a part of the expense incident to that hauling, are they?

Mr. Warriner: Not the investment. The expense of maintaining the boats is, yes. The expense of maintaining the boats and maintaining the canal property itself is a part of the haul. In round figures it costs as much—it costs a little more, my recollection is—to maintain the canal itself than it does to operate it. The maintenance charges are higher, slightly, than the operation charges of the canal.

Mr. MacElree: Does the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company set aside, for the maintenance of its barges and the interest on the capital invested in that, sufficient sums realized from the sale of that anthracite coal, and from the amount set aside for transportation costs, as to maintain that service?

Mr. Warriner: No, it depreciates enough to maintain the boats, that is all.

Mr. MacElree: Depreciates enough?

Mr. Warriner: Yes. Outside of that there is no depreciation in connection with the canal.

Mr. Turner: Mr. Magee, when you speak of the $1.70 rate to Philadelphia, you are not unmindful of the fact that your Public Service Commission have, by order, reduced those rates to $1.40?

Mr. Magee: $1.30, I believe; 40 cents reduction.

Mr. Turner: Therefore doing away with the differentiation that you speak of in your testimony?

Mr. Magee: Yes. I, of course, do not know what the fate of that decision of the Public Service Commission will be, and, even though it should be allowed to stand in full, it strikes me that there is such a large margin between what the actual cost of carrying that coal is and what the rate is, that the City of Philadelphia should never be satisfied with that reduction.

Mr. Turner: That may be, but as a matter of fact, after a very thorough investigation, the Commission found that a rate of $1 30 to Philadelphia was fair and reasonable?

Mr. Magee: No; was not unfair and not unreasonable.

Mr. Turner: Was not unfair and not unreasonable, and reduced the rate from $1.70 to $1.30.

Mr. Magee. Yes. Now there is all the difference, Mr. Turner, in the world between what is right and what is wrong. There is a big margin between what the people of Philadelphia ought to get their coal for and what any regulating body will say they must have it for. The Interstate Commerce Commission in all of its cases, or in many of the cases, affecting coal rates out in the western part of the State, determined what the actual cost of the carriage is, the expenses of the service, and in those cases it has found—at least in one case, that of Boileau vs. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad—that the actual cost of carrying a ton of coal for a distance of 147.8 miles, from a theoretical point in the Pittsburgh coal district to Ashtabula, on Lake Erie, was 24 cents. The rate at that time was 88 cents. The Interstate Commerce Commission ordered a reduction of 10 cents. It went on to say that there was an enormous profit there which it did not feel justified in interfering with, and went on and gave the usual reasons that I have touched upon in my paper that I just read here.

Now Governor Pennypacker, in the Beilis case, found that the actual cost of hauling coal from Schuylkill county points to Philadelphia was about 45 cents; that is, the operating expense. That is not allowing anything for profit upon the capital invested. He had no means of knowing what part of the capital was invested in this operation, and, therefore, he did not speculate about what the total actual cost of the carriage of that coal was to the railroads. But he did find through the accountants that the operating expenditures were 45 cents a ton. That is as far as he could go in that respect. But he went on in another direction and he found this, that the actual revenue per ton mile of the Reading Railroad—they offered this themselves, by the way, he did not need to dig for it—the actual revenue per ton mile of the Reading Railroad from anthracite coal in 1907 was above 9 mills per ton per mile. In 1912, which apparently was the year before the testimony was taken in the Beilis case, it was about 8½ mills per ton mile, as against a rate from the Clearfield region on the Pennsylvania Railroad for soft coal to Philadelphia, of, I believe now, less than 5 mills; and if he had wanted to go on any further, he could have taken the C. & O. rates in Virginia, both to the Lakes and to the Atlantic, to tidewater, and he would have found rates lower than 3 mills per ton mile. Now it might be said that the greater congestion of business in population and traffic in northeastern Pennsylvania would require some higher charges than the C. & O.; but, surely, there cannot be any difference such as between 3 mills a ton mile and 9 mills a ton mile. Then, on top of all that and strongest of all, is the fact that the average revenue per ton mile from all kinds of traffic in the United States, over all the roads in the United States, is only 7 mills. That includes railroads that are operating out on the prairies, with probably a dozen half empty freight cars—every imaginable kind of freight, livestock and silks and diamonds and coal and ore, and every imaginable thing. Now with these other things that are carried at an average rate of 7 mills per ton per mile, with only a few cars on a locomotive, compare the traffic of anthracite coal, probably 50, 60 or 75 cars to a trainload, and 40 or 50 tons to a car—I do not know how many; I am speaking of bituminous conditions—a solid investment running all the way through from the colliery to destination, and not like classified freight, where a train is compelled to stop at every station to leave a car off or to drop a part of a carload off—no such operating conditions as that, the most ideal operating conditions, the largest possible kind of unit, a through haul, for a good distance, over a hundred miles; and that cost more—I mean the revenue derived from that, the cost that is inflicted upon the consumer, is more than the average cost of all the freight carried in the United States under every variety of condition. Here is the ideal condition costs more than the average.

Mr. MacElree: Is not that a matter that might merit even further relief before the Public Service Commission?

Mr. Magee: I was not on the Public Service Commission at the time and I am not acquainted with the record.

Mr. Turner: I want to say, before leaving, that we are perfectly willing to help this Commission, or any other Commission, to develop the canalization of the rivers, or the canals, in any way possible to make them profitable.

(Mr. Warriner and Mr. Turner not present during remainder of session.)

By Mr. MacElree: Q. Would you not consider it, Mr. Magee, as beyond the contemplated authority of this Commission either to make any investigation or recommend any action concerning the existing freight rates on anthracite coal? Is not that a matter with which this Commission has simply to deal as it finds it to exist? A. I have forgotten the terms of the resolution under which we are working, but I think it is very broad. Q. The resolution, in a general way, provides for an investigation by this Commission to determine, first, whether there shall have been, or is, any unlawful combination existing between either the operators or retailers in the anthracite coal business, and, second, to determine and report as to whether or not such increases have been occasioned in the cost of anthracite coal have been justified or not.

The Chairman: The language is, I think, to inquire into the cause or causes of the rise in the price of anthracite coal. A. Of course, there has been a constant rise for fifteen years, and before that, but it began to be noticed, the rise in the anthracite coal, when that first big strike occurred up there, I believe.

Mr. MacElree: That was about 1902.

Mr. Magee: Yes. That is when Hearst came in, you know, before the Interstate Commerce Commission, trying to make out that the anthracite railroads had formed a combination in violation of the Anti-Trust Act. As for your question about the advisability of another investigation by the Public Service Commission, Mr. MacElree, I do not think that would be a good one unless the present one were discontinued; unless the Commission recalled what it had done and went into a further investigation. It is pending now, you know, in the Supreme Court.

By Mr. MacElree: Q. I take it that, pending that being determined, and having, as we do, the fullest confidence in the integrity of not only the preceding Public Service Commission but of this one, that we might well leave alone, at least so far as we are concerned, the question of freight rates, because if they contribute, in the transportation by rail, an unjust proportion of the total cost of anthracite coal to the consumer, that situation must necessarily be relieved by the Public Service Commission. In other words, no recommendation of ours or no investigation by us, could in any way tend to relieve that situation, unless we can, by the use of the suggestions that you have made to the Commission with respect to other means of transportation, make some recommendation. I do not know whether you would agree with me as to that or not. A. I think it is recognized in our profession, you know, that when a matter is in litigation you had better let that alone, that that is good tactics all around.

Mr. MacElree: That is the way we felt as to the freight end of it.

Charles Heebner, in his letter of November 25, 1916, encloses me the testimony of Mr. E. F. Smith, given under careful examination and cross-examination in 1914 in the case of United States vs. Reading Company et al., the so-called coal trust case. Mr. Heebner refers to Mr. Smith as "the man above all others in Pennsylvania, I might say in the United States, competent to speak on this subject," which subject is canal transportation. I will just read you a bit of this, if you have time:

"Q. Referring to Section 16 giving the Company"—this refers to the Schuylkill Navigation Company—"the right to take tolls from each ton's burden of every boat at the rate of 12½ cents at each lock below Reading, how many locks were there below Reading in the Canal? A. There were twenty-four locks below Reading. Q. Referring again to the same section, where it is provided that they are to be able to take 8 cents toll for each ton's burden of every boat at each lock above Reading, how many locks were there above Reading? A. Forty-eight locks above Reading. There are seventy-two locks in all from the head of Navigation to Fairmount, Philadelphia. Q. What did that make the authorized toll per ton burden of the vessel? A. That depends entirely upon whether they mean by the burden of the vessel its calculated tonnage or its actual loading tonnage. On the calculated tonnage it would make about $6.84. Its actual tonnage, the cubic contents of the vessel in displacement, the same as ocean steamer, like the Imperator, is measured, and that is the actual tonnage that the vessel carries. Q. In either event, taking the lowest figure, it makes your toll about $4 a ton, does it not? A. In what year was that Act? Q. I am referring to when the Act was passed in 1815. A. Those were much smaller boats than are used now for navigating the Schuylkill, and my recollection in reading about them is that they were about sixty tons capacity at that time. Q. At what rate per ton of coal would that put the freight? At 12½ cents for the twenty-four locks below Reading and at 8 cents for each lock above Reading, forty-eight in number, for the ton burden of each boat? A. If this is taken at 8 cents a ton for each lock above Reading, and 12½ cents a ton for each lock below Reading, it would make an aggregate of $6.84 a ton. Q. Was the canal simply a water highway maintained and operated by the Navigation Company? A. As a water highway alone? Q. Yes. A. No; it was not. It was chartered as a public highway of the State. As a canal and river navigation, called the Schuylkill Navigation for the passage of boats, and to be used by the public on the payment of toll. And it was also distinctly chartered to sell water power. Q. So far as its canal use was concerned, it was and is possible, is it not, for anybody who wants to operate a canal boat of his own, to go on the canal, under his right to demand the use of it upon the payment of the tolls? A. Yes, sir. It has always been so, and is so now. Anyone approaching a lock with a boat, on payment of toll, can pass through without question, with any cargo that he may choose to load in his boat. Q. At the present time all that any independent coal dealer would have to do would be to load his coal on a canal boat and bring it down through the canal if he thought well to do so? A. That is all. He can do so. Q. Is this paper which I show you the toll tariff of the Schuylkill Navigation Company? (Paper shown witness.) A. It is. This paper contains the rates of tolls to be paid on anthracite coal for the three various sizes, prepared sizes, pea coal and smaller sizes. These rates on coal include steam towing by tugs between the outlet lock at Fairmount in tidewater and any service on the Schuylkill front down to the mouth of the Schuylkill, but do not into the Delaware River. Q. It also includes the service of dumping the coal into the canal boat at the point of origin, does it not? A. It does. It includes the payment of the railroad tolls from the mines to the canal landings at Port Clinton, where the coal is put into the boat. Q. That is, if the independent shipper owning his canal boat wanted to use this canal for the transportation of coal to Philadelphia, he would pay the Schuylkill Navigation Company $1.05, and the Schuylkill Navigation Company would pay the cost of transporting that coal from any colliery in the Shamokin, Mahanoy, Schuylkill, Lorberry and Lykens Valley districts down to Port Clinton, and there dump the coal into that man's canal boat for him all for $1.05? A. No; he would not pay the charge of dumping the coal into the canal boat. He would deliver the coal on the siding at Port Clinton. The Navigation Company would assume the expense of moving it from the railroad siding to the canal landings, weigh it on its own scales, and dump it into the boat. Q. That was what my question stated; that the Navigation Company pays the railroad for getting the coal into the canal boat? A. No; the Navigation Company does not pay the railroad the entire cost of bringing it from the mines and putting it into the boat. It pays the cost of bringing it from the mines to the railroad sidings nearby Port Clinton landings. Q. This says that the above rates include the loading and trimming. What does that phrase mean? If it does not mean that they also assume the cost of loading the coal into the canal boat, what does it mean? A. The Navigation Company assumes the cost of loading and trimming. Q. That is what I say. A. I did not understand you. The Navigation Company assumes the cost of loading and trimming. Q. The Navigation Company then assumes the cost of transporting the coal from the mines to Port Clinton and then moving it over and weighing it and dumping it into the canal boat? A. Yes, sir. Q. The Navigation Company does that? A. Yes, sir. Q. So that the shipper has only to pay $1.05 for getting that coal from any of the mines in the regions I have named to Philadelphia in his own boat; is that right? A. That is right.'

By Mr. MacElree: Q. That indicates evidently that their existing rates on prepared sizes, for all services rendered from the mines to Fairmount, Philadelphia, is $1.05 per ton, and that, of course, predicated upon their using their own barges and operating those barges. A. Mr. Warriner says that they had about 300,000 tons, did he not? Q. Yes. A. He does not say in that testimony. Q. That is not Mr. Warriner's company. A. No, I know. At any rate, Mr. MacElree, the quantity does not make so much difference; but would it not be advisable for the Commission to trace up those 300,000 tons of Mr. Warriner's, and whatever the Schuylkill Navigation Company has, and see whether the coal sells at the same prices in Philadelphia as the coal that is shipped over the railroads, and if so, why it happens to be so? You would think that coal that would come in there for 65 cents a ton less than the big bulk of the coal ought to enjoy some advantages in Philadelphia that the other coal does not enjoy, because it seems to me that the owners of that ought to be willing to make a concession in price. Q. Yes, but I think the testimony of Mr. Warriner and others does not cover that fully, because their testimony was to the effect that all of their coal was sold at the current market prices, as established by the price the preceding month at tidewater. A. By the railroad selling agencies. Q. By their selling agencies. In the case of the Lehigh Navigation Company, they themselves are their selling agents. They sell their own. A. Then it would seem to me—I am arguing now besides testifying, as Mr. Turner warned me—but it seems to me that there is a 65 cents a ton profit for the coal that is shipped over these canals. Q. I think it might be well to find out whether that 65 cents per ton profit is added to the gross receipts during that term, during any current year. A. It does not make any difference what happens to the 65 cents. I have not that in mind, but I am trying to show that they are offering testimony to prove my point. If they can carry coal now for 65 cents a ton less than the railroads carried—

By the Chairman: Q. That proves your case? A. Surely. Only I would ask you, then, to imagine a little bit further, that if they were compelled to keep a canal that would be modern in its dimensions, so that they could carry the larger packages and reduce the cost still further, that they ought to be compelled to do that, too. But I think it is a great thing to have on the record that they actually do now, under these very inadequate conditions that exist, carry it for two-thirds as much, I guess less than two-thirds.

Mr. MacElree: I intend making this part of the record anyhow, because the entire tariff is set out here, and the pea coal is 75 cents a ton, smaller sizes 60 cents a ton.

Commissioner Langdon: That covers only one point, does it not; the water terminal? That does not take in the loading into railroad cars and delivering to the yards, does it, the $1.05?

Mr. MacElree: No, I take it it does not. The testimony is: "Q. So that the shipper has only to pay $1.05 for getting that coal from any of the mines in the regions I have named to Philadelphia in his own boat; is that right? A. That is right."

Mr. Magee: He pays tolls of that much, then. He has to add to that, then, whatever the cost of carriage is?

Mr. MacElree: Yes, he has to add the cost of transporting

Mr. Magee: Then the $1.05 is not the actual cost of getting the coal to Philadelphia. That is the toll. You see, the favorite way of overthrowing the advantages of water transportation is to hold up to the public such canals as the Lehigh Coal & Navigation, the Schuylkill Navigation and the Chesapeake & Ohio. They even themselves hold each other up as a good horrible example of inland water transportation. Mr. Warriner says the C. & O. has a reason why water transportation is a failure, but the remarkable thing is that they all remain in it. They are playing dog in the manger. I have got to judge their motives like I would anybody else's. If a man is maintaining a piece of property at a loss to himself, he is gaining some advantages somewhere else. Now then, one of these canals, the C. & O., as I told you, is controlled by the Baltimore & Ohio through the receivers, the Baltimore & Ohio being the owner of the bonds, the foreclosure of which caused the receivership. The Reading Company owns the Schuylkill Navigation Company. I will not undertake to say what the relation is in the other. Maybe there is none at all. Maybe these gentlemen are merely holding on to that bank of the river there as a valuable capital asset. That itself is probably growing in value every year. That may be their motive in doing it. But whatever it is, my point, and the reason why I came here, is, that the property is affected by a public interest. The Supreme Court of the United States has decided this thing in 1876, that a charter to a public utility corporation does not irretrievably pass out all of the rights that the Commonwealth has; that the Commonwealth keeps a string on it as it were, and all the Public Service Company laws and the Interstate Commerce Commission Act, have all been passed as the result of the decision of Munn vs. Illinois, in which the Supreme Court stated clearly just what reservations there were remaining in the State. The corporation owns its property, the corporation operates its property, but the corporation must own and operate that property with a definite view as to serving the public, according to the standards of the day. In other words, they have got to improve and bring their property up to date all the time. If the railroads of 1830 and 1840 and 1850 had continued in the same identical condition until 1916 that they were in at that time, they would not be making any money either. They would be like the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company; some philanthropist would have to operate them, or else they would have to be operated with some other end in view than that end that the State created them for. The State created them for transportation and did not create them to speculate in water powers or any other thing.

The Chairman: Speaking for myself, from the beginning of this investigation, taking up the retailers and the middlemen and the operators and the profit of the retailers and of the selling agents and the profit of the operators, and then the sum charged by the railroads, the railroad rate to my mind is out of all proportion to the other elements that make up the final charge to the consumer. Of course, that is without going into the books of these corporations, but it seems to me that the sum set aside as transportation charges is out of all proportion.

Mr. Magee: If you read the Governor's opinion in the Beilis case, you will see what I think is the most startling thing in the whole case, and that is that they receive more per ton under these ideal conditions for coal than the average of all the railroads do in the United States for all kinds of traffic.

By Mr. MacElree: Q. You are familiar, I suppose, with this Pennsylvania State Railroad Commission report as to the abandonment of the canals of the State and as to the abandonment of this construction of competitive railroads, and so on? A. Yes. Q. On page 13 of that report the following appears: "The possibilities of canal transportation in competition with modern railroad facilities have never been tested in this State, and the Delaware River extending along our entire eastern border and with its tributaries draining a large and important section of our State; the Schuylkill River and the Susquehanna River with their tributaries reaching practically all the remaining industrial centers east of the Allegheny Mountains, including the anthracite coal fields, and all three of these important waterways reaching tidewater, seem to invite the development of slackwater navigation. An interesting experiment was made during the season of navigation of 1908 by the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company in an attempt to develop merchandise traffic on their Delaware Division Canal, between Easton and Philadelphia. A few new packet boats, designed especially for this trade, were built and were in use during the entire season. A regular schedule was maintained between these two points and shipments were dispatched and received with evident satisfaction to both shipper and consingee, deliveries being effected between the terminal above mentioned quite as promptly as by rail and at reasonable rates. The tonnage developed was not large, but the variety of products handled demonstrated the possibilities of the business and the popularity of that method of transportation. The operating company reports that the outlook for the approaching season is encouraging, and that an additional amount of business is promised. The open toll rates in use on this canal are those fixed by the Canal Commissioners of the State of Pennsylvania for the year 1856, the rates for transportation in the Company's boats, of course, including these tolls." Would not the more feasible method be, if it is possible, the requiring of these canal companies to operate barges equipped for the handling of various sorts of freight? They can do so, although apparently from their charters they are not obliged to do so. A. Oh, I think they are obliged to do so. It is an implication in the charter, even though there was no mention of it whatever. Business standards are changing in every age, every decade, I suppose, even, and you have got to take whatever the standards are of the moment and apply those to the enterprise that has been endowed by the State with power to do those things, and make them do them according to whatever appears to be the best manner at the time. You would have to go farther than to require them to run boats themselves. You must compel them to put in terminals and terminal machinery, not only for their own boats, but for the boats of customers. If they cannot have the modern terminal conveniences, such as you have in Germany and Holland and France, they could not operate them, even though the other conditions were ideal. The principal trouble with these canals is, however, as I see it, that they are too small. You cannot get a big package. Q. They do not want the big package, apparently. A. The Monongahela River has a depth of nine feet and there will be barges on there of a thousand tons pretty soon. Jones & Laughlin's largest barge is now, I think, about 700 tons, and actually carries 600, and they will be up to a thousand, and when they do that the operating costs will be considerably under what I have said. I think they are about 9 mills. The 1000-ton barge will be under that. These canals, if they are to be of any use to the State, ought to be considerably enlarged, but you cannot stop at that. If you want to extend the advantages of these canals to other things beside coal—and they ought to be—you must put in public wharves and landings, public terminals, and there have the most modernly devised terminal machinery, and then, lastly and probably still more important of all, you ought to amend the Public Service Company Law of Pennsylvania and require railroads to enter into and make through routes and agree upon joint rates with water transportation companies, as well as other railroad companies. The Reading Railroad now can compel the Pennsylvania, if the Pennsylvania is reluctant to do it, to fix a joint rate between two points, one on each line. But the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company could not compel its own railroad, the Lehigh & New England Railroad, to put in a joint rate, if the operating officers of the other road did not want it, just because the law would not stand behind them and make them do it. Q. If our recommendations should embody anything in the line of what has developed to-day, or in the nature of a suggestion of further investigation, in the light of your experience with the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Canal, and with your experience in canalization schemes in general and their feasibility, would it be your judgment that a Commission similar in a general way to the existing Commission having in charge the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Canal, should be suggested, or would it be your idea that such an investigation might more properly come within the scope of the Public Service Commission itself? A. The Public Service Commission has not the facilities to do those things. I think it ought to be an engineering investigation by a separate body. If this Commission, or somebody, would be inspired to make a complaint before the Public Service Commission about those two particular canals, and then the Public Service Commission would be given an appropriation to do it, that might result in too narrow an investigation. Their investigation would necessarily be confined to an examination of the existing facilities and what would be necessary to enlarge them, whereas I have suggested in the paper that I read to the Commission that it be broader than that, that the rivers themselves be investigated, with a view to canalizing them, just the same as the Monongahela River is canalized. Every pool then is a storage reservoir for the pool below, and, while the first cost is larger, I do not think the cost of operating is as great. Q. Have you any judgment that you would care to express, in order that we might have the benefit of it, as to what expense, in round figures, such an investigation as the one suggested, would entail? A. I think that the problem is a very simple one. It is not a complicated one like ours out in the western part of the State. We are complicated by several different routes, several alternative routes. This would not be. Part of the way we are in a river bed and half the way we are outside of a river bed altogether, and you have nothing at all like that. Your course is clear, what you have to do. The reason I hesitate to suggest an amount is that you have two valleys, and I am wondering whether you ought to recommend that both be investigated, or only one, and then I suggested here that there be an alternative investigation, that the river itself be investigated and that the enlargement of the canal be investigated. So I am proposing four problems to you here. I do not think any one of them would cost nearly as much as our cost out there, which was $150,000. I do not think any one of these would cost that, but the four of them would, and would cost more. Q. I assume that any recommendation of this character, in a general way, that this Commission might possibly make, would naturally result in an inquiry on the part of the Legislature as to the probable amount of money required or necessary for such an investigation, and I take it that we would hardly have time in which to develop that probable expense between now and the time we are obliged to make this report, unless we could gather it in a somewhat general way from persons like yourself, who have had that experience. A. I think if you wanted to investigate all of those things you ought to count on $250,000. Q. That is, to investigate the four? A. Yes.

By the Chairman: Q. In the two valleys? A. Yes. I do do not mean $62,500 for each one now, because the cost of both surveys will be a good deal less for two than it would be for either of the two.

By Mr. MacElree: Q. In your judgment, would a recommendation to the Legislature and the Governor, involving the possible expenditure of $250,000, by a competent Commission, to investigate the four problems suggested by you, be warranted by the conditons that exist with respect to the anthracite coal transportation? A. I certainly think so. Q. And might they reasonably be expected to result in very considerable savings to not only the City of Philadelphia and the Port of Philadelphia, but to the entire eastern end of the State? A. I think not only great savings, but I think there would be another effect of the thing in the nature of a stimulated coal consumption, that would result in vastly enhancing the Port of Philadelphia from the commercial side. I think if you took something like a dollar a ton off the price of coal in Philadelphia, which would not come off the price of coal in New York or other places, that the result would be you would shift the various points where coal is shipped out of the United States all to Philadelphia. That is the way that would work, to my mind. All the coal shipped out of the United States, say in any coastal vessel, any vessel leaving a port of the United States, ought to go out from Philadelphia. Then, furthermore, I believe the coal consumption in and about Philadelphia would be increased. You would not have enough capacity, in my judgment, on one of these canals, and probably on two of them, to ship all the coal that would be shipped to Philadelphia if you took a dollar a ton off the cost to the consumer. Q. In other words, it probably in the long run would not interfere with the tonnage of the railroads at all? A. It would not interfere with the tonnage, but it would interfere with that 9 mills per ton mile. Q. It would require the reduction— A. To bring it down to whatever the water cost was, if they could reach it, and if they could not bring it down to what the water cost was, then the coal that was transported over the water would have to sell at a price that would enable the railroads to get a fair profit on theirs. That is economically the natural result.

Mr. MacElree: Yes, it could not be any other, of course.

By Commissioner Langdon: Q. Philadelphia, then, would be the dumping ground instead of New York. A. I would think so.

Mr. MacElree: I do not see, aside from those two possibilities, any other possibility of release in the anthracite situation.

By the Chairman: Q. I suppose you have looked at this resolution under which this Commission was appointed? A. Yes, I think it is pretty broad. Q. Do you not assume that the Commission was appointed primarily for the purpose of requiring the paying back of the tax? A. I was told that, but I read the Act trying to see that in it and I could not see that in it, to tell you the truth. I was told that by somebody.

The Chairman: I think that is what the people had in mind who prepared it and had it passed. Of course, it may be that it is broad enough to cover all these other features.

Mr. Magee: Did the testimony show anything to confirm Professor Jones' statement that 91 per cent. of all the coal production was in the hands of the railroads and their subsidiaries?

Mr. MacElree: That would depend somewhat as to whether or not you classified the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company, for instance, as a railroad or one of their subsidiaries. The Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company disclaim any association—

Mr. Magee: They all disclaim any association with each other. You can get the Reading and Lackawanna to say there is no association, and Jones himself does not say there is, and I do not say there is. We have got to take the result for it and say it looks as if there is.

Mr. MacElree: It looks as if it was 88 per cent.

Mr. Magee: I would count the Lehigh & New England.

Mr. MacElree: But it is apparent that, since the appointment of this Commission and since its active work began, with its organization finally effected early in May, after the loss of a good deal of time, that, starting at or about that time, these coal operators did pay back and have since then paid back, and only since, to the retailers probably 90 to 95 per cent. of all this money collected under the Roney Act.

Mr. Magee: That is the 10 cents?

Mr. MacElree: Yes, practically; 10 cents a ton on prepared and 5 cents on smaller, and that will amount to several millions of dollars. I am not prepared to give the exact figures, of course. I have not totaled them up from this bunch of reports and testimony.

Of course, with a $5,000 appropriation, we could not consider getting in, under this resolution, to any such investigation as you suggest.

ADJOURNED.

The following testimony in line with the same ideas was offered by the Commission by Wilfred H. Schoff, secretary of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association:

PROCEEDINGS OF COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE THE INCREASE IN THE COST OF ANTHRACITE COAL IN THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

The Commission met in the Mayor's Reception Room, City Hall, Philadelphia, Pa., on Friday, December 8, 1916, at 2 o'clock P. M.

Present:

Hon. Robert S. Gawthorp, Chairman of the Commission, and Commissioner Edwin J. Lafferty.

J. Paul MacElree, Esq., counsel for the Commission.

Mr. Wilfred H. Schoff, secretary of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association.

Wilfred H. Schoff, having been duly affirmed, was examined and testified as follows:

Mr. MacElree: The Commission is in receipt of a communication from Mr. Moore, president of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, suggesting that (in view of the testimony adduced before your Commission in the matter of coal and water transportation, it has occurred to this Commission that it might be of interest to invite to appear before your board Mr. Wilfred H. Schoff, secretary of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, who will be able to throw some light upon this subject." Skipping a portion of this letter, it continues: "Mr. Schoff has a rather intimate knowledge of the canal situation in Pennsylvania and elsewhere. If he is called upon, I think he will be able to show that some of the canals under discussion before your Commission are capable of giving to the people creditable service in the matter of coal and other merchandise upon which the cost of living has increased." This Commission had before it some few days ago, Mr. Magee, of the Public Service Commission, who suggested the advisability of a recommendation to the Legislature, in the report to be made by this Commission, of the appointment of a further Commission, or the referring to the Public Service Commission, of the advisability or feasibility of utilizing either existing canal routes, or of canalizing water routes from the anthracite coal district to Philadelphia, in order to reduce the transportation costs of coal. Just so that you may have in mind what the Commission has in mind, generally, we have taken up the four features of the anthracite coal business; first, with respect to the operation of mining, then with respect to the operation of selling, then with respect to the operation of transportation, and, finally, with respect to the operation of the retailer, and, if it is possible in any way to suggest or recommend measures by which any one of those four can be eliminated, or the expenses of any one of the four appreciably reduced, we feel that we will have accomplished something, and we would be glad to have any facts or figures or suggestions that you may have in mind, from your knowledge of the canal situation, or any ideas in connection with deeper waterways in general, that would affect this situation with respect to anthracite coal.

Commissioner Lafferty: Before Mr. Schoff proceeds, I understood you to say the other day over the telephone, Mr. Schoff, that you had some knowledge of the charters that the various canal companies now have and what rights they have under the charters.

Mr. Schoff: Of course, they are very broad rights, and they are based on Acts of the Pennsylvania Assembly many years ago.

Commissioner Lafferty: Mr. Magee touched on that as well, so that it might be well during your testimony to bring out such information as you have on that subject.

Mr. Schoff: I appear to-day before you gentlemen of the Commission as representing the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, which is a body composed of representatives of trade organizations along the Atlantic seaboard, the leading commercial bodies being members of the Association, and the object of the Association being to further the improvement of connected waterway facilities for handling traffic under modern conditions. The activities of the Association are naturally most constant with the United States Congress and with the Board of Army Engineers, that have jurisdiction over the improvement of the public waterways, which, of course, under the law—I speak as a layman, not being a lawyer, but I think it is admitted that there is no doubt of it—are the property of the people, and not to be used privately, or unless by consent of the people in due process of law, and from which the people cannot be shut off.

Our attention was brought to the hearings of your Commission and to the fact that the relation of these old canals leading out of the anthracite coal field to the present retail price of coal had been brought into discussion, and that itself involved the larger question of the original formation of the companies that constructed those waterways, and of the possible future relation of the State to those old charter rights, in any development that it might later on make for the benefit of the whole people of the State and of the United States, and it seemed to us that it might be appropriate to incorporate in your proceedings some ideas, not only with reference to the anthracite canals in themselves, but to their connection with the larger plans for a waterway system in this country under modern conditions, which are now partly put under construction and partly in a favorable condition of engineers' survey and report for early action by the Federal Government, because these waterways, if properly utilized, would be directly connected with such an interstate system under Federal control, and the State of Pennsylvania would have a very intimate interest in so improving their facilities as to keep itself in the van of progress for traffic of that kind as set, for instance, by New York State and the United States Government.

The present condition of the canals, I suppose you gentlemen of the Commission are perfectly familiar with. It is quite evident that they are not being used to the capacity that they were formerly used; that the traffic on them has dwindled from year to year, until it reached practically a minimum, below which the question might have arisen whether the companies that operated them were maintaining them as open waterways under the requirements of the charter, and it has remained in that way stationary for years, the bulk of the commerce of the anthracite coal field going to tidewater, to New York tidewater or to Philadelphia tidewater, by the different rail routes.

Its earlier connection—and with your permission I will take up the outside connections of these canals first, and then come back to them themselves—the earlier tidewater connections of those Schuylkill and Lehigh canals were not through waterways controlled by themselves, but controlled, one outlet by the State of Pennsylvania, and another outlet, or two outlets, across the State of New Jersey, canals constructed by private capital and later absorbed by railroad companies. The conditions of the combination of those canals and their association with the railroad companies was such that the anthracite canals themselves never had a thorough tidewater outlet by water, until such time as the whole facilities had been combined under railroad control, and the incentive for the development of the canals to their limit of possible usefulness had given place to other aims and objects of corporate management. And yet, without wishing to ascert any value of those small channels beyond practical considerations, the fact is this, that while, in Pennsylvania, they carry only a minimum—the Lehigh Canal, I think, brings down to the Delaware River approximately 200,000 tons of coal a year, and the Schuylkill Canal, I suppose, hardly, if half that,—you find in comparison, under normal conditions, similar conditions, in European countries, that in more than one case waterways very similar, but under different control, are being actively used and are carrying a large traffic, so distributed on the waterways as to produce a minimum cost at destination, availing of the cheaper cost of handling by water that advantages is feasible. I would like to submit, for instance, for comparison, a river like the Ruhr, in Germany, which has a very similar relation to the Westphalian coal fields and the iron and steel industry centered around that valley, that the Schuylkill has here in Pennsylvania, and a stream very similar in its topographical conditions to the Schuylkill—a limited flow in certain seasons of the year, subjected to freezing during certain months of the winter, a stream of such dimensions and such conditions of channel as to make it hardly feasible for improvement to large depth, for the larger carriers that move on the line, and still carrying for about fifty miles an active traffic, which handles the coal from those Westphalian mines and delivers it at the iron and steel establishments along the lower Ruhr, and in the neighborhood on the Rhine, in a very similar way to what you find, for instance, with a larger tonnage, of course, on the Monongahela at Pittsburgh; and that is a fact which you could repeat on more than one stream radiating from, or rather tributary to, the Rhine Valley, and its great metal industries. That is, under certain conditions of control that obtain there, the Government having a direct control of the freight rate by water and by rail, the full advantage, the full benefit, of any saving is available in the rate to destination of the product carried.

Here in this country, of course, we have no such condition of centralized control of rates, and, under the present status of railway regulation, we find this surprising condition, that, once traffic is built up and a lower rate obtained on an improved waterway, or on an existing waterway, and a railroad line parallels that waterway, it can apply to the Interstate Commerce Commission for a reduction of rate sufficient to meet the water competition, and have that reduction allowed to a sufficient point to drive the traffic off the water and retain it on its own lines; or, if it has an extension of line—as was the case in an interesting application a couple of years ago, involving a great traffic on the Hudson—if it is an extension of line, it may deny traffic to a water point nearer the point of shipment, where a large traffic had been built up before such an extension of line was made. That Rutland case was important from more than one standpoint, but the facts of it were briefly these, that there was a large tonnage of stone handled out of the Vermont quarries, which was carried by rail to the head of navigation on the Hudson River, at Troy, and there transshipped to barge lines on the Hudson and carried down to tidewater and delivered in and around the City of New York. The Rutland Railroad later made further southern connections and got an outlet of its own in the City of New York, and refused to deliver that stone to the barge lines at Troy. An application was made to the Interstate Commerce Commission for some direction which would require the continuance of that transfer right at Troy, and it was refused, on the ground that the railroad, having the longer haul, ought to derive the benefit of it, and that the line should not be forced to relinquish the benefit by carrying the stone only on the shorter haul to Troy and there delivering to the river. So that it seems as if in this country the whole tendency at the present time is for the regulation of the railroad lines, under our governmental system of law, to co-operate with the railroad lines to drive the traffic off the water lines, and, at the session of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, held and just brought to a close in Washington, it seemed to me that that point was emphasized no more strongly than it should be by the vice president, who opened the session, in saying that, in his judgment, that was the first requisite for the United States Congress to adopt, if there were to be any successful use of the improved waterways which Congress is providing for by appropriation of funds, namely, that the traffic over those lines should be subject to the same control of the Interstate Commerce Commission, under such provision of law as would force the benefit of the cheaper haul by water, wherever it might be available, and force a pro-rating and transfer of freight at any suitable point between rail and water lines.

But, assuming that legislation of that kind may be adopted, which is Federal legislation, and which is perhaps a little far afield from the scope of the investigations of your Commission, I would like to place on record the general plan of the Federal Government for a system of waterways along the Atlantic seaboard, connecting all of the great ports and rivers and bays and sounds, which would provide a thorough distributing system for barge traffic of our bulk freight, such as coal and sand and lumber and brick and clay products and all that sort of thing, that it may be placed on record what the ultimate relation of these anthracite waterways will be to the general plan. There has been recommended by the Board of Army Engineers the construction of a free waterway across the State of New Jersey, between Bordentown on the Delaware River and the Raritan Bay at South Amboy, and the State of New Jersey has pledged itself to purchase and contribute to the Federal Government the necessary right-of-way for that waterway whenever Congress adopts the project and makes an initial appropriation for the construction. There has been completed across Cape Cod in Massachusetts, by private capital, but still affording a modern waterway, a canal between Buzzard's Bay and Barnstable Bay, through which barge traffic is now passing in increasing amount. It can be seen readily enough that the completion of a modern waterway across the State of New Jersey would immediately open communication from the Delaware River and from all the streams entering the Delaware River to New York Bay and Long Island Sound, and to all of the points in New England which are heavy recipients of coal from the Pennsylvania and Virginia fields. In the other direction there has been recommended by the Army Engineers the opening of a free waterway at sea level between the Delaware Bay and the Chesapeake Bay, following the line of the present Chesapeake and Delaware Canal, which the Engineers recommend that the Government take over on a valuation stated to be approximately the value of the bond issue of that canal company, and that is a definite recommendation for adoption by Congress, and there are rather definite hopes that Congress, in the next bill providing for river and harbor improvements, will take that project up and provide the money at any rate for the purchase of this property and for beginning the work of improvement. The Government has also now under construction an improved waterway between Hampton Roads and the Sounds of North Carolina, having acquired, three years ago, I think, the old Chesapeake and Albermarle Canal, which was of inferior dimensions and had been allowed to run into bad condition and disuse, and is now completing a 12-foot channel throughout the North Carolina Sounds, between Norfolk and Beaufort Inlet. All those inside passages are to be at the standard depth of twelve feet, and the idea is that they will permit the passage of barges with a minimum load of 1,000 tons and that the principal items of traffic handled through those inside passages and availing of the economies of barge transportation will be traffic in coal, and in iron and steel products, iron ore, and in stone and building materials and lumber.

The State of New York is now bringing to completion—has, according to the report of the State Engineer, about 93 per cent. complete at the present time—the reconstructed Erie Canal, which, at a cost of approximately $150,000,000, provided entirely by the State of New York, will afford continuous 12-foot navigation between Buffalo and the Hudson River at Troy, and between Oswego, on Lake Ontario, and the Hudson River at Troy, and between the St. Lawrence Valley, by way of Lake Champlain, again with the Hudson River at Troy, and connecting directly, through the Hudson River, with this coast-wise chain of waterways, all of them, then, in ultimate connection and communication with these old anthracite canals.

So it is not a local question entirely. It looks far into the future, and it affords a chain of publicly-owned, free waterways, radiating in every direction, north and northeast and south and west, providing for the handling of tonnage originating on waterways.

If now we return to the anthracite field, and to the relation of the State of Pennsylvania to its development, we find that, on the five canals which were built in early days of this work, one has been legally abandoned. That is the Delaware and Hudson, its towpath having been made the route for the construction of a railroad line under the same corporate management, which is now carrying coal out of the Honesdale field for New York and New England delivery.

By Mr. MacElree: Q. And that management is what, so that it may be upon the record? A. That management is the Delaware & Hudson Company, formerly the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company, now the Delaware & Hudson Company. Q. Railroad Company? A. I think it omits the word "railroad." I am not sure. Q. It is a railroad? A. It is a railroad. We find the old Morris Canal, which was built by private enterprise, in the expectation that it would afford an absolute monopoly of transportation across the State of New Jersey, so antiquated as to be a curiosity of engineering, and quite unavailable for any use under modern conditions. That is a canal on several levels, climbing the hills of New Jersey to the height of about 900 feet, and making the ascent by a series of inclined planes, and stationary engines. Application has been made by the lessees of that canal company, the Lehigh Valley Railroad, on several occasions to the State of New Jersey for permission to abandon the waterway, and if it were not for the great value of its terminals on the Hudson River at Jersey City, I suppose that the Legislature would readily enough have consented before this time; but the extreme value of those terminals, and the feeling on the part of the commercial interests of Jersey City that proper provision had not been given to the citizens of the State for relinquishing so valuable a property, has prevented such legislative action up to the present time.

We find, then, next to the Morris Canal, which connected the Delaware River, or still connects the Delaware River, at Philipsburg and Easton with the New York Bay, at Jersey City, another canal across the State of New Jersey, namely, the Delaware & Raritan, also a lock canal, which carried up to the year 1871, I think, and reached its highest tonnage a little over 2,000,000 tons of coal, and which was leased for a long period, 999 years, I think, in the year 1871, to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and on which the tonnage of coal and of general freight has since then steadily declined, being at the present time, I think, about 300,000 tons a year. That canal certainly has not been maintained since the year 1871 in the condition of efficiency that it was before that time. The locks do not afford the full project depth, and under present conditions of handling bulk traffic of that kind, it has been found almost impracticable to load barges with sufficient freight to pay the cost of operation through the canal and the tolls through the locks.

Then we find these other two canals which were built under very different conditions, and toward which the State of Pennsylvania has a direct relation of interest, namely, the Lehigh Navigation Company's canal and the canal of the Schuylkill Navigation Company, the Lehigh Navigation Company's canal extending from Mauch Chunk to Easton and connecting there with the old Delaware Division Canal, built by the State of Pennsylvania in the days when it was constructing its public waterway system between the Delaware River and Pittsburgh, and subsequently sold by the State by the Sunbury & Erie Railroad Company, and from them acquired on a lease by the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company; so that there is in continuous operation at the present time this old canal from Mauch Chunk to Bristol, on the Delaware River, with locks of a very unusually small dimension, and at the present time carrying something like 200,000 tons of coal per year out of a total shipment from that field, I think, of three or four million tons. Then out of the same anthracite field is the Schuylkill Navigation Company's canal, a waterway built under a similar charter, which reached a maximum freight-handling capacity in the late 60's of nearly 2,000,000 tons, for the abandonment of which the present lessees, the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, once asked for permission of the State of Pennsylvania, but such legislation was not adopted, and over which there is moving at the present time very little coal traffic.

Of these two canals, the Schuylkill Canal was originally, I suppose, the better constructed. It had a larger proportion of slack water, that is, river navigation, produced by dams and locks, while with the Lehigh Canal there was built all along the Delaware River this Delaware Division Canal, which, I suppose, if it had been handled as an engineering proposition, would have been located on the other side of the river, where the land is more level, but, being built by the State of Pennsylvania itself within its own boundaries, was squeezed in between the Palisades of the Delaware River, the canal embankment being in different places built right out into the river, affording no room for canal construction of any suitable dimensions. Q. Have you any figures or data at all, Mr. Schoff, as to the original expense of construction of either of those two canals? A. Yes, sir. Q. Are they in such shape that you could give them to us? A. With your permission, I would like to file with the Commission a tabulated statement of that. I have not brought it with me. Q. I did not mean to interrupt you, but it just came into my mind that, if the Legislature takes this question seriously into consideration at this session, it will probably want some information as to the original expense of the construction. In other words, if there is any possibility of the State taking over these canals, they would want to know something about their valuation, and I suppose would want all the data that they could have. A. Those are all matters of record. I have copies of them, I think, in my possession, and I will be very pleased to submit to the Commission a statement. Q. Will you submit that promptly, so that we may have it available for our report? A. Yes, sir. In general figures, but subject to confirmation, the Lehigh Canal cost in the neighborhood of two million and a half dollars and the Schuylkill Canal about two million. Q. When you speak of the Lehigh Canal you speak of the one simply from Mauch Chunk to Easton? A. Mauch Chunk to Easton, yes. If either one of those waterways had been constructed more recently, more nearly our own time, I suppose there would have been no doubt that they would have been carried through as canalized river navigation, rather than as small capacity barge canals; but at that time the engineering practice was in the other direction, and the report was that European experience showed that the barge of limited capacity was the most cheaply handled. That might have been the case at that time, but certainly is not at the present time, when the State of New York has recognized the thousand-ton barge as the minimum barge, below which it seems to be unprofitable to handle bulk freight.

The State of Pennsylvania, then, has these two canals, of small capacity, which are, however, not used at the present time to within one-tenth of the use given them thirty years ago, and which are under the direct control of other interests than the public interest that was originally contemplated, I think there is no doubt, by the State of Pennsylvania when the charter rights were granted that provided for their construction. The charter, that is, the Act of Assembly, which formed the Schuylkill Navigation Company, and the Act which formed the Lehigh Navigation Company, were very similar in their provisions, and it was thought, I suppose, then, that the State of Pennsylvania was getting a very good bargain, when private capital could be induced to go in and develop those streams, which theretofore had been entirely undeveloped and unavailable, in regions that then were almost entirely unsettled. It is interesting to note that in neither Act of Assembly was there any provision made for the duration of the charter rights. They were entirely indefinite. The companies were directed to enter on the streams and to make certain improvements, and to provide canal or slack-water navigation between various points, and were given in both cases the right to the exclusive use, to the use of the entire waters of the stream, not only for navigation purposes but for the generation of power. In the case of the Lehigh Company that privilege was not limited in any respect. In the case of the Schuylkill Navigation Company, any funds received from the sale or lease of water power were to be paid into stated funds in certain ways, accounted for, and the proceeds applied to the improvement of navigation on the stream, and to providing new or re-constructed locks or structures. How far that requirement may have been observed I have had no occasion to inquire, and I do not know whether it is a matter of record. But that is one of the provisions of the Act.

Only a few years after the opening of the Lehigh Canal, it was made the subject of very bitter comment in the State Legislature. There was a great agitation against the Company, and a great conflict of interests, of course, conflicting investors in coal lands, which ultimately brought about the construction of the rival railroad lines of the Lehigh Valley, the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, and the Lehigh & Susquehanna, which was built by the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company and later leased to the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey. Two committees of the Legislature were appointed to investigate the whole matter of the charter rights granted these companies, and to report what steps, if any, the State of Pennsylvania should take to secure to the people the rights which they had expected to secure, namely, the free and unobstructed use of these improved waterways. I have had copied and brought here, and submit as a matter possibly of interest, the report of the Majority Committee of the Pennsylvania Legislature in 1832 on that subject.

It was the decision of both the Committees that at that time the Canal Companies were operating entirely within their rights; that is, that they had been given almost rights of monopoly over both streams, and that it was incumbent upon the State of Pennsylvania to determine whether the Legislature, if it had granted the original rights, was competent to make such broad and extensive grants; and I suppose that if the United States Government had ever been brought party to those proceedings, it would have raised immediately the question as between the prior right of the Federal Government to the use of all navigable streams and the Legislature of Pennsylvania, how far it might have been competent to grant such unlimited rights, without any time limitation set to the exclusive use of navigable water. That I think, has never been brought into question in the history of either company, and the Federal Government never has been made a party to any test of the duration or competency of such privileges.

I submit, also—not as a lawyer, for I am not a lawyer—but, as, I think I have been informed, a leading case on this question, a transcript from the reports of the Supreme Court of the United States, January Term, 1829, on the Blackbird Creek Marsh case, in the State of Delaware, which established the prior right of the general government, and the rights of the different States to enter on navigable waters only in so far as the general government had not otherwise restricted them.

With reference to these two valleys, the Lehigh and the Schuylkill—and the Lehigh must be taken in connection with the Upper Delaware River itself—in my judgment there is no doubt at all that, if improved as streams having slack-water navigation, and if given modern structures, similar to the structures that you will find on the River Ruhr, in Germany, they would afford cheap and direct navigation from the anthracite coal fields to the seaboard, and, through these connecting passages, to New England and to New York State, to the points where there is the heaviest delivery of coal, and that at the same time they would provide for generating a very large amount of power, hydro-electric power, which could be utilized in a great many different and valuable ways. But that would involve a relation of the State of Pennsylvania and the Federal Government on which no plan has yet been worked out. Surveys have been made by the Army Engineers of the Upper Delaware between Trenton and Easton. There is a fall there of about 165 feet. By the construction of about ten dams across the river, the old Delaware Division Canal would be made entirely unnecessary, the river itself would be made navigable, and, of course, that being an interstate stream, is subject to the jurisdiction of the Federal Government. As I say, no action has yet been taken, but it is entirely within the possibilities of the next generation that such work may be undertaken.

The United States Government has further asserted its jurisdiction over the Schuylkill River, even in contravention of rights granted by the lessees of the Schuylkill Navigation Company, and has made lines, for instance, beyond which dumping may not be carried on, so as to provide for open and unobstructed navigation of the stream and flow of the water, and there is no doubt that the Government could at any time assert a general control of that stream up to the head of possible navigation. However, the navigation might have been provided, that is, whether by natural flow or by slackwater navigation, through structures such as locks and dams.

In appearing before you, I have done so without any thought of making a definite suggestion of action by the State of Pennsylvania, but rather with the hope of emphasizing the fact that the State has a very direct responsibility to the people of the United States and to the United States Government for maintaining navigation on these two streams, the Schuylkill and the Lehigh, on which its Legislature has given such unusual and unlimited rights, and that some plan of co-operation between the State and the Federal Government, which would provide for the fullest utilization of those streams for the purposes of commerce, is most desirable. How it would be worked out, for the acquisition of such rights of navigation, which we have been told the present lessees of the original corporation do not now consider of value, is not for me to suggest. And yet the experience shows that Germany, over a distance no greater than between the anthracite coal fields and tidewater on the Delaware River, over a distance approximately the same, coal is carried at rates considerably less than one-third those prevailing for the carriage of coal at the present time between our anthracite fields and tidewater.

By Mr. MacElree: Q. Do those rates provide for the carrying to the wharves at the point of loading, and for the expense of loading, and the expense at the point of destination of unloading and re-loading upon cars there? You speak of the rates prevailing in Germany as being approximately a third of the rate here. I presume you refer to a third of $1.70? A. Yes. Q. Or, is that merely the actual cost of the water transportation? A. That is the cost of carrying the coal from the mines to the point of delivery along the Ruhr and along the Rhine, in the immediate vicinity of the mouth of the Ruhr. The conditions are somewhat different, the topographical conditions, from the Delaware, in that the large industries are located along the river bank, much more closely as they are in Pittsburgh, so that that has been developed to the very fullest. But you have here in our own vicinity the same conditions growing up. You have the great steel plants along the Delaware River, the great ship-building plants, the growing iron foundries and pipe establishments on the upper river, and a tendency which is going to carry the Delaware River, within the next ten years, in my judgment, far beyond any industrial activity that you would find at present on the Rhine. So that it is more than a present problem a great deal. It is a problem of the public saving, I should think, of one-half of the present cost of carriage from our anthracite fields to this tidewater industrial development. Q. This is a phase of the investigation that has sprung up very recently, sprung up in fact, since the first suggestion made by Mr. Magee, and coming originally from him, and this Commission, having very meagre information on this subject, would be glad to have your judgment as to the—I should not say sanity, but feasibility, of the recommendation to the Legislature suggesting to them the advisability of a further investigation, either by properly constituted Commission or under the supervision and direction of the existing Public Service Commission, of this canal proposition as an entirety. Mr. Magee estimates that such an investigation as that might necessitate the expenditure of possibly $250,000. A. It would involve very comprehensive surveys, of course, that would take into consideration not only the navigation of the stream, but the water power that could be generated there, and the damage that might be occasioned through overflow of land and railroad rights-of-way by the construction of dams for slack-water purposes. Q. In view of your knowledge and experience, and intimate acquaintance with the Atlantic Waterways Association, and with your knowledge of data and figures incident to that, in your judgment would such an investigation, costing as it might, in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million dollars, be an investigation that would be worth while for the State of Pennsylvania to undertake? A. I believe that it would be worth while for the State of Pennsylvania to go into this question thoroughly, and that perhaps at the present time, or in the near future, it would be appropriate for the State to do so, for the double reason that the State, in granting these unusual charter rights, really made itself a trustee to the interests of the whole people, that is, of the United States Government, to see that navigation should be maintained and that the free use of those waters by the people should be provided for. Now at the present time it is self-evident that the original objects of those grants have not been maintained, and that for various reasons the waterways are not given the use that they might have. Q. For very obvious reasons, that they are practically under the control of the railroads? A. And that there is no disposition of the present holders of those rights to make any development of them, and the assertion that the rights are no longer considered of any value. If, then, the present holders of those rights do not propose to make such development, it is incumbent on the State to unravel that tangle and put the streams back in the condition that they were in when the rights were granted, either by exercising its right of eminent domain, or in some way by acquiring those rights back from the present holders to make those very important valleys available for modern use. I do not wish you to consider me as a canal crank at all, or as an enthusiast on the subject of waterway traffic, and personally I doubt the advisability of canals of the small dimensions of the Lehigh, for instance, or of the Upper Schuylkill—I doubt if it would be feasibile for them to be operated profitably under present conditions at all. Provision must be made, if at all, for handling in much larger units. And yet there is the possibility, very unusual possibility, for joint co-operation between the State of Pennsylvania, the State of New Jersey in the case of the Delaware, and the United States Government, for water developments on the dual plan of navigation and hydro-electric power generation, involving legislation, which, of course, is still required; that is, what the attitude of the general government will be toward the construction of dams in navigable streams, and toward the letting of corporate rights for the use of power so generated. Bills for making such provision have been pending in Congress and fought over between the conservationists and anti-conservationists, and I hope will come to a solution in this Congress.

By the Chairman: Q. Do you mean this present session of Congress or the next session? A. The General Dam Bill was passed, I think, by the House and is now pending in the Senate, and there is good hope of its passage, and that will lay out a general plan or basis for the granting of rights to construct dams, reserving to the people always the right to insist that locks shall be maintained and navigation kept open, and I suppose that that will perhaps tend to stimulate such construction on a great many streams in the South, where there is a large rainfall and a constant water supply, more perhaps than it will here. But here are those very unusual rights, a century old. The Lehigh Company was chartered, I think, in 1818, and the Schuylkill Navigation Company about in 1811 or 1812, originally, and it seems as if the rounding out of a century of experiment with that form of relationship between the State and the corporation supposed to represent the State in maintaining navigation for the free use of the people, might be a good time to review the whole question and set the State with an outlook toward the future of co-operation with the whole people in securing whatever benefits there may be of those topographical conditions. Q. You, no doubt, read the interview with Mr. Magee, did you. A. Yes, sir. Q. Did you read an account of his testimony given before the Commission? A. Yes, sir. I have had the pleasure of discussing the question with him more than once personally, too. Q. As a general proposition, do you regard his plan as a feasible plan, the canalizing of the two river routes? A. I think it is entirely feasible. Q. And practical? A. Feasible and practical, and that it would provide not only for navigation—if considered only from the standpoint of the freight tonnage that would move over the streams, I doubt if it would return an interest on the investment, but if developed by some joint agreement between the Federal Government and the State, and possibly further private interest, in combining power generation with navigation, I believe that it would be entirely appropriate for the State to do, and a very desirable thing for it to do. Q. But you think by merely carrying the tonnage, it would not be a paying proposition? A. There is about a 500-foot fall in the Schuylkill River from the coal fields to tidewater, and that would mean—I can speak only in the most general way of where the dams would be located—but it would mean probably twenty dams, each one of which might cost in the neighborhood of three-quarters of a million dollars. The interest on that would have to be considered as the cost of maintaining navigation in that stream, and I suppose that the State would hardly levy tolls on such navigation. The State of New York, by constitutional limitation, cannot levy any tolls on barge canals. That is a free waterway.

By Mr. MacElree: Q. The dams would approach a cost of $15,000,000 then? A. Yes. I am speaking only in the most general figures.

By the Chairman: Q. That would be on the Schuylkill River? A. Yes.

By Commissioner Lafferty: Q. Did not one of the coal-carrying companies that operate one of the canals, within recent years make an extraordinary effort to increase their tonnage on the canals and did they not do so, but then changed their policy quite rapidly for some reason or other? A. That is quite true, sir, and I am glad of the question. The Lehigh Company did or several years make quite an earnest effort to develop the business on its canal, to see whether, given the small dimensions of that waterway, any plan could be worked out for handling coal over it and return freight back, so as to make it pay. A good deal of money was spent, both in experimenting with electrical traction and with compressor gas engines, and with various forms of motive power, and there was an active effort made to build up a return package freight from Philadelphia back to Easton and South Bethlehem, and for a time it seemed to be successful and then it suddenly stopped, and the Company practically withdrew, I think, from the package freight business. I think that the attitude of the Interstate Commerce Commission had much to do with the unsatisfactory ending of that enterprise; that is, that it was found that the Company—which is true—has no rights of a common carrier, that it can maintain only a waterway for the passage of freight. The same is the case with the Schuylkill Canal. The Schuylkill Navigation Company cannot operate its own boats. The lessees, Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, when they made any serious effort to use the canal, owned the boats and operated them over the canal. Furthermore, the Interstate Commerce Commission immediately—the influences that were evident there operated against the filing of rates by this Canal Company that was not a common carrier, and in very many ways discouraged and prevented any further development of that work.

Mr. MacElree: Their charters are a peculiar mixture of grants and restrictions.

Mr. Schoff: They are very interesting reading, and if it would be of any help to the Commission I will be very pleased to file to-morrow or Monday copies of both of those Acts. I have them on file conveniently.

Mr. MacElree: Will you mail them to me at West Chester?

Mr. Schoff: Yes, sir, be glad to. I think, as the events proved, of course, they seem perhaps unreasonably extensive, but under the conditions that obtained at that time they were not so surprising, because the whole coal business was in its infancy. The question of the possible value of anthracite coal was very uncertain. Here were a few people who were thought to be visionary enthusiasts, going to the Legislature and asking for rights over streams that were very little used and over which the Commonwealth had for some years endeavored in vain to have transportation facilities afforded. So that it was a case then of the Commonwealth being more anxious to get the improvement, perhaps, than it would be at the present time, and very much larger grants were made than would have been given even ten years later, when this bitter controversy over them developed.

Mr. MacElree: Mr. Lafferty has suggested to me, Mr. Schoff, that it might be well to have on record the same question which we asked Mr. Warriner, and I think Mr. Magee, whether in the event that the Legislature should see fit to either constitute a Commission to investigate this matter of utilizing these canals or canalizing the river routes or giving the matter to the Public Service Commission for a full and complete investigation, the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association would be willing to co-operate to its fullest extent in such an investigation.

Mr. Schoff: Very freely and gladly; would afford any co-operation that might be desired.

By Mr. MacElree: Q. And allow such a Commission to avail itself of any data or information which are in your hands? A. Entirely so, yes, sir. Q. Your Association has been in existence how long? A. Ten years. Q. And during that time has been actively engaged in this deeper waterways movement? A. It was organized with the hope of systematizing the plans for waterway improvements, more especially under the Federal Government, which up to that time had been perhaps more unsystematic, more haphazard, than is at present the case, and it has actively worked for favorable recommendation by the engineers on the surveys that it urged, and has been partially successful in having Congress adopt its projects and provide funds for their completion. Necessarily a movement like that must be rather slow. Congress does not quickly jump at any large plan of that kind, and works piecemeal from year to year. Q. I assume that it is fair to infer that the State Legislature will not jump at any investigation that is calculated to cost a quarter of a million. It is likely that they will want to make some minor investigations first, I assume, to determine the feasibility and possibility of the larger and more complete investigation, because our information is going to be very limited, of course, as to this proposition. A. I have, of course, no knowledge of the details on which the estimated cost of a quarter million dollars is based. Q. I think that estimate was like one or more of yours, one that Mr. Magee did not want to be bound to at all, but felt it would be large enough, probably to cover a pretty thorough investigation of the four propositions that he suggested, the two existing canals and the possibility of canalizing the two river routes. A. If my memory is correct, the last River and Harbor Bill of the United States Congress provided $250,000, it may have been $300,000, for surveys on all the projects ordered in that bill, which were about eighty-five in number. Q. Is it quite possible that this would not approach the figure which Mr. Magee suggested? A. It is possible that the cost would be less than that figure.

Commissioner Lafferty: I think he based his figure on the Erie Canal appropriation.

Mr. MacElree: And he said, of course, with them the route was very uncertain. He said in their instance it involved the investigation of all possible routes, whereas the route in this instance was determined in advance.

Mr. Schoff: Absolutely determined. The valleys are there and the hills rise up on either side, and there is no possible variation of the route.

Mr. MacElree: Yes, they either have to come that way or not at all.

Mr. Schoff: It would be a question of locating the most available points for dams.

The Chairman: We wish to thank you for coming here. Your testimony has been very interesting and very instructive to us, and we are certainly obliged to you.

Mr. Schoff: I am pleased if at any time I can be of any service to you.

Mr. Schoff also filed with the Commission a pamphlet entitled: "The Atlantic Intra-Coastal Waterway. The Project Advocated by the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association. Official Survey Lines and Present Status of the Work in its Various Sections."

(Marked Schoff Exhibit No. 3, December 8, 1916.)

Mr. Schoff also filed a tabulated statement taken from Hazard's Pennsylvania Register, showing mining and shipment of coal over the Schuylkill Canal.

(Marked Schoff Exhibit No. 4, December 8, 1916.)

Also tabulated statement from the same source showing receipts of Lehigh, Schuylkill and Lackawanna coal in Philadelphia.

(Marked Schoff Exhibit No. 5, December 8, 1916.)

Adjourned.

CONCLUSIONS.

The possibilities offered with respect to transportation costs by the testimony of Mr. Magee and Mr. Schoff, are of such vital importance to the citizents of Pennsylvania and have been thrust before your Commission at such a late date as to permit of little more than casual examination, that your Commission is of the opinion that the broad proposition set out therein might most properly and advantageously be referred to a subsequent Commission or proper agency of the State for careful and diligent study and thorough examination.

If the costs of transportation of anthracite coal can be reduced one-half of the amount which is suggested in the foregoing testimony it would be well worth while the careful study of a further competent Commission.

Fourth. The Cost of Selling and the Profits of the Middle Man.

Anthracite coal is sold in three ways by the Pennsylvania operators, the first of which are the instances where the operators themselves sell their output through a sales department of their own. The second one where the operators sell the output through a selling agency, either unassociated with, or affiliated with, the operator at a fixed price per ton for the selling agents in connection with the operation. The third one, where the operators sell their entire output either to a selling agency or larger operator, who maintains a sales department, at a fixed percentage of the current market price for the product.

In the instances where sales departments are maintained by the operators themselves the Commission has endeavored to determine the actual expense per ton to the producing operator for the maintenance of his sales department and to compare this expense, which appears could be made the minimum selling expense, with the amounts paid by other operators to selling agents or other concerns for handling the output.

The table on next page is a compiled statement of selling expenses, including the operation of storage yards and operation of barges at a loss, of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company for the years set out therein.

From the testimony produced before your Commission at its hearings, it appears from the sworn statement of H. H. Lineaweaver, president of H. H. Lineaweaver Company, Inc., handling a tonnage from five to six hundred thousand tons a year, that the actual expense of selling coal amounts to 7 1-2 cents a ton.

The average commission paid the selling agencies, such as H. H. Lineaweaver & Co., is fifteen cents a ton on prepared sizes and ten cents a ton on steam sizes.

Figures are lacking with respect to the actual selling expenses of corporations like the Lehigh Valley Coal Sales Company, who market the entire output of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company on a basis of paying the Lehigh Valley Coal Company sixty-five per cent. of tidewater prices and receiving for their own commission the remaining thirty-five per cent. less the freight. The same company, the Lehigh Valley Coal Sales Company, handles the entire output of the G. B. Markle Company on a flat basis of 12 1-2 cents per ton on all sizes. Whatever the selling expenses of the Lehigh Valley Coal Sales Company may be it is not to be wondered that officials of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company regret the arrangement they made, when it is noted that since March, 1912, on a capitalization of $10,000,000 the Lehigh Valley Coal Sales Company has been able to declare annual dividends of ten per cent. and an additional stock dividend of twenty-five per cent.

*September 1 to December 31, 1913.

It can readily be seen that the selling agents, selling on this basis, are constantly enjoying a larger margin of profit, due to the ever increasing price of anthracite coal, of which they receive thirty-five per cent,, and out of which they pay the item of freight, which is ever a fixed and determined item. It is also to be noted that the operators selling their output under such a contract instead of receiving the full benefit of any increase in the price of coal, receive only sixty-five per cent, of such increase, yet are themselves absorbing almost the entire additional expense of the operation, inasumch as there is nothing to indicate that selling expenses have increased with anything like the rate at which operating expenses have, and were these operators so selling, to sell their own output and to apply the profits now enjoyed by the middle men to their own margin of profit now realized on the operation of producing, the gross margin of profit per ton with these operators would be substantially increased.

In many instances the operators producing anthracite coal are practically compelled to sell their output on the basis referred to and with respect to the Lehigh Valley Coal Company the method adopted by them was one of their own choosing, or rather of the choosing of the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

CONCLUSIONS.

Your Commission fully realized that it would not always be either profitable or possible for a small operator to conduct his own sales department with any certainty of being able to market his coal and believe that a basis of fifteen cents a ton on prepared sizes and ten cents on steam sizes is not an unfair method of payment to the selling agent, but believe further that the establishment of the Lehigh Valley Coal Sales Company, or a general tendency to permit the large operators to market the output of smaller concerns, has a distinct tendency to unnecessarily increase the price of anthracite coal, and find as a fact that there is no justification for the increase so occasioned. The proportion retained by the selling agent in the operations conducted in this manner on all shipments is greatly in excess of the commission generally paid where a flat rate is in effect. By reference to the table set forth earlier in the report and determining in actual figures what thirty-five per cent. of current tidewater prices is, and deducting from this amount the item of freight, the truth of our conclusions can readily be established. And by considering merely one factor, that of the recent increase due to the new wage agreement, which amounts in round figures to thirty cents a ton, which increase the operators claim was justified and necessary, the Commission believes that if thirty-five per cent. of this amount were not being diverted to the profits of the selling agencies a smaller increase in the cost of coal, to wit, sixty-five per cent. of the present increase, would have met the needs of the operators.

Fifth. The Cost of Distributing and the Profits of the Retailer.

In determining the profits of the retailer the situation is somewhat less complicated than with respect to the operator, inasmuch as the only two items necessary to be fixed in order to determine the gross margin of profit of the retailer are first, the cost to him of the coal, either f. o. b. mines or delivered, and secondly the retail price of coal. Both of these two items are easily determined as of any given date and the difference between the two represents the gross margin of profit of the retailer.

Your Commission called before it in connection with this phase of the investigation, representative retail coal dealers of various parts of the State and mailed upwards of two thousand letters of inquiry to other dealers within and without the State. Their replies, both oral and written, indicate a somewhat varying margin of profit, even amongst dealers doing business in the same place. It must be recalled in this connection that the figures hereinafter referred to apply to long tons, by which is meant 2,240 pounds of coal, in both the price paid for the same to the operator and the retail price of the same to the consumer. As distinguished to this condition in Philadelphia, the New York retailer buys his coal by the long ton and sells a ton of 2,000 pounds, which very substantially increases his margin of profit.

The following table, compiled by the George B. Newton Coal Company, which is a combination recently formed absorbing eleven companies and representing thirty-six yards, shows the average price, per ton, to the consumer, the average cost per ton, to the company, the gross margin of profit, the average expense per ton, of delivery and the net profit or loss per ton on the operation, from November, 1913, to August, 1916.

Average expense per ton	.84	.85	.99	1.14	1.25	1.69
Net profit per ton	.18	.11	.07	.10	.15	.77

It will be noted from the above that the average gross margin of profit approached one dollar during the greater part of the period covered and it will also be noted that the expense, per ton, of delivery was constantly increasing.

The following table, compiled from the testimony of E. J. Cummings, shows the gross margin of profit from two yards of the four operated by Mr. Cummings during the years 1914, 1915 and 1916.

First yard	$1.444	$1.525	$1.53
Second yard	1.198	1.265	1.245

In connection with the above figures it is necessary to have in mind that the gross margins include an increment of what is known as carrying charges, coal being carried into the cellar, which increases the margin to the extent of twenty-five cents a ton, and which is charged off against the gross margin of profit as a part of the delivery charge.

The net margins of profit on the figures of the above table during the three years were:

	1914	1915	1916
First yard	$ 2.12	$ 2.44	$ .094
Second yard	0.93	.111	.051

and these figures being arrived at without allowing anything for depreciation, mercantile interest or the salary of the principal.

The following table shows the gross margin of profit on a cash business conducted by the Terminal Coal Company, of which James E. Kunkel is the owner, for the year 1916:

Egg	Stove	Nut	Pea
$1.50	$1.50	$1.65	$1.40
1.192	1.192	1.192	1.192

These figures, from the testimony of Mr. Kunkel, make no allowance for the item of degradation, which, from accurate figures made by him, show the coal he is getting at the present time is losing at least five per cent. from this cause.

Calculations of the same sort show that retail dealers in western Pennsylvania, where the demand for anthracite coal and its consumption for domestic purposes is inconsiderable, have a net profit from the operation which practically amounts to teaming at 70 cents an hour, by which is meant that after deducting the expenses of distribution other than that of delivery from the gross margin of profit there remains a balance of 70 cents, applicable to the items of labor and teams.

The following table, which your Commission pleases to style as the average cost of four sizes of anthracite coal to the retailer and to the consumer, shows the range of price from January 1913, down to the present time, and the margin of profit to the retailer during that period.

This table, of course, compiled from some four hundred replies, does not fit many isolated cases where the items of freight, premium coal, hill hauling and a combination of anthracite and bituminous business, make it impossible to draw comparisons, but does show with respect to eastern Pennsylvania, the increasing cost to the consumer of the various sizes of anthracite coal:

December

It will be noted from the above that the price of coal to the consumer on all grades of coal, excepting premium coal, which is not considered in the above tabulation, has increased about $1.00 a ton.

During the same period the increase to the retailer by the operator has been in an amount varying from 40 to 50 cents a ton, for in many instances prices from May, 1916, are 10 cents higher per ton on sizes larger than pea than appear on the tabulation.

These increases, as pointed out in a preceding chapter, were three-fold. The first increase was in an amount of 10 cents, due to the imposition of the State tax and since January first, 1916, the tax being no longer collected as a separate item, is accounted for by the operator as being due to workmen's compensation, which is, therefore, styled the second increase. The third increase, varying from 30 to 40 cents a ton, was made necessary, the operators claim, by the terms of the new wage agreement of 1916.

It should be expected that these advances in price to the retailer would naturally result in advances in that amount at least to the consumer.

The advance price charged by the retailer is made up of three distinct increases, the first of which was generally imposed about December first, 1913, and amounted to 25 cents a ton, which, while denied by the retailers, your Commission fully believes, intended to include the increased cost to the retailer due to the State tax. However, by the increase the retailer's gross margin of profit was increased 15 cents a ton.

The second increase generally made by the retailer was following the wage agreement of 1916, when the operators in May, of 1916, instead of being able to give the retailers the usual 40-cent discount, felt obliged by reason of the terms of the new agreement to increase the price to the retailer in an amount varying from 30 to 40 cents, which kept the price the same as April prices without the reduction, and upon being obliged to pay which, the retailer increased the price generally in the sum of 50 cents a ton, giving to him the second increase in his margin of profit of at least 10 cents a ton.

The third increase in the price imposed by the retailer upon the consumer was in December, 1916, when the price was generally increased by the retailer 25 cents a ton without any corresponding increase, in any amount, by the operator.

By reason of all of which the retailer enjoys an increased margin of profit of at least 50 cents a ton more, and in many instances 60 cents a ton more, than in January, 1913.

The situation with respect to the retailer has been during the time in which your Commission has been in service so unsettled with respect to his supply and so uncertain as to make the question of determining the justification of the increase, sought to be justified by the retailer, a very difficult one.

Without quoting from the testimony, analyzing or compiling complete data, the public generally is familiar with the labor situation and the increases demanded and received by the labor, handling and distributing the output of the retailer; this, in many instances has been very considerable, and in the case of the George B. Newton Company has occasioned an increased cost of $80,000 a year.

Gasoline, horse feed, shovels, bags and buckets, taxes and wages have all increased with such startling rapidity and in such amounts, since January, 1913, as fully displayed in the testimony before your Commission, as to make some increase by the retailers, in addition to the increase by the operators to them absolutely essential, and the net profits realized by the retailer prior to these increases are hardly comparable to the usual profit expected, sought and justified in the usual commercial business.

CONCLUSIONS.

Considering the testimony of the retailers as to the margins of profit enjoyed by them during recent years and the net profit resulting to them, their individual sworn statements must carry more conviction than the composite table compiled by your Commission, and believing, as the Commission does, that in recent months even since the investigation conducted by it into the retailing phase of the coal business that these margins of profit have increased, we cannot find them, from the testimony before us, to be the result of any illegal combination, nor do we feel that they indicate tremendously large returns to the retailer.

In New York City until the last adjustment of prices by the operators, the retailer's gross margin of profit was $3.30 a ton; in Boston the gross margin of profit was $3.10 a ton; in Baltimore it was $1.65 a ton, this large margin of profit made possible by many reasons, among which is the practice of selling short tons in New York City and New England, a discrimination against Philadelphia and Pennsylvania generally in the matter of freight rates and your Commission believes somewhat due to less distribution costs.

In the City of Philadelphia there are upwards of three hundred retail coal dealers, each one of whom maintains a yard, an office and office force, a delivery service and most of whom sell on credit.

As distinguished from this condition, New York City, with a greater population and selling more anthracite coal, supports only sixty-one retail coal dealers.

The net result of the above is necessarily that Philadelphia, for example, is called upon to maintain, because these retailers must be maintained, an enormously large number of retail coal yards, overhead and fixed charges, delivery costs and salaries.

Your Commission does not believe that it would be either proper or becoming for it to recommend a reduction in the number of retail coal dealers or a combination of existing coal dealers but is impressed with the fact that each additional dealer in any given district must result in an additional cost to the ultimate consumer in the price of anthracite coal.

While the conclusion of the Commission will doubtless not be popular, it is founded upon the bald facts developed by this investigation and it is therefore, impossible under these facts that your Commission should find other than they do.

Sixth. The Manner of Acquiring Title to the Coal Lands, the Combinations by Which Title is Held and Suggestions as to the Possibility of Relief to the Public by Appropriate Legislation Seeking to Make Available Vast Acreages of Virgin Coal Land Now Being Held in Reserve.

The Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company, through the Reading Company, owns or controls 44 per cent. of all the unmined anthracite coal and together with the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company and the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, owns and controls eighty-six and forty-five hundredths per cent. of all the unmined anthracite coal.

In view of this condition and at the urgent request of various individuals and the suggestion from them that a condition could be disclosed showing that the operators owning and controlling these vast acreages of virgin coal land so manipulated, controlled and curtailed the output of anthracite by refusing, either themselves to open up new collieries, or to permit extensions of leases to their various tenants so as to allow them to reach the deeper, larger and more profitable veins; as to substantially curtail and limit the output to the amount desired by them; a public hearing was held in the City of Pottsville, at which this phase of the inquiry with respect to the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company was most fully investigated and the parties having complained to the Commission invited to be present.

To this hearing were subpoenaed by a formal subpoena of the Commission, all of the mine inspectors of Schuylkill County and all of the lessees of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company, indicated in the memoranda of this hearing earlier in the report.

The mine inspectors were subpoenaed to produce their maps and cross sections showing all of the workings of the various operators under their jurisdiction.

This hearing was attended by the president of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company, its land agent and upwards of thirty of its employes.

The greatest latitude was permitted in the conduct of the hearing and any one having information, either direct or hearsay, was permitted and urged to disclose anything he knew. Complete tables were prepared showing the acreage owned and controlled by the Reading Company in Schuylkill County, by townships and cities. It was developed carefully as to what coal lands were accessible and could be most profitably and advantageously developed by the various operations now in progress in Schuylkill County.

The question of royalty received by the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company from its lessees and paid by the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company to those from whom it leased were fully and carefully developed.

There can be no doubt that the question of royalties helps control the cost of production of anthracite coal, and in recent years royalty has increased on prepared coal from 35 cents in 1901, to 50 or 55 cents in 1916, excepting in very occasional and exceptional instances, as with the Girard estates, where the lands are auctioned off and command a royalty of approximately a dollar per ton.

The large operators are, however, confronted with the same conditions in the leases which they hold from the owners from whom they lease.

Your Commission feels that with the contracts existing between private land owners and their tenants, unless a condition can be shown indicating that the large operators control the amount of royalty, we believe we have nothing to do.

Briefly, the conditions disclosed at the hearing referred to show that the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company owns and controls 165,793 acres of land, of which 84,515 are classified by them as coal lands. Of these coal lands 57,783 acres are in Schuylkill County, 15,162 in Northumberland County, 6,558 in Dauphin County, 4,445 in Lebanon County, and 567 in Columbia County.

From these holdings there was produced for the calendar year of 1915, 8,346,520 tons 18 cwt., of which 683,379 tons 2 cwt. was produced from the Coal & Iron Company lands proper by its tenants. On this production a total royalty was paid to the Reading Company of $178,727.68 by their tenants and on the 1,214,218 tons 7 cwt. which the Coal & Iron Company mined from lands other than their own, a royalty was paid by the Reading Company in the sum of $452,793.39.

From the above figures it will be noted that the average royalty received by the Reading from its tenants was .261 per ton and the average royalty paid by the Reading to its lessors was .373 per ton. These figures can, of course, not be accurately read without regard to the percentage of prepared and steam sizes in both their own production and that of their tenants, which figures on short notice which your Commission had of this phase of the investigation are not available, but from the figures disclosed there is nothing to indicate a discrimination against its tenants by the Reading Company.

All of the tenants of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company accessible to Pottsville were called and examined by your Commission and were unanimous in expressing their complete and entire satisfaction with the treatment of their lessors, both as to the length of contract, the terms thereof and the possibility of securing proper and necessary extensions to their leases whenever such extensions were necessary to the proper and profitable operation of their collieries.

In some instances, two or more of the independent operators sought to obtain the same concession from the Reading, in which event one or more must be disappointed, and in some instances the Reading Company had instead of granting extensions to its tenants proceeded with the operation itself where the veins were so situated as to be accessible to and properly developed by its own workings.

It is apparent that the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company are holding in reserve and wholly undeveloped, great tracts of virgin coal land and your Commission believe, although in the absence of direct investigation, that every other wise operator is doing the same and is first finishing by new and approved methods the second mining operation in all the old workings, so that there may be the greatest conservation possible of the supply.

In this connection it is of interest to note that almost the precise question is now before the Supreme Court of the United States on an appeal from the Court below, in the Coal Trust Case, in which the Court in regard to this very phase said:

OPINION OF JUDGE McPHERSON.

"Coal is of no use while it remains in the ground. Its use is to be burnt, and no one can use it until it is brought within convenient reach. Obviously, then, whoever mines and prepares it for consumption performs a service to be commended. Moreover, the owner of coal in the ground, who has no other interest in the mineral than to sell it, is not in the position of an ordinary merchant, who buys goods from the manufacturer in order to sell them again to the ultimate consumer. The stock of such a merchant is in process of continual renewal; as long as the mills are running his source of supply is always open, and he need not be greatly concerned about keeping a large stock on hand. But a miner's stock is in the ground; he is his own source of supply, and he can only continue to sell as long as his mine continues to produce. It is vitally important to him therefore that he should have a large reserve on which he may draw; for he must go out of business when his source of supply is exhausted. It is elementary prudence therefore to look ahead and provide for the future. If he is a miner of coal he must have coal lands; and, since coal is a much desired article, he is not only serving himself but serving the consumer also when he takes the necessary measures to prevent the supply from being exhausted or interrupted. And we are not aware that any Federal statute has declared it unlawful to lay in a large supply of raw material in order to carry on business for a considerable time. The mere size of his stock does not make a merchant an offender against the law. And especially should this be true, if in making his purchases he has acted under authority from a competent legislative body.

"But after a miner raises his coal to the surface and prepares it for consumption, it is still of little value. He may use some of it himself or may sell it to his neighbors, but this is a restricted market and can only benefit a few. To make the best use of his product he needs many markets and many customers, for only thus can he make the most profit for himself and bring a desired article within the reach of the numerous persons that wish to use it. To accomplish these results he must of necessity use the recognized agencies of transportation, the railroad and the barge or other vessel, for only thus can he and the consumer be brought together. Now, whatever promotes this result should ordinarily be encouraged, for trade is thereby created or nourished. If therefore a miner should find it economical and otherwise advantageous to build his own railroad, this of itself would seem unobjectionable, and even commendable. And if he had the right to own his own railroad as well as his own mine, there would seem to be no special objection against a sale of both to another person, or against his putting them both in the hands of the same trustee for his own benefit.

"Of course, this is abstract reasoning, and we are aware that concrete and practical objections may be made to it in part, but we think it will throw light on the problem before us. In 1896 the Coal and Iron Company was the owner of a large body of coal land—the precise quantity or the proportion it bears to the whole deposit does not seem to be presently important—and had been mining for years. Anticipating the future, its purchases had been beyond its present needs, but this of itself was not a violation of law, even although its holdings had come to be large. Its product was much desired by many people, and the cessation of mining would have seriously affected the industry of the country and the comfort of many households. The State of Pennsylvania had given it ample authority to buy and hold the land, and indeed no one was attempting to take the property away or to prevent the Company from using it. The mines were so situated that the only railroad it could use at all—or at all events, could advantageously use—was the Reading Railway, and if it were shut out from this means of getting to market its customers could not obtain the coal on which they were accustomed to rely. Now (laying the commodities clause aside) we do not see with clearness in what the unlawfulness of the Coal & Iron Company's conduct can be said to consist. Its business, the mining of coal, was lawful, its ownership of coal lands was lawful, and its use of the Reading Railway to get to market was also lawful. The Railway and the Coal & Iron Company were not competitors; each performed its own function in putting a useful article into the hands of consumers. Although the Coal & Iron Company was a large producer of coal, and therefore a large shipper and a large seller, the size of its business was not in itself an offense. Indeed in some aspects it may be regarded as a merit, for the more coal the company produced the more extensive would be its operations, thus benefiting labor and the merchants that furnish supplies to the mines; and the larger would be the quantity of coal at the consumers' command. But it is true, that while much of its conduct may have been lawful, the Coal & Iron Company and the Railway—separately or in combination—may have offended against the statute in other particulars, and if so they must answer for whatever misdoing has been proved.

"Much of the Government's complaint seems to rest on the admitted facts that the Coal & Iron Company's land holdings are large and that the Company ships and sells the largest percentage of all the coal that reaches the market. But this is not enough; before these facts can be counted as an offense under the statute, it is necessary to go further and to show that harm had been done, or is likely to be done. Who has been injured thereby, and in what manner? At this point the Government's proof appears to be insufficient."

CONCLUSIONS.

Your Commission fully believes, from a review of all of the testimony produced at this hearing and by a careful survey of the physical properties concerned in this investigation, that there is nothing whatever to indicate on the part of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company, the only one which was investigated, any effort to curtail the output, either by refusing extensions of leases or the offering of impossible terms, and feels in duty bound after its painstaking effort to disclose such facts to commend the existence of the cordial relations between the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company and the independent operators leasing from them their land.

GENERAL SUMMARY.

Your Commission is aware that the analysis undertaken of the anthracite coal situation is not without danger to those investigating that situation, due to impressions gathered from a hasty survey of so vast an inquiry.

Much remains undone which could have been done, and, doubtless, efforts were fruitlessly expended in unnecessary directions, but your Commission believes its findings and conclusions to be free of prejudice toward or interest in any of its phases.

The net result may well be expressed in the single statement that since 1913 coal has advanced a dollar a ton or approximately fifteen per cent.

In 1916, due partly to wage dissensions, and new and more expensive wage agreements, multitudinous petty strikes contrary to the wage agreements, scarcity of labor, higher wages, uncertainty of supply, increased taxation, humane labor legislation, advanced cost of supplies in both the producing and distributing departments of the industry, the advanced royalties demanded by owners in recent years, the excessive freight rates in Pennsylvania, and lastly but not unimportant, the expense to operators and others of constant and extensive investigation by the State and Government, it is little wonder that the operators have advanced the price from forty to fifty cents a ton.

The same logic applies proportionately, at least, to the independent advance of fifty cents a ton made by the retailers.

This total advance of one dollar a ton, or fifteen per cent., on prepared sizes is therefore, in the judgment of your Commission, due to many and varying causes and hardly by the remotest reasoning chargeable to the item of State tax.

The question of illegal combination might be presumed from a unity of results brought about, according to the operators, by a similarity of conditions confronting them all and it is to be presumed that conditions, excepting trivial local ones, are much the same throughout the industry and that they compel and doubtless merit a similar result in all the instances.

Thus your Commission feels unconvinced of any illegal conspiracy or unlawful combination amongst either branch of the industry to take advantage of the Roney Act or other mentioned conditions, to improperly and unjustifiably increase the price of anthracite coal.

We have endeavored to develop in detail the varied causes for the increase and to distinguish the just from the unjust and to close our report with some suggestions to Your Excellency and Honorable Bodies concerning various phases of the situation, in the following:

RECOMMENDATIONS.

1. Hyde Park, Scranton.

Your Commission took occasion to visit that section of the City of Scranton known as Hyde Park, underlaid with the Diamond, Rock, Big, New County, Clarke, Dunmore and other veins of coal, from which the skipping of pillars and robbing thereof has so utterly weakened and destroyed their support and protection as to cause squeezes, caves and fallins through the overlying veins and to the surface, causing subsidences therein, in both streets, large improved property, schools and churches and to the detriment of many small property owners, a great number of whom are foreigners, and has completely demolished and destroyed many of their buildings, we believe, without occasion.

That it may be necessary to take out this coal and that its value may be such as to demand its complete removal and that the owners of surface rights may have in their ignorance or untimely desire to acquire homes, released for all damages to their property, seems to your Commission to only aggravate the situation, and make the occasion one of absolute necessity for the State of Pennsylvania to enact legislation to protect their property and remedy the condition.

We urgently recommend immediate and thorough investigation, if further investigation be necessary, by this Legislature, of this condition and the passage of legislation at this session to relieve these property owners and restore their property.

2. Freight Rate Case.

We recommend and urge that the issues involved in the appeal in the case of the City of Philadelphia, Harry E. Bellis, et al., vs. the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, et al., be forced to a determination. We are advised that the Attorney General is now urging a judicial determination of these issues, that the City of Philadelphia may have the benefit of the reductions ordered, if the opinion of Commissioner Pennypacker be sustained and we commend this action.

3. Reduction of Transportation Costs.

The Commission is impressed with the possibilities offered in the suggestions with respect to the utilization of canal routes in Pennsylvania and recommend an investigation thereof by the State of Pennsylvania and the filing of a complaint, if necessary, by the Attorney General's Department, to determine the liability of the owners of these canals to afford better transportation facilities to the public.

4. Further Investigation of Situation.

Your Commission recommends that in the event of further investigation of the coal situation by the State of Pennsylvania, that the scope of such supplemental investigation be sufficiently broadened to include the bituminous coal situation as well.

5. Report of this Commission.

The original report of this Commission, together with a transcript of all the testimony taken and all of the data, etc., compiled by it, have been filed with the State Librarian of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for further possible reference, and your Commission has had printed and paid for out of the appropriation made to cover its expenses, twenty-five hundred copies of this report, which disposition, concluding its labors, will be final, unless the Legislature of the State of Pennsylvania shall at this session otherwise direct.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

REPORT OF BRANCH CAPITOL COMMISSION.

To His Excellency, the Governor, and to the Members of the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Gentlemen:—In compliance with the provisions of the Joint Resolution of the General Assembly, adopted at its session in one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, entitled "A joint resolution providing for the Branch Capitol Commission," which provides:

"Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the Governor is hereby authorized to appoint a commission, consisting of three citizens of Philadelphia, to be called the Branch Capitol Commission. It shall be the duty of the commission to consider the advisability and feasibility of the erection in Philadelphia of an administration building, wherein shall be housed branches of the various State departments of Pennsylvania. If the commission considers the plan feasible, it shall report the results of its investigation to the next session of the General Assembly, with such recommendations and suggestions as to the commission shall seem proper.

The members of the commission shall receive no compensation or expenses."

the Branch Capitol Commission appointed by His Excellency the Governor, on the thirteenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and sixteen, in pursuance of said Joint Resolution, herewith respectfully submits its report.

The Branch Capitol Commission of Pennsylvania,

RICHARD J. BEAMISH, Chairman,
MONT. H. WRIGHT, Secretary.
HARRY T. SAUNDERS.

Your Commission held a large number of sessions at which it heard the testimony of various officers of the Commonwealth and of the City of Philadelphia and of experts in land values. The witnesses examined were:

Hon. Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor of Pennsylvania.
Hon. Thomas B. Smith, Mayor of Philadelphia.
Hon. Francis Shunk Brown, Attorney General of Pennsylvania.

Joseph P. Gaffney, Chairman, Councils' Finance Committee.

Hon. J. Louis Breitinger, former Chairman, State Board of Censors of Moving Pictures.

Hon. Bromley Wharton, Agent and Secretary of the State Board of Public Charities.

Eli Kirk Price, Vice-President, Fairmount Park Commission.

Harry S. McDevitt, Secretary, Pennsylvania Economy and Efficiency Commission.

George E. Datesman, Director of Public Works, Philadelphia.

Frank J. Cummiskey, Chief, Bureau of City Property.

William G. Ball, Secretary to the Governor and former Chief of Bureau of City Property.

Samuel B. Rambo, former Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings.

Chester E. Albright, Chief Engineer, Bureau of Surveys.

From the testimony of these witnesses and from original investigation on the part of your Commission, we find the following facts to be true:

The State government at present maintains offices for various branches of its departments in nine different buildings in the City of Philadelphia, for which a total annual rental of $13,700 is being paid. These buildings, together with the lessors, the annual rental of each and the branch of the State government occupying each are:

STATE OFFICES IN PHILADELPHIA.

The Supreme and Superior Courts of the Commonwealth occupy rooms in Philadelphia City Hall as court room, consultation room, and offices, covering an area of 10,939 square feet, the use of which is furnished to the Commonwealth by the City of Philadelphia free of charge. The rental value of these rooms and offices is about $25,000 per annum. These facts are furnished by Mr. George E. Datesman, Director of Public Works of Philadelphia, in the following letter:

Mr. George E. Datesman,
Director, Department of Public Works,
City Hall.

Dear Sir:

In answer to your memorandum enclosing letter from the Secretary to Mr. Richard J. Beamish, Chairman of the Branch Capitol Commission, under date of the 17th inst., with reference to the rooms occupied by the Supreme and Superior Courts in City Hall, we beg to report as follows:

"It seems to me the amount of rental cost of the rooms occupied by the Supreme and Superior Courts given as ($2.00) Two Dollars per year per square foot is reasonable, in fact is lower than the same class of rooms that could be counted on elsewhere.

"These rooms are especially fitted for the purposes intended, and are fully furnished at the epxense of the City; all needed improvements both as to rooms and furniture are provided by the City, and the Court Room (454) and Consultation Room (450) are especially elegant rooms; probably not equalled in the City.

"Taken all in all, the actual rental value of the rooms occupied by the Supreme and Superior Courts would be worth at least Twenty-Five Thousand ($25,000) dollars per annum."

I am attaching hereto statement giving the number of rooms occupied by these Courts, showing the occupants and size and square foot area of each and the total square foot of the entire number of rooms occupied by these Courts.

Very truly yours,

ROBERT C. HICKS,

Acting Chief Bureau of Public Property of Philadelphia.

The following rooms are occupied or under the control of the Supreme and Superior Courts—City Hall, Philadelphia:

(Signed) W. S. BOWEN,
Supt. of Maintenance.

Besides the offices and rooms already mentioned, the State of Pennsylvania occupies other rooms in Philadelphia for various purposes. The total rental paid by the Commonwealth for the accommodation of branches of its government in the City of Philadelphia is $13,700 per annum.

On account of the rapid growth of the municipal government of Philadelphia it is more than likely that the space occupied by the Supreme and Superior Courts in City Hall will soon be required for the accommodation of the city government and the local courts. This would make it necessary for the Commonwealth to seek a new location for its appellate courts, which would probably entail the expenditure by way of rental alone of at least $25,000 a year.

Your Commission has entered into negotiations with the City of Philadelphia for the free use of a plot of ground on the Parkway of Philadelphia, the present value of which is conservatively estimated at $500,000. The value of this property is likely to increase steadily because of the contemplated subway line beneath the Parkway, and the fact that one of the subway stations will be located at or near the plot. This plot of ground which is ideal in its location and in every way eminently suited for the purpose of erecting a State building can now be had practically at no cost to the Commonwealth; while at a later time such a site could not be obtained except by the expenditure of an immense sum of money.

It is the opinion of your Commission that a building sufficient for present State purposes in Philadelphia can be erected at a cost of $500.000. When it is considered that the Commonwealth now pays $13,700 a year in rental, and that in the near future it will, beyond all probability, become necessary to make an additional expenditure by way of rental of at least $25,000 a year, the advisability, financially of taking advantage of the present opportunity is at once apparent. When to this is added the further gain financially of a saving in the mileage which is now paid, and the great convenience of collecting all the branches of the State government in one place the advantages become almost imperative.

Your Commission, therefore, respectfully recommends:

First. That a State building be established in the City of Philadelphia for the housing of the Supreme and Superior Courts and all departments and branches of departments of the State government located in or near the City of Philadelphia.

Second. That such building be called the Pennsylvania State Building in the City of Philadelphia.

Third. That such building be in no sense a branch capitol; but be merely for the convenience of housing such branches of the State government as are at present or may be in the future located in or near the City of Philadelphia.

Fourth. That a certain plot of land on the Parkway of Philadelphia more specifically designated on a blueprint hereunto attached, be acquired from the City of Philadelphia either as a gift or on a lease of such duration and at such nominal rental as in effect to be a gift.

Fifth. That a building sufficient in size for present purposes be erected on said plot; and that such building with the exception of the court rooms be a modern, scientifically planned office building, capable of being enlarged to accommodate future needs.

Sixth. That for the purpose of preparing plans and specifications, making test borings and surveys, and for all other necessary incidental expenses an appropriation of fifty thousand dollars be made at the present session of the General Assembly.

Seventh. That a building commission be appointed to secure said plot of ground and to prepare plans and specifications and to make test borings and surveys for the building to be erected thereon.

Eighth. That there be introduced and enacted into law at the present session of the General Assembly the following bill:

An Act providing for the establishment of a Pennsylvania State Building in the City of Philadelphia; authorizing the purchase or lease of a site; providing for plans and specifications and for test borings and surveys for such building; and making an appropriation.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same: That the Governor shall appoint a Commission to consist of three citizens of Philadelphia, which shall be known as the Building Commission for a Pennsylvania State Building in the City of Philadelphia. The Commission shall organize within thirty days after its appointment by the election of a chairman, a secretary and a treasurer. Each member of the Commission shall receive a salary of two thousand five hundred dollars a year for each year they shall serve, and shall be allowed all expenses actually and necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties.

Section 2. The Commission shall select and purchase or lease a site along the Parkway in the City of Philadelphia, reasonably near the City Hall, and of sufficient area to erect thereon a State Building for the housing of the Supreme and Superior Courts and the various branches of the State government now located in or near the City of Philadelphia. The Commission shall also prepare plans and specifications for such building and shall make test borings and surveys on the property acquired.

Section 3. The plans and specifications shall provide for one or more court rooms and consultation rooms and such other rooms and offices as are necessary for the accommodation of the Supreme and Superior Courts. They shall also provide for such offices and rooms as are necessary for the accommodation of the various departments and divisions of the State government now located in and near the City of Philadelphia. The plans and specifications shall be for a modern office building, not to exceed in cost the sum of five hundred thousand dollars, and shall provide for future additions to the building.

When the plans and specifications have been adopted by the Commission, no change therein shall be made except on the written recommendation of the Commission.

Section 4. To carry out the purposes of this act, the sum of fifty thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby specifically appropriated.

REPORT OF THE LANCASTER AND SUSQUEHANNA TURNPIKE ROAD COMPANY.

To the Honorable, the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Pennsylvania in General Assembly:

The President, Managers and Company of the Lancaster and Susquehanna Turnpike Road, agreeably to their Act of Incorporation, report the following abstract of their accounts for the three years ended the first day of January, 1917:

Original cost of road, bridges, gate houses, etc. ..... (This does not include betterments and permanent improvements put on the road after the time of the completion of the road.)		$59,540.00
Receipts from tolls, etc., for the year 1914.	$13,712.41
Deduct repairs, salaries, taxes, etc.....	7,960.29	5,752.12
Receipts from tolls, etc., for the year 1915	17,730.98
Deduct repairs, salaries, taxes, etc.....	9,488.46	7,242.52
Receipts from tolls, etc., for the year 1916	19,661.78
Deduct repairs, salaries, taxes, etc.....	14,282.99	5,377.79

And it appears from the above statement that the clear profits or income of said Company would bear a dividend of 9.66 per cent for the year 1914, 12.16 per cent. for the year 1915, 9.03 per cent. for the year 1916; the net earnings for the three years making an average of 10.28 per cent. per year.

Respectfully submitted,
G. N. REYNOLDS,
President.

REPORT OF THE ECONOMY AND EFFICIENCY COMMISSION OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Harrisburg, April 2, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:

In compliance with Concurrent Resolution adopted by your Honorable Bodies January 29, 1917, which reads as follows:

"Whereas, The General Appropriation Bill enacted by the General Assembly of 1915 provided money in accordance with Section fifteen of Article three of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, for the ordinary expenses of the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth; and

"Whereas, The appropriation period covered by the General Appropriation Bill of 1915 will expire May 31, 1917;

"Therefore, Be it Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), the Economy and Efficiency Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be and is hereby directed to furnish not later than March 1, 1917, the following information:

"First: Items appropriated to the Departments, Commissions and Boards of the Executive Branch of the Government for the two years beginning June 1, 1915, and ending May 31, 1917.

"Second: The amount expended from each appropriation between June 1, 1915, and December 31, 1916.

"Third: The estimated needs of each Department, Commission and Board of the Executive Branch of the Government for the two years beginning June 1, 1915, and ending May 31, 1917."

I beg to hand you herewith the statistical date compiled by this Commission in pursuance of the mandate of your resolution.

This information in full was ready for submission to your Honorable bodies at the time indicated. You were not then in session. Meanwhile arrangements were made to have meetings of the Economy and Efficiency Commission, and the respective Chairman of the Appropriation Committees of the Senate and House with the heads of the several Executive and other State Departments. These meetings began on March 14, 1917, upon the return of the Appropriation Committees from a tour of the institutions throughout the State seeking appropriation. The Commission, therefore, did submit this information in this manner to your responsible Chairman, and have steadily since with them sat in conference to hear the reasons for departmental appropriations and to secure such reductions as a sound economy and a due efficiency could support, based upon the revenues of the Commonwealth.

We have also prepared and will at an early date submit a report suggesting such modification in the organization of the several departments as will promote greater economy or efficiency or both.

Your Commission has sought by careful investigation to assist you in your work and thus to lessen the laborious task of ascertaining the necessary data to guide you in making appropriations to those departments.

Our general report has been postponed by reason of the fact that we have not as yet received any information from you of the amount of additional revenue you intend to provide for the next two fiscal years, as a result of taxing measures proposed by the Revenue Commission created for that purpose by your Honorable bodies.

Information of the approximate amount of such expected additional revenue would manifestly have a material bearing upon the amounts which could be profitably expended by such of our departments as have to do vitally with the welfare of our people and the conservation and promotion of wise industrial activities in our State, and such information is essential to any suggestions which this Commission may have to submit.

When this information is given us your Commission will at once make further report to your Honorable bodies or to your Appropriation Committees, as you may direct, of the sums which in our judgment will secure an economic and efficient performance of administrative duties.

All of which is respectfully submitted by

Yours very truly,

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH,
Chairman.

A CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

Providing for the continuance of the investigation into the number, character, duties and compensation of persons in the employ of the State Government and the methods for disbursing and accounting of State funds, and the preparation and tabulation of data and statistics of comparative costs in the departments, bureaus, commissions, boards of trustees and other persons in charge of institutions owned and controlled by the State Government, and directing the co-operation of the various State departments, boards, bureaus, commissions, boards of trustees and other persons in charge of institutions owned and controlled by the State.

Section 1. Be it Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Governor, Attorney General and Auditor General are hereby appointed a commission to be known as the Economy and Efficiency Commission. It shall be the duty of the Commission to investigate the number, character of duties, and compensation of all persons in the employ of the State; to ascertain and recommend what changes, if any, may be necessary to secure greater uniformity, economy and efficiency in the work of the various departments, branches, bureaus, Commissions, boards of trustees and other persons in charge of institutions owned and controlled by the State; and to prepare and compile data, statistics of comparative costs, and the methods of disbursing and accounting for State funds in the various Departments, branches, bureaus, commissions, boards of trustees and other persons in charge of institutions owned and controlled by the State; and make such suggestions and recommendations in relation thereto as it may deem proper. Upon the completion of the work, the commission shall report to the next General Assembly with such recommendations as to further regulation and legislation. It shall be the duty of the head of each department, bureau, commission, board of trustees and other persons in charge of institutions owned and controlled by the State, and any other branch of the Government who afford the commission ample opportunity and facilities for the performance of its work.

Section 2. To carry out the purposes of this resolution, a sum, which, in the judgment of the said commission, shall be sufficient for the purposes, is hereafter to be specifically appropriated for the use of the commission by an item in the General Appropriation Bill. Payment from said appropriation shall be made on order of the Chairman of the Commission, accompanied by itemized and verified vouchers on warrant of the Auditor General.

Approved—The 17th day of June, A. D. 1915.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

REPORT OF THE ECONOMY AND EFFICIENCY COMMISSION, 1917.

This draft is based entirely upon comment and suggestions brought to mind by a careful perusal of the report of Harry S. McDevitt, Solicitor of the Commission. The object sought to be accomplished throughout this report has been to state in a particular and comprehensive way the things necessary to be done to put the business affairs of the Commonwealth on a par with standards of business management of the present day. This report is in effect a plan for the reorganization of the various departments, bureaus and commissions by which the business of the State government is at present handled, into such a coherent and connected whole as will minimize parallelism and duplication of effort, reduce, if possible, the burdens of government to the tax-payer, and by the centralization and unification of management and, therefore, of responsibility to place the people more directly in control of the Commonwealth's business. This report is not a plan for immediate execution in all its details, (but a general and comprehensive plan toward which all executive action, legislative enactment and constitutional reform should proceed.

There appears to be a general misconception in the public mind as to the duties of an Economy and Efficiency Commission. The popular opinion appears to be that all departments should be overhauled from beginning to end, that each position should be carefully considered and analyzed, and especial attention should be given to the fitness of the encumbent thereof. To my mind these are details that must be considered after a general reorganization plan has been decided upon and has been put into operation by amendments to the Constitution and the enactment of the general legislation herein referred to. There are certain big steps that must be taken to place the State government upon a business foundation, and until this is done it would appear unwise to attempt reorganization in a piece meal manner, for such a procedure would likely result in disorganization rather than reorganization. The close study of every position, the necessity for its existence, and the fitness of its occupant will necessarily follow the adoption of such a comprehensive plan. There is no doubt that certain positions will be found unnecessary when combinations and consolidations herein recommended have been carried into effect; but until such action has been taken it is unwise to recommend individual eliminations in the interest of economy at the expense of efficiency.

The following is a recapitulation of the statistical data accompanying this report:

An examination of the laws authorizing the creation of the various positions, and as a result it is suggested that the present system which permits of the unrestricted creation of positions by the mere appropriation of money is faulty and should be corrected. The statistics submitted will show the creation from time to time of as many positions of this character as have been created by Act of Assembly. In general, this practice has arisen from the inelasticity of constitutional and legislative reconstructions. The Constitution of 1874 is both a statement of general principles, and, in many ways, also a statement of legislative reconstructions and limitations, which have no real place in a constitution, but in any private corporation would be found among the by-laws, and thus more easy of change and harmonization with the growth both in magnitude and multiplicity of operations of the State government.

An examination of the comparative tables showing variations in salaries paid in departments and in institutions for practically the same class of work, will show that:

In the State insane asylums the salaries of the Superintendents, for instance, vary from $2,500.00 to $6,000.00 a year; the salaries of cooks from $27.50 to $80.00 a month; the salaries of butchers from $40.00 to $65.00 a month; the salaries of bookkeepers from $27.00 to $108.33 a month; the salaries of bakers from $18.00 to $75.00 a month; the salaries of male nurses from $17.00 to $50.00 a month; the salaries of female nurses from $14.00 to $45.00 a month.

In the State medical hospitals the Superintendent is in some instances known as the surgeon in chief, and in others superintendent. These salaries run from $900.00 to $10,000.00; the assistant surgeons received from $500.00 a year to $4,200.00 a year; pupil nurses receive from $60.00 to $120.00 a year; directing nurses receive from $600.00 to $1,200.00 a year; graduate nurses from $350.00 to $600.00 a year; cooks from $288.00 to $780.00 a year; assistant cooks from $120.00 to $350.00 a year; engineers from $600.00 to $1,140.00 a year; and firemen from $480.00 to $780.00 a year. There is no need of argument to prove that a readjustment, co-ordination or standardization of salaries for these positions with similar duties is badly needed.

The salaries of the heads of departments vary from $3,000.00 to $12,000.00; the salaries of deputies from $1,500 00 to $7,500.00; the salaries of inspectors from $720.00 to $5,000.00; the salaries of stenographers from $1,000.00 to $3,000.00; and the salaries of stenographers from $480.00 to $1,800.00; and the salaries of watchmen from $600.00 to $1,080.00.

These salaries present a perplexing problem, the solution of which cannot be postponed indefinitely. The increasing cost of living, the demand for skilled and unskilled help create a condition of supply and demand that must be considered by the Commonwealth as well as by private business.

The institutions, originally established for remedial purposes, are now used, in great measure, as custodial institutions. This applies particularly to the insane asylums, many of which were established at a time when the opinion was generally held that insanity was a curable ailment. Many of our foremost alienists now admit that the cures effected in this direction represent but a very small percentage of the number afflicted.

With this idea uppermost, your commission caused to be made an investigation and study of the supplies purchased and used in State institutions. Your commission regarded it as an important duty for the Commonwealth to see that her wards were properly nourished, and this it realized was only possible by the use of the best foodstuffs. It first investigated the methods used for the purchasing of supplies, which, of course, brought to light the specifications or formulae used. It next took up the method of inspecting and disbursing these supplies after their delivery to the institutions, and finally the method used to account for such supplies.

It found that some institutions purchased from day to day, so to speak; others purchased by quarterly, semi-annual and annual contracts, depending upon the nature of the supplies; and others purchased practically everything on an annual basis. While first quality goods were asked for in every instance, the institutions did not, in some instances, exercise the necessary supervision to insure the delivery of such goods. That they purchased, or intended to purchase, the best grade of goods, was evidenced by the duplicate bills furnished it each month by the Superintendents. It compared these and found that practically all institutions were asking for standard goods, and at the same time were paying different prices. There was great similarity in the standards required and purchased, but no similarity in the prices paid.

The statistics compiled concerning the purchases by the State institutions show that during the last twelve months the price of bacon has varied from 14c to 30c a pound; dried beef from 20c to 52c per pound; frankfurters from 10c to 20c per pound; fresh ham from 14c to 35c per pound; smoked ham from 13.17c to 31.3c per pound; baking powder from 5½c to 40c per pound; bananas from 15c a dozen to 25c a dozen, and from $1.00 a bunch to $2.75 a bunch; lima beans from 6.2c per pound to 10c per pound; marrow beans from 8c per pound to 15c per pound; butter varies from 25.4c per pound to 48c per pound; Baker's chocolate from 17½c per pound to 40c per pound; Hershey's chocolate from 25c per pound to 56c per pound; cocoa from 5.3c per pound to 40c per pound; coffee from 4c per pound to 45c per pound; eggs from 11c per dozen to 58c per dozen; spring flour from $5.00 a barrel to $9.00 a barrel; winter wheat flour from $4.50 per barrel to $8.75 per barrel; lemons from 11½c a dozen to 30c a dozen, and from $3.02 a box to $9.50 a box; oranges from $2.50 a box to $6.50 a box; black pepper from 4c a pound to 40c a pound; white potatoes from 60c a bushel to $2.00 a bushel; prunes from 4½c per pound to 17c a pound; rolled oats from $2.25 a barrel to $6.25 a barrel; salt from $1.00 a barrel to $5.00 a barrel; table salt from $1.25 a barrel to $2.72 a barrel; brown sugar from 4.9c a pound to 9c a pound; granulated sugar from 3.7c a pound to 8.2c a pound; tea from 11c a pound to $1.10 a pound; and yeast from 20c a pound to 35c a pound.

It is difficult to reconcile this wide range of prices with the fact that practically all institutions require the same quality of goods. Some explanation is offered by the fact that some institutions purchase in much larger quantities than others. But this admission strongly supports the argument set forth in this Report that all supplies should be purchased through one agency, or that all institutions should co-operate in the purchase of similar supplies. There is, in fact, no alternative. The present system shows by its own figures the lack of business methods.

The fact that many large supply houses hold contracts with most of the institutions is cumulative evidence that central purchasing, or co-operative purchasing under central supervision, is practical and not theoretical.

You will find attached hereto a monthly report from every institution showing the commodities purchased, and unit adopted for purchasing, the price paid per unit, and the total amount expended for each commodity during each month of the year 1916. These individual reports have been transferred to large sheets according to their class, that is, insane institutions are placed in juxtaposition, and the same comparison made between medical institutions. The miscellaneous institutions are assembled on a third sheet. These summary sheets show the minimum and maximum price paid during each month for similar supplies, and the separate minimum and maximum sheet shows the highest and lowest price paid by any institution during each month.

In addition to these monthly reports and summary sheets, you will find a summary of the high and low prices paid during each successive month in the year 1916, and the information contained in these reports is conclusive proof that the present system needs alteration.

An investigation of the institutions included also the productions by the various institutions, by first taking an inventory of the land connected with each institution, according to its division into garden, field crops, orchard, pasture, meadow, lawns, permanent woodland, pasture too rough, forest reservations, mountain land, recreation ground, parade land, athletic field, sewage disposal, lake ice supply, residential sites, and leveled for farming.

To get an idea of the value of crops produced, the superintendents were required to furnish a monthly report, during the summer season, showing the kind, quantity and value of the garden, field, and orchard crops raised during July, August, September and October, 1916. The report shows the following values:

July	$72,865.52
August	34,197.88
September	47,795.53
October	74,863.15
Making a total of	$229,722.08

To ascertain what use was made of the uncultivated land of these institutions, or of the latent energies of the inmates which did not seem to be used for agricultural production, it caused to be made an inventory of the livestock connected with the various institutions, which showed the number and value of cows, heifers, bulls, steers, oxen, hogs, pigs, spring pigs, brood sows and stags, rams, wethers, lambs, ewes, stallions, colts, ponies, ambulance horses, draft horses, driving horses, farm horses, garden horses, deer, mules, chicks, spring chickens, old chickens, hens, roosters, guineas, ducks, ducklings, geese and turkeys, connected with each institution. The appraisement by the superintendents showed the value of the livestock to be in round numbers a quarter of a million dollars. Most of it is blooded stock, but in many instances unregistered.

These statistics showed that the institutions were not only not getting the best possible returns from their natural resources, but that their maximum energies were not being put forward and that their lands were not being cultivated by the most scientific methods.

An examination of the summaries of production attached hereto will show that a large percentage of the total crops are being raised by the new Western Penitentiary at Bellefonte, and the remainder by the insane asylums. Neither the Reformatory at Huntingdon, the Industrial School at Morganza, nor the Soldiers' Orphan School at Scotland, is doing its proportionate share of this work; and we are inclined to think that the insane asylums now raising field and garden crops could double their output at a slight increase in labor if the work were carried on in a more scientific manner.

In December, 1916, the Superintendents of the several State institutions conferred with the Economy and Efficiency Commission in the Capitol at Harrisburg, relative to the best methods available for purchasing supplies, and attached hereto are the recommendations submitted by the Committee of Superintendents appointed after the meeting to consider the most practical method to adopt in order to bring about improvement.

Attached hereto as a part of this report is a summary showing a comparison of the average number of employes, the average monthly and the total annual salaries paid by each department for the years 1914 and 1916. And a summary of all persons holding more than one position under the State Government and the character and compensation of each; a summary of the reports issued by the several departments showing the date of the last report in circulation and the date when copy for the next report was received by the State Printer; also, a survey of the methods employed in other States for caring for temporarily disabled employes; also a summary of the amounts expended between June 1, 1914, and May 31, 1916, for advertising and the papers used in each instance by the several departments.

The following conclusions and recommendations, which have been condensed as much as possible, are all worthy of your careful consideration.

THE GOVERNOR.

The Constitution created the office of Governor, and in Section 2 of Article IV provided:

"The supreme executive power shall be vested in the Governor, who shall take care that the laws shall be faithfully executed."

It was never intended by the framers of this important instrument that the Governor should become an auditing officer, or that he should be hampered by so many exacting details as to interfere with the discharge of executive duties that concern all the people of the Commonwealth. From time to time the General Assembly has seen fit to make him as ex-officio member of many Boards and Commissions, as well as delegate to him the discharge of trifling duties that belong properly to a clerk in some department.

The Governor, for instance, is the Commander-in-Chief of the National Guard; President of the Livestock Sanitary Board; President of the State Board of Agriculture; Chairman of the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings; Trustree of the State Library and Museum; President of the Soldiers' Orphans' School Commission; President of the Armory Board; President of the College and University Council; a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania; President of the Board of Trustees of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home; a member of the Board to pass upon the necessity for underground and elevated passenger railways; Chairman of the General Meade Statue Commission; Chairman of the Economy and Efficiency Commission; a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Pittsburgh; and a member of the Board of Trustees of the Pennsylvania State College. He is also required to approve the expenditures of the Department of Health; to approve certain expenditures of the Department of Labor and Industry; to approve the expenditures of the Bureau of Chemistry of the Agricultural Department; to approve the expenditures of the Forestry Department; to approve the expenditures for construction of the new Western Penitentiary; to approve the expenditures for the National Guard; and to approve the purchase of State Normal Schools by the State Board of Education.

The public has no conception of the time required to discharge the duties imposed upon the Governor by reason of his connection with these various Boards and Commissions; and the public will never get the maximum benefit of the service of a Chief Executive who is required to bother with such vexatious details as his present duties impose. Many of these Boards and Commissions could either be abolished or centralized in some responsible department and there managed by the head of such department, or his proper deputy or Bureau Chief, they being responsible to the Governor, and thus to the people for such management, all of which would relieve the Governor of various duties, and give him more time to devote to the executive problems that are properly the duty of the Chief Executive.

Apropos the effort to give the Governor every possible chance to serve the people, it is well to mention the conflict that occurs every four years between the inauguration of a Governor and the convening of the General Assembly. The Governor is ushered into an office entirely new to him. The result is obvious. Two of the most important duties imposed upon the Governor by the Constitution are contained in Section II of Article IV, which reads as follows:

"Sec. 11. Messages to Legislature. He shall, from time to time, give to the General Assembly information of the State of the Commonwealth, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he may judge expedient."

And Sections 15 and 16 of Article IV, which reads as follows:

"Sec. 15. Approval of bills. Veto. Every bill which shall have passed both Houses shall be presented to the Governor; if he approve he shall sign it, but if he shall not approve he shall return it with his objections to the House in which it shall have originated, which House shall enter the objection at large upon their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of all the members elected to that House shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent with the objections to the other House by which likewise it shall be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of all the members elected to that House it shall be a law; but in such cases the votes of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the members voting for and against the bill shall be entered upon the journals of each House, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the Governor within ten days after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the General Assembly, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall be a law, unless he shall file the same with his objections, in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and give notice thereof by public proclamation within thirty days after such adjournment.

"Sec. 16. Partial disapproval of Appropriation Bills. The Governor shall have power to disapprove any item or items of any bill, making appropriations of money, embracing distinct items, and the part or parts of the bill approved shall be the law, and the item or items of appropriation disapproved shall be void, unless repassed according to the rules and limitations prescribed for the passage of other bills over the Executive veto."

It is apparent that no citizen, no matter what his qualifications, can perform the duties of this important office to the best interest of all people if he is not afforded the necessary time to properly acquaint himself with the duties and responsibilities of the office and of the needs of the various departments over which he is required to exercise control, and of the needs of the people generally, and this before he is called upon to approve or disapprove general laws relating to State Government, and the appropriations by which its activities are to be measured for the ensuing two years and five months of his term.

The following recommendations are offered for the careful thought of the people:

1. Legislation should be enacted relieving the Governor of auditing, examining and approving expenditures of the several departments.

2. Increase the salary of the Governor from $10,000.00 to $25,000.00 a year.

3. Amend the Constitution so that the next Governor elected shall serve for five years, and thus bring his successor into office in even numbered years, between the sessions of the General Assembly, or amend the Constitution so that the General Assembly in the future shall meet in the even numbered years instead of odd numbered years.

PUBLIC MONEYS.

The present system of collecting and disbursing the State's moneys is defective in many respects, and while recommendations are herein made for correcting these defects, attention is called to the fact that unless the Constitution be amended it will be possible, no matter what laws may be enacted by one session of the General Assembly for safeguarding these moneys, for a subsequent session of the General Assembly to so amend or repeal them as to practically nullify any beneficial result. As for example, the Act of May 11, 1909 (P. L. 519), entitled

"An Act making it a misdemeanor for any officer of this Commonwealth to authorize to be paid, or for the State Treasurer to pay, any money out of the State Treasury except in accordance with the provisions of an Act of Assembly specifying the amount and purpose of the expenditure, or for any officer of this Commonwealth to authorize to be paid, or for the State Treasurer to pay, any money out of the State Treasury in excess of the amount of such specific appropriation, and providing penalties for the violation thereof," when enacted was intended to prohibit for all time the payment of any moneys out of the State Treasury except under an Act of Assembly setting forth specifically the amount to be expended and the purpose of such expenditure.

This law, probably one of the best upon our statute books, was in effect set aside by Section 10 of the Act of July 7, 1913 (P. L. 672), which reads as follows:

"The moneys derived from registrations and from license fees under the provisions of this act shall be paid by the State Highway Department into the State Treasury for safekeeping; and shall by the State Treasurer be placed in a separate fund, to be available for the use of the State Highway Department upon requisition for the State Highway Commissioner. All such moneys hereafter paid into the State Treasury are hereby specifically appropriated to the State Highway Department, for the purpose of assisting in the construction, maintenance, improvement, and repair of State Highways and State aid Highways, as described in the act creating the State Highway Department, approved the thirty-first day of May, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and eleven. The Auditor General shall upon requisition from time to time, of the State Highway Commissioner, draw his warrant upon the State Treasurer for the amount specified in such requisition, not exceeding, however, the amount in such fund at the time of making such requisition."

The Supreme Court held that such an appropriation was constitutional, as the provisions of the Constitution were intended only to apply to biennial appropriations made by the Legislature of the general revenues of the Commonwealth, and that the Constitution had no application whatever to funds created for a special purpose and dedicated by the Act under which such fund was to be created for a particular use. The Court further decided that the appropriation of a fund so created continued as long as the act which dedicated it to the particular use remained in force.

With the possibilities under the present Constitution of creating special funds, of making continuing appropriations, and probably of making appropriations by using the language in Appropriation Acts which was customary prior to the passage of the Act of 1909, hereinabove referred to, it will be readily seen that as time rolls round it will be impossible for the fiscal officers of the Commonwealth to strike a trial balance.

No well-regulated business could possibly be operated under such a system. The Constitution should be so amended as to require all moneys collected by the Commonwealth, whether for fees, taxes, bonus or what not, to be paid into the general fund of the Treasury for the use of the State and that no money should be paid out except under an Act of the General Assembly limiting the life of such appropriation, setting forth specifically in dollars and cents the amount appropriated, and designating definitely the purpose of such expenditure.

A large part of the revenue of the Commonwealth is received from tax, fees and excises collected from corporations engaged in private business, and these are in a large measure fixed and determined by the prosperity of the private business.

For that reason the income or revenue of the State will never be a fixed sum, and can only be estimated in advance by means of recognized principles relating to all its sources. The acquisition of revenue cannot be regulated by law in the same manner, or with as much certainty, as its disbursement.

Briefly, the defects in the present system are:

1. Failure to centralize and thus make more definite responsibility for auditing, approving and settling public accounts.

2. Failure to restrict the appropriating of public money to limited times, specific sums and to particular purposes.

3. A willingness to establish special funds in the Treasury instead of increasing the general fund.
4. Failure to particularize, or strictly construe, the purpose for which items mentioned in the General Appropriation Bill are to be used.

Considering the present volume of business passing through his office, it would be a physical impossibility for the Auditor General personally to exercise half the duties imposed upon him by various Acts of Assembly. For instance, the Act of 1811, which established his office, and combined with it that of Comptroller General and Surveyor General, provided that he should settle all public accounts, which included debts owing to the Commonwealth as well as debts of the Commonwealth. This Act of Assembly, with its supplements and amendments, also provided that the State Treasurer should exercise co-ordinate jurisdiction or authority in the settling of all public accounts; and further provided that when these fiscal officers of the Commonwealth could not agree as to the proper settlement of an account, the same should be referred to the Governor, whose decision should be final, unless reversed by the courts.

This system may have been satisfactory at that time, for the duties of the Auditor General and State Treasurer were few in number. One or the other should be vested with these duties and each should have the duties necessarily arriving from the performance of the fundamental functions of his office. The Treasurer should have only the duties of receiving, safe-guarding and properly disbursing the funds of the Commonwealth, and if his duties were limited in this way with the present force each and every payment out of the funds of the Commonwealth could be made by separate check, drawn to the order of the person furnishing services, labor or material for the use of the Commonwealth. The Auditor General should have imposed upon him the duties of auditing all accounts of the Commonwealth as kept, not only in the office of the State Treasurer, but in the offices of the various Departments, Bureaus, Commissions, Boards of Trustees or other agencies of the State Government, and he should be vested with the power to prescribe and enforce a standardization of public accounting, and in every way be made the auditor of receipts, and the comptroller of disbursements of the Commonwealth.

In recent years, at least since the business of the Commonwealth assumed such large proportions, the Treasurer has had to depend almost entirely upon the Auditor General's Department for the auditing of accounts and the assessing of taxes. He has substantially limited his activities to the payment of the warrants of the Auditor General and a more or less formal approval of both the revenue and expenditure settlements as made in the office of the Auditor General and this is shown exclusively by the fact that though the Auditor General makes annually 55,000 revenue settlements and 10,325 expenditure settlements per year, not more than one in a thousand is held for discussion with the Auditor General and none has been formally returned for submission to the Governor for more than four years last past. If the laws of today are to be continued and the dual responsibility imposed upon the State Treasurer, that officer must be furnished with the same facilities for auditing as is the Auditor General.

The use of public accounts, or public moneys, raises a question of construction as to the proper use of similar appropriations by different Departments, particularly contingent funds. What a contingent fund may be used for has never been defined by Act of Assembly, but it is usually left to the discretion of the several departments, subject, of course, to subsequent approval by the Auditor General and State Treasurer.

Under the present conditions, most of the money required to administer the affairs of the State Government is paid out by the State Treasurer on the Warrant of the Auditor General; but even admitting that this practice prevails, there is still a sufficient amount paid out directly by Departments, and accounted for later, to merit attention and consideration. It is absurd to think that an office with the powers and duties of the Auditor General's should be expanded from time to time, if the frame work of a good system is to be hampered as to permit the expenditure of thousands of dollars annually for the payment of accounts that have not been audited. It would not be considered, much less tolerated, in the business world, and there is no good reason for its continuance in public office. It is recommended that a general contingency and incidental appropriation bill be passed containing an appropriation to a contingent fund required to be deposited in a separate depository, which shall be paid out only upon a voucher check drawn upon the said fund by the heads of the various Departments, Bureaus, Commissions or other branches of the State Government, to whom appropriations for this purpose is made, and require that the check, before payment, be audited and countersigned by the Auditor General or a responsible deputy. That the language of an appropriating clause be, as nearly as possible, broad enough to cover any foreseen contingency in any department and the amount allowed to each department, etc., shown in separate paragraphs alphabetically arranged, and the power or authority of the head of such Department, etc., to draw checks upon the said fund be limited to the amount therein appropriated.

In addition to the undefined contingent funds mentioned, there is still another objectionable feature slowly but surely creeping into our revenue system. This is the enactment from time to time of acts of assembly such as the one cited in the first part of this chapter, dedicating certain revenues to certain uses.

Some of the special funds not available for general appropriations are: The School Fund, the Sinking Fund, Game Protection and Propagation Fund, Bounty Fund, Insurance Fund, Manufacturing Fund from Prison Labor, and Motor License Fund.

Such procedure was intended to be prohibited by the Act of Assembly approved May 11, 1909, P. L. 519, above cited.

In the interest of good business management, no public money should be paid out of the public treasury except under the terms of an Act of Assembly setting forth a specific sum and limiting its use to a specific purpose, within a definite time.

To the end that public moneys may be safeguarded, that the transaction of public business may be duly expedited, and that all State officials may confine their time and attention to the specific duties of their respective offices, the following recommendations are offered:

1. Amend the Constitution so that no money be paid out of the State Treasury except under the terms of an Act of Assembly appropriating a specific sum for a specific purpose, and confining its use to a specific period. This will prevent the use of riders on appropriation bills providing "and any unexpended balances of previous appropriations." Unexpended balances should not be specifically set aside for all time after their appropriation. If not used during a specific appropriation period, they should revert to the general fund of the State Treasury.

2. Amend the Constitution so as to prohibit dedicating or earmarking revenues from certain sources and thus limiting them to specific uses. At the present rate of creation the day is not far distant when the special funds in the State Treasury will equal if not surpass the general funds.

The method suggested for contingent funds should be applied to the payment of rent for offices outside the Capitol, for it was unquestionably the intent of the Act approved June 7, 1911 (P. L. 700), that all offices required outside the Capitol Building should be rented and paid for by the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings. The rent for some offices now being used by departments is paid from contingent or other special funds.

AUDITOR GENERAL.

The Auditor General's Department stands in close relationship to every other department of the State Government. It audits, supervises, and to an extent controls the financial affairs of all other Departments. While the State Treasurer exercises co-ordinate jurisdiction with the Auditor General in settling public accounts, the account must first be approved by the Auditor General before it is even submitted to the State Treasurer, and in the same manner requisitions for advances on appropriations must be approved by the Auditor General before his warrant which is an order to pay, is issued on the State Treasurer. For this reason, this Department must expand in the same ratio as the business of the Commonwealth, and must at all times be competent to manage the fiscal affairs of the Commonwealth in an efficient manner. To curtail expenses at this point is making it possible some place else.

The ramifications of the fiscal affairs of the Commonwealth are now so great that it requires a large corps of clerks to properly audit, examine and settle such affairs. In addition to supervising these duties, the Auditor General exercises jointly with the State Treasurer the important function of levying, assessing and collecting State taxes.

When it is considered that more than fifty per cent. of the revenue of the Commonwealth is derived from corporation taxes, it is easy to see the importance of having this work dispatched by efficient clerks. Laxity or incompetency in this division of the Department would have a serious effect upon the State's revenue.

While the State Treasury, under the Act of 1811, with its supplements and amendments is supposed to exercise co-ordinate jurisdiction with the Auditor General in the settling of these as well as many other public accounts, his force is entirely inadequate to make the careful investigations that it is possible for the Auditor General to make by reason of his large force.

The Auditor General might well be described as the State Auditor, the State Comptroller, and the State Tax Collector, for he possesses the powers and exercises the functions of all three such officers. Whether the centralization of all these duties in one office is good practice, cannot be answered without serious consideration. From time to time the creation of a Board to levy, assess and collect taxes his been suggested, but the plan has never been sufficiently popular to bring about legislation.

In addition to performing these duties, the Auditor General is a member of the Board of Agriculture; a member of the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings; a member of the Military Board; a member of the Sinking Fund Commission; a member of the Board of Public Accounts; a member of the Economy and Efficiency Commission; a member of the Commission to Provide Joint Acquisition of Certain Toll Bridges Over the Delaware River; and a member of the Commission on Soldiers' and Sailors' Home.

A discussion of this Department would be incomplete without reference to the Bureau of Accounts and Expenditures which audits all expenditure settlements and through its book-keeping division keeps all the accounts of the Commonwealth, whether of revenues or disbursements. The Bureau consists of one chief, an assistant chief, one warrant clerk, one statistician, one assistant statistician and five audit clerks, together with eight traveling auditors, and the book-keeping division, consisting of a chief book-keeper, one assistant chief and two book-keepers. But the Auditor General is authorized to transfer from the general office force to this Bureau such other clerks as may be necessary and, as a matter of fact, at least five other employees of the Department devote all of their time to this bureau throughout the entire year; for the filing of correspondence and all other work of the department, except actual auditing, is handled by the general office force, and the time of the Deputy Auditor General is almost exclusively devoted to this Bureau.

It is recommended that an additional Deputy Auditor General at a salary of $5,000 be appointed; a contingent fund clerk at a salary of $2,400 per annum; and that the force of audit clerks be increased by four and that their salary be made $1,800 per annum; and that the force of traveling auditors be increased by four. One of the traveling auditors to be a chief at a salary of $2,500 per annum. Also that the time of the additional Assistant Deputy Auditor General be exclusively devoted to the expenditures and bookkeeping of the Commonwealth. In addition, this Bureau should be charged with the duty of standardizing the accounts of public institutions, as well as those of the various Departments, etc., of the State Government.

In the chapter devoted to State Institutions, attention is called to the dissimilarity of accounting, bookkeeping and recording systems in operation throughout the Commonwealth; these same dissimilarities apply to departments. While it is true that the principal bookkeeping and the auditing and settling of accounts must be carried on in the Auditor General's office, it is equally true that every Department should have an accurate record in its office at all times of its financial affairs. The Department records need not go into the detail required in the Auditor General's and State Treasurer's offices, but it is inexcusable for any Department to continue to carry on its affairs from day to day without having intimate knowledge of the condition of its several appropriations. Such office records, while of a simple character, should be uniform.

In the case of State Institutions, such records are entirely different. They are so far removed from the seat of Government that they must of necessity keep their records in detail, and because they are units of the same system their systems should be uniform. From time to time it is important to make comparisons between these institutions, but under present conditions this is impossible. The importance of installing a uniform system is apparent, and if the Division of Accounts in the Auditor General's Department is increased and improved as recommended herein, this force will be competent to make the changes necessary to bring about uniformity.

When it is considered that this Bureau acts for the Auditor General in safeguarding the expenditure of all State moneys, it seems advisable for the State to provide for herself the best system and the most efficient clerks. Low salaries in this respect are false economy. In another Department of the State Government through which the State exercises surveilance overs the affairs of public service companies the Chief Accountant receives nearly twice the salary of the Chief of the Division in the Auditor General's Office. If it is essential that the Commonwealth provide expert service when outside interests are concerned, it is of equal importance that she take the same precautions when public money is concerned.

The cost last year of maintaining the Auditor General's Department was $183,772.85. In order to give the State adequate protection at the proper place, instead of continuing our present policy of saving at the spigot and losing at the bunghole, the following recommendations are offered:

1. Relieve the Auditor General of the discharge of unnecessary duties that devolve upon him by reason of his membership in certain Boards and Commissions.
2. Provide an additional Deputy Auditor General to have charge of the Bureau of Accounts and Expenditures and its bookkeeping section, at a salary of $5,000 per annum.
3. Provide four additional audit clerks and increase their pay to $1,800 per annum.
4. Increase the number of traveling auditors to twelve and make one of them a chief traveling auditor at a salary of $2,500 per annum, in order that the State may be constantly in touch with all institutions through which her money is expended.
5. Provide a contingent fund clerk at a salary of $2,400 per annum.

STATE TREASURER.

All moneys expended by the Commonwealth for every purpose whatsoever, must be paid by the State Treasurer either in cash or by check over his signature. All payments should be made by check over the signature of the State Treasurer drawn to the order of the ultimate payee, that is, the person rendering the service or furnishing the materials for the account of the Commonwealth, and these checks should be drawn upon warrant of the Auditor General based upon a direct requisition from the officer having the power to authorize, and having authorized the employment of the payee or the contract for the materials furnished. If this were done it would require the services of practically the present office force of the State Treasurer and the expenditure would be amply justified for the money saved to the Commonwealth by this method of disbursement of its funds.

The experience of the Auditor General's Department is that services cost less when they are paid for directly by the Commonwealth's check and that the management of any specific activity of the State Government is more economical when the expenditures must be audited before payment is made.

This recommendation is made, of course, to apply to expenditures in general and should harmonize with the recommendation heretofore made in regard to contingent fund expenditures.

Whether settling public accounts was intended to mean approving the action of the Auditor General, or duplicating the work performed by the Auditor General, I am unable to say. It is a fact, however, that the State Treasurer, being held jointly responsible for the settling of such accounts, has done everything possible to protect himself, rather than depend entirely upon a separate and distinct Department, over which he exercises no jurisdiction.

The State Treasurer is a member of the Board of Public Accounts; a member of the State Workmen's Insurance Board; a member of the Board of Revenue Commissioners; a member of the Sinking Fund Commission; a member of the Military Board; a member of the Commission on Soldiers' and Sailors' Home; a member of the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings; a member of the Board to License Private Bankers; and a member of the Commission to provide Joint Acquisition of Certain Toll Bridges over the Delaware River.

It is recommended that ultimately the office of State Treasurer should be limited to the duties of receiving, safeguarding and disbursing the public funds, and that other duties which are substantially ex-officio should be transferred or abolished. So long, however, as the present system is in vogue, to further facilitate the work of this important department, it would be necessary to increase the number of the clerical force, and to this end it is recommended that a Contingent Fund Clerk be created at a salary of $2,400 per annum, that the general clerical force be increased by four clerks at $1,500 per annum and two stenographers at $1,200 per annum.

BOARD OF PUBLIC FINANCE.

There are four separate and distinct Boards now dealing with the revenue and public accounts of this Commonwealth.

They are the Board of Public Accounts, consisting of the Auditor General, State Treasurer and Attorney General; the Board of Revenue Commissioners, consisting of the Auditor General, State Treasurer, Secretary of the Commonwealth and the Commissioner of Banking; the Sinking Fund Commission, consisting of the Auditor General, State Treasurer and Secretary of the Commonwealth, and in addition the Sinking Fund Commission is charged with the duty of managing the State Insurance Fund and investing and reinvesting the same.

While the duties of these four Boards are not identical, they are similar, and one Board properly organized and equipped with a clerical force could transact the business of all four Boards more efficiently and with greater dispatch than four separate Boards. It is impossible for these Boards to meet when they should and not conflict with the special duties of the officials who compose them.

It is therefore recommended that a Board of Public Finance to consist of the Auditor General, State Treasurer, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Attorney General and Commissioner of Banking be created, and that all duties now discharged by the Board of Public Accounts, the Board of Revenue Commissioners, the Sinking Fund Commission, and the Board to License Private Bankers be transferred to this new Board; and it be given the duty of investing and reinvesting the State Insurance Fund, the State School Fund and the State Workmen's Insurance Fund, the management of the Departments or Boards to be left, however, as now provided by law.

BUDGET SYSTEM.

Much has been said and written about the budget systems, but the definition of such a system usually narrows down to a matter of personal opinion. We have heard of locked budgets, which are as binding as an appropriation to a Department or Division, and elastic budgets which are binding but permit the transfer, under certain conditions, of items from one usage to another. These different systems all have their advantages; but the last two mentioned are not compatible with our present Constitution, and, therefore, cannot be considered.

No direct effort has been made in Pennsylvania to establish a budget system. The nearest approaches are Section 10 of Article IV of the Constitution, which reads as follows:

"Sec. 10. Information from Department Officials. He may require information in writing from the officers of the Executive Department, upon any subject relating to their respective offices."

And Section 11 of Article IV of the Constitution, which reads as follows:

"Sec. 11. Messages to Legislature. He shall, from time to time, give the General Assembly information of the state of the Commonwealth, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he may judge expedient."

And an Act approved March 16, 1832 (P. L. 154), entitled:

"An Act requiring the State Treasurer to make annual report on the subject of finance."

If the officials above mentioned could exercise jointly the duties delegated to them, it would produce a sort of a budget. But the proper way to install a budget system is to make it the duty of some particular person or Board to do the work. It is impossible to bind the General Assembly by a recommendation from either of the other two Branches of the State Government; but at the same time it would be of considerable assistance to the General Assembly if more detailed information concerning expenditures and estimated needs were furnished to the General Assembly when it convenes, rather than just in time to prepare the General Appropriation Bill. Such information as is required for this purpose is accessible at all times in the year.

And a Commission to consist of the Governor, the Chairman of the Appropriation Committee of the Senate of the preceding Session and the Chairman of the Appropriation Committee of the House of Representatives of the preceding Session, the Attorney General and the Auditor General, should be created for this purpose. The Attorney General and the Auditor General should be empowered to sit either in person or by deputy; the Governor should have authority to appoint in his stead one person as a Budget Commissioner and should further have the power to fill the vacancy, from the members of the Senate or House of Representatives, caused by the death or incapacity of either of the members representing the General Assembly. This Board would thus be composed of the Governor, and the Chairmen of the Appropriation Committees of the House of Representatives and the Senate, representing the law-making power, have the service of the Auditor General and his facilities for information and counsel, and advice of the Attorney General as to the legality of its Acts. This Board should prepare and submit to the General Assembly, not later than January 1st of every odd-numbered year, a report showing in detail the amounts previously appropriated to the various Departments, etc., and the purposes for which they were intended.

Second—The amount expended from such appropriations during the first eighteen months of the appropriation period.

Third—The estimated needs of the Departments, Bureaus, Commissions and other Branches of State Government, during the next appropriation period, divided into:

a. Amounts necessary to maintain the standard of service theretofore provided.
b. Amounts requested for improvements or extensions of the service.

This would place the responsibility for compiling data with a Board with facilities for doing it, and would place before the Governor in concrete form all data necessary for his information. His recommendation of amounts to be appropriated would reach the General Assembly shortly after it convened, and in ample time for due and proper consideration. It would also be notice to the Departments of what they could expect in the way of appropriations, and it would prevent the waste of valuable time now spent lobbying in the interest of increased appropriations. Such a report would give the press and the public information to which they are entitled.

Recommendations for appropriations to charitable institutions, now made biennially by the State Board of Charities, should first be submitted to this Board for its approval and not be published or transmitted to the General Assembly, except as a part of the report hereinabove provided for.

STATUTORY POSITIONS.

The practice of creating positions by inserting an item in the General Appropriation Bill was, in my mind, never contemplated by the framers of the Constitution, and should be frowned upon. It would appear that the time has come when a halt should be made to this custom.

The Acts of Assembly creating most of the Departments specify the number of positions, the salaries for the same and their general and detailed duties. There are instances, particularly laws enacted by recent General Assemblies, where the creation of positions has been left to the discretion of a Commissioner or a Commission. This is true of the Public Service Commission and of the State Health Department, the only restriction in both instances being the amount of the appropriations.

In general these acts are not commendable but are justifiable when a Department is in process of organization or reorganization under the control and management of a reliable head so long as the Department or Bureau is in a formative stage. But the activities and enthusiasm of the Department or Bureau head should be subject to check of some responsible officer acquainted with the possible revenues of the Commonwealth, the relative costs of government in other States for similar purposes, and it is therefore recommended that in the case of such lump sum appropriations, the creation of new positions thereunder should not be valid for a period later than six months without the approval of the Budget Commissioner hereinbefore recommended.

It is perfectly true that if a position is created by an Act of Assembly, and the legislature fail to file an appropriation for that position, that position will in all likelihood remain unfilled. But the position is not abolished by the failure to appropriate money. It is not denied for one instant that there are occasions when a Department needs extra clerical or stenographic help for a limited period. But if so-called temporary position must be filled for a greater period than six months it should be subject to the approval of some other authority than the head of the Department or Bureau who is liable to be over-enthusiastic as to service and insufficiently advised as to revenue, or the increasing burdens of government.

There have been instances where these positions were created from session to session because the heads of several departments were reluctant to be criticized for creating positions or increasing salaries. This should not be their point of view. They owe a duty to the public to see that the affairs of their respective Departments are properly administered, and to the employes they owe a duty to see that proper and sufficient clerical assistance is provided.

This special clerical fund provides possibilities for another evil, to wit—increasing a salary established by Act of Assembly. Vouchers are frequently filed in the Auditor General's office which show an expenditure for extra clerical services performed by a clerk whose salary is fixed by Act of Assembly. This is a vicious practice, if not an unlawful one, and it should be discontinued. At present there are approximately four thousand positions connected with the several Departments of the State Government. Only half of these were created by Act of Assembly.

It is therefore recommended that legislation be enacted providing that no position shall exist in any Department of the State Government in the future for more than a period of six months, unless the same shall have the approval of the Budget Commissioner, who shall report his action to the next General Assembly as a part of the report of the Budget Board.

EQUALIZATION OF SALARIES.

During the past quarter of a century considerably more attention has been paid in this Commonwealth to the creation of new positions in the Departments than to the proper compensation of established positions. Most salaries are the same to-day as when they were established. There are various reasons for this condition, one—and perhaps the most important, is the fact that growing departments were more interested in providing additional positions to take care of new duties than they were in compensating employes for extra services. A majority of the positions are well compensated, but many others are not.

The title of the position should not be the standard or measure for payment. The compensation should be commensurate with the duties performed and the responsibilities imposed. An examination of the analytical classification chart prepared by the Solicitor as a part of the Report shows the salary paid for every position in every Department, and at the same time shows the difference in salaries paid by the several Departments for positions with similar names.

It is manifestly unfair for a rich Commonwealth to treat her employees penuriously. It neither encourages loyalty nor inspires maximum effort. The State employes in the main give the State a substantial return for every dollar received. If the reorganizations and consolidations recommended herein are carried out, a great many positions will be found unnecessary and duplication of work eliminated. But even that reform will not put many salaries where they belong.

It is therefore recommended that you carefully consider the advisability of having the Budget Commission make a report equalizing such salaries as are now out of proportion to the duties described and performed; but we do not wish this to be interpreted as a recommendation for a general increase of all State salaries.

SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH.

The Department of the Secretary of the Commonwealth is an example for the need of equalization of salaries, to the end that the employes thereof may receive the same compensation as is paid to the employees in other Departments of the State Government rendering like services.

The Secretary of the Commonwealth is required to keep a record of all official acts and proceedings of the Governor. He is charged with the custody of the Great Seal of the State, and in a general way, exercises ministerial jurisdiction over all charters issued by the Governor. He is a member of the Board of Pardons. The work relating to the filing of nomination papers for the nomination and election of officials to fill the State offices is practically all transacted in the office of the Department of State. All corporate creations, which includes mergers and consolidations, increase of capital stock and indebtedness, are recorded in this office. The commissions issued to the various officials throughout the Commonwealth, occupying State offices, are prepared under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of the State.

No general reorganization of the force of this office has taken place since 1874. As a result several of the most valued employees have resigned to accept positions elsewhere at greatly increased compensation.

INCAPACITATED EMPLOYEES.

An Act of Assembly approved June 14, 1915 (P. L. 973), provides that all State employees who have served continuously for twenty-five years, or who have served continuously for twenty years and have reached the age of seventy, shall be eligible for retirement on half pay. The terms of this Act are stricter than those of Acts dealing with similar subjects in the municipalities, and it is thought that in justice to State employees the present Act should be amended.

It is therefore recommended that the Act of 1915 be amended so that any employee who shall have served continuously for twenty-five years, or who shall have served continuously for twenty years, and reached the age of sixty, shall be eligible for retirement.

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

To properly administer the affairs of a Commonwealth the size of Pennsylvania, which expends approximately from thirty to thirty-five million dollars a year, the time has come when it is absolutely necessary for the centralization of many of the functions of Government now being performed by separate Departments, Boards or Commissions into one Department of the State Government, the powers and responsibilities of which should be clearly defined and fixed; and especially is this desirable because of Pennsylvania's industrial supremacy, and the fact that the population, which is now nine millions, at the present rate of growth will be eighteen to twenty millions in 1915.

The planning of great public works upon a comprehensive scale should be commenced without delay, for the reason that every year that such comprehensive planning is postponed, the cost of the works is greatly increased, and in many cases is made prohibitive because of the erection of buildings, the placing of obstructions in our rivers and streams, and the building of railroads; all of which could be accomplished without interfering with the proper development of the State and its industries if undertaken under proper supervision.

Such a Board would also have exclusive charge of all State property from its purchase to its sale or demolition, and would take over the functions of the present Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings, whose control is confined almost exclusively to the Capitol Building in Harrisburg, and whose purchases are restricted to the needs of the several Departments of the State Government, and does not include the purchases made by the various State institutions.

There are not less than a dozen Boards and Commissions now performing duties that should be performed by a Board of Public Works. They all spend public money for similar purposes, and they all operate through as many different channels and in as many different ways as there are Boards and Commissions. This is unbusinesslike and wasteful.

Pennsylvania should spend her money in the most economical manner, under careful supervision; identical duties, resulting in conflict of authority and duplication of work, should not be discharged by different bodies; the purchase of similar articles at dissimilar prices should be discouraged; standards should be established for staple supplies; purchases should be made in accordance with the best possible methods, and no efforts nor money should be spared in providing the dependent wards of the State with the best possible maintenance and care.

Section 12 of Article III of the Constitution, which reads as follows:

"All stationery, printing, paper and fuel used in the legislative and other departments of government shall be furnished, and the printing, binding and distributing of the laws, journals, department reports, and all the other printing and binding, and the repairing and furnishing the halls and rooms used for the meetings of the General Assembly and its committees, shall be performed under contract to be given to the lowest responsible bidder below such maximum price and under such regulations as shall be prescribed by law; no member or officer of any department of the government shall be in any way interested in such contracts, and all such contracts shall be subject to the approval of the Governor, Auditor General and State Treasurer"— is the controlling factor so far as supplies are concerned, and should be either liberally construed to include everything or amended so as to remove all doubt.

There is no question but that this section of the Constitution applies to the State institutions, and that their supplies for furnishings, equipment and maintenance should be purchased in the same manner as are most of the supplies for the several departments.

It is the custom for the General Assembly to authorize the appointment of a Commission with authority to select a site and erect buildings for a particular purpose,—in most instances an insane asylum or a medical hospital. Part of the system consists of the Building Commission subsequently turning over a completed institution to a Board of Trustees appointed by the Governor. In some instances some members of the Building Commission become Trustees, but there is no assurance when the builders are appointed that they will subsequently be Trustees or Managers of the institution that they are appointed to establish and erect. Consequently they do not have the same interest in such work as they would have if they knew in advance that they would be charged with the administration as well as the erection of the particular institution.

There have been times in the past when six or more Building Commissions were supervising public work of this kind simultaneously in as many different parts of the State. At present there are four Commissions of this character, erecting four different State institutions, and there is a possibility that the present General Assembly will create additional similar bodies. A Building Commission, like any other body, conducts its own affairs in its own fashion, and frequently in a manner entirely different from every other contemporary commission. Individuality above everything else characterizes the work carried on by these Building Commissions. Private and competing enterprises are more closely related than these separate Commissions carrying on public business. Their only restriction is the size of their appropriation, and only recently, one such returned to the State Treasury, $———— of a balance of an appropriation made to it in 1901.

Such a state of affairs requires no comment. It is absurd on its own face, and is not even a good piecework system, where a premium is placed upon individual effort. The history of every Commission of this character shows that a few members have dominated affairs and have dictated policies.

Instead of this system the State should supervise all such work through a central body properly equipped to give the State the largest possible return for the expenditure of every dollar of public money.

The Board of Public Works should have not only supervision over the Capitol Building but exclusive supervision over all other State buildings. Their duties should not cease when a completed institution is turned over to the Board of Trustees or Managers, as present Building Commissions do, but they should have under surveillance all such buildings, so that the institution may have the benefit of expert advice. Needed improvements, alterations and repairs should be anticipated, for maintenance is a most important factor in the proper management of all property.

The State had better be charged with over-indulgence in the care of her dependent wards than be indicted for miserly treatment. The wards of the State should not only be well kept, but they should be well housed, and the proper way to do this is to have their accommodations and sustenance constantly supervised by a central and impartial body. Independent management of the institutions has many advantages, but improvements and maintenance from a structural viewpoint should be handled by experts. Experience has taught us that the demand for such institutions is constantly growing, not decreasing.

It is therefore recommended that there be created a Board of Public Works to consist of the Governor, Auditor General, State Treasurer, Budget Commission, and one Superintendent of Public Works to be appointed by the Governor.

Give to this Board of Public Works complete supervision over the purchase, erection, equipping, maintenance and rental of property, offices, etc., for the use of the State the purchase of all supplies for all the Departments; the purchase of all furnishings and equipment for all State institutions; and supervision and control over the co-operative purchase of foodstuffs by the State institutions. Thus giving it substantially all the power of the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings, and all Commissions for the purchase of land, erections, buildings, maintenance, etc., and authorizing it to employ such architects, engineers, mechanical draughtsmen, mechanics, etc., as may be necessary to carry out the work of the Department.

WATERWAYS.

The establishment of a Board of Public Works, heretofore referred to in this report, would probably do as much if not more toward putting the business affairs of the State upon an economic and efficient basis than the creation and continuance of a dozen Economy and Efficiency Commissions. Such a Board would, directly or indirectly, supervise and see to it that the harbor facilities in the eastern part of the State, at Philadelphia, were so improved as to make them at least upon par with those offered by the City of New York; also that the harbor facilities in the western part of the State, at Pittsburgh, would be improved by reason of the elevation of bridges, dredging and the expenditure of the necessary moneys by the Federal Government in co-operation with the State of Pennsylvania so that the congested conditions in that district would be relieved by shipment over the waters of the river there; also that dams would be erected for the purpose of flood prevention, and assist through its engineering experts and force in the establishment of stream lines beyond which encroachments would be absolutely prohibited, and generally to improve the river systems of the State.

With such a Board the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania would well incur a bond issue of at least one hundred million dollars for the undertaking of these works, which of course, should include road improvement and maintenance.

After considerable investigation it is believed that such a procedure would be good business, as the Commonwealth could in a period of ten years, with the expenditure of one hundred million dollars, accomplish more than could possibly be accomplished under the present piecemeal system in a century, with an expenditure of five hundred million dollars.

The channels of commerce or the avenue to the markets of Pennsylvania are her railroads, highways and waterways. The first system can be regulated but not managed. The second and third, namely, highways and waterways, are natural advantages, capable of development as the State desires. The demand for good highways has been so great of late that it has become a popular clamor, and during the last half dozen years the State has really awakened to the needs of her citizens. Of equal importance, but not yet recognized, is the demand for improved waterways, because of the greatly reduced rates for transportation over such routes.

Pennsylvania has not embraced the advantages offered her by reason of her wealth of natural resources and geographic position. In the east she has waterways and advantages for commercial purposes unsurpassed by any State in the United States. In the west she has a natural outlet to the Mississippi Valley through the Ohio River and its tributaries. In the northwest she has a very important and prosperous city fronting on one of the Great Lakes of this continent, and affording wonderful commercial possibilities by reason of its being a gateway to Canada and the St. Lawrence River. Consideration of the Susquehanna River, tapping the wealth of Central Pennsylvania, has been confined to romance and speculation, rather than serious action. Whether it could be made navigable has never been seriously considered, for the State has shown such an indisposition to improve her greater natural resources in the east and west that those interested in her central advantages have wasted no effort seeking improvements. Thus it becomes apparent that encroachments are not properly guarded against nor natural resources economically and commercially developed.

The uninformed usually takes the position that the Port of Philadelphia, which is Pennsylvania's gateway to the Atlantic Ocean, is too far removed from the mouth of the Delaware River to ever become a great seaport. This position is untenable, for it is contradicted by the success of every great seaport in the world. In Europe most of the prosperous ports are located at the heads of navigable rivers. They are thus brought nearer to the centers of population, and serve better as an outlet for commerce. Hamburg, for instance, is fifty miles from the mouth of the river Elbe, which originally was shallow, narrow, tortuous and incomparable with the Delaware River in any respect. London is sixty miles from the mouth of the Thames River. Liverpool is fifteen miles from the mouth of the Mersey River. Antwerp is sixty miles from the mouth of the Scheldt. In the United States our most prosperous seaports are comparatively inland, Baltimore, for instance, being one hundred and fifty miles from the Capes of the Chesapeake, where the pilots board incoming vessels. New Orleans is ninety-six miles from the mouth of the Mississippi; New York is twenty-five miles from the beginning of her buoyed channel, and Boston is eight miles from the Atlantic Ocean.

Inward and outward bound vessels require the services of pilots on the Delaware, but the rates for this service are uniform with rates of other ports; and in view of the present Chief Executive's action in vetoing the bill increasing them in 1915, there is little likelihood that they will be raised in the near future.

There is a commodious tidal estuary extending thirty-five miles from the Atlantic Ocean to the Delaware River ship channel, which starts fifty-three miles below Market Street, Philadelphia. The channel varies from six hundred to one thousand feet in width, and is thirty feet deep at low tide. The fluuctuation of the tidal level is felt thirty-three miles above Philadelphia, and the variation is from four to six feet between high and low water. The river provides a fresh water channel for a distance of thirty miles below Philadelphia, which is an advantage which no other port in the United States of any size can boast. In fact, Philadelphia is the only Atlantic coast port on fresh water.

At the Delaware capes there is one of the safest harbors in the world. It is the most important and best safety harbor on the Atlantic Coast. It is situated at the mouth of the bay, and midway between New York and Baltimore, in the direct track of commerce-laden steamers plying between the Northern and Southern States. It is known throughout the world as the Delaware Breakwater Safety Harbor. This refuge has a protected anchorage area of five hundred and fifty acres, with a minimum low water of thirty feet, and an additional area of two hundred and thirty-seven acres, with a minimum low water of twenty-four feet.

These are advantages which cannot be overlooked, and should be embraced. Philadelphia has less than three hundred wharves, half of which are projecting piers. Part of these wharves and improved bulkheads are located on the Schuylkill River, and the water frontage of Philadelphia boasts of three national trunk line railroads, which possess well-equipped marine terminals where large ships can dock, load and unload, while enjoying free wharfage, and are not required to use lighters or transfer their cargoes by floats. These railroad advantages are supplemented by the Philadelphia Belt Line Railroad, a quasi-public corporation, which can give service from or to any of the other lines. This provides an easy and economic transfer of freight from the railroad wharves.

Philadelphia's water frontage on the Delaware and Schuylkill comprises thirty-seven miles, but the principal activities are confined to six miles. Strange as it may seem, nearly fifty per cent. of the gross export tonnage originates on the Schuylkill River, owing to the enormous oil shipments from that locality. The total berthing space at the wharves in Philadelphia aggregates less than one hundred and seventy thousand feet, of which less than forty thousand are used for heavy draught vessels.

A few miles above the river the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company Canal discharges its cargoes, gathered from the industrial and coal regions of the State. Above this the Delaware and Raritan Canal provides tonnage from New York and New Jersey. The river with its vast resources might be said to tap the manufacturing and producing industries of the Eastern United States.

At the present time the banks of the Delaware are a beehive of industry. Millions of dollars are being expended weekly by the various shipyards on the employment of skilled and unskilled labor and for the materials entering into the construction of new ships, which when completed will serve to help maintain our American Mercantile Marine.

There are under construction or contracted for at the present time, one hundred and seven vessels with a gross tonnage of 587,910 tons, the approximate value of which will exceed sixty million dollars.

During the calendar year of 1916, Philadelphia's foreign commerce broke all previous records, her imports amounting in value to $111,407,851, while merchandise to the value of $321,044,815 was exported.

As indicative of the increased importance of the Port of Philadelphia, the import and export values for ten-year periods, from 866, are here quoted:

	Imports.	Exports.
1866	$ 7,331,261.	$ 17,687,716.
1876	21,000,000.	59,539,450.
1886	37,997,005.	33,607,386.
1896	39,807,278.	42,431,100.
1906	72,137,678.	88,276,315.
1916	111,407,851.	321,044,815.

From the Port of Philadelphia are shipped annually to foreign ports approximately from fifty to sixty million bushels of grain, and in this industry, the port ranks from second to third in importance in the United States.

There were also shipped from the Port of Philadelphia during last year to foreign ports approximately three hundred million gallons of oil.

Within the twelve months of 1916 there arrived here five thousand, one hundred and seventy vessels, the gross tonnage of which totaled 9,315,964 tons. Of this number, three thousand, six hundred and thirty-two came from domestic ports, their gross tonnage amounting to 4,287,495 tons. From two hundred million to three hundred million feet of lumber enter the Port of Philadelphia annually.

In addition, the Philadelphia Navy Yard is located at the junction of the Delaware and Schuylkill Rivers, and has facilities for anchoring half the American fleet. It provides a fresh water harbor, of which no other navy yard in the United States can boast. It is right in touch with the industrial centre of the United States, and enjoys these advantages in the construction and repair of naval vessels.

The advantages enjoyed by Philadelphia on the Delaware River are so numerous that exploiting them only emphasizes the neglect of the Commonwealth in not improving them in the past. For improving and maintaining the Harbor of Philadelphia between 1890 and 1914, the combined City, State and Federal appropriations totaled $17,000,203.00. The smallest amount collected during the past ten years was $16,726,706.60 in 1908, and this is $457,257.89 more than the total Federal appropriation from 1802 to the present, for dredging the Delaware.

What has been said of Philadelphia in the way of needed improvements can be said of Pittsburgh and Erie. Every dollar expended in this direction will be returned a hundred-fold in the future. The present generation owes a debt to future generations that it cannot overlook. Nature has given us natural advantages that could not be purchased by the outlay of millions of dollars. To continue to disregard the development of these natural resources is gross neglect. The time has come when the State must do something, or suffer the consequences.

It will require a vast outlay of money to bring about the necessary improvements, for they cannot be accomplished by piecemeal, hit-or-miss, crazy-quilt, methods. The State's ports needs wharves and warehouses provided with the best mechanical trans-shipping equipment. The State needs dry-dock accommodations, and the channels are in constant need of dredging to keep them clear for heavy draught vessels. She needs improved bulkheads, additional wharves and docks.

It is therefore recommended there be created a Board which might after careful study and the employment of experts, adopt a comprehensive scheme to improve the port facilities of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Erie, by building the necessary wharves, docks and warehouses, providing the best mechanical equipment that can be secured for trans-shipping use; improve belt line railways that have connections with wharves, warehouses and railroad terminals, and maintain ship channels of sufficient depth to accommodate the commerce peculiar to these important Pennsylvania cities, which will be a great stride toward the advancement of the Commonwealth, and to prepare the Commonwealth's people and industries for the industrial struggle upon the cessation of what is substantially a world war, and furthermore will be a great stride toward providing for the common defense in the event of future wars, which, clearly to be seen, become ultimately a struggle dependent upon natural resources, machinery and transportation facilities as much as upon man power.

To provide a Board such as recommended, which may, either in conjunction with the Federal authorities, or acting for the State alone, but always in co-operation with the Federal authorities, plan and oversee the construction of these vast public improvements, cannot help but tend to keep the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to the forefront in manufacturing and commerce, and provide not only better wages and better places to work, but better places to reside in these cities, and whose labor has so far achieved this result without any great and well-directed assistance from, or signal effort upon the part of the Government of the State.

INLAND WATERS.

The work performed by the Water Supply Commission of the State in formulating a comprehensive policy for administering the control and use of Pennsylvania streams, which includes the supervision over the construction and maintenance of dams and over all obstructions placed in, along over or across any of the streams of the State; the passing upon all applications for water and water power corporations; the issuing of flood warnings, and the compilation and publication of hydrographic data, is far-reaching and probably as important as that performed by any other Department of the State Government.

The population of Pennsylvania is now about nine million, and at the present rate of growth is likely to be doubled in the next thirty or forty years; and as yet we have not thought of water as a resource that could fail us to any serious extent; but as a matter of fact we are reaching a condition where, unless this resource is controlled and conserved, it will not continue to serve the needs of the State, and a gradual slakening of development will occur. Industries dependent upon water supply will move to other regions. Already in some instances further development is checked because of limited water supply, while in other cases repeated floods restrict future growth. Considerations of public welfare, therefore, require that the Water Supply Commission should be given broad powers for administrating the control and use of Pennsylvania streams, to the end that water, the one remaining great natural resource over which the State has control, may be conserved and developed for and in the interest of all the people. It should be made the duty of the Water Supply Commission to make survey of the water resources of the Commonwealth and to collect sufficient information concerning the river systems of the State to enable general plans to be worked out for the control and use of the waters of each system,—such information should include the character and extent of its draining area; the conditions of rainfall and runoff; the extent to which the stream may be used in the future to furnish water supply for domestic and industrial use; the extent to which floods have destroyed life and property; the possibility and feasibility of water power development, and the possible extent to which any stream might become part of a navigation system,—so that general plans may be adopted forseeing water control problems which are bound to arise.

The responsibility of passing upon the design of all dams to be erected in this State, which requires careful analysis of each and study of the suitability and adaptability of the foundation for the reception of the dam, of examining dams during construction and of seeing to it that they are properly maintained after construction, is imposed upon the Water Supply Commission. The best engineering services procurable should, therefore, be at the disposal of the Commission. To make this impossible is false economy, as the failure of one large dam would cost the Commonwealth more than would be necessary to maintain a properly manned and equipped Dam Division for half a century.

It is, therefore, recommended that this Commission be made a Bureau in a general Department of Construction and that appropriations to it be increased sufficiently to enable it to secure the best engineering advice and assistance and to have an adequate staff skilled in the class of work over which it exercises jurisdiction, each to be compensated in accordance with the works performed and the responsibilities imposed.

DEPARTMENT OF FORESTRY.

The present area of the State forests is 1,013,934 acres. In addition to these holdings, the State contains from five to six million acres which ought to be owned by the State. At present they are owned by private citizens and they are neglected and abandoned, and consequently the prey of costly forest fires. The annual forest fire loss in Pennsylvania is approximately $500,000.00, something much to be regretted; but under our present system of inadequate force and equipment, unavoidable. Little money spent for this purpose would mean the saving of property of great value.

During 1915 and 1916 there were 2,114 recorded forest fires in this State which cost $42,000.90 to extinguish and resulted in losses aggregating $1,087,069.00. A total of 491,387 acres burned. More than one-third of these fires were of unknown origin; an equal number were caused by railroads; and the remainder by campers, brush burning, lumbering, lightning and miscellaneous causes. Twenty-one of the twenty-six counties in which the Commonwealth owns land were damaged by such fires, which visited 69,681 of the million acres of forest land owned by the State.

These figures speak for themselves, and make unnecessary any further comment concerning the need of greater supervision and protection.

In conjunction with the Department of Forestry, we should consider the future of Forest Academy, established at Mont Alto when the State undertook the conservation of her forest resources. At that time no educational institution in Pennsylvania was equipped to train foresters to care for her wooded hills and her barren mountains. Since the creation of this institution it has graduated eighty-five students, of whom seventy-five per cent. are now in the employ of the forest service. This institution has more than paid for itself since its creation by the educational work that it has performed; but simultaneously with the development of this institution other educational institutions in this State have developed courses along similar lines, and with their special resources have outdistanced the Mont Alto institution.

The first pupils graduated from Mont Alto were guaranteed positions in the State's services; but curtailed appropriations during the last several years have made this practice impossible, and the Department of Forestry is no longer able to guarantee employment to the boys graduated from her own institution.

The original object was not to turn out thoroughly equipped general foresters, but men qualified to take charge of forest work in Pennsylvania. This is false economy, and the same should either be abolished and consolidated with State College and the course broadened to include general forestry.

To establish the department on the firm foundation that it deserves, the following recommendations are made:

1. Provide a sufficient appropriation to establish an adequate fire protection system throughout the forest now owned by the State. This can be accomplished by the erection of fire towers, the installation of telephone systems, the inauguration of a patrol system, and the cutting of fire trails and lanes through the forests. The amount required for this work is infintestimal when compared with the good that will result.

2. Abolish the Forestry Commission, give the man in charge of the Department absolute authority to manage its affairs, and hold him responsible for results. This would remove a Commission and make the same a Bureau in a general Department of Conservation. Give the head of this Department authority to manage its affairs and hold him responsible for the co-ordination of effort between the Bureau of Forestry, the Bureau of Fish and Game and the Bureau of Water Supply.

3. The purchase of forest reservations should be subject to the approval of the Board of Public Works.

AGRICULTURE.

The Department of Agriculture includes an Agricultural Commission, a Board of Agriculture, a Livestock Sanitary Board, under which the State Veterinarian acts, a Division of Economical Zoologist, and a Dairy and Food Division. The agricultural interests of this Commonwealth demand unstinted activity and expenditure on the part of the Commonwealth in the interest of her citizens. The present high cost of living brings home to every citizen the necessity of increasing production. There is grave doubt as to whether increasing the area cultivated is as beneficial as more intensive cultivation of the present areas. These and kindred subjects require the services of the best agricultural experts who produce foodstuffs and to help her citizens who consume the same.

What is done in the interest of agriculture must be done for the benefit of our entire citizenship. There is a natural division of agriculture work into that embodying practical work and that of an educational nature. Each is needed to attain the highest efficiency in production. But it is questionable if both demands can be met by the same individual or group of individuals.

The Agricultural Department has many and important duties to perform, and the Pennsylvania State College has at the same time very important duties of an educational nature. The best results will be attained by confining to the Department the practical workings of the agricultural world, and delegating to the College all activities of an educational nature.

Another interesting feature of this Department is the prevalence of advisory boards. These must not be treated lightly, for they have served their purposes in the past, and are by no means useless at present; but the Department of Agriculture has assumed such proportions that its energies can be best directed by placing responsibility for its management in the hands of one efficient person, instead of handicapping him by the control of bodies that meet occasionally. Such advice is always available, for such commissions are usually composed of public spirited citizens.

If, as has been pointed out in other chapters, the best results are to be attained by delegating to the several Departments of the State Government duties for which they are peculiarly fitted, then this policy must be adopted in determining the future of the Department of Agriculture. This applies particularly to the Division of Dairy and Food.

The dairy work is carried on by the Dairy and Food Division, which examines such bee-hives of industry from a food viewpoint, and by the State Veterinarian, who inspects the cattle. These co-ordinate duties could be better performed by the Veterinarian's Department, for the reason that his inspectors are men with professional training and qualified to pass upon the duties now divided between the two groups of inspectors. Likewise, the pure food work of this Division seems out of joint with the rest of the State Government.

The only reason for having this work in an Agricultural Department instead of a Health Department, where the safety of the public is generally looked after from every other viewpoint, is the fact that pure food restrictions were imposed before the Department of Health assumed any considerable size.

Another important feature of the Agricultural Department is the Division of Farm Institutes and Farm Advisers. The ten experts who go about the State advising the farmers and offering suggestions for improved agricultural activities cannot be at all places at the same time. If they are to give the farmers in any one locality the benefit of their advice, they must have an intimate knowledge of conditions in this locality and to assume that they can give advice concerning problems in sixty-seven counties is absurd.

Two years ago Congress enacted the Smith-Lever Bill, which provides a Federal appropriation equal to a State appropriation for agricultural extension work. State College is the headquarters for this work in Pennsylvania, and forty-five counties have availed themselves of the opportunity to establish local farm bureaus. These bureaus are presided over by expert agriculturalists, who are intimately acquainted with conditions in that locality, and who enjoy the advantages of the experimental work carried on at State College as well as the advice of experts employed at that point. They are well qualified to pass upon conditions peculiar to their localities, and on intimate terms with the farmers of that vicinity. Therefore, it naturally follows that with their natural advantages and with their unlimited resources they will develop to such an extent that they will soon outdistance even the most efficient board of traveling experts.

There has been a reawakening in the counties of the State to the possibilities of our soil. It is again being recognized as a permanent and dependable source of wealth. The farm advisers are qualified to discuss modern and scientific methods of cultivation, and they will neglect no agency that will increase the productive capacities of the soil. Their scientific management will be of of inestimable value to the several localities that have established bureaus, and the future holds advantages that cannot even be anticipated.

To the end that duplication may be eliminated, that our energies may be concentrated where they will produce the best results, and that every community will share the benefits to be derived from the largess of the Federal as well as the State Government, the following recommendations are made:

1. Transfer the pure food work to the Department of Health and the dairy inspection work to the State Veterinarian.

2. Abolish the Division of Farm Experts and Farm Institutes, and have this work carried on by the branches of the Agricultural Extension Bureau established under the terms of the Smith-Lever Bill.

STATE POLICE.

The Department of State Police is an institution peculiar to the State of Pennsylvania. There is no similar body of men in the United States. It has been in existence since 1905, and in that time the 228 men comprising the force have performed valiant service in every county of the Commonwealth.

Pennsylvania, by reason of its industrial activity, must provide for a large annual influx of aliens. They have assembled in large groups in small communities, and the detection of crime has become a serious problem throughout the entire Commonwealth. In this respect particularly the State Police have performed a most valuable service, for they have made possible not only the arrest but the conviction of thousands of lawbreakers.

Ten of these men have sacrificed their lives in discharging their duty, and three score have been maimed and scarred for life. These are facts that seldom come to the notice of the public.

During the eleven years that this police force has existed the men have devoted most of their time to patroling the rural districts of the State, and in that time have made more bona fide arrests for crime than have been made by the combined police forces of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Pennsylvania is so great in area and so varied in population and industry that this force should be represented in every community at substations. The present force has been divided so in the past, and since its creation the State militia has been called out for service only once.

Industrial disorders occur, of necessity, in Pennsylvania as they do elsewhere, but less than one-half of one per cent. of the three thousand annual arrests made by these men are made while maintaining order, protecting property and enforcing the law during labor disturbances. No State police are sent into a community so disturbed except on the certificate of the local sheriff that the situation is beyond his control, and a statement in writing that more police are necessary to preserve law and order and protect life and property.

This force has made arrests for the commission of every crime in the penal code, and the fact that eighty per cent. of their arrests result in convictions is proof that the power to enforce law is not misused.

The salaries of these men are meagre when compared with the duties they perform, and this Commission could do nothing more commendable than preserve this force and prevent its depletion by private corporations by putting the salaries on a basis fairly commensurate with the duties.

The following recommendations are made:

Increase the present force by the addition of one hundred enlisted men.
Make the following increases in salaries:
Superintendent from $3,000.00 to $4,500.00.
Deputy Superintendent from $2,500.00 to $3,000.00.
Captains from $1,920.00 to $2,400.00.
Lieutenants from $1,620.00 to $1,800.00.
First Sergeants from $1,220.00 to $1,350.00.
Corporals from $1,070.00 to $1,100.00.
Privates from $900.00 to $1,020.00.

FIRE MARSHAL.

The Department of State Fire Marshal has been so badly hampered by lack of appropriation during the past eighteen months that it is manifestly unfair to guage its usefulness by its activity. The need of such a Department is admitted, but there is also apparent a conflict between its duties and some of the duties of the Department of Labor and Industry.

The proposed change of the name from Department of Fire Marshal to Department of Fire Prevention is good. While this Department should have the approval of all fire escapes and other preventatives necessary to safeguard life, the work of the Department should be so managed and controlled as to prevent parallelism, leaving the actual inspection for the Department of Labor and Industry.

HEALTH OFFICER, PORT OF PHILADELPHIA.

The position of Health Officer of the Port of Philadelphia was created at a time when strict supervision over incoming ships was needed to protect the health of the port and of the State, for Philadelphia at that time was the gateway to Pennsylvania for most of our immigrant population. When this office was established it served a useful purpose, for neither the Federal Government nor the State Quarantine Board exercised the strict surveilance over incoming vessels as they do now. Since the establishment of the State Quarantine Board the duties of the Health Officer of the Port of Philadelphia have become perfunctory.

The position of Health Officer was established by an Act approved April 23, 1794, but really assumed its present form by an Act approved January 29, 1818 (7 Smith, page 5). The Health Officer, under the various Acts that have been passed since 1794, keeps a record of all vessels that enter the port, issues health certificates to vessels leaving the port, collects fee due the State from such vessels and pays them into the State Treasury.

The Health Officers maintains an office in the City Hall, Philadelphia, and the Quarantine Board maintains a quarantine station at Marcus Hook and office in the Bullitt Building, Philadelphia. There are no duties now performed by the Health Officer that could not just as well be performed by the Quarantine Board.

It is recommended that the office of Health Officer of the Port of Philadelphia be abolished, and that any of its duties necessary to be performed and not now so performed be transferred to the State Quarantine Board.

PUBLIC PRINTING AND BINDING.

The work of this Department depends entirely upon the demands of the other Departments. These should be anticipated so that the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding could tell as nearly as the Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings what he will be required to furnish during a coming year. The budget idea concerning moneys should be applied to the tabulation of other needs of the State Government, and until such a system has been adopted the practice will continue to be a sytsem of hit or miss, without any commendable feature or characteristic.

The Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding under present conditions can only estimate needs for the next year by what he has been called upon to furnish during the previous year; for the Departments are not required to furnish estimates of their anticipated needs. This is a small matter that could be rectified by the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding. But there is prevalent a feeling that when a Department does anything not specified by law, it is an encroachment or an unjustified expension, and the human equation enters into even public affairs when the prerogatives of some Department appear to be in jeopardy or its rights infringed.

The method of furnishing printing is controlled by Section 12 of Article III of the Constitution, which reads as follows:

"Sec. 12. Public Printing and Supplies. All stationery, printing, paper and fuel used in the legislative and other departments of government shall be furnished, and the printing, binding and distribution of the laws, journals, department reports, and all other printing and binding, and the repairing and furnishing the halls and rooms used for the meetings of the General Assembly and its committees, shall be performed under contract to be given to the lowest responsible bidder below such maximum price and under such regulations as shall be prescribed by law; no member or officer of any department of the government shall be in any way interested in such contracts, and all such contracts shall be subject to the approval of the Governor, Auditor General, and State Treasurer."

The length of contract is fixed at four years by Act of Assembly. This period is selected for the reason that a printing plant capable of doing the State printing represents an investment of more than a hundred thousand dollars, and it would be difficult to find responsible bidders if they were not given a contract of reasonable length. There was perhaps some good reason in the minds of the framers of the present Constitution when they provided that the work should not be done by the State. But there seems no good reason to further continue that practice. The State must do one of two things; award the contract for a longer period, and thus justify a State Printer in equipping his plant to meet the demands of the State, or amend the Constitution and permit the State to do her own printing.

Another important question is whether or not the printing for State institutions should be done through the Department of Printing and Binding, in the manner provided by Section 12 of Article III of the Constitution. We do not see any reason why the Constitution would provide a method for supplying the printing needs of the Departments of the State Government and exclude the institutions. The latter must certainly have been included in the classification of Departments, for the framers of the Constitution would not have provided checks and balances for one Division, and opened the floodgates for another.

If the present language of the Constitution does not include State institutions, it should be amended so that it does, for they should be under the same supervision and control as are Departments in the transaction of every phase of public business.

The following recommendations are made:

1. Require the printing for State institutions be regulated as is the printing for State Departments.
2. Enact legislation providing that the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding shall be advised at the first of every year of the apparent need of the other Departments of the State Government, and confine the needs of Departments to their estimates.
3. Prescribe a method for the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding advising the Departments at least once a month of the amount and cost of work done for them during the previous month.
4. Increase the salary of the Superintendent to $4,500.00 per annum; the chief clerk to $2,500 per annum; create one additional position at $1,500 per annum; and one stenographer at $1,200.00 per annum.
5. Create the position of Editor of State Publications in such Department at a salary of $3,000 per annum.

The business of the several Departments requires, of necessity, a variety of forms. But this varity in typographical make-up should not affect the quality of the paper. Nor should the difference in names of heads of Departments affect the style of letterheads.

Under present conditions, practically every Department has a letterhead, different in paper, design and typography. The result is that the engraving, printing and paper bills of the State far surpass what the normal needs of the State should require. A letterhead uniform in style and quality, should be approved by your Honorable Commission, and that this be used by all Departments.

STATE PUBLICATIONS.

Many of the Departments are by statute required to publish annual reports. It would seem that the principal reason for publishing these reports is to advise the people and the members of the General Assembly concerning the activities of their Departments, as well as of their needs in the way of additional legislation for improvement, or for the embracing in one Division of Department like functions where from time to time, because of gradual growth, such functions were delegated or referred to various Departments. Unless these purposes are accomplished, there seems to be little need for the further continuance of the issuance of such reports. At the present time only fourteen out of thirty Departmental reports have appeared for the year ending December 31, 1915.

Whatever may have been the purpose for requiring Dements to report annually, every object now attained could be accomplished by the issuance of biennial reports, such reports to be issued not later than September in the even-numbered years, or the years before the convening of the General Assembly. The enactment of such a law would serve every purpose and would result in a saving, when one considers the time expended in the collection of data, proofreading and the actual cost of publication of upwards of half a million dollars a year.

It would appear, because of the increase in the Commonwealths activities, that there should be created the office of Editor of State Publications, to be established in the Department of Public Printing and Binding, not so much for the purpose of censoring such documents, but for the purpose of eliminating the duplication of information, and for the purpose of editing the original manuscript so as to eliminate what has become an expensive practice under the present system, namely, that of editing reports after they have been put in type rather than when they have been submitted to the printer in the original manuscript.

It is therefore recommended that biennial reports be issued in the future instead of annually, and that the office of Editor of State Publication be established.

STATE LIBRARY.

The State Librarian in Pennsylvania occupies a triangular office as the head of the library property. The Director of the Museum, and the Secretary of the Pennsylvania Free Library Commission. There seems to be no particular reason why these institutions should be grouped under what might be called "The State Library and Museum." The Trustees of the State Library do not perform any duties than to attend an annual meeting and to give their sanction to a program which might just as well be accomplished by the Governor himself.

The State Library, in addition to a very large general collection, has a valuable Law Library, a complete series of newspapers extending for many years back, and a complete series of Government publications. This general collection has been very closely catalogued and use has been made of the various analytical references which have been compiled by the Library of Congress and other public institutions. It is not too much to say of the Library that the student engaged in research work seldom appeals to it in vain. It no longer resembles an old-fashioned collection of books. It is a collection of books so displayed as to be available to the reader, and so analyzed as to plainly present its resources to the student. In addition to this, it is cared for by an intelligent force of people, who are always ready and willing to do all for the inquirer that is possible through any means in their power.

The Library contains a Division of Public Records, which has accumulated the historical papers of the Commonwealth, and has repaired, mounted and catalogued these records so that the Division is now the Mecca of those engaged in historical and genealogical research. This Division has received the encomiums of the leading historians in the country. In addition to performing the work specifically assigned to it, the members of the force have helped the other Departments of the State Government by repairing the old documents in use in the various offices and in the mounting of maps, in which work the assistants are experts.

The State Museum was organized in 1905 in order to collect and place upon exhibition specimens illustrating the early life of the inhabitants of Pennsylvania, the flora, fauna and natural resources of the Commonwealth. It contains an excellent educational exhibit showing the practical work of the elementary schools and the various grades above them. It has accumulated a very large collection of lantern slides, and these are circulated throughout the State to anyone applying for them. The illustrations cover everything relating to Pennsylvania and its resources, the principal objects of art, the geographical illustrations of foreign countries and even the incidents in the life of prominent individuals. The groups of animals exhibited in the Museum have been built up by the Museum employees. The institution carries on a very large correspondence with the people of the State with regard to the natural history of the State, its minerals, coal deposits, clays, and other mineral resources. The institution forms one of the places upon Capital Hill where the visitor may gain instruction not only from the exhibitions themselves, but from a corps of workers who have been trained for this service.

The Pennsylvania Free Library Commission is entrusted with the duty of furnishing books to communities which do not have library facilities. In addition to this it forms special collections for Study Clubs and other gatherings of people conducting research along special lines. Where the local library has failed in this function or has not been accredited local support, the officers of the Commission endeavor to revive the interest and better the situation. Where a new library is contemplated all the resources of the Commission are marshalled in order that the institution may begin its work along right lines and be saved the expense of costly errors in organization. It is doubtful whether any State in the country has performed this service along more logical lines than Pennsylvania. Before the formation of this Commission, there were not over four or five free public libraries in the State, and these were mostly the results of bequests of individuals. There are now 174 such institutions, almost all of which are in healthy condition and receiving enthusiastic support of their communities.

The salaries of employees in the State Library and Museum range from $360 to $2,500 per annum and are the lowest paid in any Division of the State Government.

The following recommendations are made:

1. Abolish the Board of Trustees of the State Library and the Free Library Commission, and transfer any duties now necessary for those bodies to discharge to the State Librarian.

2. Revise the salaries of all officers and employees in the State Library and Museum so as to put them on the same level with salaries paid other State employes and officials.

BANKING DEPARTMENT.

The Department of Banking is the States agency for supervising the affairs of banks, trust companies, savings funds and building and loans associations, and it is the duty of the State to keep this Department on the efficient basis necessary to give the public protection for its savings and investments.

There are now twenty examiners suprvising institutions whose assets represent $1,761,047,925.37. In addition there are 112 private banks under the supervision of these examiners, and it can be readily seen that the force is inadequate to give the institutions the frequent and careful examinations that they require for the proper protection of the public.

The number of examiners has been the same for the past ten years, while the institutions examined have increased in capital about seven million dollars.

The careful examination of these financial institutions is a duty that the Commonwealth owes its citizens, and no effort should be spared by the Commonwealth to furnish a sufficient number of efficient men to make the necessary examinations.

It is therefore recommended that five examiners be added to the present corps, and that the General Assembly make the necessary appropriation to defray their salaries and expenses.

THE LEGISLATIVE REFERENCE BUREAU.

The Legislative Reference Bureau, as the name implies, was created for the purpose of aiding the Legislature in the preparation of bills and compiling of information as well as to assist the Executive Branch of the Government.

The creation from time to time of temporary bodies to discharge duties similar to those of this Bureau, is unwarranted and unnecessary.

It is therefore recommended that the following Commissions be abolished and their duties transferred to the Legislative Reference Bureau:

The Commission to Investigate the Laws Relating to Recording Deeds and Mortgages.

The Commission to Codify and Revise Decedents Estates Laws.

The Commission on Statutes-at-Large.

DEPARTMENT OF FISHERIES.

The Fish Commissioner is one of the Departmental heads in this State, who is supposed to have the assistance of an advisory body. This may have been necessary when the Department was in its infancy; but after carefully considering the duties and activities of the Fisheries Commission and its relationship to the Commissioner of Fisheries, it is recommended that the Commission be abolished and that the Department of Fisheries be made a part of a Bureau of Fish and Game in the Department of Conservation.

DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION.

It is recommended that a Department of Conservation be created composed of three Bureaus: The Bureau of Forestry, The Bureau of Fish and Game, and the Bureau of Water Supply. The Department to be under the control and supervision of a competent expert upon conservation who shall be held responsible for the co-ordination of the work of the Bureau of his Department and who shall be given an advisory Board or Commission appointed by the Governor, whose expenses only shall be paid by the State.

GAME COMMISSION.

It is recommended that this Commission be made a Bureau in the Department of Conservation. That the very able members of the Commission be transferred to the advisory commission proposed for such Department. That a law be enacted requiring a license fee of $1.00 for the privilege of fishing in the waters of the Commonwealth by residents thereof, and a license fee of $10.00 for non-residents. That the earnings of the Bureau of Forestry, the Bureau of Fish and Game, and the Bureau of Water Supply, including the fishing licenses recommended, be dedicated to the use of the Department of Conservation, it being apparent to every sensible citizen that without forests and without unpolluted waters there can be no proper protection or propogation of fish and game within the Commonwealth.

BOARD OF ELEVATED AND UNDERGROUND RAILWAYS.

I wish to direct your attention to a State body known as the Board to Pass upon the Necessity for the Construction of Elevated and Underground Passenger Railways. I recommend that this Board be abolished, and that any duties incumbent upon it be transferred to the Public Service Commission.

SCHOOLS AND HOMES.

Two similar institutions maintained by the Commonwealth are the Soldiers Orphan School at Scotland, and the Soldiers and Sailors Home at Erie. I respectfully recommend that legislation be enacted placing both institutions under the management of one Board.

GETTYSBURG.

There are in existence at present a Commission on Gettysburg Monuments and a Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Commission. I respectfully recommend that these two Commissions be combined.

STATE INSTITUTIONS.

The State Institutions are increasing so rapidly that they will soon form one of the most important divisions of the State Government. As the State Government under the present Constitution is divided into the Legislative, Judicial and Executive Branches, the State institutions must belong to the last division, and as part of such they should be subject to the same construction and restrictions as are the Departments.

There is, however, little, if any, central supervision exercised over these institutions, for each is managed by a Board of Trustees or Managers. The institutions are erected and the maintenance furnished by public money. Such of the inmates as are able are required to pay for their maintenance; but the amount derived in this manner is insignificant when compared with the cost of maintenance. The institutions spend approximately five hundred thousand dollars a month, most of which goes for maintenance and salaries. When the institutions were few in number, supervision was a simple matter. Now that they have increased, it is a serious problem. Some central body should exercise supervision along certain lines. The individual Departments are supervised to an extent by the fiscal officers of the State government.

An examination of the purchase of staple supplies by the several institutions during the past year revealed a condition that needs immediate attention. The highest possible standard of quality should be furnished the State wards, but purchases should be made with reason and under proper supervision. The prices paid by the several institutions for the same staple articles shows a wide variation. It is assumed that they all purchase what is best suited for their needs, but it is generally admitted that the purchase of the best quality food is the wisest economy.

Business methods are most needed where purchases are most frequent, and in that respect the State institutions furnish a fertile field of activity. No effort should be spared that will tend to place these institutions on a solid business foundation.

The statistics compiled concerning the purchases by the State institutions show that during the last twelve months the prices of bacon has varied from 14c to 30c a pound; dried beef from 20c to 52c a pound; frankfurters from 10c to 20c a pound; fresh ham from 14c to 25c a pound; smoked ham from 13.17c to 31.3c a pound; baking powder from 5½c to 40c a pound; bananas from 15c a dozen to 25c a dozen, and from $1.00 a bunch to $2.75 a bunch; lima beans from 5.2c to 10c a pound; marrow beans from 8c a pound to 15c a pound; butter varies from 25.4c a pound to 48c a pound; Bakers chocolate from 17½c a pound to 40c a pound; Hershey's chocolate from 25c a pound to 36c a pound; cocoa from 5 3c a pound to 40c a pound; coffee from 4c a pound to 45c a pound; eggs from 11c to 58c a dozen; spring flour from $5.00 to $9.00 a barrel; winter wheat flour from $4.50 a barrel to $8 75 a barrel; lemons from 11¼c a dozen to 30c a dozen, and from $3.02 a box to $9.50 a box; oranges from $2.50 to $6.50 a box; black pepper from 4c to 40c a pound; white potatoes from 60c a bushel to $2.00 a bushel; prunes from 4½c a pound to 17c a pound; rolled oats from $2.35 to $6.25 a barrel; salt from $1.00 to $5.00 a barrel; table salt from $1.25 to $2.72 a barrel; brown sugar from 4.9c a pound to 9c a pound; granulated sugar from 3.7c a pound to 8.2c a pound; tea from 11c to $1.10 a pound; and yeast from 20c a pound to 35c a pound.

Other States have solved this problem in different ways. Some have established purchasing agencies, others boards of control, and still others co-operative systems. In view of the vast area of Pennsylvania, the great number of institutions, it would be of no particular advantage to attempt to purchase foodstuffs of a perishable nature, at one central point.

It must be borne in mind, of course, that some of the institutions raise considerable in fields and gardens, but in few cases does this product meet the demand of the institution. Taken as a whole, the institutions are not producing nearly as much as they should, in proportion to their vast area of 13,344 acres. Instead of a minimum they should be making a maximum effort to raise produce for the maintenance of their inmates. The value of produce last year was a quarter of a million dollars. Many institutions possess valuable livestock, and this is used for both fertilizing the soil and for foodstuffs; but there is no institution that could not produce more if its energies were properly directed and its methods improved.

Nearly two-thirds of all the counties in the State have taken advantage of the Agricultural Extension Bureau maintained by the Pennsylvania State College, and now have the service of expert farm advisers right at their front doors. Why should not the State Institutions avail themselves of the valuable services of these experts? Why should not the fertile soil connected with these institutions be used for experimental purposes and show places? How could this land be put to better use than by raising what it is best suited to raise, both for the maintenance of the State dependents and for the information of the respective communities; and no agency is better qualified to direct this work than the farm experts located in the several counties, and paid for jointly by the State and Federal Governments.

This is a happy solution of a serious problem, and should in the long run inure to the benefit of the State as a whole and to the local communities as units of the State. Property connected with the State institutions is as much public property as forests controlled by the State Forestry Department, and such use should be made of all public property as will produce the best results and greatest benefit for all the people.

If the increased production is to be realized, it will be necessary to provide for the disposition of the produce raised in excess of the needs of the several institutions. The enactment of a law permitting the exchange of produce between institutions or the sale of the same in the open market after the other institutions have waived their right to purchase the same is suggested. It would be unwise to sell this product in the first place, for it might lead to an effort on the part of a short-sighted superintendent to increase his revenues by selling what properly belongs to the inmates of his institution. If the law were strictly construed, revenue derived from such sales would go directly to the State Treasury; but it has been the practice in the past for institutions to use such funds.

The practice of putting in control of the business affairs of State institutions professional men, whose training has fitted them for something entirely different, and to whom the business world is a blind alley should be discontinued. To take a medical man, even though he is prominent in some branch of the medical world, and ask him to delve into the intricate and confusing details of a business involving thousands of dollars, is not a reasonable effort toward efficiency.

If we assigned to each man the tasks that he is best qualified to perform, we would get better results, and we would make greater progress. It is universally admitted that a very small percentage of insane patients are ever cured, and it is also recognized that these deficients are in need of constant medical attention. The institutions are as much custodial as remedial. The business management of these institutions is a very important part of their administration, and needs experts as much as the medical end of the work.

It is, indeed, anomalous to expect a professional man to become a proficient business manager, when you would never think of employing a business manager to direct the medical or surgical work of an institution. This has been the principal cause of the increasing cost of maintaining State institutions. We have spared no effort to give our dependents the best possible medical skill that could be procured, but we have made no effort to give the institutions the benefit of expert business management.

The following recommendations are made:

1. Compel the Superintendents of the several institutions to co-operate in the purchase of staple foodstuffs under the supervision of the Board of Public Works, and have the Board of Public Works, because of its greater facilities for larger purchases and closer touch with the business world, purchase all furnishings and equipment.

2. Have every institution cultivate as much of its land as is possible, with the co-operation and assistance of the expert farm advisers located in the several counties.

3. Relieve the medical superintendents of the State institutions of the burdensome details connected with the business affairs of the institutions, and permit them to devote their undivided time to the medical treatment of the inmates. This will not cause a conflict of authority, because the Board of Trustees is capable in every instance of differentiating between the duties of a superintendent and a business manager and determining who should have jurisdiction over particular duties and responsibilities.

4. Have the Auditor General's Department install a uniform system of accounting, bookkeeping and recording in all State and State-aided institutions. At present each institution conducts a system peculiar to itself.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The mechanical equipment scattered throughout the several Departments of the State represents an investment of at least one hundred thousand dollars. As these apparatus are used for the same purpose wherever located, it is obvious that they should be centralized, and that the work could be handled to greater advantage and with further efficiency by one set of experts rather than requiring each Department to have individuals expert in the operation of every new line of mechanical appliance placed upon the market. There should be a Division created for handling the addressing, multigraphing, mimeographing and the operation of other similar mechanical work or devices, which is now being done by various Departments separately.

The tangible assets of the Commonwealth are represented largely by the investment in State institutions. The value of these assets is constantly increasing from year to year, and will ere long represent an investment of upwards of a hundred million dollars. These investments should be looked after by the taking of inventories and appraisements of the property owned by the State either annually or biennially.

The Capitol is now crowded that it no longer provides the necessary offices for the rapidly growing Departments, and as a result they are scattered through the various office buildings in the City of Harrisburg. When the present building was erected many of the largest Departments now in operation had not been created, and their growth and development naturally were not anticipated. At present the congestion in many offices makes working conditions almost impossible, and has put beyond the reach of any Department comforts that are necessary in working conditions to produce the best results. The State is now paying $25,000.00 annually for the rent of offices outside the Capitol, and at the present rate of growth this amount will soon be doubled.

Another important question to be considered in connection with the additional offices is the moving of the power plant from the basement of the Capitol Building to a separate building, perhaps at the eastern edge of the Capitol Park Extension area. This seems to be the logical point for two reasons. It would relieve the Capitol Building from much of the smoke and dirt necessary for running such a plant, and would at the same time give ready access to the railroad tracks for the purpose of receiving fuel. Carloads of coal could then be unloaded with the same ease and dispatch as is now possible for cartloads.

A CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Providing for the continuance of the investigation into the number, character, duties and compensation of persons in the employ of the State Government, and the methods for disbursing and accounting of State Funds, and the preparation and tabulation of data and statistics of comparative costs in the departments, bureaus, commissions, boards or trustees and other persons in charge of institutions owned and controlled by the State Government, and directing the co-operation of the various State Departments, boards, bureaus, commissions, boards of trustees and other persons in charge of institutions owned and controlled by the State.

Section 1. Be it Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Governor, Attorney General and Auditor General are hereby appointed a commission to be known as the Economy and Efficiency Commission. It shall be the duty of the commission to investigate the number, character of duties, and compensation of all persons in the employ of the State; to ascertain and recommend what changes, if any, may be necessary to secure greater uniformity, economy and efficiency in the work of the various departments, branches, bureaus, commissions, boards of trustees, and other persons in charge of institutions owned and controlled by the State; and to prepare and compile data, statistics of comparative costs, and the methods of disbursing and accounting for State funds in the various departments, branches, bureaus, commissions, boards of trustees, and other persons in charge of institutions owned and controlled by the State; and make such suggestions and recommendations in relation thereto as it may deem proper. Upon the completion of the work, the commission shall report to the next General Assembly, with such recommendations as to further regulation and legislation. It shall be the duty of the head of each department, bureau, commission, board of trustees, and other persons in charge of institutions owned and controlled by the State, and any other branch of the Government, to afford the commission ample opportunity and facilities for the performance of its work.

Section 2. To carry out the purposes of this resolution, a sum, which, in the judgment of the said commission, shall be sufficient for the purposes, is hereafter to be specifically appropriated for the use of the commission by an item in the general appropriation bill. Payment from said appropriation shall be made on order of the chairman of the commission, accompanied by itemized and verified vouchers on warrant of the Auditor General.

THE ECONOMY AND EFFICIENCY COMMISSION OF THE
HARRISBURG

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 27, 1917.

The Economy and Efficiency Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I have the honor to submit a report of the work done by me, as your Solicitor, together with my conclusions and recommendations.

The work assigned by your Honorable Body under the provisions of the Concurrent Resolution of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, entitled

> "A Concurrent Resolution providing for the continuance of the investigation into the number, character, duties and compensation of persons in the employ of the State Government, and the methods for disbursing and accounting for State funds, and the preparation and tabulation of data and statistics of comparative costs in the departments, bureaus, commissions, boards of trustees and other persons in charge of institutions owned and controlled by the State Government, and directing the co-operation of the various State Departments, boards, bureaus, commissions, boards of trustees and other persons in charge of institutions owned and controlled by the State," approved the seventeenth day of June, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, was undertaken with a view of determining just what changes in the present business system of the Government would be necessary to correct any defects found therein.

Careful analysis of the Acts of the General Assembly creating and relating to the various departments, boards and commissions of the State, and study of the compensation received and duties performed by each employe thereof, the necessity for such employment, and whether or not the position was created by statute or was a temporary employment made possible by the insertion of an item in the General Appropriation Bill from session to session, or was paid out of the fund commonly known as the Contingent Fund, early led me to the conclusion that if any permanent system of economy and efficiency was to be put into operation in Pennsylvania certain amendments would have to be made to the Constitution; also that methods of centralization would have to be adopted, confining in one Department, Board or Commission like duties now being performed by various Departments, Boards and Commissions, which, under the present system, result in conflict of authority, duplication of work and unnecessary expenditure of public moneys; also that the same principals used in the business world would have to be made part of the business system of the State Government; also that the system of piecemeal performance of great public works should be frowned upon, and should only be undertaken after comprehensive study and planning, to the end that estimates for such work could be made with a reasonable degree of accuracy, and that when the work was started sufficient money would be available for pushing it forward continuously to completion.

This report, in a general way, discusses these various phases of the business organization of the State Government, commends where commendation is deserved, and finds fault only where faultfinding is necessary.

The report which follows, together with the conclusions and recommendations found therein, are all commended to your careful consideration, and it is believed that if the recommendations are enacted into law they will result in placing the business affairs of the State upon a sound basis, resulting in saving, and what is more to the point, will bring about efficiency and the prompt transaction of the affairs of the various Departments of the Government.

I am, with great respect,

Very truly yours,

HARRY S. McDEVITT,
Solicitor.

REPORT OF THE SOLICITOR OF THE ECONOMY AND EFFICIENCY COMMISSION, 1917.

The object sought to be accomplished throughout this Report has been, in a comprehensive way, to put the business affairs of the State upon a substantial basis. To begin with, it is important to keep in mind the fact that when the Constitution of 1874 was adopted, since which time there has been no general reorganization, conditions were wholly different from those which we find confronting us to-day. To attempt to regulate, at this time, the business of the average corporation upon the same basis as was in vogue in 1874 would probably result disastrously. It is believed that a perusal of the Report will emphasize the necessity for certain amendments to the Constitution, as well as the enactment of certain laws pending the ratification of such proposed amendments by the people.

There appears to be a general misconception in the public mind as to the duties of an Economy and Efficiency Commission. The popular opinion appears to be that all Departments should be overhauled from beginning to end, that each position should be carefully considered and analyzed, and especial attention should be given to the fitness of the incumbent thereof. To my mind these are details that must be considered after a general reorganization plan has been decided upon and has been put into operation by amendments to the Constitution and the enactment of the general legislation herein referred to. There are certain big steps that must be taken to place the State Government upon a business foundation, and until this is done it would appear unwise to attempt reorganization in a piecemeal manner, for such a procedure would likely result in disorganization rather than reorganization. The close study of every position, the necessity for its existence, and the fitness of its occupant, will necessarily follow the adoption of such a comprehensive plan. There is no doubt that certain positions will be found unnecessary when combinations and consolidations herein recommended have been carried into effect; but until such action has been taken it is unwise to recommend individual eliminations in the interest of economy at the expense of efficiency.

The following is a recapitulation of the statistical data accompanying this Report:

Chart showing the relationship of the permanent bodies comprising the State Government.

Chart showing the make-up of the State Government after the deletions, consolidations and creations recommended herein.

As a preliminary to my investigations of the several Divisions of the State Government, I requested the head of each Department to furnish me with the name, address, compensation and duties of each employee, and the authority for the creation of every position in his Department. I also requested the Superintendent of each institution to furnish me with the name, title, duties and compensation of every employee.

Upon receipt of this information, I examined the laws authorizing the creation of the various positions, and as a result it is suggested that the present system which permits of the unrestricted creation of positions by the mere appropriation of money is faulty and should be corrected. The statistics submitted will show the creation from time to time of as many positions of this character as have been created by Act of Assembly. This applies, of course, to the Departments, for the work of the institutions is such that I deem it unwise to legislate concerning the creation of all positions.

Coincident with the compiling of this information, I prepared comparative tables showing variations in salaries paid in the Departments and in institutions for practically the same class of work.

In the State insane asylums the salaries of the Superintendent, for instance, vary from $2,500.00 to $6,000.00 a year; the salaries of cooks from $27.50 to $80.00 a month; the salaries of butchers from $40.00 to $65.00 a month; the salaries of bookkeepers from $27.00 to $108.33 a month; the salaries of bakers from $18.00 to $75.00 a month; the salaries of male nurses from $17.00 to $50.00 a month; the salaries of female nurses from $14.00 to $45.00 a month.

In the State medical hospitals the Superintendent is in some instances known as the Surgeon-in-Chief, and in others as Superintendent. These salaries run from $900.00 to $10,000.00; the Assistant Surgeons receive from $500.00 a year to $4,200.00 a year; pupil nurses receive from $60.00 to $120.00 a year; directing nurses receive from $600.00 to $1,200.00 a year; graduate nurses from $350.00 to $600.00 a year; cooks from $288.00 to $780.00 a year; assistant cooks from $120.00 to $350.00 a year; engineers from $600.00 to $1,140.00 a year; and firemen from $480.00 to $780.00 a year. There is no need of argument to prove that a readjustment, coordination or standardization of salaries for these positions with similar duties is badly needed.

The salaries of the heads of Departments vary from $3,000 00 to $12,000.00; the salaries of deputies from $1,500.00 to $7,500.00; the salaries of inspectors from $720.00 to $5,000.00; the salaries of statisticians from $1,000.00 to $3,000.00; the salaries of stenographers from $480.00 to $1,800.00; and the salaries of watchmen from $600.00 to $1,080.00.

These salaries present a perplexing problem, the solution of which cannot be postponed indefinitely. The increasing cost of living, the demand for skilled and unskilled help create a condition of supply and demand that must be considered by the Commonwealth as well as by private business.

I have made certain recommendations concerning the subject of salaries, and I cannot emphasize too strongly the need for serious consideration of this subject. The needs of State institutions are similar in many respects to those of the Departments, and in fairness to both they must be considered together.

The institutions, originally established for remedial purposes, are now used, in great measure, as custodial institutions. This applies particularly to the insane asylums, many of which were established at a time when the opinion was generally held that insanity was a curable ailment. many of our foremost alienists now admit that the cures effected in this direction represent but a very small percentage of the number afflicted.

If this be true in the case of mental deficiency, it becomes the duty of the State to provide the best maintenance for her dependent wards.

The alarming increase in the spread of insanity and feeble-mindedness demands immediate action on the part of the State by the establishment of additional accommodations of the enlarging of present institutions. The State cannot be too generous in the care of her dependent wards, and the institutions should be closely supervised to see that every dollar expended is used in a manner that insures comfort and proper treatment.

With this idea uppermost, I made investigation and study of the supplies purchased and used in State institutions. I regarded it as an important duty for the Commonwealth to see that her wards were properly nourished, and this I realized was only possible by the use of the best foodstuffs. I first investigated the methods used for the purchasing of supplies, which, of course, brought to light the specifications or formulae used. I next took up the method of inspecting and disbursing these supplies after their delivery to the institutions, and finally the method used to account for such supplies.

I found that some institutions purchased from day to day, so to speak; others purchased by quarterly, semi-annual and annual contracts, depending upon the nature of the supplies; and others purchased practically everything on an annual basis. While first-quality goods were asked for in every instance, the institutions did not, in some instances, exercise the necessary supervision to insure the delivery of such goods. That they purchased, or intended to purchase, the best grade of goods, was evidenced by the duplicate bills furnished me each month by the Superintendents. I compared these and found that practically all institutions were asking for standard goods, and at the same time were paying different prices. There was great similarity in the standards required and purchased, but no similarity in the prices paid.

The statistics compiled concerning the purchases by the State institutions show that during the last twelve months the price of bacon has varied from 14 cents to 30 cents a pound; dried beef from 20 cents to 52 cents per pound; frankfurters from 10 cents to 20 cents per pound; fresh ham from 14 cents to 25 cents per pound; smoked ham from 13.17 cents to 31.3 cents per pound; baking powder from 5½ cents to 40 cents per pound; bananas from 15 cents a dozen to 25 cents a dozen, and from $1.00 a bunch to $2.75 a bunch; lima beans from 5.2 cents per pound to 10 cents per pound, marrow beans from 8 cents per pound to 15 cents per pound; butter varies from 25.4 cents per pound to 48 cents per pound; Baker's chocolate from 17½ cents per pound to 40 cents per pound; Hershey's chocolate from 25 cents per pound to 56 cents per pound; cocoa from 5.3 cents per pound to 40 cents per pound; coffee from 4 cents per pound to 45 cents per pound; eggs from 11 cents per dozen to 58 cents per dozen; spring flour from $5.00 a barrel to $9.00 a barrel; winter wheat flour from $4.50 per barrel to $8.75 per barrel; lemons from 11½ cents a dozen to 30 cents a dozen, and from $3.02 a box to $9.50 per box; oranges from $2.50 a box to $6.50 a box; black pepper from 4 cents a pound to 40 cents per pound; white potatoes from 60 cents a bushel to $2.00 a bushel; prunes from 4½ cents a pound to 17 cents a pound; rolled oats from $2.25 a barrel to $6.25 a barrel; salt from $1.00 a barrel to $5.00 a barrel; table salt from $1.25 a barrel to $2.72 a barrel; brow sugar from 4.9 cents a pound to 9 cents a pound; graulated sugar from 3.7 cents a pound to 8.2 cents a pound; tea from 11 cents a pound to $1.10 a pound; and yeast from 20 cents a pound to 35 cents a pound.

It is difficult to reconcile this wide range of prices with the fact that practically all institutions require the same quality of goods. Some explanation is offered by the fact that some institutions purchase in much larger quantities than others. But this admission strongly supports the argument set forth in this Report that all supplies should be purchased through one agency, or that all institutions should- co-operate in the purchase of similar supplies. There is, in fact, no alternative. The present system shows by its own figures the lack of business methods.

The fact that many large supply houses hold contracts with most of the institutions is cumulative evidence that central purchasing, or cooperative purchasing under central supervision, is practical and not theoretical.

You will find attached hereto a monthly report from every institution showing the commodities purchased, and unit adopted for purchasing, the price paid per unit, and the total amount expended for each commodity during each month of the year 1916. These individual reports have been transferred to large sheets according to their class, that is, insane institutions are placed in juxtaposition, and the same comparison made between medical institutions. The miscellaneous institutions are assembled on a third sheet. These summary sheets show the minimum and maximum price paid during each month for similar supplies, and the separate minimum and maximum sheet shows the highest and lowest price paid by any institution during each month.

In addition to these monthly reports and summary sheets, you will find a summary of the high and low prices paid during each successive month in the year 1916, and the information contained in these reports is conclusive proof that the present system needs alteration.

My investigation of the institutions included also the productions by the various institutions. I accomplished this by first taking an inventory of the land connected with each institution, according to its division into garden, field crops, orchard, pasture, meadow, lawns, permanent woodland, pasture too rough, forest reservations, mountain land, recreation ground, parade land, athletic field, sewage disposal, lake ice supply, residential sites, and leveled for farming.

To get an idea of the value of crops produced, I required the Superintendents to furnish a monthly report, during the summer season, showing the kind, quantity and value of the garden, field, and orchard crops raised during July, August, September and October, 1916. The report shows the following values:

July,	$ 72,865 52
August,	34,197 88
September	47,795 53
October,	74,863 15
Making a total of,	$229,822 08

To ascertain what use was made of the uncultivated land of these institutions, or of the latent energies of the inmates which did not seem to be used for agricultural production, I made an inventory of the livestock connected with the various institutions, which showed the number and value of cows, heifers, bulls, steers, oxen, hogs, pigs, spring pigs, brood sows and stags, rams, wethers, lambs, ewes, stallions, colts, ponies, ambulance horses, chore horses, draft horses, driving horses, farm horses, garden horses, deer, mules, chicks, spring chickens, old chickens, hens, roosters, guineas, ducks, ducklings, geese and turkeys, connected with each institution. The appraisement by the Superintendents showed the value of the livestock to be in round numbers a quarter of a million dollars. Most of it is blooded stock, but in many instances unregistered.

These statistics showed that the institutions were not only not getting the best possible returns from their natural resources, but that their maximum energies were not being put forward, and that their lands were not being cultivated by the most scientific methods.

An examination of the summaries of production attached hereto will show that a large percentage of the total crops are being raised by the new Western Penitentiary at Bellefonte, and the remainder by the insane asylums. Neither the Reformatory, at Huntingdon, the Industrial School, at Morganza, nor the Soldiers' Orphan School, at Scotland, is doing its proportionate share of this work; and I am inclined to think that the insane asylums now raising field and garden crops could double their output at a slight increase in labor if the work were carried on in a more scientific manner.

In December, 1916, the Superintendents of the several State institutions conferred with the Economy and Efficiency Commission in the Capitol, at Harrisburg, relative to the best methods available for purchasing supplies, and attached hereto are the recommendations submitted by the Committee of Superintendents appointed after the meeting to consider the most practical methods to adopt in order to bring about improvement.

In making my investigations of institutional work, I consulted the best authorities available, including the purchasing agents of large private enterprises and the purchasing bureaus and commissions of other States and municipalities, and the results in each case convinced me that the recommendations contained in this Report, calling for a Board of Public Works to make some purchases and supervise all others, will bring about the results desired.

My investigations along institutional lines brought to my attention the fact that the deeds and other instruments relating to the title and ownership of land connected with such institutions had not been assembled in any uniform manner or at any central point. In view of the Act approved July 15, 1897 (P. L. 291), defining the duty of the Auditor General to collect such papers, I made a survey of the whereabouts of deeds for land connected with State institutions, and I have filed the result of my investigation with the Auditor General, in whose office the missing deeds are now being assembled and recorded in books specially prepared for the purpose.

In conjunction with the investigations of the institutions, which has been described in detail, I conducted investigations of the activities of the several Departments of the State Government, and while I have not attempted to analyze positions, I have endeavored throughout the Report to make such recommendations as would co-ordinate duties peculiar to individual Departments, to the end that duplication may be abolished and encroachment avoided. I have devoted considerable time to investigating the method of managing and controlling the fiscal affairs of the Commonwealth. Under another chapter I have gone into considerable detail as to the present methods, and I have offered such recommendations as will, in my opinion, attain the desired ends .

I have compiled statistics covering a period of one year, showing the expenditures of every Department month by month for salaries, traveling expenses and all other purposes, I have kept an accurate record of the increase and decrease in the number of employes in each Department, and attached hereto as a part of this Report is a summary showing a comparison of the average number of employes, the average monthly and the total annual salaries paid by each Department for the years 1914 and 1916.

I have also prepared and attached hereto as a part of this Report a summary of all persons holding more than one position under the State Government and the character and compensation of each; a summary of the reports issued by the several Departments showing the date of the last report in circulation and the date when copy for the next report was received by the State Printer; also a survey of the methods employed in other States for caring for temporarily disabled employes; also a summary of the amounts expended between June 1, 1914, and May 31, 1916, for advertising and the papers used in each instance by the several Departments.

The following conclusions and recommendations, which have been condensed as much as possible, are all worthy of your careful consideration.

THE GOVERNOR.

The Constitution created the office of Governor, and in Section 2 of Article IV provided:

> "The supreme executive power shall be vested in the Governor, who shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed."

It was never intended by the framers of this important instrument that the Governor should become an auditing officer, or that he should be hampered by so many exacting details as to interfere with the discharge of executive duties that concern all the people of the Commonwealth. From time to time the General Assembly has seen fit to make him an ex-officio member of many Boards and Commissions, as well as delegate to him the discharge of trifling duties that belong properly to a clerk in some Department.

The Governor, for instance, is the Commander-in-chief of the National Guard; President of the Livestock Sanitary Board; President of the State Board of Agriculture; Chairman of the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings; Trustee of the State Library and Museum; President of the Soldiers' Orphans' School Commission; President of the Armory Board; President of the College and University Council; a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania; President of the Board of Trustees of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home; a member of the Board to Pass Upon the Necessity for Underground and Elevated Passenger Railways; Chairman of the General Meade Statue Commission; Chairman of the Economy and Efficiency Commission; a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Pittsburgh; and a member of the Board of Trustees of the Pennsylvania State College. He is also required to approve the expenditures of the Department of Health; to approve certain expenditures of the Department of Labor and Industry; to approve the expenditures of the Bureau of Chemistry of the Agricultural Department; to approve the expenditures of the Forestry Department; to approve the expenditures for construction of the new Western Penitentiary; to approve the expenditures for the National Guard; and to approve the purchase of State Normal Schools by the State Board of Education.

The public has no conception of the time required to discharge the duties imposed upon the Governor by reason of his connection with these various Boards and Commissions; and the public will never get the maximum benefit of the services of a Chief Executive who is required to bother with such vexatious details as his present duties impose. In other chapters I have recommended the abolishment of the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings, of the Livestock Sanitary Board, the Board of Agriculture, the Board to Pass Upon the Necessity for the Construction of Underground and Elevated Passenger Railways, and the consolidation of the Armory Board with a Board of Public Works, all of which would relieve the Governor of various duties, and give him more time to devote to the executive problems that are properly the duty of a Chief Executive.

Apropos the effort to give the Governor every possible chance to serve the people, it is well to mention the conflict that occurs every four years between the inauguration of a Governor and the convening of the General Assembly. The Governor is ushered into an office entirely new to him. The result is obvious. Two of the most important duties imposed upon the Governor by the Constitution are contained in Section 11 of Article IV, which reads as follows:

> "Sec. 11. Messages to Legislature. He shall, from time to time, give to the General Assembly information of the state of the Commonwealth, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he may judge expedient."

And Sections 15 and 16 of Article IV, which read as follows:

> "Sec. 15. Approval of Bills. Veto. Every bill which shall have passed both Houses shall be presented to the Governor; if he approve he shall sign it, but if he shall not approve he shall return it with his objections to the House in which it shall have originated, which House shall enter the objections at large upon their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of all the members elected to that House shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent with the objections to the other House by which likewise it shall be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of all the members elected to that House it shall be a law; but in such cases the votes of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the members voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the Journals of each House, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the Governor within ten days after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the General Assembly by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall be a law, unless he shall file the same with his objections, in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and give notice thereof by public proclamation within thirty days after such adjournment.
> "Sec. 16. Partial Disapproval of Appropriation Bills. The Governor shall have power to disapprove any item or items of any bill, making appropriations of money, embracing distinct items, and the part or parts of the bill approved shall be the law, and the item or items of appropriation disapproved shall be void, unless repassed according to the rules and limitations prescribed for the passage of other bills over the Executive veto."

It is apparent that no citizen, no matter what his qualifications, can perform the duties of this important office to the best interest of all the people if he is not afforded the necessary time to properly acquaint himself with the duties and responsibilities of the office and of the needs of the various Departments over which he is required to exercise control, and of the needs of the people generally.

I therefore offer the following recommendations:

1. Legislation should be enacted relieving the Governor of auditing, examining and approving expenditures of the several Departments.

2. Increase the salary of the Governor from $10,000.00 to $25,000.00 a year.

3. Amend the Constitution so that the next Governor elected shall serve for five years, and thus bring his successor into office in even-numbered years, between the sessions of the General Assembly, or amend the Constitution so that the General Assembly in the future shall meet in the even-numbered years instead of the odd-numbered years, or, better still, amend the Constitution so that the General Assembly shall meet quadrennially rather than biennially, and increase the compensation paid members of the General Assembly from $1,500.00 each per session of two years to $3,000.00 each for the term of four years. If this last-mentioned suggestion be adopted it is, of course, important to recall that the present Constitution provides for the convening of the General Assembly in extraordinary session, and prohibits the consideration of any subject for legislation not contained in the proclamation issued by the Governor, so convening that body. In support of the suggestion that the General Assembly meet in regular session but once in four years, I believe I am voicing the sentiment of many of the thinking people of the Commonwealth. Many States, as well as the National Government, are, in my judgment, suffering from a surfeit of laws rather than from too few. Prior to the Constitution of 1874 the General Assembly met in regular session every year. Since the adoption of that instrument the General Assembly was authorized to convene in regular session but once every two years, or in every odd-numbered year. From my study of the operations of the Government from that time as compared with its operations prior to 1874, I am unable to find a single instance where the people of the State suffered because of such change. It would appear, therefore, because of the multiplicity of laws placed upon our statute books every two years that the time has come when the people might consider whether or not the Commonwealth could not be operated just as well if the General Assembly met in regular session every four years instead of every two years, keeping in mind, of course, always that the Governor should be authorized to convene the General Assembly in extraordinary session whenever in his judgment there are any important matters demanding legislative consideration.

PUBLIC MONEYS.

The present system of collecting and disbursing the State's moneys is defective in many respects, and while recommendations are herein made for correcting these defects, attention is called to the fact that unless the Constitution be amended it will be possible, no matter what laws may be enacted by one session of the General Assembly for safeguarding these moneys, for a subsequent session of the General Assembly to so amend or repeal them as to practically nullify any beneficial result. As for example, the Act of May 11, 1909 (P. L. 519), entitled.

> "An Act making it a misdemeanor for any officer of this Commonwealth to authorize to be paid, or for the State Treasurer to pay, any money out of the State Treasury except in accordance with the provisions of an Act of Assembly specifying the amount and purpose of the expenditure, or for any officer of this Commonwealth to authorize to be paid, or for the State Treasurer to pay, any money out of the State Treasury in excess of the amount of such specific appropriation, and providing penalties for the violation thereof."

when enacted was intended to prohibit for all time the payment of any moneys out of the State Treasury except under an Act of Assembly setting forth specifically the amount to be expended and the purpose of such expenditure.

This law, probably one of the best upon our statute books, was in effect set aside by section 10 of the Act of July 7, 1913 (P. L. 672), which reads as follows:

> "The moneys derived from registrations and from license fees under the provisions of this act shall be paid by the State Highway Department into the State Treasury, for safe-keeping; and shall by the State Treasurer be placed in a separate fund, to be available for the use of the State Highway Department upon requisition of the State Highway Commissioner. All such moneys hereafter paid into the State Treasury are hereby specifically appropriated to the State Highway Department, for the purpose of assisting in the construction, maintenance, improvement, and repair of State Highways and State-aid Highways, as described in the act creating the State Highway Department, approved the thirty-first day of May, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and eleven. The Auditor General shall upon requisition, from time to time, of the State Highway Commissioner, draw his warrant upon the State Treasurer for the amount specified in such requisition, not exceeding, however, the amount in such fund at the time of making such requisition."

The Supreme Court held that such an appropriation was constitutional, as the provisions of the Constitution were intended only to apply to biennial appropriations made by the Legislature out of the general revenues of the Commonwealth, and that the Constitution had no application whatever to funds created for a special purpose and dedicated by the Act under which such fund was to be created for a particular use. The Court further decided that the appropriation of a fund so created continued as long as the Act which dedicated it to the particular use remained in force.

With the possibilities under the present constitution of creating special funds, of making continuing, appropriations, and probably of making appropriations by using the language in Appropriation Acts which was customary prior to the passage of the Act of 1909, hereinabove referred to, it will be readily seen that as time rolls round it will be impossible for the fiscal officers of the Commonwealth to strike a trial balance.

No well-regulated business could possibly be operated under such a system. The Constitution should be so amended as to require all moneys collected by the Commonwealth, whether for fees, taxes, bonus or what not, to be paid into the general fund of the Treasury for the use of the State, and that no money should be paid out except under an Act of the General Assembly limiting the life of such appropriation, setting forth specifically in dollars and cents the amount appropriated, and designating definitely the purpose of such expenditure.

Revenue for public business comes from private sources, but is in the form of taxes, fees, fines and bonuses. The fluctuations in private business have their effect upon the State's revenue, and its increase in volume from year to year is largely dependent upon the prosperity of private business.

For that reason the income or revenue of the State will never be a fixed sum, and can only be estimated in advance by means of recognized principles relating to all its sources. The acquisition of revenue cannot be regulated by law in the same manner or with as much certainty, as its disbursement.

Many of the laws now regulating the collection and disbursement of public moneys have been on the statute books almost since the establishment of this Commonwealth. Some of them have been amended and supplemented, but no general reorganization of the system has taken place for a century.

In a business that is growing day by day such a state of affairs must be viewed with trepidation, for to continue under such conditions is well nigh maladministration on the part of those possessing the authority necessary to bring about changes. The present Constitution, which became effective in 1874, contains elements of a good practical system for dealing with public moneys; but what was suitable in 1874 is to-day, in large measure, out of date. The only changes made since 1874 have been those brought about by Acts of Assembly, and it has been found an easy matter at recurring sessions of the General Assembly to amend and nullify meritorious Acts of previous sessions. Many of the most important reforms needed in our system to-day can only be accomplished and their future guaranteed by constitutional amendments. In that way, and in that way only, can the changes be made permanent.

Briefly, the defects in the present system are:

1. Failure to properly place responsibility for auditing, approving and settling public accounts.
2. Failure to restrict the appropriating of public money to specific Acts, specific sums, and to specific purposes.
3. A willingness to establish special funds in the Treasury instead of increasing the general fund.
4. Failure to particularize, or strictly construe, the purpose for which items mentioned in the General Appropriation Bill are to be used.

Considering the present volume of business passing through his office, it would be a physical impossibility for the Auditor General to exercise half the duties imposed upon him by various Acts of Assembly. For instance, the Act of 1811, which established his office, and combined with it that of Comptroller General and Surveyor General, provided that he should settle all public accounts, which included debts owing the Commonwealth as well as debts of the Commonwealth. This Act of Assembly, with its supplements and amendments, also provided that the State Treasurer should exercise co-ordinate jurisdiction or authority in the settling of all public accounts; and further provided that when these fiscal officers of the Commonwealth could not agree as to the proper settlement of an account, the same should be referred to the Governor, whose decision should be final, unless reversed by the Courts.

This system may have been satisfactory at that time, for the duties of the Auditor General and State Treasurer were few in number. It is absurd, if not ridiculous, to have the Auditor General and State Treasurer levy, assess and collect money due the Commonwealth, disburse the same, and then audit their own accounts. One or the other should be vested with these duties, and each should audit the other's accounts. Certainly both should not be required to perform the same duty, and only one be furnished with the facilities for so doing.

The State Treasurer is no better equipped to audit the public accounts and at the same time pay out public money, as ordered by the warrant of the Auditor General, than is any other Department, that might just as well have been designated to do the work by the Act of 1811, and it is imposing upon that Department a dual responsibility with which it should not be burdened. In recent years, at least since the business of the Commonwealth assumed such large proportions, the Treasurer has had to depend almost entirely upon the Auditor General's Department for the auditing of accounts and the assessing of taxes. If the laws of to-day are to be continued and the dual responsibility imposed upon the State Treasurer, that officer must be furnished with the same facilities for auditing as is the Auditor General.

The use of public accounts, or public moneys, raises a question of construction as to the proper use of similar appropriations by different Departments, particularly contingent funds. What a contingent fund may be used for has never been defined by Act of Assembly, but it is usually left to the discretion of the several Departments, subject, of course, to subsequent approval by the Auditor General and State Treasurer. I have cited below the only opinion available concerning this subject. Advances from these appropriations are made to the Departments, and after they have been expended vouchers are filed in the Auditor General's office, together with a requisition for another advance. This system of advances continues throughout the entire appropriation period of two years, so that such expenditures are made by Departments, as a rule, several months before the accounts are audited.

For your information, I quote below the language used in appropriating contingent funds for the several Departments during the period between June 1, 1915 and May 31, 1917, aggregating hundreds of thousands of dollars.

In the Executive Department the contingent fund item reads:

> "For contingent expenses, including clerical and stenographic charges for the Executive Department, etc."

In the Executive Controller's Department the item reads:

> "For the payment of contingent expenses, extra clerk hire, investigations and traveling expenses, etc."

In the Auditor General's Department it reads:

> "For the payment of postage, express charges, cost of filing liens and contingent expenses."

In the Department of Internal Affairs it reads:

> "For the payment of contingent expenses."

In the Treasury Department it reads:

> "For the payment of postage, express charges, and other incidental expenses."

In the State Department it reads:

> "For the payment of postage, express charges and contingent expenses."

In the Attorney General's Department it reads:

> "For the payment of contingent expenses, official fees, witness fees, serving processes, and for such other costs as the Commonwealth may be liable to pay in cases in which the Commonwealth is or may be liable to pay in cases in which the Commonwealth is or may be a party; and for the payment of postage, express charges, the purchase of law books for the law library of the Attorney General's Department, and other incidental expenses."

In the Banking Department it reads:

> "For the payment of contingent expenses."

In the Department of Public Instruction it reads:

> "For the payment of contingent expenses."

In the Adjutant General's Department it reads:

> "For the payment of contingent expenses, including shipment of arms, etc."

In the Insurance Department it reads:

> "For the payment of contingent expenses and for traveling expenses of actuary, examiners and inspectors."

In the Fire Marshal's Department it reads:

> "For the payment of contingent expenses; for contingent traveling expenses of the State Fire Marshal, his deputies and assistants; for the reporting of fires and mileage incident thereto; for the investigation of incendiary fires and inspection of property; for the payment of service and expenses of detectives and attorneys employed by the State Fire Marshal to assist in the detection and prosecution of the crime of arson; for the payment of costs, witness fees, the taking of testimony and the serving of processes; for the demolition and removal of old dilapidated buildings, etc.; and for carrying out the provisions of the Act establishing the office of State Fire Marshal."

The courts have recognized the fact that such loosely worded appropriations are beyond proper control.

> "In the case of Dunwoody vs. United States (22 C. Cls. R. 269), in discussing the words 'contingent, incidental, or miscellaneous,' as contained in Section 3682 of the Revised Statutes, Judge Davis, delivering the opinion of the court, used the following language:
> "The adjectives contingent, incidental, and miscellaneous, as used in the appropriation bills to qualify the word expenses, have a technical and well-understood meaning; it is usual for Congress to name the principal classes of expenditure which they authorize, such as clerk hire, fuel, light, postage, telegrams, etc., and then to make a small appropriation for the minor and unimportant disbursements incidental to any great business which cannot well be foreseen and which it would be useless to specify more accurately. For such disbursement a round sum is appropriated under the head of "contingent expenses," or "incidental expenses," or miscellaneous expenses" (page 280) * * *." (2 Comp. Dec. 43.)

It will thus be seen why contingent funds have come to be regarded as intended for discretionary use; but I fail to see why discretionary power should be exercised in spending public moneys when most other powers and duties of the several Departments are defined by Acts of Assembly, and are strictly adhered to.

Under the present conditions, most of the money required to administer the affairs of the State Government is paid out by the State Treasurer on the warrant of the Auditor General; but even admitting that this practice prevails, there is still a sufficient amount paid out directly by Departments, and accounted for later, to merit attention and consideration. It is absurd to think that an office with the powers and duties of the Auditor General's should be expanded from time to time, if the frame work of a good system is to be so hampered as to permit the expenditure of thousands of dollars annually for the payment of accounts that have not been audited. It would not be considered, much less tolerated, in the business world, and there is no good reason for its continuance in public office.

In addition to the undefined contingent funds mentioned, there is still another objectionable feature slowly but surely creeping into our revenue system. This is the enactment from time to time of Acts of Assembly such as the one cited in the first part of this chapter, dedicating certain revenues to certain uses.

Some of the special funds not available for general appropriations are: the School Fund, the Sinking Fund, Game Protection and Propogation Fund, Bounty Fund, Insurance Fund, Manufacturing Fund from Prison Labor, and Motor License Fund.

Such procedure was intended to be prohibited by the Act of Assembly approved May 11, 1909 (P. L. 519), above cited.

In the interest of good business management, no public money should be paid out of the public treasury except under the terms of an Act of Assembly setting forth a specific sum and limiting its use to a specific purpose.

The power to appropriate money is vested in the Legislative Branch of the Government, and any such provisions as section 7 of the Act approved June 16, 1911 (P. L. 1027), concerning the extension of the Capitol Park, and section 10 of the Highway Act, approved July 7, 1913 (P. L. 672), are certainly violations of the intent of the Act of 1909, and must be liberally construed not to conflict with Section 3 of Article III of the Constitution, which reads as follows:

> "Sec. 3. Subject of Bills. Title. No bill, except general appropriation bills, shall be passed containing more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title."

And Section 15 of Article III of the Constitution, which reads as follows:

> "Sec. 15. Appropriation Bills. The general appropriation bill shall embrace nothing but appropriations for the ordinary expenses of the executive, legislative and judicial departments of the Commonwealth, interest on the public debt and for public schools; all other appropriations shall be made by separate bills, each embracing but one subject."

There are, all told, less than twenty-five Acts of Assembly governing the settling of public accounts and the method of appropriating and disbursing public moneys.

To the end that public moneys may be safeguarded, that the transaction of public business may be duly expedited, and that all State officials may confine their time and attention to the specific duties of their respective offices, I offer the following recommendations:

1. Amend the Constitution so that no money be paid out of the State Treasury except under the terms of an Act of Assembly appropriating a specific sum for a specific purpose, and confining its use to a specific period. This will prevent the use of riders on appropriation bills providing "and any unexpended balances of previous appropriations." Unexpended balances should not be specifically set aside for all time after their appropriation. If not used during a specific appropriation period, they should revert to the general fund of the State Treasury.

2. Amend the Constitution so as to prohibit dedicating or earmarking revenues from certain sources and thus limiting them to specific uses. At the present rate of creation the day is not far distant when the special funds in the State Treasury will equal if not surpass the general funds.

The General Appropriation Bill, instead of carrying a contingent fund appropriation for every Department, particularly since contingent funds are supposed to be used for all the miscellaneous wants of the several Departments, should carry a single item for each of the various contingent wants, such as postage, telegraph, expressage, rent, and the like, which would represent the total needs of all Departments. To illustrate my recommendation, the Appropriation Committee could assemble in one item the aggregate needs of all Departments for traveling expenses for the next two years, and could then divide this lump sum among the Departments, as follows:

"For the necessary traveling expenses of the Several Departments of the State Government, two hundred thousand dollars, to be used as follows:
"Adjutant General's Department, ... dollars.
"Auditor General's Department, ... dollars.
"Attorney General's Department, ... dollars."

And so on through all the Departments.

This method should be applied to the payment of rent for offices outside the Capitol, for it was unquestionably the intent of the Act approved June 7, 1911 (P. L. 700), that all offices required outside the Capitol Building should be rented and paid for by the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings. The rent for some offices now being used by Departments is paid from contingent or other special funds.

In the matter of postage I recommend having one item appropriated in the Auditor General's Department for the purchase of all postage, to be issued on requisition to the several Departments. I do not imply that this money is now used for any purpose other than what was intended; but I do say, without qualification, that the postage purchased by many Departments is loosely handled and without proper restriction.

Telephone, telegrams, expressage and all other incidental needs should be paid for, upon approval of the several Departments, by one central Department, preferably the Board of Public Works. The purchase of miscellaneous supplies for the Departments is an item of no small importance when taken in the aggregate, but I have discussed this and made recommendations concerning it in my chapter on the proposed Board of Public Works.

AUDITOR GENERAL.

The Auditor General's Department stands in close relationship to every other Department of the State Government. It audits, supervises, and to an extent controls the financial affairs of all other Departments. While the State Treasurer exercises co-ordinate jurisdiction with the Auditor General in settling public accounts, the account must first be approved by the Auditor General before it is even submitted to the State Treasurer, and in the same manner requisitions for advances on appropriations must be approved by the Auditor General before his warrant which is an order to pay, is issued on the State Treasurer. For this reason, this Department must expand in the same ratio as the business of the Commonwealth, and must at all times be competent to manage the fiscal affairs of the Commonwealth in an efficient manner. To curtail expense at this point is making it possible some place else.

The ramifications of the fiscal affairs of the Commonwealth are now so great that it requires a large corps of expert clerks to properly audit, examine and settle such affairs. In addition to supervising these duties, the Auditor General exercises jointly with the State Treasurer the important function of levying, assessing and collecting State taxes.

When it is considered that more than fifty per cent. of the revenue of the Commonwealth is derived from corporation taxes, it is easy to see the importance of having this work dispatched by efficient clerks. Laxity or incompetency in this division of the Department would have a serious effect upon the State's revenue.

While the State Treasury, under the Act of 1811, with its supplements and amendments, exercises co-ordinate jurisdiction with the Auditor General in the settling of these as well as all other public accounts, his force is entirely inadequate to make the careful investigations that it is possible for the Auditor General to make by reason of his larger force.

The Auditor General might well be described as the State Auditor, the State Comptroller, and the State Tax Collector for he possesses the powers and exercises the functions of all three such officers. Whether the centralization of all these duties in one office is good practice, cannot be answered without serious consideration. From time to time the creation of a board to levy, assess and collect taxes has been suggested, but the plan has never been sufficiently popular to bring about legislation.

While it is manifestly true that the State Treasurer cannot, because of his lack of force, give all these matters the same attention that the Auditor General does, and at the same time care for and disburse the public moneys, it is wise, in the interest of public policy, to place as many restrictions upon the exercise of these important duties as is possible.

In addition to performing these duties, the Auditor General is a member of the Board of Agriculture; a member of the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings; a member of the Military Board; a member of the Sinking Fund Commission; a member of the Board of Public Accounts; a member of the Economy and Efficiency Commission; a member of the Commission to Provide Joint Acquisition of Certain Toll Bridges Over the Delaware River; and a member of the Commission on Soldiers' and Sailors' Home.

To relieve this situation, I made various recommendations throughout this Report that if followed will excuse the Auditor General from serving on five different Boards, and will enable him to concentrate his attention on the many duties peculiar to his own office.

A discussion of this Department would be incomplete without reference to the Division of Accounts. Theoretically all public accounts are settled by this Division, which consists of a Chief of Bureau, four office auditors, and eight traveling auditors. The office force handles the financial reports from the several Departments as well as the quarterly statements from the State and State-aided institutions. The salary of the Chief of this Division is $3 000.00, his nine office assistants range from $1,500.00 to $2,500.00, and the eight traveling auditors receive $1,800.00 annually. It should be borne in mind that all the fiscal affairs of the Commonwealth, aggregating expenditures of thirty-five million dollars a year, are audited by this Division, and that the traveling auditors are in reality the eyes through which the State Government watches the expenditures of moneys by State and State-aided institutions. Suffice it to say that this corps particularly should be men of experience and unquestioned ability, capable of giving advice to the institutions concerning disbursements and other financial matters.

In my chapter devoted to State Institutions I call attention to the dissimilarity of accounting, bookkeeping and recording systems in operation throughout the Commonwealth, these same dissimilarities apply to departments. While it is true that the principal bookkeeping and the auditing and settling of accounts must be carried on in the Auditor General's office, it is equally true that every Department should have an accurate record in its office at all times of its financial affairs. The department records need not go into the detail required in the Auditor General's and State Treasurer's offices, but it is inexcusable for any Department to continue to carry on its affairs from day to day without having intimate knowledge of the condition of its several appropriations. Such office records, while of a simple character, should be uniform.

In the case of State institutions, such records are entirely different. They are so far removed from the seat of Government that they must of necessity keep their records in detail, and because they are units of the same system their systems should be uniform. From time to time it is important to make comparisons between these institutions, but under present conditions this is impossible. The importance of installing a uniform system is apparent, and if the Division of Accounts in the Auditor General's Department is increased and improved as recommended herein, this force will be competent to make the changes necessary to bring about uniformity.

To assume that the Commonwealth can procure the services of accountants or experienced office assistants for the money appropriated is foolhardy. This is no reflection upon the present force, for they have equipped themselves by experience to discharge their duties efficiently.

When it is considered that this particular division safeguards the expenditure of all State moneys, it seems advisable for the State to provide for herself the best system and the most efficient clerks. Low salaries in this respect are false economy. In another Department of the State Government through which the State exercises surveillance over the affairs of public service companies the Chief Accountant receives nearly twice the salary of the Chief of the Division in the Auditor General's office. If it is essential that the Commonwealth provide expert service when outside interests are concerned, it is of equal importance that she take the same precautions when public money is concerned.

The cost last year of maintaining the Auditor General's Department was $196,742.69. In order to give the State adequate protection at the proper place instead of continuing our present policy of saving at the spigot and losing at the bunghole, I offer the following recommendations:

1. Relieve the Auditor General of the discharge of unnecessary duties that devolve upon him by reason of his membership in the boards and commissions pointed out above.

2. Reorganize the Division of Accounts by placing at the head of this an experienced accountant at a salary of $5,000.00 per annum, and pay the assistants in proportion to their responsibilities.

3. Increase the number of traveling auditors to twenty, in order that the State may be constantly in touch with all Divisions through which the money passes. This would make possible monthly examinations of the financial affairs of the State and State-aided institutions instead of the quarterly visits now made.

STATE TREASURER.

If the present system of requiring the State Treasurer to audit and join with the Auditor General in the settlement of all public accounts, as well as the assessment and collection of all taxes due the Commonwealth, is to be continued, the Treasury Department must be afforded every facility for properly discharging its obligations; otherwise, the performance of these duties must necessarily be perfunctory, for it is physically impossible for the State Treasurer with his present limited force to make the audits and examinations necessary to enable him to arrive at any reasonably accurate basis for settling accounts or levying taxes, and at the same time discharge the important duty of receiving and disbursing the moneys of the Commonwealth. In the capacity of receiving and disbursing the money of the Commonwealth, this officer handles from thirty to thirty-five million dollars a year.

The State Treasurer is a constitutional officer. Under the Constitution and the laws prescribing and defining his duties, he is required to receive all public moneys and disburse the same when authorized by legislative enactment. Theoretically that is accepted as his duty; but in reality, he not only handles the public money and pays it out on order of the Auditor General, but he is required to exercise co-ordinate jurisdiction with the Auditor General in settling all public accounts, assessing and collecting taxes.

The business of the State Treasury is of such a character that it expands or contracts in direct ratio to the business of the Commonwealth. Up to the present time the line of activity has been expansion, and nothing indicates at present that it will be contraction. All moneys expended by the Commonwealth for every purpose whatsoever go through the State Treasury, which indicates that the clerical force must be sufficient to protect the Commonwealth, and large in numbers to expedite business. If the State Treasurer were to carry out in detail the auditing duties imposed upon his office by the Acts of Assembly concerning public accounts, it would require the service of practically his entire present office force to examine and audit the vouchers and settlement sheets requiring his approval.

Whether settling public accounts was intended to mean approving the action of the Auditor General or duplicating the work performed by the Auditor General, I am unable to say. It is a fact, however, that the State Treasurer, being held jointly responsible for the settling of such accounts, has done everything possible to protect himself, rather than depend entirely upon a separate and distinct Department, over which he exercises no jurisdiction.

The business of the Treasury, so far as the issuing of checks is concerned, has trebled in the past few years, and will continue to increase.

The State Treasurer is a member of the Board of Public Accounts; a member of the State Workmen's Insurance Board; a member of the Board of Revenue Commissioners; a member of the Sinking Fund Commission; a member of the Military Board; a member of the Commission on Soldiers' and Sailors' Home; a member of the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings; a member of the Board to License Private Bankers; and a member of the Commission to Provide Joint Acquisition of Certain Toll Bridges Over the Delaware River.

In other chapters of this Report I have recommended the abolishment or consolidation of Boards and Commissions that will eventually relieve the State Treasurer of ex-officio duties that he should not be called upon to discharge. To further facilitate the work of this important Department it will be necessary to increase the clerical force, and to that end I make the following recommendations:

Create three new clerical positions at $1,500.00 each per annum, and two stenographic positions at $1,200.00 per annum. This will relieve the present congestion and provide for the normal increase of business.

BOARD OF FINANCE AND REVENUE.

There are four separate and distinct Boards now dealing with the revenue and public accounts of this Commonwealth.

They are the Board of Public Accounts, consisting of the Auditor General, State Treasurer and Attorney General; the Board of Revenue Commissioners, consisting of the Auditor General, State Treasurer and Secretary of the Commonwealth, the Sinking Fund Commission, consisting of the State Treasurer, Secretary of the Commonwealth and Banking Commissioner.

While the duties of these four Boards are not identical, they are similar, and one Board properly organized and equipped with a clerical force could transact the business of all four Boards more efficiently and with greater dispatch than four separate boards. It is impossible for these boards to meet when they should and not conflict with the special duties of the officials who compose them.

I have endeavored throughout this Report to eliminate conflict as well as duplication of duties, and the consolidation of these Boards would bring about both reforms.

I therefore recommend that a Board of Finance and Revenue, to consist of the Auditor General, State Treasurer, Secretary of the Commonwealth and Attorney General, be created, and that all duties now discharged by the Board of Public Accounts, the Board of Revenue Commissioners, the Sinking Fund Commission, and the Board to License Private Bankers, be transferred to this new Board. I also suggest that the Commissioner of Banking be consulted by this Board in connection with the licensing of Private Bankers and the selection of State depositories.

BUDGET SYSTEM.

Much has been written and said about budget systems, but the definition of such a system usually narrows down to a matter of personal opinion. We have heard of locked budget, which are as binding as an appropriation to a Department or Division, and elastic budgets which are binding but permit the transfer, under certain conditions, of items from one usage to another. These different systems all have their advantages; but the last two mentioned are not compatible with our present Constitution, and, therefore cannot be considered.

No direct effort has been made in Pennsylvania to establish a budget system. The nearest approach are Section 10 of Article IV of the Constitution, which reads as follows:

> "Sec. 10. Information from Department Officials. He may require information in writing from the officers of the Executive Department, upon any subject relating to their respective offices."

And Section II of Article IV of the Constitution, which reads as follows:

> "Sec. 11. Messages to Legislature. He shall, from time to time, give to the General Assembly information of the state of the Commonwealth, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he may judge expedient."

And an Act approved March 16, 1832 (P. L. 154), entitled:

> "An Act requiring the State Treasurer to make annual report on the subject of finance."

If the officials above mentioned could exercise jointly the duties delegated to them, it would produce a sort of a budget. But the proper way to install a budget system is to make it the duty of some particular person or Board to do the work. It is impossible to bind the General Assembly by a recommendation from either of the other two Branches of the State Government; but at the same time it would be of considerable assistance to the General Assembly if more detailed information concerning expenditures and estimated needs were furnished the General Assembly when it convenes, rather than just in time to prepare the General Appropriation Bill. Such information as is required for this purpose is accessible at all times in the year, and could be compiled with very little effort in a very brief period.

I have recommended in another chapter the consolidation of four separate Boards into one Board, to be known as the State Board of Finance and Revenue; and I therefore recommend that this proposed Board prepare not later than January 1st of every odd-numbered year a report embodying the following information:

> 1. Amounts appropriated and the purposes for which they were intended.
> 2. Amount expended from appropriations of the previous General Assembly during the first eighteen months of the biennium.
> 3. The estimated needs of the several Divisions of the three Branches of the State Government during the next biennium.

After consideration of this information, this Board should confer with the Governor, and add to their report his recommendations for appropriations for the next biennium.

This would place the responsibility for compiling data with a Board with facilities for doing it, and would place before the Governor in concrete form all the data necessary for his information. His recommendation of amounts to be appropriated would reach the General Assembly shortly after it convened, and in ample time for due and proper consideration. It would also be notice to the Departments of what they could expect in the way of appropriations, and it would prevent the waste of valuable time now spent lobbying in the interest of increased appropriations. Such a report would give the press and the public information to which they are entitled.

If the recommendations for appropriations to charitable institutions now made biennially by the State Board of Charity were first submitted to the Governor for his approval, it would save considerable time now devoted at the close of a session of the General Assembly to excessive appropriations.

STATUTORY POSITIONS.

The practice of creating positions by inserting an item in the General Appropriation Bill was, in my mind, never contemplated by the framers of the Constitution, and should be frowned upon. It would appear that the time has come when a halt should be made to this custom. The only way to do it effectively is to amend the Constitution by requiring that no position shall be created unless under and by virtue of an Act of Assembly, setting forth the title and the amount of compensation to be received by the incumbent of the office, except as is hereinafter provided.

The Acts of Assembly creating most of the Departments specify the number of positions, the salaries for the same, and their general and detailed duties. There are instances, particularly laws enacted by recent General Assemblies, where the creation of positions has been left to the discretion of a Commissioner or a Commission. This is true of the Public Service Commission and of the State Health Department, the only restriction in both instances being the amount of the appropriation.

These general Acts are not commendable, but are not so dangerous as the practice of adding positions to Departments by inserting in the General Appropriation Bills items which read, "so many dollars for the payment of so many clerks, stenographers and other employes during a specified period." As an instance of this practice, I submit the following extracts from the General Appropriation Bill passed by the 1915 General Assembly:

In the Auditor General's budget an item reads:

> "For the payment of such extra clerks as the Auditor General may find it necessary to employ, and for the purpose of carrying out the recommendations of the Economy and Efficiency Commission."

In the Treasury Department budget an item reads:

> "For the payment of such extra clerks as the State Treasurer may find it necessary to employ for the purpose of balancing and transferring accounts, making invoices or rendering any other general assistance to the regular clerical force."

In the Department of Public Instruction budget an item reads:

> "For extra clerical assistance necessary in the distribution of the appropriation to the common schools."

In the Legislative Reference Bureau budget an item reads:

> "For the payment of the Directors of the Legislative Reference Bureau in the maintenance and incidental expenses and emergency clerical help."

These are not all such items by any means, but they are a fair sample of the practice to which I refer. The Supreme Court of this State has held that an item of this character providing a specific appropriation for the payment of salaries is sufficient to create such positions. But these positions might better be called session to session positions, for if a succeeding General Assembly failed to provide a similar item, the positions would be abolished automatically.

It is perfectly true that if a position is created by an Act of Assembly, and the Legislature fail to provide an appropriation for that position, the position will in all likelihood remain unfilled. But the position is not abolished by the failure to appropriate money. I do not deny for one instant that there are occasions when a Department needs extra clerical or stenographic help for a limited period; but I do say that if any so-called temporary position must be filled twelve months in a year, it is of enough importance to be made permanent by an Act of Assembly; and if not, it should be abolished.

There have been instances where these positions were created from session to session because the heads of the several Departments were reluctant to be criticized for creating positions or increasing salaries. This should not be their point of view. They owe a duty to the public to see that the affairs of their respective Departments are properly administered, and to the employes they owe a duty to see that proper and sufficient clerical assistance is provided.

This special clerical fund provides possibilities for another evil, to wit, increasing a salary established by Act of Assembly. Vouchers are frequently filed in the Auditor General's office which show an expenditure for extra clerical services performed by a clerk whose salary is fixed by Act of Assembly. This is a vicious practice, if not an unlawful one, it should be discontinued. At present there are approximately four thousand positions connected with the several Departments of the State Government. Only half of these were created by Act of Assembly.

I therefore recommend that legislation be enacted creating every position now deemed necessary, and fixing its salary, and I also recommend an amendment to the constitution providing that no position shall exist in any Department of the State Government in the future for more than a period of three months, unless created by an Act of Assembly prescribing its duties, and fixing its compensation.

EQUALIZATION OF SALARIES.

During the past quarter of a century considerably more attention has been paid in this Commonwealth to the creation of new positions in the Departments than to the proper compensation of established positions. Most salaries are the same to-day as when they were established. There are various reasons for this condition, one—and perhaps the most important—is the fact that growing Departments were more interested in providing additional positions to take care of new duties than they were in compensating employes for extra services. A majority of the positions are well compensated, but many others are not.

The title of the position should not be the standard or measure for payment. The compensation should be commensurate with the duties performed and the responsibilities imposed. An examination of the analytical classification chart that I have prepared as a part of this Report shows the salary paid for every position in every Department, and at the same time shows the difference in salaries paid by the several Departments for positions with similar names.

The salaries of the heads of Departments very from $3,000.00 to $12,000.00; the salaries of deputies from $1,500.00 to $7,500.00; the salaries of inspectors from $720.00 to $5,000.00; the salaries of statisticians from $1,000.00 to $3,000.00; the salaries of stenographers from $480.00 to $1,800.00; and the salaries of watchmen from $600.00 to $1,080.00. This wide variation can be pointed out with relation to every class of positions in the State Government. It is manifestly unfair for a rich Commonwealth to treat her employes penuriously. It neither encourages loyalty nor inspires maximum effort. The State employes give the State a substantial return for every dollar received. If the reorganizations and consolidations recommended herein are carried out a great many positions will be found unnecessary and duplication of work eliminated. But even that reform will not put many salaries where they belong.

I therefore recommend that you carefully consider the advisability of raising such salaries as are now out of proportion to the duties prescribed and performed; but I do not wish this to be interpreted as a recommendation for a general increase of all State salaries. Such is entirely unnecessary.

SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH.

The Department of the Secretary of the Commonwealth is an example of the need for the equalization of salaries, to the end that the employes thereof may receive the same compensation as is paid to employes in other Departments of the State Government rendering like services.

The responsibilities and duties imposed by the Constitution and the laws of the Commonwealth upon this Department are probably as far-reaching as those imposed upon any other Department of the State Government. The Secretary of the Commonwealth is required to keep a record of all official acts and proceedings of the Governor. He is charged with the custody of the Great Seal of the State, and, in a general way, exercises ministerial jurisdiction over all charters issued by the Governor. He is a member of the Board of Pardons, and much of the clerical work done by that Board is done in his office. The work relating to the filing of nomination papers for the nomination and election of officials to fill State offices is practically all transacted in the office of the Department of State. All corporate creations, which includes mergers and consolidations, increase of capital stock and indebtedness, are recorded in this office. The commissions issued to the various officials throughout the Commonwealth, occupying State offices, are prepared under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of the State.

No general reorganization of the force of this office has taken place since 1874. As a result, several of the most valued employes have resigned to accept positions elsewhere at greatly increased compensation.

INCAPACITATED EMPLOYES.

An Act of Assembly approved June 14, 1915 (P. L. 973), provides that State employes who have served continuously for twenty-five years, or who have served continuously for twenty years, and have reached the age of seventy, shall be eligible to retirement on half pay. The terms of this Act are stricter than those of Acts dealing with similar subjects in the municipalities, and I think in justice to State employes the present Act should be amended.

I therefore recommend that the Act of 1915 be amended so that any employee who shall have served continuously for twenty years, and reached the age of sixty, shall be eligible for retirement.

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

To properly administer the affairs of a Commonwealth the size of Pennsylvania, which expends approximately from thirty to thirty-five million dollars a year, the time has come when it is absolutely necessary for the centralization of many of the functions of Government now being performed by separate Departments, Boards or Commissions into one Department of the State Government, the powers and responsibilities of which should be clearly defined and fixed; and especially is this desirable because of Pennsylvania's industrial supremacy and the fact that the population, which is now nine million, at the present rate of growth will be eighteen to twenty million in 1950.

The planning of great public works upon a comprehensive scale should be commended without delay, for the reason that every year that such comprehensive planning is postponed the cost of the works is greatly increased, and in many cases is made prohibitive because of the erection of buildings, the placing of obstructions in our rivers and streams, and the building of railroads; all of which could be accomplished without interfering with the proper development of the State and its industries if undertaken under proper supervision.

Such a Board would also have exclusive charge of all State property from its purchase to its sale or demolition, and would take over the functions of the present Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings, whose control is confined almost exclusively to the Capitol Building in Harrisburg, and whose purchases are restricted to the needs of the several Departments of the State Government, and does not include the purchases made by the various State institutions.

There are not less than a dozen Boards and Commissions now performing duties that should be performed by a Board of Public Works. They all spend public money for similar purposes, and they all operate through as many different channels and in as many different ways as there are Boards and Commissions. This is unbusinesslike and wasteful.

Pennsylvania should spend her money in the most economical manner, under careful supervision; identical duties, resulting in conflict of authority and duplication of work, should not be discharged by different bodies; the purchase of similar articles at dissimilar prices should be discouraged; standards should be established for staple supplies; purchases should be made in accordance with the best possible methods, and no efforts nor money should be spared in providing the dependent wards of the State with the best possible maintenance and care.

Section 12 of Article III of the Constitution, which reads as follows:

> "All stationery, printing, paper and fuel used in the legislative and other departments of government shall be furnished, and the printing, binding and distributing of the laws, journals, department reports, and all the other printing and binding, and the repairing and furnishing the halls and rooms used for the meetings of the General Assembly and its committees shall be performed under contract to be given to the lowest responsible bidder below such maximum price and under such regulations as shall be prescribed by law; no member or officer of any department of the government shall be in any way interested in such contracts, and all such contracts shall be subject to the approval of the Governor, Auditor General and State Treasurer," is the controlling factor so far as supplies are concerned, and should be either liberally construed to include everything or amended so as to remove all doubt.

There is no question in my mind but that this section of the Constitution applies to the State institutions, and that their supplies for furnishings, equipment and maintenance should be purchased in the same manner as are most of the supplies for the several Departments. The need of central supervision over the purchases of these institutions is discussed in detail in another chapter of this Report, where I have recommended that foodstuffs be purchased by the institutions on a co-operative basis—supervised by the Board of Public Works—and that all other staple supplies, such as furnishings and equipment, be purchased by the Board of Public Works, in such manner as may be prescribed by that Board.

Under several Acts of Assembly the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings has been authorized to purchase the supplies needed by the several Departments. In a large measure that duty has been well performed. But at the same time the appropriations to the several Departments have been interpreted with such elasticity that some Departments have delegated to themselves the authority and duty of purchasing many of their miscellaneous wants.

The present system consists, briefly, of the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings preparing an annual schedule, made up of the estimated needs of the several Departments. A maximum price is fixed, proposals advertised for, and contracts awarded to the lowest responsible bidders in the manner prescribed by law. This system is very good as far as it goes. The first great drawback is the fact that the contracts are entered into for a twelve-month period, and naturally the contractors must provide against loss when they face a constantly fluctuating market.

This should be changed so that the Board of Public Works could enter into contracts for periods most favorable to the interests of the State. The law should also provide that all purchases of all supplies for all Departments should be made by or through the Board of Public Works. The staple needs of all Departments should be standardized by experts employed by the Board of Public Works. At present it is only necessary for an agent to canvass the several Departments and leave samples of some new-fangled supply in order to have the same added to the estimated needs of the several Departments and thus be incorporated in the next schedule. This practice has grown to such an extent that it now requires a schedule of several hundred pages and several thousand items to enumerate the office wants of all Departments.

The different varieties of paper require several pages. Different brands of pens, pencils, inks, muscilages, carbon papers, typewriter ribbons and similar office supplies require many pages. Soaps can be found in abundance, all purchased by trade names, and not by formulae or specifications. Such a system is as antiquated as Noah's Ark. It does not bespeak good business practice or economic inclination. The best that can be said of it is that it served its purpose in the past. It is no longer adaptable for State use.

The method of purchasing supplies for the State Government is no more antiquated, however, than the method of establishing State institutions. It is the custom for the General Assembly to authorize the appointment of a Commission with authority to select a site and erect buildings for a particular purpose,—in most instances an insane asylum or a medical hospital. Part of the system consists of the Building Commission subsequently turning over a completed institution to a Board of Trustees appointed by the Governor. In some instances some members of the Building Commission become Trustees, but there is no assurance when the builders are appointed that they will subsequently be Trustees or Managers of the institution that they are appointed to establish and erect. Consequently I am safe in saying that they do not have the same interest in such work as they would have if they knew in advance that they would be charged with the administration as well as the erection of the particular institution.

There have been times in the past when six or more Building Commissions were supervising public work of this kind simultaneously in as many different parts of the State. At present there are four Commissions of this character, erecting four different State institutions, and there is a possibility that the present General Assembly will create additional similar bodies. A Building Commission, like any other body, conducts its own affairs in its own fashion, and frequently in a manner entirely different from every other contemporary Commission. Individuality above everything else characterizes the work carried on by these Building Commissions. There is no co-operation of effort, no standardization of design, and no effort to bring about such private and competing enterprises are more closely related than these separate Commissions carrying on public business. Their only restriction is the size of their appropriation.

Such a state of affairs needs no comment. It is absurd on its face, and is not even a good piecework system, where a premium is placed upon individual effort. The history of every Commission of this character shows that a few members have dominated affairs and have dictated policies.

Instead of this system the State should supervise all such work through a central body, properly equipped to give the State the largest possible return for the expenditure of every dollar of public money.

The Board of Public Works should have not only supervision over the Capitol Building, but exclusive supervision over all other State Buildings. Their duties should not stop when a completed institution is turned over to the Board of Trustees or Managers, as present Building Commissions do, but they should have under surveillance all such buildings, so that the institution may have the benefit of expert advice. Needed improvements, alterations and repairs should be anticipated, for maintenance is a most important factor in the proper management of all property.

The State had better be charged with over-indulgence in the care of her dependent wards than be indicted for miserly treatment. The wards of the State should not only be well kept, but they should be well housed, and the proper way to do this is to have their accommodations and sustenance supervised constantly by a central and impartial body. Independent management of the institutions has many advantages, but improvements and maintenance from a structural viewpoint should be handled by experts. Experience has taught us that the demand for such institutions is constantly growing, not decreasing. We should take time by the forelock, and by a systematic method of expenditure and supervision answer the cry of our dependent wards.

I therefore recommend the creation of a Board of Public Works, to consist of three persons to be appointed, respectively, by the Governor, Auditor General, and State Treasurer, and I would transfer to this Board of Public Works the duties now vested in the following bodies:

The Commission to Purchase Land Opposite Independence Hall.
The Branch Capitol Commission.
The Commission to Consider the Advisability of Manufacturing Bricks at the New Penitentiary.
The Commission to Select a Site and Erect an Industrial Home for Women.
A Commission to Erect a Monument to Robert Morris.
A Commission to Select a Site and Construct a State Home for Inebriates.
The Capitol Park Extension Commission.
A Commission to Select a Site for an Insane Asylum West of the Allegheny Mountains.
A Commission to Establish a Village for Feeble-Minded Women.
The Prison Labor Commission.
The State Armory Board.
The Committee to Erect a Statue to General Meade.
The Commission on the Delaware River Toll Bridges.

Give to this Board of Public Works complete supervision over the purchase, erection, equipping and maintaining of all State property; the purchase of all supplies for all Departments; the purchase of all furnishings and equipment for all State institutions; and supervision over the co-operative purchase of foodstuffs by the State institutions.

I also recommend that the State Government discontinue the practice of restoring county bridges destroyed by fire, flood, wind or other casualty, and that the counties themselves be obliged to construct such public conveniences.

WATERWAYS.

The establishment of a Board of Public Works, heretofore referred to in this Report, would probably do as much if not more toward putting the business affairs of the State upon an economic and efficient basis than the creation and continuance of a dozen Economy and Efficiency Commissions. Such a Board would, directly or indirectly, supervise and see to it that the harbor facilities in the eastern part of the State, at Philadelphia, were so improved as to make them at least upon par with those offered by the City of New York; also that the harbor facilities in the western part of the State, at Pittsburgh, would be improved by reason of the elevation of bridges, dredging and the expenditure of the necessary moneys by the Federal Government in co-operation with the State of Pennsylvania so that the congested conditions in that district would be relieved by shipment over the waters of the rivers there; also that dams would be erected for the purpose of flood prevention, and assist through its engineering experts and force in the establishment of stream lines beyond which encroachments would be absolutely prohibited, and generally to improve the river systems of the State.

With such a Board the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania could well incur a bond issue of at least one hundred million dollars for the undertaking of these works, which, of course, should include road improvement and maintenance.

After considerable investigation, I am convinced that such a procedure would be good business, as the Commonwealth could in a period of ten years, with the expenditure of one hundred million dollars, accomplish more than could possibly be accomplished under the present piecemeal system in a century, with an expenditure of five hundred million dollars.

The channels of commerce or the avenues to the markets of Pennsylvania are her railroads, highways and waterways. The first system can be regulated but not managed. The second and third, namely, highways and waterways, are natural advantages, capable of development as the State desires. The demand for good highways has been so great of late that it has become a popular clamor, and during the last half dozen years the State has really awakened to the needs of her citizens. Of equal importance, but not yet recognized, is the demand for improved waterways, because of the greatly reduced rates for transportation over such routes.

Pennsylvania has not embraced the advantages offered her by reason of her wealth of natural resources and geographic position. In the east she has waterways and advantages for commercial purposes unsurpassed by any State in the United States. In the west she has a natural outlet to the Mississippi Valley through the Ohio River and its tributaries. In the northwest she has a very important and prosperous city fronting on one of the Great Lakes of this Continent, and affording wonderful commercial possibilities by reason of its being a gateway to Canada and the St. Lawrence River. Consideration of the Susquenanna River, tapping the wealth of central Pennsylvania, has been confined to romance and speculation, rather than serious action. Whether it could be made navigable has never been seriously considered, for the State has shown such an indisposition to improve her greater natural resources in the east and west that those interested in her central advantages have wasted no effort seeking improvements. Thus it becomes apparent that encroachments are not properly guarded against nor natural resources economically and commercially developed.

The uninformed usually take the position that the Port of Philadelphia, which is Pennsylvania's gateway to the Atlantic Ocean, is too far removed from the mouth of the Delaware River to ever become a great seaport. This position is untenable, for it is contradicted by the success of every great seaport in the world. In Europe most of the prosperous ports are located at the heads of navigable rivers. They are thus brought nearer to the centers of population, and serve better as an outlet for commerce. Hamburg, for instance, is fifty miles from the mouth of the Elbe River, which was originally shallow, narrow, tortuous and incomparable with the Delaware River in any respect. London is sixty miles from the mouth of the Thames River. Liverpool is fifteen miles from the mouth of the Mersey River. Antwerp is sixty miles from the mouth of the Scheldt. In the United States our most prosperous seaports are comparatively inland, Baltimore, for instance, being one hundred and fifty miles from the Capes of the Chesapeake, where the pilots board incoming vessels. New Orleans is ninety-six miles from the mouth of the Mississippi; New York is twenty-five miles from the beginning of her buoyed channel, and Boston is eight miles from the Atlantic Ocean.

Inward and outward bound vessels require the services of pilots on the Delaware, but the rates for this service are uniform with rates of other ports; and in view of the present Chief Executive's action in vetoing a bill increasing them in 1915, there is little likelihood that they will be raised in the near future.

There is a commodious tidal estuary extending thirty-five miles from the Atlantic Ocean to the Delaware River ship channel, which starts fifty-three miles below Market Street, Philadelphia. The channel varies from six hundred to one thousand feet in width, and is thirty feet deep at low tide. The fluctuation of the tidal level is felt thirty-three miles above Philadelphia, and the variation is from four to six feet between high and low water. The river provides a fresh water channel for a distance of thirty miles below Philadelphia, which is an advantage no other port in the United States of any size can boast. In fact, Philadelphia is the only Atlantic coast port on fresh water.

At the Delaware Capes there is one of the safest harbors in the world. It is the most important and best safety harbor on the Atlantic coast. It is situated at the mouth of the bay, and midway between New York and Baltimore, in the direct track of commerce-laden steamers plying between the Northern and Southern States. It is known throughout the world as the Delaware Breakwater Safety Harbor. This refuge has a protected anchorage area of five hundred and fifty acres, with a minimum low water of thirty feet, and an additional area of two hundred and thirty-seven acres, with a minimum low water of twenty-four feet.

These are advantages that cannot be overlooked, and should be embraced. Philadelphia has less than three hundred wharves, half of which are projecting piers. Part of these wharves and improved bulkheads are located on the Schuylkill River, and the water frontage of Philadelphia boasts of three national trunk line railroads, which possess well-equipped marine terminals, large ships can dock, load and unload, while enjoying free wharfage, and are not required to use lighters or transfer their cargoes by floats. These railroad advantages are supplemented by the Philadelphia Belt Line Railroad, a quasi-public corporation, which can give service from or to any of the other lines. This provides an easy and economic transfer of freight from the railroad wharves.

Philadelphia's water frontage on the Delaware and Schuylkill comprises thirty-seven miles, but the principal activities are confined to six miles. Strange as it may seem, nearly fifty per cent. of the gross export tonnage originates on the Schuylkill River, owing to the enormous oil shipments from that locality. The total berthing space at the wharves in Philadelphia aggregates less than one hundred and seventy thousand feet, of which less than forty thousand are used for heavy-draught vessels.

A few miles above the river the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company Canal discharges its cargoes, gathered from the industrial and coal regions of the State. Above this the Delaware and Raritan Canal provides tonnage from New York and New Jersey. The river with its vast resources might be said to tap the manufacturing and producing industries of the Eastern United States.

At the present time the banks of the Delaware are a beehive of industry. Millions of dollars are being expended weekly by the various shipyards in the employment of skilled and unskilled labor and for the materials entering into the construction of new ships, which when completed will serve to help maintain our American Mercantile Marine.

There are under construction or contracted for at the present time one hundred and seven vessels with a gross tonnage of 587,910 tons, the approximate value of which will exceed sixty million dollars.

During the calendar year of 1916, Philadelphia's foreign commerce broke all previous records, her imports amounting in value to $111,407,851, while merchandise to the value of $321,044,815 was exported.

As indicative of the increased importance of the Port of Philadelphia, the import and export values for ten-year periods, from 1866, are here quoted:

	Imports.	Exports.
1866	$ 7,331,261	$ 17,687,716
1876	21,000,000	59,539,450
1886	37,997,005	33,607,386
1896	39,807,278	42,431,100
1906	72,137,678	88,276,315
1916	111,407,851	321,044,815

From the Port of Philadelphia are shipped annually to foreign ports approximately from fifty to sixty million bushels of grain, and in this industry the port ranks from second to third in importance in the United States.

There were also shipped from the Port of Philadelphia during last year to foreign ports approximately three hundred million gallons of oil.

Within the twelve months of 1916 there arrived here five thousand one hundred and seventy vessels, the gross tonnage of which totaled 9,315,964 tons. Of this number, three-thousand six hundred and thirty-two came from domestic ports, their gross tonnage amounting to 4,287,495 tons. From two hundred million to three hundred million feet of lumber enter the Port of Philadelphia annually.

In addition, the Philadelphia Navy Yard is located at the junction of the Delaware and Schuylkill Rivers, and has facilities for anchoring half the American fleet. It provides a fresh water harbor, of which no other navy yard in the United States can boast. It is right in touch with the industrial center of the United States, and enjoys these advantages in the construction and repair of naval vessels.

The advantages enjoyed by Philadelphia on the Delaware River are so numerous that exploiting them only emphasizes the neglect of the Commonwealth in not improving them in the past. For improving and maintaining the Harbor of Philadelphia between 1890 and 1914 the combined City, State and Federal appropriations totaled $17,000,203. The smallest amount collected during the past ten years was $16,726,706.60 in 1908, and this is $457,257.89 more than the total Federal appropriation from 1802 to the present, for dredging the Delaware.

It is, therefore, apparent that if the State continue to wait for Federal assistance in improving her waterways, the Port of Philadelphia will soon be so far behind the other seaports of the United States that she can never catch up.

No less an authority than Lord Pirrie, of Belfast, said:

> "If a fixed amount is to be spent on harbor improvements it is a local question varying in different harbors as to whether increase in depth or improvement of accommodation for handling passengers and cargo is mostly required, but as it is usually quite possible to obtain increased local facilities for the handling of passengers and cargo, provided the ships can get next to the wharves or docks, it is as a general rule more urgent in the first place to increase the depth of the harbor than to provide the detailed facilities."

What has been said of Philadelphia in the way of needed improvements can be said of Pittsburgh and Erie. Every dollar expended in this direction will be returned a hundred-fold in the future. The present generation owes a debt to future generations that it cannot overlook. Nature has given us natural advantages that could not be purchased by the outlay of millions of dollars. To continue to disregard the development of these natural resources is gross neglect. The time has come when the State must do something, or suffer the consequences.

It will require a vast outlay of money to bring about the necessary improvements, for they cannot be accomplished by piece-meal, hit-or-miss, crazy-quilt methods. The State's ports need wharves and warehouses provided with the best mechanical trans-shipping equipment. She needs dry-dock accommodations, and the channels are in constant need of dredging to keep them clear for heavy-draught vessels. She needs improved bulkheads, additional wharves and docks.

To bring about the waterway improvements on a scale commensurate with Pennsylvania's needs, I respectfully recommend a bond issue, to be used as follows:

1. To determine and fix the stream lines throughout the State, and thus prevent encroachment beyond such lines, as encroachments are now prohibited on highways.

2. To determine whether the State or National Governments exercise jurisdiction jointly or separately over the streams in Pennsylvania, and set at rest all doubt as to whether Federal or State authority is in command.

3. To provide a comprehensive plan for dredging the rivers of the State, and provide facilities for proper discharge of flood waters. This is a most important feature that is growing day by day, and one that must be contended with at no far-distant time.

4. To adopt a comprehensive scheme for improving the port facilities of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Erie by building the necessary wharves, docks and warehouses, providing the best mechanical equipment that can be secured for trans-shipping use; improve belt-line railways that have connections with wharves, warehouses and railroad terminals; provide free wharves for transient and independent vessels; provide such dry docks as the needs of the several ports demand, and maintain channels of sufficient depth to accommodate the commerce peculiar to these important Pennsylvania cities. These improvements will redound not only to the credit of the present generation, but will produce a bountiful return for all future generations, as well as put the Port of Philadelphia up to a parity with the other modern ports of the world, when nothing will retard our further progress.

INLAND WATERS.

The work performed by the Water Supply Commission of the State in formulating a comprehensive policy for administering the control and use of Pennsylvania streams, which includes the supervision over the construction and maintenance of dams and over all obstructions placed in, along, over or across any of the streams of the State; the passing upon all applications for water and water power corporations; the issuing of flood warnings, and the compilation and publication of hydrographic data, is far-reaching and probably as important as that performed by any other Department of the State Government.

The population of Pennsylvania is now about nine million, and at the present rate of growth is likely to be doubled in the next thirty to forty years; and as yet we have not thought of water as a resource that could fail us to any serious extent; but as a matter of fact we are reaching a condition where, unless this resource is controlled and conserved, it will not continue to serve the needs of the State, and a gradual slackening of development will occur. Industries dependent upon water supply will move to other regions. Already in some instances further development is checked because of limited water supply, while in other cases repeated floods restrict future growth. Considerations of public welfare, therefore, require that the Water Supply Commission should be given broad powers for administering the control and use of Pennsylvania streams, to the end that water, the one remaining great natural resource over which the State has control, may be conserved and developed for and in the interest of all the people. It should be made the duty of the Water Supply Commission to make a survey of the water resources of the Commonwealth and to collect sufficient information concerning the river systems of the State to enable general plans to be worked out for the control and use of the waters of each system,—such information should include the character and extent of its drainage area; the conditions of rainfall and run-off; the extent to which the streams may be used in the future to furnish water supply for domestic and industrial use; the extent to which floods have destroyed life and property; the possibility and feasibility of water power development, and the possible extent to which any stream might become part of a navigation system,—so that general plans may be adopted foreseeing water control problems which are bound to arise.

The responsibility of passing upon the design of all dams to be erected in this State, which requires careful analysis of each and study of the suitability and adaptability of the foundation for the reception of the dam, of examining dams during construction, and of seeing to it that they are properly maintained after construction, is imposed upon the Water Supply Commission. The best engineering services procurable should, therefore, be at the disposal of the Commission. To make this impossible is false economy, as the failure of one large dam would cost the Commonwealth more than would be necessary to maintain a properly manned and equipped Dam Division for half a century.

A study of the work of this Commission convinces me that the compensation now paid the engineers charged with the responsibility of inspection and supervision of dams is inadequate to enable the Commission to perform its duties in as efficient a manner as is required. Such a staff should be adequate and competent for

> Investigating and reporting on plans submitted for new dams and for inspecting such dams during their construction;
> Examining and reporting upon all existing dams which by their failure may cause loss of life or property and recommending changes which are required to insure the safety of such dams;
>
> Inspecting changes in dams as they are made;
> Examining from time to time such dams as require examination to insure that they are maintained in safe condition.

It is, therefore, recommended that appropriations to this Commission be increased sufficiently to enable it to secure the best engineering advice and assistance and to have an adequate staff skilled in the class of work over which it exercises jurisdiction, each to be compensated in accordance with the work performed and the responsibilities imposed.

DEPARTMENT OF FORESTRY.

The Department of Forestry is destined to become one of the large revenue producers of the State Government. It is conducted upon a plan which is laying a broad foundation for abundant good to all the people. Its business has to do with the re-establishment of wood cover upon denuded hills and mountains and to preserve the timber still standing on the hillsides. The reacting effect of this cover upon stream flow and water supply is admitted to be direct and immediate. Persons familiar with present conditions know that the future demand for pure water in copious supply will be beyond precedent. The State has an agency in the Department of Forestry equipped for doing this work, and it is accomplishing the desired results.

The direct and main use of the forests will be for wood production. The demand for wood is increasing notwithstanding the use of other materials for construction and similar purposes. One increasing use for wood is seen in the present demand for print paper. The State revenue through this Department will come eventually from its sale of wood products and things collateral to wood growth. The production of wood on a well-tended area is surprisingly good and markets exist for even the young material taken out to make way for the growth of older trees. Since it is possible to grow 300 large-sized merchantable trees on an acre within 100 years, it follows that the average annual return will be no mean sum when compared with the small price paid for the land. The increase in the State forests to an area of five or six million acres would mean large future revenue. It is therefore proper to regard all the money spent for State forests as an investment; and while the interest takes longer to accrue than from an ordinary investment, it is equally certain and well secured.

It is useless to buy land unless it is cared for, protected and developed. This service is accorded by specially trained foresters and forest rangers. One forester cannot supervise more than 12,000 acres, and as development proceeds this area will necessarily be lessened. With the present force each forester has nearer 30,000 acres to supervise. The rangers are the protective force who in addition perform a large amount of actual labor. No ranger can guard adequately more than 5,000 acres, but the average today is 14.000 acres.

Forest labor is called for by the employment of men to do the actual work of forest development. It includes thinning the forest, removing the useless material, building roads, and fire lanes and similar work which will make the forest more accessible and usable. A 10,000-acre forest without a road is useless except for ground cover. It can neither be utilized nor protected; but with an adequate road system it immediately becomes a revenue producer and can be protected at small cost.

The present area of the State forests is 1,013,934 acres. In addition to these holdings, the State contains from five to six million acres which ought to be owned by the State. At present they are owned by private citizens and they are neglected and abandoned, and consequently the prey of costly forest fires. The annual forest fire loss in Pennsylvania is approximately $500,000.00, something much to be regretted; but under our present system of inadequate force and equipment, unavoidable. Little money spent for this purpose would mean the saving of property of great value.

During 1915 and 1916 there were 2,114 recorded forest fires in this State which cost $42,000.90 to extinguish and resulted in losses aggregating $1.087,069.00. A total of 491,387 acres burned. More than one-third of these fires were of unknown origin; an equal number were caused by railroads; and the remainder by campers, brush burning, lumbering, lightning and miscellaneous causes. Twenty-one of the twenty-six counties in which the Commonwealth owns land were damaged by such fires, which visited 69,681 of the million acres of forest land owned by the State.

These figures speak for themselves, and make unnecessary any further comment on my part concerning the need of greater supervision and protection.

In conjunction with the Department of Forestry, we should consider the future of Forest Academy, established at Mont Alto when the State undertook the conservation of her forest resources. At that time no educational institution in Pennsylvania was equipped to train foresters to care for her wooded hills and her barren mountains. Since the creation of this institution it has graduated eighty-five students, of whom seventy-five per cent. are now in the employ of the forest service. This institution has more than paid for itself since its creation by the educational work that it has performed; but simultaneously with the development of this institution other educational institutions in this State have developed courses along similar lines, and with their special resources have outdistanced the Mont Alto institution.

The first pupils graduated from Mont Alto were guaranteed positions in the State's service; but curtailed appropriations during the last several years have made this practice impossible, and the Department of Forestry is no longer able to guarantee employment to the boys graduated from her own institution.

The original object was not to turn out thoroughly equipped general foresters, but men qualified to take charge of forest work in Pennsylvania. This is false economy and is not fair to the pupils, for if the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania undertakes to educate them as foresters, she ought to do so without restriction and not confine the curriculum to duties that can be performed only in Pennsylvania.

To establish the department on the firm foundation that it deserves, I offer the following recommendations:

1. Provide a sufficient appropriation to establish an adequate fire protection system throughout the forests now owned by the State. This can be accomplished by the erection of fire towers, the installation of telephone systems, the inauguration of a patrol system, and the cutting of fire trails and lanes through the forests. The amount required for this work is infinitesimal when compared with the good that will result.

2. Abolish the Forestry Commission, give the man in charge of the Department absolute authority to manage its affairs, and hold him responsible for results. This would remove a commission that was necessary when created, but is now an enjoyable but unnecessary adjunct. The purchase of forest reserves should be subject to approval of the Board of Public Works.

3. Finish the training of all students now enrolled in Forest Academy, but after the present first year class has been graduated in the spring of 1919 transfer all duties pertaining to this school to the Pennsylvania State College, where a complete course in forestry is provided. It would be unfair to close the Mont Alto Academy without completing the training of the pupils whose educations are half completed, and this work can be carried on for two more years at a trifling expense.

AGRICULTURE.

The Department of Agriculture includes an Agricultural Commission, a Board of Agriculture, a Livestock Sanitary Board, under which the State Veterinarian acts, a Division of Economic Zoology, and a Dairy and Food Division. The agricultural interests of this Commonwealth demand unstinted activity and expenditure on the part of the Commonwealth in the interest of her citizens. The present high cost of living brings home to every citizen the necessity of increasing production. There is grave doubt as to whether increasing the area cultivated is as beneficial as more intensive cultivation of the present areas. These and kindred subjects require the services of the best agricultural experts that the State can furnish to assist her agricultural citizens who produce foodstuffs and to help her citizens who consume the same.

What is done in the interest of agriculture must be done for the benefit of our entire citizenship. There is a natural division of agriculture work into that embodying practical work and that of an educational nature. Each is needed to attain the highest efficiency in production. But it is questionable if both demands can be met by the same individual or group of individuals.

The Agricultural Department has many and important duties to perform, and the Pennsylvania State College has at the same time very important duties of an educational nature. I am convinced that the best results will be attained by confining to the Department the practical workings of the agricultural world, and delegating to the College all activities of an educational nature.

Another interesting feature of this Department is the prevalence of advisory boards. These must not be treated lightly, for they have served their purpose in the past, and are by no means useless at present; but the Department of Agriculture has assumed such proportions that its energies can be best directed by placing responsibility for its management in the hands of one efficient person, instead of handicapping him by the control of bodies that meet occasionally. Such advice is always available, for such commissions are usually composed of public spirited citizens.

If, as has been pointed out in other chapters, the best results are to be attained by delegating to the several Departments of the State Government duties for which they are peculiarly fitted, then this policy must be adopted in determining the future of the Departments of Agriculture. This applies particularly to the Division of Dairy and Food.

The dairy work is carried on by the Dairy and Food Division, which examines such bee-hives of industry from a food viewpoint. and by the State Veterinarian, who inspects the cattle. These co-ordinate duties could be better performed by the Veterinarian's Department. for the reason that his inspectors are men with professional training and qualified to pass upon the duties now divided between the two groups of inspectors. Likewise, the pure food work of this Division seems out of joint with the rest of the State Government.

The only reason I can find for having this work in an Agricultural Department instead of a Health Department, where the safety of the public is generally looked after from every other viewpoint, is the fact that pure food restrictions were imposed before the Department of Health assumed any considerable size.

Another important feature of the Agricultural Department is the Division of Farm Institutes and Farm Advisers. The ten experts who go about the State advising the farmers and offering suggestions for improved agricultural activities cannot be at all places at the same time. If they are to give the farmers in any one locality the benefit of their advice, they must have an intimate knowledge of conditions in this locality and to assume that they can give advice concerning problems in sixty-seven counties is absurd.

Two years ago Congress enacted the Smith-Lever Bill, which provides a Federal appropriation equal to a State appropriation for agricultural extension work. State College is the headquarters for this work in Pennsylvania, and forty-five counties have availed themselves of the opportunity to establish local farm bureaus. These bureaus are presided over by expert agriculturists, who are intimately acquainted with conditions in that locality, and who enjoy the advantages of the experimental work carried on at State College as well as the advice of experts employed at that point. They are well qualified to pass upon conditions peculiar to their localities, and on intimate terms with the farmers of that vicinity. Therefore, it naturally follows that with their natural advantages and with their unlimited resources they will develop to such an extent that they will soon outdistance even the most efficient board of traveling experts.

There has been a re-awakening in the counties of the State to the possibilities of our soil. It is again being recognized as a permanent and dependable source of wealth. The farm advisers are qualified to discuss modern and scientific methods of cultivation, and they will neglect no agency that will increase the productive capacities of the soil. Their scientific management will be of inestimable value to the several localities that have established bureaus, and the future holds advantages that cannot even be anticipated.

To the end that duplication may be elliminated. that our energies may be concentrated where they will produce the best results, and that every community will share the benefits to be derived from the largess of the Federal as well as the State Government, I offer the following recommendations:

1. Abolish the Agricultural Commission, the Board of Agriculture, and the Livestock Sanitary Board.

2. Abolish the Division of Dairy and Food by transferring the pure food work to the Department of Health and the dairy inspection work to the State Veterinarian.

3. Abolish the Division of Farm Experts and Farm Institutes, and have this work carried on by the branches of the Agricultural Extension Bureau established under the terms of the Smith-Lever Bill.

STATE POLICE.

The Department of State Police is an institution peculiar to the State of Pennsylvania. There is no similar body of men in the United States. It has been in existence since 1905, and in that time the 228 men comprising the force have performed valiant service in every county of the Commonwealth.

Pennsylvania, by reason of its industrial activity, must provide for a large annual influx of foreigners, and the percentage of crime is greater by far among this class of citizenship than any other. They have assembled in large groups in small communities, and the detection of crime has become a serious problem throughout the entire Commonwealth. In this respect particularly the State Police have performed a most valuable service, for they have made possible not only the arrest but the conviction of thousands of lawbreakers.

Ten of these men have sacrificed their lives in discharging their duty, and three score have been maimed and scarred for life. These are facts that seldom come to the notice of the public.

During the eleven years that this police force has existed the men have devoted most of their time to patroling the rural districts of the State, and in that time have made more bona fide arrests for crime than have been made by the combined police forces of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Pennsylvania is so great in area and so varied in population and industry that this force should be represented in every community at substations. The present force has been so divided in the past. and since its creation the State militia has been called out for service only once.

Industrial disorders occur, of necessity, in Pennsylvania as they do elsewhere, but less than one-half of one per cent. of the three thousand annual arrests made by these men are made while maintaining order, protecting property and enforcing the law during labor disturbances. No State police are sent into a community so disturbed except on the certificate of the local sheriff that the situation is beyond his control, and a statement in writing that more police are necessary to preserve law and order and protect life and property.

This force has made arrests for the commission of every crime in the penal code, and the fact that eighty per cent. of their arrests result in convictions is proof that the power to enforce law is not misused.

The salaries of these men are meagre when compared with the duties they perform, and this Commission could do nothing more commendable than preserve this force and prevent its depletion by private corporations by putting the salaries on a basis fairly commensurate with the duties.

I therefore offer the following recommendations:

Increase the present force by the addition of one hundred enlisted men.

Make the following increases in salaries:

Superintendent from $3,000.00 to $6,000.00.
Deputy Superintendent from $2,500.00 to $3,500.00.
Captains from $1,920.00 to $2,400.00.
Lieutenants from $1,620.00 to $1,800.00.
First Sergeants from $1,220.00 to $1,350.00.
Corporals from $1,070.00 to $1,100.00.
Privates from $900.00 to $1,020.00.

FIRE MARSHAL.

The Department of State Fire Marshal has been so badly hampered by lack of appropriation during the past eighteen months that it is manifestly unfair tho guage its usefulness by its activity. The need of such a Department is admitted, but there is also apparent a conflict between its duties and some of the duties of the Department of Labor and Industry.

I therefore recommend to your Honorable Commission that legislation be enacted giving the Department of State Fire Marshal entire supervision over fire prevention and the measures necessary thereto, as well as fire investigations.

It has been said that the inspectors of the Department of Labor and Industry should have authority when on the premises to pass upon precautions necessary to prevent fires. I am of the opinion, however, that the approval of fire escapes and other precautions necessary to safeguard life should be passed upon by the Fire Marshal's office, and that the force necessary for such work should be provided. I also recommend that the Department be reorganized so as to provide for the following positions:

Second Deputy at,	$3,000 00
Chief Clerk at,	2,500 00
Statistician at,	2,000 00
Messenger at,	1,100 00
10 Deputies at	1,800 00
30 Deputies at,	1,500 00

The proposed change of name from Department of Fire Marshal to Department of Fire Prevention is also recommended.

HEALTH OFFICER, PORT OF PHILADELPHIA.

The position of Health Officer of the Port of Philadelphia was created at a time when strict supervision over incoming ships was needed to protect the health of the port and of the State, for Philadelphia at that time was the gateway to Pennsylvania for most of our immigrant population. When this office was established it served a useful purpose, for neither the Federal Government nor the State Quarantine Board exercised the strict surveillance over incoming vessels as they do now. Since the establishment of the State Quarantine Board the duties of the Health Officer of the Port of Philadelphia have been perfunctory.

The position of Health Officer was established, as far back as I can ascertain, by an Act approved April 23, 1794, but really assumed its present form by an Act approved January 29, 1818 (7 Smith, page 5). The Health Officer, under the various acts that have been passed since 1794, keeps a record of all vessels that enter the port, issues health certificates to vessels leaving the port, collects fees due the State from such vessels and pays them into the State Treasury.

The Health Officer maintains an office in the City Hall, Philadelphia, and the Quarantine Board maintains a quarantine station at Marcus Hook and officers in the Bullitt Building, Philadelphia. There are no duties now performed by the Health Officer that could not just as well be performed by the Quarantine Board.

I therefore recommend that the office of Health Officer of the Port of Philadelphia be abolished, and that any of its duties necessary to be performed and not now so performed be transferred to the State Quarantine Board.

PUBLIC PRINTING AND BINDING.

The work of this Department depends entirely upon the demands of the other Departments. These should be anticipated so that the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding could tell as nearly as the Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings what he will be required to furnish during a coming year. The budget idea concerning moneys should be applied to the tabulation of other needs of the State Government, and until such a system has been adopted the practice will continue to be a system of hit or miss, without any commendable feature or characteristic.

The Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding under present conditions can only estimate needs for the next year by what he has been called upon to furnish during the previous year; for the Departments are not required to furnish estimates of their anticipated needs. This is a small matter that could be rectified by the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding. But there is prevalent a feeling that when a Department does anything not specified by law, it is an encroachment or an unjustified expansion, and the human equation enters into even public affairs when the prerogatives of some Department appear to be in jeopardy or its rights infringed.

The method of furnishing printing is controlled by Section 12 of Article III of the Constitution, which reads as follows:

> "Sec. 12. Public Printing and Supplies. All stationery, printing, paper and fuel used in the legislative and other departments of government shall be furnished, and the printing, binding and distributing of the laws, journals, department reports, and all other printing and binding, and the repairing and furnishing the halls and rooms used for the meetings of the General Assembly and its committees, shall be performed under contract to be given to the lowest responsible bidder below such maximum price and under such regulations as shall be prescribed by law; no member or officer of any department of the government shall be in any way interested in such contracts, and all such contracts shall be subject to the approval of the Governor, Auditor General and State Treasurer."

The length of contract is fixed at four years by Act of Assembly. This period is selected for the reason that a printing plant capable of doing the State printing represents an investment of more than a hundred thousand dollars, and it would be difficult to find responsible bidders if they were not given a contract of reasonable length. There was perhaps some good reason in the minds of the framers of the present Constitution when they provided that the work should not be done by the State. But there seems no good reason to further continue that practice. The State must do one of two things: award the contract for a longer period, and thus justify a State Printer in equipping his plant to meet the demands of the State, or amend the Constitution and permit the State to do her own printing.

The work of the present State Printer is above criticism. The printing has been handled quickly and the work turned out satisfactorily. But it is impossible to keep work of this kind up to the highest standard when it is shifted from one printer to another, like a shuttlecock.

Another important question is whether or not the printing for State institutions should be done through the Department of Printing and Binding, in the manner provided by Section 12 of Article III of the Constitution. I do not see why the Constitution would provide a method for supplying the printing needs of the Departments of the State Government and exclude the institutions. The latter must certainly have been included in the classification of Departments, for the framers of the Constitution would not have provided checks and balances for one Division, and opened the floodgates for another.

If the present language of the Constitution does not include State institutions, it should be amended so that it does, for they should be under the same supervision and control as are Departments in the transaction of every phase of public business.

I therefore offer the following recommendations:

1. Amend the Constitution so that the State establish her own printing plant.
2. Amend the Constitution so that the printing for State institutions be regulated as is the printing for State Departments.
3. Enact legislation providing that the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding shall be advised at the first of every year of the apparent need of the other Departments of the State Government, and confine the needs of Departments to their estimates.
4. Prescribe a method for the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding advising the Departments at least once a month of the amount and cost of work done for them during the previous month.
5. Create two additional positions at $1,500 each per annum, and one stenographer at $1,200 per annum.

The business of the several Departments requires, of necessity, a variety of forms. But this variety in typographical makeup should not affect the quality of the paper. Nor should the difference in names of heads of Departments affect the style of letterheads.

Under present conditions, practically every Department has a letterhead, different in paper, design, and typography.

The result is that the engraving, printing and paper bills of the State far surpass what the normal needs of the State should require. I therefore recommend that a letterhead, uniform in style and quality, be approved by your Honorable Commission, and that this be used by all Departments.

STATE PUBLICATIONS.

Many of the Departments are by statute required to publish annual reports. It would seem that the principal reason for publishing these reports is to advise the people and the members of the General Assembly concerning the activities of their Departments, as well as of their needs in the way of additional legislation for improvement, or for the embracing in one Division or Department like functions where from time to time, because of gradual growth, such functions were delegated or referred to various Departments. Unless these purposes are accomplished there seems to be little need for the further continuance of the issuance of such reports. At the present time only fourteen out of thirty Departmental reports have appeared for the year ending December 31, 1915.

Whatever may have been the purpose for requiring Departments to report annually, as a result of my study I am convinced that every object now attained could be accomplished by the issuance of biennial reports, such reports to be issued not later than September in the even-numbered years, or the years before the convening of the General Assembly. The enactment of such a law would, in my judgment, serve every purpose, and would result in a saving, when one considers the time expended in the collection of data, proofreading and the actual cost of publication, of upwards of half a million dollars a year. My examination and investigation of the contents of the reports herein referred to discloses the fact that there is repetition of like information and statistics in the documents of different Departments.

It would appear, because of the increase in the Commonwealth's activities, that there should be created the office of Editor of State Publications, to be established in the Department of Public Printing and Binding, not so much for the purpose of censoring such documents, but for the purpose of eliminating the duplication of information, and for the purpose of editing the original manuscript so as to eliminate what has become an expensive practice under the present system, namely, that of editing reports after they have been put in type rather than when they have been submitted to the printer in the original manuscript.

It is, therefore, recommended that biennial reports be issued in the future instead of annually, and that the office of Editor of State Publications be established as a division or branch of the Department of Public Printing and Binding.

STATE LIBRARY.

The State Librarian in Pennsylvania occupies a triangular office as the head of the Library proper, the Director of the Museum, and the Secretary of the Pennsylvania Free Library Commission. There seems to be no particular reason why these institutions should be grouped under what might be called "The State Library and Museum." The Trustees of the State Library do not perform any duties than to attend an annual meeting and to give their sanction to a program which might just as well be accomplished by the Governor himself.

The State Library, in addition to a very large general collection, has a valuable Law Library, a complete series of newspapers extending for many years back, and a complete series of government publications. This general collection has been very closely catalogued and use has been made of the various analytical references which have been compiled by the Library of Congress and other public institutions. It is not too much to say of the Library that the student engaged in research work seldom appeals to it in vain. It no longer resembles an old-fashioned collection of books. It is a collection of books so displayed as to be available to the reader, and so analyzed as to plainly present its resources to the student. In addition to this, it is cared for by an intelligent force of people, who are always ready and willing to do all for the inquirer that is possible through any means in their power.

The Library contains a Division of Public Records, which has accumulated the historical papers of the Commonwealth, and has repaired, mounted, and catalogued these records so that the Division is now the Mecca of those engaged in historical and genealogical research. This Division has received the encomiums of the leading historians in the country. In addition to performing the work specifically assigned to it, the members of the force have helped the other Departments of the State Government by repairing the old documents in use in the various offices and in the mounting of maps, in which work the assistants are experts.

The State Museum was organized in 1905 in order to collect and place upon exhibition specimens illustrating the early life of the inhabitants of Pennsylvania, the flora, fauna and natural resources of the Commonwealth. It contains an excellent educational exhibit showing the practical work of the elementary schools and the various grades above them. It has accumulated a very large collection of lantern slides, and these are circulated throughout the State to anyone applying for them. The illustrations cover everything relating to Pennsylvania and its resources, the principal objects of art, the geographical illustrations of foreign countries and even the incidents in the life of prominent individuals. The groups of animals exhibited in the Museum have been built up by the Museum employes. The institution carries on a very large correspondence with the people of the State, with regard to the natural history of the State, its minerals, coal deposits, clays, and other natural resources. The institution forms one of the places upon Capitol Hill where the visitor may gain instruction not only from the exhibitions themselves, but from a corps of workers who have been trained for this service.

The Pennsylvania Free Library Commission is entrusted with the duty of furnishing books to communities which do not have library facilities. In addition to this it forms special collections for Study Clubs and other gatherings of people conducting research along special lines. Where the local library has failed in this function or has not been accredited local support, the officers of the Commission endeavor to revive the interest and better the situation. Where a new library is contemplated all the resources of the Commission are marshaled in order that the institution may begin its work along right lines and be saved the expense of costly errors in organization. It is doubtful whether any State in the country has performed this service along more logical lines than Pennsylvania. Before the formation of this Commission there were not over four or five free public libraries in the State, and these were mostly the results of bequests of individuals. There are now 174 such institutions, almost all of which are in healthy condition and receiving enthusiastic support of their communities.

The salaries of employes in the State Library and Museum range from $360 to $2,500 per annum and are the lowest paid in any Division of the State Government.

I therefore offer the following recommendations:

1. Abolish the Board of Trustees of the State Library and the Free Library Commission, and transfer any duties now necessary for those bodies to discharge to the State Librarian.

2. Revise the salaries of all officers and employes in the State Library and Museum so as to put them on the same level with salaries paid other State employes and officials.

BANKING DEPARTMENT.

The Department of Banking is the State's agency for supervising the affairs of banks, trust companies, savings funds and building and loan associations, and it is the duty of the State to keep this Department on the efficient basis necessary to give the public proper protection for its savings and investments. There are now twenty examiners supervising institutions whose assets represent $1,761,047,924.37. In addition, there are 112 private banks under the supervision of these examiners, and it can be readily seen that the force is inadequate to give the institutions the frequent and careful examinations that they require for the proper protection of the public.

The number of examiners has been the same for the past ten years, while the institutions examined have increased in capital about seven million dollars.

The careful examination of these financial institutions is a duty that the Commonwealth owes its citizens, and no effort should be spared by the Commonwealth to furnish a sufficient number of efficient men to make the necessary examinations.

I therefore recommend that five examiners be added to the present corps, and that the General Assembly make the necessary appropriation to defray their salaries and expenses.

LEGISLATIVE REFERENCE BUREAU.

The Legislative Reference Bureau as the name implies, was created for the purpose of aiding the Legislature in the preparation of bills and compiling of information as well as to assist the Executive Branch of the Government.

The creation from time to time of temporary bodies to discharge duties similar to those of this Bureau is unwarranted and unnecessary, and I therefore recommend that the following Commissions be abolished and their duties transferred to the Legislative Reference Bureau:

The Commission to Investigate the Laws Relating to Recording of Deeds and Mortgages.

The Commission to Codify and Revise Decedents' Estates Laws.

The Commission on Statutes-at-Large.

DEPARTMENT OF FISHERIES.

The Fish Commissioner is one of the departmental heads in this State who is supposed to have the assistance of an advisory body. This may have been necessary when the Department was in its infancy; but after carefully considering the duties and activities of the Fisheries Commission and its relationship to the Commissioner of Fisheries, I recommend that the Commission be abolished and the Commissioner be given absolute authority in the management of the Fisheries Department.

BOARD OF ELEVATED AND UNDERGROUND RAILWAYS.

I wish to direct your attention to a State body known as the Board to Pass Upon the Necessity for the Construction of Elevated and Underground Passenger Railways. I recommend that this Board be abolished, and that any duties incumbent upon it be transferred to the Public Service Commission.

SCHOOLS AND HOMES.

Two similar institutions maintained by the Commonwealth are the Soldiers' Orphans' School at Scotland, and the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Erie. I respectfully recommend that legislation be enacted placing both institutions under the management of one Board

GETTYSBURG.

There are in existence at present a Commission on Gettysburg Monuments and a Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Commission. I respectfully recommend that these two Commissions be combined.

STATE INSTITUTIONS.

The State institutions are increasing so rapidly that they will soon form one of the most important Divisions of the State Government. As the State Government under the present Constitution is divided into the Legislative, Judicial and Executive Branches, the State institutions must belong to the last Division; and as part of such they should be subject to the same construction and restrictions as are the Departments.

There is, however, little, if any, central supervision exercised over these institutions, for each is managed by a Board of Trustees or Managers. The institutions are erected and the maintenance furnished by public money. Such of the inmates as are able are required to pay for their maintenance; but the amount derived in this manner is insignificant when compared with the cost of maintenance. The institutions spend approximately five hundred thousand dollars a month, most of which goes for maintenance and salaries. When the institutions were few in number, supervision was a simple matter. Now that they have increased, it is a serious problem.

It has been suggested that the Boards of Trustees be abolished and that a Central Board of Control be established to take over their duties. This policy I cannot approve. It has more disadvantages than advantages. The individual efforts of the Trustees of the several institutions more than counterbalance the advantages of a Central Board. Some central body, however, should exercise supervision along certain lines. The individual Departments are supervised to an extent by the fiscal officers of the State Government, and it is to the end that a better system may be inaugurated for institutions that I have made certain recommendations.

An examination of the purchase of staple supplies by the several institutions during the past year revealed a condition that needs immediate attention. The highest possible standard of quality should be furnished the State wards, but purchases should be made with reason and under proper supervision. The prices paid by the several institutions for the same staple articles shows a wide variation.

It is assumed that they all purchase what is best suited for their needs, but it is generally admitted that the purchase of the best quality food is the wisest economy.

Business methods are most needed where purchases are most frequent, and in that respect the State institutions furnish a fertile field of activity. No effort should be spared and no method thwarted that will tend to place these institutions on a solid business foundation.

The statistics compiled concerning the purchases by the State institutions show that during the last twelve months the price of bacon has varied from 14 cents to 30 cents a pound; dried beef from 20 cents to 52 cents per pound; frankfurters from 10 cents to 20 cents per pound; fresh ham from 14 cents to 25 cents per pound; smoked ham from 13.17 cents to 31.3 cents per pound; baking powder from 5½ cents to 40 cents per pound; bananas from 15 cents a dozen to 25 cents a dozen, and from $1.00 a bunch to $2.75 a bunch; lima beans from 5.2 cents per pound to 10 cents per pound; marrow beans from 8 cents per pound to 15 cents per pound; butter varies from 25.4 cents per pound to 48 cents per pound; Baker's chocolate from 17½ cents per pound to 40 cents per pound; Hershey's chocolate from 25 cents per pound to 36 cents per pound; cocoa from 5.3 cents per pound to 40 cents per pound; coffee from 4 cents per pound to 45 cents per pound; eggs from 11 cents per dozen to 58 cents per dozen; spring flour from $5.00 a barrel to $9.00 per barrel; winter wheat flour from $4.50 per barrel to $8.75 per barrel; lemons from 11½ cents a dozen to 30 cents a dozen, and from $3.02 a box to $9.50 per box; oranges from $2.50 a box to $6.50 a box; black pepper from 4 cents a pound to 40 cents per pound; white potatoes from 60 cents a bushel to $2.00 a bushel; prunes from 4½ cents a pound to 17 cents a pound; rolled oats from $2.35 a barrel to $6.25 a barrel; salt from $1.00 a barrel to $5.00 a barrel; table salt from $1.25 a barrel to $2.72 a barrel; brown sugar from 4.9 cents a pound to 9 cents a pound; granulated sugar from 3.7 cents a pound to 8.2 cents a pound; tea from 11 cents a pound to $1.10 a pound; and yeast from 20 cents a pound to 35 cents a pound.

An examination of the figures quoted above shows the wide range in prices that I have mentioned before. Other States have solved this problem in different ways. Some have established purchasing agencies, others boards of control, and still others co-operative systems. In view of the vast area of Pennsylvania, the great number of institutions, and the enormous capacity of some, I do not think it would be of particular advantage to attempt to purchase foodstuffs of a perishable nature, at one central point.

In connection with this I wish to call your attention to Section 12 of Article III of the Constitution, which reads as follows:

> "Sec. 12. Public Printing and Supplies. All stationery, printing, paper and fuel used in the legislative and other departments of government shall be furnished, and the printing, binding and distributing of the laws, journals, department reports, and all other printing and binding and the repairing and furnishing the halls and rooms used for the meetings of the General Assembly and its committees, shall be performed under contract to be given to the lowest responsible bidder below such maximum price and under such regulations as shall be prescribed by law; no member or officer of any department of the government shall be in any way interested in such contracts, and all such contracts shall be subject to the approval of the Governor, Auditor General and State Treasurer."

I have no doubt that if the question were raised this language would be construed to include State institutions with Departments of the State Government. This applies likewise to the printing done for these institutions, and if necessary the language should be changed by an amendment to make this constitutional provision include all parts of the State Government, rather than grouping them technically as Departments and leaving any doubt.

It must be borne in mind, of course, that some of the institutions raise considerable in fields and gardens, but in no case does this product meet the demand of the institution. Taken as a whole, the institutions are not producing nearly as much as they should, in proportion to their vast area of 13,344 acres. Instead of a minimum they should be making a maximum effort to raise produce for the maintenance of their inmates. The value of produce last year was a quarter of a million dollars. Many institutions possess valuable livestock, and this is used for both fertilizing the soil and for foodstuffs; but there is no institution that could not produce more if its energies were properly directed and its methods improved.

As I have pointed out in another chapter, nearly two-thirds of all the counties in the State have taken advantage of the Agricultural Extension Bureau maintained by the Pennsylvania State College, and now have the services of expert farm advisers right at their front doors. Why should not the State institutions avail themselves of the valuable services of these experts? Why should not the fertile soil connected with these institutions be used for experimental purposes and show places? I fail to see how this land could be put to better use than by raising what it is best suited to raise, both for the maintenance of the State dependents and for the information of the respective communities; and I know of no agency better qualified to direct this work than the farm experts located in the several counties, and paid for jointly by the State and Federal Governments.

This is a happy solution of a serious problem, and should in the long run inure to the benefit of the State as a whole and to the local communities as units of the State. Property connected with State institutions is as much public property as forests controlled by the State Forestry Department, and such use should be made of all public property as will produce the best results and greatest benefit for all the people. It is useless to raise in the southern part of the State what grows to better advantage on the northern border, and vice versa; and it is needless waste to try to raise corn where fruit could be produced to better advantage.

If the dreamed-of increased production is to be realized, it will be necessary to provide for the disposition of produce raised in excess of the needs of the several institutions. I suggest the enactment of a law permitting the exchange of produce between institutions or the sale of the same in the open market after the other institutions have waived their right to purchase the same. It would be unwise to sell this product in the first place, for it might lead to an effort on the part of a short-sighted superintendent to increase his revenues by selling what properly belongs to the inmates of his institution. If the law were strictly construed, revenue derived from such sales would go directly to the State Treasury; but it has been the practice in the past for institutions to use such funds.

In conclusion, I wish to call attention to a condition that is wellnigh ridiculous. It is the practice of putting in control of the business affairs of State institutions professional men, whose training has fitted them for something entirely different, and to whom the business world is a blind alley. To take a medical man, even though he be prominent in some branch of the medical world, and ask him to delve into the intricate and confusing details of a business involving thousands of dollars, is as reasonable as to ask a blacksmith to make a suit of clothes.

If we assigned to each man the tasks that he is best qualified to perform, we would get better results, and we would make greater progress. It is universally admitted that a very small percentage of insane patients are ever cured, and it is also recognized that these deficients are in need of constant medical attention. The institutions are as much custodial as remedial. The business management of these institutions is a very important part of their administration, and needs experts as much as the medical end of the work.

It is, indeed, anomalous to expect a professional man to become a proficient business manager, when you would never think of employing a business manager to direct the medical or surgical work of an institution. This has been the principal cause of the increasing cost of maintaining State institutions. We have spared no effort to give our dependents the best possible medical skill that could be procured, but we have made no effort to give the institutions the benefit of expert business management.

I therefore offer the following recommendations:

1. Compel the superintendents of the several institutions to co-operate in the purchase of staple foodstuffs under the supervision of the Board of Public Works, and have the Board of Public Works, because of its greater facilities for larger purchases and closer touch with the business world, purchase all furnishings and equipment.

2. Have every institution cultivate as much of its land as is possible, with the co-operation and assistance of the expert farm advisers located in the several counties.

3. Relieve the medical superintendents of the State institutions of the burdensome details connected with the business affairs of the institutions, and permit them to devote their undivided time to the medical treatment of the inmates. This will not cause a conflict of authority, because the Board of Trustees is capable in every instance of differentiating between the duties of a superintendent and a business manager and determining who should have jurisdiction over particular duties and responsibilities.

4. Have the Auditor General's Department install a uniform system of accounting, bookkeeping and recording in all State and State-aided institutions. At present each institution conducts a system peculiar to itself.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Irrespective of whether or not the Board of Public Works herein recommended be created by the General Assembly, the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings should without delay give consideration to the need of rest rooms in the Capitol, to the advisability of assembling all mechanical apparatus in one Division, to the annual appraisement and inventory of all State property, and to the question of the erection of an office building and power plant in the Capitol Park.

The suggested rest rooms would accommodate more than five hundred female employes. Such rooms should be under the supervision and direction of a registered nurse.

The mechanical equipment scattered throughout the several Departments of the State represents an investment of at least one hundred thousand dollars. As these apparatus are used for the same purpose wherever located, it is obvious that they should be centralized, and that the work could be handled to greater advantage and with greater efficiency by one set of experts rather than requiring each Department to have individuals expert in the operation of every new line of mechanical appliance placed upon the market. There should be a Division created for handling and addressing, multigraphing, mimeographing and the operation of other similar mechanical work or devices, which is now being done by various Departments separately.

The tangible assets of the Commonwealth are represented largely by the investment in State institutions. The value of these assets is constantly increasing from year to year, and will ere long represent an investment of upwards of a hundred million dollars. These investments should be looked after by the taking of inventories and appraisements of the property owned by the State either annually or biennially.

The Capitol is now so crowded that it no longer provides the necessary offices for the rapidly growing Departments, and as a result they are scattered through the various office buildings in the City of Harrisburg. When the present building was erected many of the largest Departments now in operation had not been created, and their growth and development naturally were not anticipated. At present the congestion in many offices makes working conditions almost impossible, and has put beyond the reach of any Department comforts that are necessary in working conditions to produce the best results. The State is now paying $25,000.00 annually for the rent of offices outside the Capitol, and at the present rate of growth this amount will soon be doubled.

Another important question to be considered in connection with additional offices is the moving of the power plant from the basement of the Capitol Building to a separate building, perhaps at the eastern edge of the Capitol Park Extension area. This seems to be the logical point for two reasons. It would relieve the Capitol Building from much of the smoke and dirt necessary for running such a plant, and would at the same time give ready access to the railroad tracks for the purpose of receiving fuel. Carloads of coal could then be unloaded with the same ease and dispatch as is now possible for cartloads.

ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH, NATIONAL ARCH PRESENTATION AT VALLEY FORGE, JUNE 19, 1917.

Ladies and Gentlemen: In accepting for our great Commonwealth this National Memorial, now formally transferred to our care and keeping by an eloquent and distinguished representative of our National Government, it is fitting that we should for a few moments consider the meaning of the action now taken and the significance of the purpose that has called us here.

One hundred and thirty-nine years ago, under the immortal Washington, there marched from this camp at Valley Forge not only an army that thereafter never knew defeat but also an ideal in government that is now about to become universal—the ideal that free men, enlightened and politically equal, shall determine their own destiny and not have it determined for them by others. Here huddled in cabins and lacking in every comfort that men cherish, naked, bleeding and hungry our forefathers displayed a fortitude unequaled and cherished an ideal which, under God, has found welcome in human hearts and in patriotic spirits in every clime and in every country.

The spirit of Valley Forge increasingly becomes the spirit of the human race. No ideal in government has had such speedy and wide-spread acceptance. No other spirit can now, in the dark days of the nations, be approvingly entertained by any nation. The spirit of Valley Forge is with the Allies in the western line; it is the breathing hope in Russia. It has asserted itself in Greece. It is brooding over China and has already quickened Japan and animates the peoples of the islands of the Sea. It has remade South America and is the only hope of the Central powers of Europe.

Pennsylvania early sensed the world meaning of Valley Forge and has taken adequate steps to preserve its soil and its meaning for all time. This Arch is recognition of the nation's concern that the world shall never forget what Valley Forge was. is, and forever shall be.

The fragmentary groups of Colonials that gathered here in 1777 had been defeated, disorganized, but not discouraged. They knew that life and liberty and the pursuit in peace of happy careers could be theirs only if successful. They willingly staked on the issue their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor, and under effective leadership, they were here moulded into an efficient army and into a national spirit. The Constitution of the Union was born in the huts of Valley Forge.

Here America learned how sublime a thing it is to suffer and be strong. In the darkest hours of distress and disaster our forefathers endured spartan-like the rigors of an excessively severe winter and the daily menace of an arrogant, city-entrenched foe. They came from this winter of discontent a disciplined and hearted people—united in ideals, held together by common sacrifices and bound by a common experience into a people of strength. courage and resourcefulness.

Here America learned the generous good of sacrifice. When in the First Continental Congress news of the occupancy of Boston by the British forces was announced, one man embodying the very spirit of American Liberty arose and modestly said, "I propose to equip at my own expense a regiment of troops and march at their head for the relief of Boston." The speaker was the Commander of this camp, George Washington. There is nowhere in the annals of men a finer expression of America's spirit of sacrifice. This country won the Revolutionary struggle and triumphed in 1812, 1847, 1862. 1898 and will again triumph because this is the spirit of Valley Forge, the National ideal.

When our citizens were menaced on the high seas by an arrogant monarchy and the property and lives of American citizens in defiance of all humanitarian codes were ruthlessly sacrificed the hurt was felt in the heart of every American. We have answered by declaring war against this ruthless despoiler. We have registered upwards of 10,000,000 of men, ready to make the Washingtonian sacrifice to defend our national honor and to keep our spotless record unsullied. We have given by law seven billions of our money and have over-offered in cash two billions of it that this wrong may be righted, and that the spirit of Valley Forge may be vindicated on the battle plains of the world. We are now giving gladly $100,000,000 to the American National Red Cross as an added earnest of our high purpose. We have fed the hungry. We have ministered to the suffering. We have financed the needy. We have counseled the courageous. We have aided the oppressed and we are opposing the oppressor and our lives, our property and are sacred honor are again freely given that the spirit of Valley Forge may be not only our animating spirit but the accepted guidance and inspiration of all men in all countries from this time on.

We have learned the value of federated democracy and of a united and inseparable nation. When a Pennsylvanian in 1754 called the delegates of the English colonies to Albany for federation and for peace-treaties with the Indians, he planted the seeds of American union. When, as a result, these same colonies by duly designated delegates met in Carpenter's Hall and subsequently in Independence Hall this national ideal began to mature. When Washington at Valley Forge moulded the unrelated groups of Colonial troops into one great national body, the Constitution was determined and the Union of States established forever. Valley Forge was the crowning event in these marvelously interesting and significant steps by which this nation emerged into the light, set up regulated liberty under democracy as the guide and goal of mankind and moved triumphantly forward as the color-bearer of all oppressed and discouraged peoples.

Into this great Republic have come from all the world those that hungered to eat of the bread of true national life and that thirsted to drink of the fountains of liberty and equality. We have welcomed them and given them home and haven. We ask only that they behave themselves seemly and give, as did those of Valley Forge, unstinted and unflinching fealty to our flag and our fortunes. To do less is traitorous. To do more is impossible. To do as much is just and proper. We ask our people, native-born and foreign-born, to follow the example of the Constitutional army that 139 years ago marched from the hills of Valley Forge to a destiny immortal.

This enduring arch is not as enduring as the spirit of Valley Forge, but while it lasts, under the care and keeping of this great Commonwealth, we shall cherish it, guard it, honor it, as fitting emblem of this vastly more enduring arch of human liberty whose foundations are set in the soil of suffering at Valley Forge and whose summit crowns the hills of Valley Forge.

This is Pennsylvania. She has ever led in all that national enterprise commands, and she today accepts this memorial as a new pledge of national fealty and world-wide democracy. Where stand Valley Forge and Pennsylvania, there stand the hopes. the aspirations, the glories of the human kind.
